
The asphalt pavement on Alexander street, Rochester, in the laying of which I was plant foreman, in 1884 and 1885, is still in existence and has a record for low cost of repairs, which has been repeatedly referred to in reports of this association, and has until quite recently been free from street sprinkling. I was in Rochester about ten days ago and found the sprinkling cart had gotten in its work on Alexander street and it is now rapidly deteriorating. Rutger street, Utica, laid in 1886, has been through a similar experience of no sprinkling. Michigan Boulevard, Chicago, from Jackson Boulevard to 10th street, paved partly with creosoted wood blocks and partly with asphalt was always, in dry condition and carried a very heavy traffic for ten years and was in good condition, when about four years ago it was removed on account of widening the street, necessitated by the great increase in volume of traffic.

The bituminous pavement on Michigan avenue, Chicago, is now nearly five (5) miles long. By actual count on July 26, 1912, it then carried a daily traffic of 11,425 vehicles which has probably now increased to at least 14,000 vehicles per day. The pavement surface is always clean and never cleaned or sprinkled other than patrol cleaning except as to narrow strips, about four feet wide, which are sprinkled and hand broomed at night to remove the slight dirt which naturally collects near the curb. Other boulevards in Chicago are similarly treated and confirm what is said above regarding New York City and further confirm the experience of Providence and the statement made above that a modern pavement surface requires little cleaning and will always be clean if it is only kept dry and hand patrolled through the day.

I hope the day is not far distant when our cities generally will adopt a modern system of street cleaning without sprinkling, following the recent revolution from dirt streets to modern pavements and from horse drawn to motor traffic. Providence has led the way. Other cities will do well to follow.

The cleaning effect of automobiles above referred to is doubtless accounted for by the combination of speed of the automobile and the current of air thrown on the pavement surface by the engine exhaust. Consequently in connection with a system of hand patrol a street pavement surface in reasonably smooth condition never gets dirty, or at worst never gets so dirty that it cannot be cleaned at night without sprinkling during the day.

STREET CLEANING.

By EDWARD D. VERY, Sanitary Engineer.

Read before the Convention of the American Society of Municipal Improvements, Hotel Somerset, Boston, Friday, October 9, 1914.

Mr. Williston Fish, in an article describing his studies of the development of cities in his transportation investigations, states that there is an analogy between the evolution of cities and that of animal life. Both begin without circulatory tubes and gradually develop until in both there is an elaborate system for the transportation of foods, fuels and air. The development of means of communication, which in the city are called streets, marks the degree of progress of a community and at the present time attempts to raise the municipal standard find their fruition in the intensive studies of those engaged in the work of city planning.

When these avenues have been laid out, the next step is the construction of a form of surfacing which shall be the proper one to withstand the wear and tear of traffic. Then comes the duty of the street cleaner who has to do with the removal of the filth resulting from traffic conditions and the filth discarded by pedestrians.

The first pavement recorded in America according to Tillson was discovered by a farmer, who while plowing at Pemaquod, Maine, in 1625, found the point of his plowshare caught against a curb of a buried paved street. In New York the first pavement was laid in 1676, Boston about the same time, Philadelphia in 1719, Baltimore 1781, and Chicago in 1855.

It is a matter of surprise that while pavements were laid so long a time back, effective methods of cleaning were not considered until very lately and only just now have serious studies been made to solve the problem of efficient and economical street cleaning by competent men. This was in a measure due to the fact that but recently have paving experts considered the cost of cleansing to be an item to be considered in the cost of maintenance of pavements. In the main, however, it was due to the fact that the cleansing operation was considered to be an elementary proposition and therefore not worthy of consideration in its details by technical men.

The work of street cleaning is in the majority of cities performed by a bureau of some department whose other activities are considered of greater importance and the men employed are usually those who would otherwise be on the rolls of the poormaster for relief because they have attained old age without having laid by sufficient means for their support and find themselves worthless as wage earners.

Up until 1882 this work in New York City was performed by a bureau of the Police Department and in that year there was instituted by legislative act a department for the specific work of street cleaning and waste disposal. The first Commissioner in 1889, after seven years of endeavor to put the work on a proper basis, reported to the Mayor that he found his task an impossible one because he had only partial control of street conditions and because the appropriating bodies were unconvinced of the necessity to provide sufficient funds for the institution and operation of adequate systems of cleaning. In 1895, Col. George E. Waring Jr., caused considerable merriment by taking the job of Street Cleaning Commissioner seriously and in attempting to apply engineering methods to the solution of the problems involved.

Colonel Waring's studies were incomplete when his term expired but he had arrived at the conclusion that the real problem of street cleaning was the removal of the fine dust, the removal of the other materials being without comparative difficulty. The fact is that the streets are cleaner to-day than ever, though this is not generally believed, but the fine dust problem has become more prominent in that the low-bodied, fast-moving automobiles are raising and spreading the dust which before was not so raised and spread except by high winds. Formerly ordinary traffic only raised and spread the dust to about the height of the infant in the perambulator and not until it was raised and blown into the faces of grown-ups was the knowledge of the continuous existence of this menace generally recognized.

In almost every large city we to-day find men of the caliber of Waring who are giving this matter of street cleaning serious consideration and who are applying to this work the principles of efficient and economical performance which obtain in other lines of business activity. Unfortunately the efficiency principle seems to be, to get more work done for less money cost rather than better work done for the same cost with later endeavor to reduce the cost. The bookkeeper is the efficiency referee, whereas the practical operator observing practical results should be.

Then, too, the systems are founded on hand labor with machine auxiliary. In city development large street areas are being added annually and each city now may be described as "one of magnificent distances" with the result that systems must change to meet the new requirements and the basis of these should be machine work with hand labor as auxiliary.

New York has 2,173 miles of paved streets, Chicago 1,899, Philadelphia 1,371, and the other large cities have from 100 to 500 miles. As under average conditions a man can clean but about one-half mile per day, even could he perform the work with thoroughness the cost of such an army of labor for this work would be prohibitive. Machines at present used can do from two to four miles each and this work is done with a good degree of thoroughness, making daily work on the same area unnecessary, and economical arrangement of mechanical plants may be made with good results. The man then merely polices the streets as a litter gatherer and can cover a very considerably larger route.

Some look to the automobile machine to increase the workable area, but I question if there is not a limit of speed wherein effective work may be done. The benefit to be derived by the use of motor vehicles, in my judgment, will come rather from the ability to adapt better mechanical method to the operation, thereby improving the quality of the work, rather than increasing the amount done per machine unit.

The machine broom as to-day operated leaves much to be desired purely, I think, because the action of the broom is dependent upon the speed of traction, whereas should a motor vehicle be substituted, power may be transmitted to the axis of the broom independent of the tractive power of the machine, a proper rate of revolution of the broom may be found and maintained irrespective of the speed of progress of the machine. At present if you find a particularly filthy spot and endeavor to slow up to give it more careful attention, the speed of the broom lessens and the effect is lost, whereas were the power independent the result would be that required.

A mechanical device attached to the sweeping machine to pick up the stroke of sweepings from the broom and empty into a receptacle or receptacles would avoid a considerable amount of extra work now performed because the materials are spread by the wind or tracked by vehicle tires. Such machines are in evolution now but most of the devices are complicated or otherwise ill adapted to the performance of this work.

Flushing machines and squeegees are now constructed which do effective work but their adoption has been greatly retarded by the claims that the water has an adverse effect upon paving materials. Clifford Richardson, the asphalt expert, in his work on "The Modern Asphalt Pavement," says, "in a properly constructed pavement no important deterioration from water action should ensue within the life of the pavement, and, as a matter of fact, in the author's experience, the deterioration of asphalt surfaces laid under his supervision has in the last ten years become an item which is hardly worth consideration, where the form of construction has provided satisfactory drainage." As to the ill effects of water on the joints of stone and block pavements, tests made some years ago in Detroit and Cleveland showed that such action was not necessarily adverse where good construction methods had been adopted. My judgment is that the paving engineer should design his exposed surfaces to resist water action for the great benefit to be derived from water cleansing. In flushing machines there is a distinct advantage in having an attached pump to express the water, so as to get positive action continuously and on all the water which the storage tank may carry. A motor flushing machine has the advantage of carrying larger quantities of water with a consequent conservation of the time now lost in frequent filling of small tanks.

The machine squeegee or rubber scrubber is effective on smooth pavements where not too filthy, but the present method of delivery of water so close to the scrubber renders the work imperfect through the ineffective action of the water on the filth before the scrubbing action is applied. This may be remedied by preceding the squeegee machines by a sprinkling cart sufficiently in advance to give the water action full effect. And here let me say that that sprinkling wagon should not be used, in my opinion, except as an adjunct to other cleansing devices, as by itself it is but a temporary makeshift and ineffective for good result. There is no reason for the filth removed by washing machines being deposited in sewer basins, but arrangements should be made for picking up the materials and carting them away as soon as they become sufficiently dry.

Dry cleaning machines are greatly to be desired and good progress is being made in the development of such. I know of two types of vacuum cleaners which are doing good work and need but little to make them practical and effective. These of course should be designed to pick up and place in receptacles the filth removed. When dry cleaning machine work is adopted there must still be periodical wet cleaning and such a combination should insure the best results. The system of cleansing must be so operated as not to interfere with the traffic conditions, as the important factor of street use is for transportation. For this reason, in congested districts the machine work should be done at night.

Where I have proposed a system based on the foregoing lines, it has been said that such a system applies to large cities only, while I feel that it is a basis upon which a small city may start and develop as the city's needs grow.

My proposition then is: To district your city and arrange for periodic machine work so that machine units may be changed from one district to the other avoiding unnecessary duplication of plant; make combinations of machine cleaning adapted to different requirements; use dry and wet methods alternately as necessity demands; have patrolmen work as litter gatherers where accumulations develop quickly, which do not necessitate machine work; in congested districts or parts of districts do machine work at night and patrol work in the daytime; do not employ old men on patrol, put them on park work or other less strenuous duty; keep cost data but do not regulate your work by that but by real efficiency; count cleansing necessities as items to be considered in the choice of pavements and on any type of pavement design to resist action of cleansing devices, and give serious and continuous study to the needs of this department of municipal activity. So may cleanliness be attained in city streets and health and comfort result.

AWARD FOR SCHOOLHOUSE LAND TAKING.

The Mayor has formally approved the award made by the Board of Street Commissioners, in behalf of Gardner C. Brooks, in the amount of $4,017.60, for damages occasioned his estate in Auburn street, Roxbury, by the taking of 2,522 square feet of land, more or less, for schoolhouse purposes.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR PAYMENT OF TAXES.

City Collector Curley has made arrangements whereby taxes may be paid at municipal buildings in the City of Boston, and has communicated with the Mayor in the premises.

The statement of Collector Curley is as follows:

October 14, 1914.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

SIR,—In line with your platform pledge of having payment of taxes made in municipal buildings in outlying wards, would state that I have made arrangements with Mr. Lynch, Superintendent of Public Buildings, for the use of the following buildings during the week commencing October 19 and ending October 24, inclusive:

Municipal Building on Columbia road, Ward 16, for the payment of taxes of Ward 16 and the lower part of Ward 20.

Courthouse at Fields Corner, for the upper part of Ward 20 and the lower part of Ward 24.

Library Building, Codman square, for the upper part of Ward 24.

Minton Hall, Jamaica Plain, for the upper part of Ward 23, which would include West Roxbury, Roslindale and Mt. Hope section.

Old Town Hall, Brighton, for Ward 25.

Engine House in Ward 26.

Courthouse on Roxbury street, for Wards 17, 18, 19 and 21.

Municipal Building on Broadway, South Boston, for Wards 13, 14 and 15.

These headquarters will be open from seven until nine every evening, from Monday until Saturday, inclusive, where the payment of poll, personal or real estate taxes will be received.

I might add, in conclusion, that a part payment of real estate taxes can be made if so desired, as it may be the means of saving the interest if made on or before November 1, 1914.

I would ask that you give this information to the newspapers, so that publicity may be given to the same, thereby avoiding the annual rush of taxpayers who congregate in the City Hall office during the last week prior to November 1.

No arrangements have been made for wards north of Dudley street, unless you desire to do so. My reason for not making arrangements for stations to receive taxes in these wards is that they are practically in the city proper, and therefore would not require any evening headquarters.

Respectfully,

JOHN J. CURLEY,
City Collector.

RULING ON INCOME TAX.

Internal Revenue Collector Malley, of the Massachusetts district, has received the following income tax ruling from Washington:

In cases where annual rent exceeding $3,000 is due to two or more joint owners, the lessee or tenant should require from the joint owners of the property a statement setting forth the respective interest of each in the amount of the rent paid. If such a statement is filed, and the individual interest of no one of the joint owners in the aggregate amount of rental paid during the taxable year exceeds $3,000, no certificate claiming exemption need be filed and the lessee should not deduct and withhold the normal tax upon the amount of rental paid.

If, however, the interest of any joint owner amounts to more than $3,000, the normal tax should be deducted and withheld therefrom, subject to authorized exemptions claimed.

AMYGDALUS OR PRUNUS PERSICA.

By CAPT. JOHN H. DILLON, Chairman Park and Recreation Department.

You may take your choice, like the young student of botanical authors, and then accept the one most commonly used, but as for me I prefer just "peaches."

The peach, it is said, had its origin in Persia and was introduced into Europe by the Romans, many fine peach orchards being found in France and Italy. The culture in England is upon trellis work against walls where the trees are trained upon the frames like our grapevines and do exceedingly well. In the Southern states, California, Delaware and in our own state, the peach is cultivated in rows set out on similar lines to an apple or pear orchard, and when successfully grown is a source of good revenue to the owner of the plantation. It is a fruit of delicious flavor when eaten in a ripe state or as a preserve. From the kernel an oil is extracted and down in hospitable Maryland or Virginia one can obtain a very good drink of peach brandy.

Of the same family we have the sloe, prunus spinosa, of which the ripe fruit is excellent when preserved. The unripe juice makes an indelible ink for marking, the leaves are sometimes used in China to adulterate the tea and lastly, its saplings furnish that which is so dear to an Irish heart, the much prized black-thorn stick or "shillelagh."

TAX UPON CONSULS SEEMS INVALID.

Mayor Curley received an important ruling from the Treasury Department, Washington, upon the 14th instant, declaring that no income tax has been assessed against the British Consul at Boston, and that consular officers are not subject to the income tax, unless they receive an income from property owned in this country, entirely independent of their remuneration as consuls.

The purpose of the Mayor in securing this ruling resulted from a statement made by American consuls, serving in Canada, and who declared that they were severally being taxed by the British Crown upon their official salaries upon a statement that such tax was levied by reason of the fact that the British Consul at Boston was made subject to tax.

The decision of the Treasury Department is signed by Hon. William P. Malburn, Assistant Secretary.

"I am very glad to receive Mr. Malburn's decision," said Mayor Curley, to-day, "for it proves that the British Government has assumed the tax of our consular officers in Canada upon an untenable basis of law and upon an untruthful statement of affairs. Prior to taking up this matter with Secretary McAdoo of the Treasury Department, I had investigated and found that the British Consul at Boston was assessed upon his income by neither the city nor state.

"The present effort of the British Crown to tax our consuls would seem to be also a breach of our treaty with Great Britain, and I have no doubt that now that the fact has been determined that the British Consul at Boston pays no tax by reason of his official office, the American consular officers, upon appeal to the State Department, will eventually have the tax upon their salaries set aside by a ruling of the British foreign office.

"I have been very pleased to intercede in this matter," declared Mayor Curley, "in behalf of our consular officers in Canada, and have promptly advised them of Mr. Secretary Malburn's decision."

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

By reason of the facts set forth by Fire Commissioner Grady, the Mayor has formally approved a contract with the Knox Motors Company of Springfield, Mass., in the amount of $3,690, for one motor-driven combination chemical and hose wagon.

The communication of Fire Commissioner Grady is as follows:

Boston, October 12, 1914.
HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—I respectfully request permission to purchase, without advertising, from the Knox Motors Company of Springfield, Mass., one motor-driven combination chemical and hose wagon.

My reason for desiring to purchase this piece of apparatus, without advertising, is as follows:

On September 12, 1914, Chemical No. 13, motor driven, while responding to an alarm of fire, collided with an upright of the Forest Hills Elevated Terminal. The accident was due to the failure of the steering-gear to work, and the car is beyond repair. The car was purchased in July, 1910, from the Knox Automobile Company of Springfield, and has been in service since that time. The Knox Company will supply a new car for $5,190, allowing this department $1,500 for the damaged car, which makes a final price of $3,690. The offer is a liberal one, and I think it is the best the city can do considering the amount of damage to the old car and the allowance the Knox Company is willing to make.

Yours very respectfully,

JOHN GRADY,
Fire Commissioner.

FINANCE COMMISSION.

BOSTON, October 14, 1914.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor:

SIR,—The Finance Commission has received from you on October 10, 1914, the following letter, to which was attached a copy of a letter sent to George S. Burgess, secretary to the Superintendent of Schools, written by John C. L. Dowling:

CITY OF BOSTON,
OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,
October 9, 1914.

HON. JOHN R. MURPHY,
Chairman, Finance Commission:

DEAR SIR,—I appreciate your commission investigating the inclosed communication and the subject matter to which it refers.

I have conferred with the real estate expert for the city, who informs me that the property in question, and which your junior counsel, Mr. John C. L. Dowling, states is worth $18,000, is only assessed for $9,500, and that the several properties Nos. 21, 31 and 35 Jewett street, also Nos. 32 and 50 Folsom street, West Roxbury, can be purchased for less than $14,000, and, in his opinion, even this figure is high.

Respectfully yours,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

The Finance Commission has investigated, as you requested, and finds that on September 24, 1914, with the approval of the Finance Commission, Mr. Dowling wrote the letter to George S. Burgess, secretary to the Superintendent of Schools. In it he stated that the Finance Commission is of the opinion that the proposed purchase of property for the purpose of enlarging the yard of the John D. Philbrick School should not be made until the owners had made an agreement to sell their property to the city for not more than 25 per cent above the assessed valuation. On this basis the extreme price to be paid for the land would not exceed $11,875. He further stated that the commission is of the opinion that if the owners would not agree to this arrangement, the improvement (namely, purchasing the land for the enlargement of the John D. Philbrick School yard) should be suspended until a more favorable time.

In conclusion, Mr. Dowling said that if no attempt was to be made to secure agreements from the owners, he was convinced that the taking of this land by eminent domain would throw an excessive cost upon the city, because the owners, if dissatisfied with the award of the Street Commissioners, provided it was a low one, would appeal for a jury decision on the value, and might gain the amount which they claimed the property was worth, that is, approximately $18,000.

As regards the value of the several properties known as Nos. 21, 31 and 35 Jewett street, and also Nos. 32 and 50 Folsom street, which is the land to be purchased for enlarging the yard of the John D. Philbrick School, the Finance Commission is of the same opinion that it was when Mr. Dowling wrote to the secretary to the Superintendent of Schools, namely, that the outside price to be paid should not exceed $11,875, or approximately 25 per cent more than the assessed valuation.

The commission further finds that Mr. Dowling did not state in his letter that the property in question is worth $18,000, and Your Honor is in error when you make that statement in your letter of October 9, 1914.

Respectfully submitted,
THE FINANCE COMMISSION,
by JOHN R. MURPHY,
Chairman.

LAND FOR SEWERAGE WORKS.

The Mayor has formally approved the order of the Board of Street Commissioners in the taking of land for sewerage works in the private way, known as Normandy street, Dorchester.

The owners of the parcel of land taken are unknown, and the property contains 531 square feet, more or less.

The plan to modify term rule for fire insurance rates as agreed upon between the New England Exchange and the New England committee of the Eastern Union has been unanimously adopted and will probably go into effect next week.

All risks written under class A of exchange rules and their contents, when they can be written for a term, are reduced 15 per cent. Mercantile buildings are also reduced 15 per cent.

TO TEST TAX LAW.

That constitutionality of the three-mill fee on mortgage bonds on tangible property will be contested by holders of the bonds is the text of semi-official information received by Tax Commissioner William D. Trefry.

"Though the bill passed by the last Legislature was scheduled to become operative early in August it will hardly be in operation before a considerable period of time has passed, possibly three years, if its constitutionality is questioned," said Commissioner Trefry.

The law provides that a bond secured by a mortgage on tangible property which is actually taxed shall be exempted from taxation if the fact of the taxation is determined by the commissioner and the bond is registered with the commissioner.

The registration of the bond requires the payment by the holder of the three-mill registration fee, 30 cents for each $100 of the par value of the bond. Thus the new law exempts the bond from taxation at the local tax rate and establishes a rate of but $3 per $1,000. The dealers in or holders of other bonds that are not so benefited will undoubtedly protest that the low rate so established is in violation of the "proportional" tax provided for in the state constitution.

DUST REMOVAL THE ONLY PREVENTION.

By CLARENCE D. POLLOCK, Consulting Engineer, New York Street Department.

The most common way of attempting to prevent the dust nuisance is to sprinkle the pavements with water at more or less frequent intervals, thus turning the water to mud, which at least will not blow about. Oil is sometimes applied with good effect as a dust palliative. In addition, if a proper oil is used and in the right quantity, it adds to the life of old asphalt pavements where the "life" has gone out of the asphaltic cement in a large measure. In another case, that of old asphalt block pavements where the edges of the blocks have become "dead" and are beginning to crumble away, this method also helps, as the heavy oil fills the joints and adds very materially to the life of the pavement, as well as removes the small inequalities in the surface. The portion remaining on the surface of the blocks is worn off by the traffic after a time, but before this happens some of the oil has penetrated the blocks and added to their life; while the part that goes into the joints remains there and reinforces the edges of the blocks, provided the pavement is dry when the oil is applied. But oil tends to render bituminous surfaces too soft when applied in sufficient quantity to be really effective as a dust palliative, and with the exceptions above noted its application is of very questionable benefit.

As stated before, the usual method of preventing dust is by applying water frequently, and generally this simply transforms the dust into mud. It is hard to understand why so many municipalities do this. It would seem as though they considered it valuable material and must preserve it, and simply change its form so that it will not blow away. Some cities, however, use flushing machines and attempt to wash the dust into the gutters and then into the sewers or drains. Where the water is applied nearly parallel to the surface of the pavement, this method is pretty satisfactory, but if the water is applied under pressure in such a manner that it strikes the pavement, instead of the dirt, with too much force, it will wash out joints in block pavements and will find any weak spots in bituminous surfaces, and will do more harm than good.

The only sure and satisfactory way to prevent dust blowing about is to remove the dust and dirt from the pavements. And this can best be done by sweeping the pavements frequently. Hand sweeping is best in the daytime, because of traffic conditions, but this may be supplemented by machine sweeping at night to good advantage. The pavement should be sprinkled with water very lightly, just in advance of the sweeping, in order that the dust may not prove a nuisance during the process of sweeping.

This is the secret of dust prevention on city pavements, and not the common method of nursing the dust along as alternately dust and mud, and allowing it to remain forever on top of the pavement, never removing it.

BUSINESS MEN'S REFERENCE LIBRARY.

Mr. William F. Kenney, vice president of the Board of Trustees of the Boston Public Library, has just completed, upon request of Mayor Curley, a most thorough and painstaking investigation of the business men's reference libraries of New York City and Newark, N. J., which is the preliminary step to what is hoped may be the establishment of an important public utility in Boston.

Mr. Kenney has not only made a careful subject study of the entire proposal, but has filed with Mayor Curley a very interesting and comprehensive report relative to the question at issue.

Supplementing the report of Mr. Kenney, the Mayor has made formal request of the Trustees of the Boston Public Library for the establishment of the commercial library desired.

Mayor Curley in his letter to President Benton of the Board of Trustees declares:

CITY OF BOSTON,
OFFICE OF THE MAYOR, Oct. 19, 1914.

JOSIAH H. BENTON,
President Boston Public Library Trustees:

MY DEAR MR. BENTON,—I am extremely desirous that your Board establish at the earliest possible date a Business Men's Reference Library in the Aldermanic Chamber, City Hall.

The termination of the war in Europe must of necessity result in an industrial and commercial prosperity unprecedented in the history of Boston.

During the two months prior to the declaration of war, through the cooperation of the Boston Industrial Development Board, new industries representing a total investment of approximately $12,000,000, were established in Boston.

A repeal of the archaic navigation laws and the adoption of a liberal policy with reference to American registry must, of necessity, result in increased commercial opportunities.

A Business Men's Reference Library, centrally located in the business district of the city, would make available, with the least possible delay, information of great value to our business men interested in commercial enterprise with South American and other countries, and the opportunity for genuine service in this direction is so great that there is no method by which we can justify delay.

At my request one of your trustees, Mr. William F. Kenney, has recently made a thorough investigation as to the value, from the standpoint of aid to business, of the libraries located in New York City and in Newark, N. J., and his report upon the same, which is herewith submitted, constitutes a most powerful indorsement of the proposed undertaking.

Trusting your Board will act favorably in the matter, I beg to remain,

Respectfully yours,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Mr. Kenney's report is as follows:

CITY OF BOSTON,
OFFICE OF PUBLIC LIBRARY TRUSTEES,
October 19, 1914.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—I have the honor to submit to you briefly the result of my observations after having visited the Business Men's Reference Library at Newark, N. J., and the Municipal Reference Library in New York City. In accordance with your suggestion and approval, I made a practical investigation into the operations of these institutions and my visit fully justified my opinion that a modern public library is not fulfilling its mission unless it utilizes its great resources to the benefit and advantage of the whole people—business and professional men as well as the public at large. The Newark Business Men's Branch is located in the heart of the business district, in a separate building built for the purpose, and about a mile from the Central Library, of which it is very properly a branch. It is interesting to note that the beginning of the Business Men's Branch in that city in 1904 was in a small rented store. Within six months the branch was moved to larger quarters and in 1907 it was necessary to find more commodious rooms. The Business Men's branch lent the first six months of its existence about 2,000 books per month for home use. The following year it had increased to 4,000 a month and in 1907 the home circulation had increased to almost 6,000 volumes a month. The circulation has steadily increased every year and to-day the library lends books at the rate of 9,000 volumes a month. This represents only one feature of the branch and to my mind the less important. It is an easy matter to give figures on the number of volumes taken from the library for home consumption. It is quite another problem to give accurate figures on the number who use the library for consultation, reference and information on innumerable subjects. Here is what is kept at the Newark Business Men's Branch:

Directories:
City and county	184
State	24
Trade	96
Foreign	32
Telephone	351
	687 Periodicals:
Business	85
Municipal and local development	61
House organs	86
Labor unions	58
General	46
	336
Maps and Atlases:
Maps of cities	800
Maps of states and countries	200
Real estate atlas	11
General atlases	10
	1,021
Books:
Directories, etc.	700
Reference books	600
Everyman's Library	500
Pamphlets	1,000
Nonfiction	3,000
	13,000

Regarding these last two items, fiction and nonfiction. I do not think it expedient this time to include in any plan adopted for the proposed Business Men's and Municipal Reference Library in Boston. Newark has found it advisable to keep volumes of fiction and nonfiction in a separate room on the second floor of the business men's branch. Our city is not interested in that phase of their work, as the regular branches and reading rooms in Boston take care of that class of readers.

Over 650 people every day, or 200,000 a year, is a fair estimate of the number who use the Newark Business Branch for Business Men. Over 20,000 people use the 700 city, state, trade, foreign and telephone directories; 15,000 use the 1,000 maps and 20 atlases; 10,000 consult the reference books. Of the 45,000 who use the directories, maps and reference books, about 35,000 help themselves and 10,000 have assistance. One thousand people use the typewriter provided for the public through the courtesy of the Remington Typewriter Company. Over 3,500 telephone questions are answered. Over 100,000 persons use the branch as a reading room and help themselves to the 13,000 books and 300 periodicals. The telephone calls cover a wide range of subject matter, and require the attendant to possess much versatility of knowledge. Some of the questions are as follows:

"Please give me the names of some pill box manufacturers in Pennsylvania."

"What is the membership fee in the Institutes of Civil Engineers in England?"

"Who is the British Consul General at Algiers?"

John Cotton Dana, the librarian of the Newark Public Library, expressed himself to me as follows: "The great use made of this branch makes it plain that most people like their libraries better when they are domesticated, brought near at hand, given an every-day, usable air, than when they are elaborately and remotely housed in marble-lined sanctuaries." The theory on which this business part of our library was conceived and on which it is now run is this:

"Everything any man of affairs can want to know is somewhere in print; his public library has it or can get it for him, and should tell him so. Therefore the public library should put in the center of its city—if not itself in the center—a collection of the printed material best fitted to answer business questions; should keep this collection up to date, and should be always telling of it.

"In building up the business collection we found that there was no center of information about business literature, and that to discover and collect it was quite difficult. This was because bookish people—booksellers, librarians and compilers of book-and-print information—all have the ancient notion about print, that it is for theorists and dreamers, not for practical people. Since we opened the business branch—and in some degree because we opened it, pushed it and talked and wrote about it—this business print has greatly grown in volume and has made itself visible to bookmen's eyes. However, there is still some plain talking yet to be done, for the librarian of one of the largest of American libraries very recently said that there is nothing important in this idea of making a library especially useful to business!

"From the first we have found it very difficult to persuade our business men that a library has any print that could help them. If librarians, who are doctors of book knowledge, did not know the print which is most helpful in the world of affairs, how could one expect the world of affairs to know it? Therefore, the branch did not come in answer to a demand but ahead of it. We had long believed such a thing would be used if provided, and here came the chance to prove the belief sound.

"Thus we advertise the main library as best we can as something useful to our making—buying—selling town; then we take a little of the library to the center of the town as a sample of what the whole is like and thus advertise the main stock, and then we advertise the branch itself, and so in time we become quite useful to the community and hope to be more so!"

NEW YORK MUNICIPAL LIBRARY.

On the following day I visited the Municipal Branch of the New York Public Library, located in the new municipal building on Park row. This library is splendidly housed on the sixteenth floor of the building and occupies one of the largest rooms in the structure. Everything there is very conveniently arranged; the room is perfectly lighted; and absolute quiet prevails at all times. New York City has not gone quite as far as Newark in the direction of aiding business men to secure information, but the librarian informed me that plans were under way to introduce the business men's feature this fall. The New York Municipal Library is made up of statistical and departmental reports, the city ordinances, the laws of the state of New York, bound copies of the proceedings of the aldermen, addresses made by the mayor, atlases of the different sections of the city, clippings on various subjects of municipal activities, books on health, sewerage, schools, street building, materials for road building, tunnels, bridges and subways, gas and electric lighting, metropolitan water and all the numerous subjects in which a city is vitally interested. Most of the books of the New York Municipal Library have come to the branch as gifts from individuals and departments and duplicate copies of all the books in frequent use are paid for out of the city funds. The New York City Library also has a large collection of books, clippings and other material on city planning and public markets. Every subject is plainly and simply catalogued and indexed and the information seeker has no trouble in going right up to the shelves and securing what he wants, without being obliged to cut off yards of unnecessary library red tape. The nearer a library gets to the people the more good it will accomplish.

My plan for the Boston Business Men's Branch and Municipal Library would embrace all the good features of the Newark and New York branches with specific features applicable to local conditions here. The art of printing has made it possible to bring to the business man facts about his business that he never knew and one important function of the business men's branch in this city would be to try and interest the business man and manufacturer in the printed matter relating to his particular industry. I believe a campaign of publicity is necessary to awaken public interest in this important work. It will take time, patience and hard work. The library methods are undergoing a radical change in this country. Only a few years ago it was the policy of many trustees and librarians to carefully guard the literary treasures so that a cultivated minority might enjoy them exclusively. Now the purpose is well-defined to place the books into the hands of as many people as they can. Books are of value only as they are read, and as hundreds are printed yearly bearing on every known industry, trade and calling, it is the duty of a trustee to see that these books reach those who will be benefited most by their use. In the old days the man who wanted a book would travel five miles to secure it. Now, the book must be brought to the man, and if he is a business man, the book should be available and of easy access so that time may be saved and the desired information furnished in the quickest possible manner. In order to facilitate the proper use of the business men's branch, the library must go a step further and notify the carpet dealer, the lace merchant, the electrical engineer, the wall paper manufacturer, the tradesman, the general merchant, the banker and financial man, that it has books in the library pertaining to his particular industry, containing information of great value, and if he wishes to keep abreast of the time in his particular line, he could send for that book and profit by its contents.

It is not sufficient to purchase and catalogue valuable books, placing them in the shelves of the library, there to await the call of the reader. An up-to-date library must do more. If the book happens to be a work that contains information about a trade or industry peculiarly local, do not let it rest where it will be buried, perhaps for years, on the dusty shelves of the library stack. Get in touch with the man to whom that book is the most valuable. Tell him that you have something that he ought to read, and make it easy for him to procure it. Eliminate all the unnecessary cataloguing and put it on the open shelf where it will do the most good to the greater number and where everyone can see it. If the library loans the book, give it to the man who can learn something about his own trade or business. The library must take the initiative to place the book and the man in touch with each other. The average business man to-day is so occupied with his affairs that he has little time to visit imposing libraries and consult complicated card catalogues. No doubt, if he spends time enough, he will find the book he wants. But his time is generally limited and he will not spend any unnecessary part of it in looking up a book.

Four years ago at Brussels, during the International Congress of Librarians, the staid, conservative librarians of the old world were shocked when a resolution was introduced asking the international body to adopt a vote favoring the elimination of all barriers between the book and the reader. I had the honor of introducing that resolution and after a long discussion it was unanimously adopted and became a part of the proceedings, to be sent wide-cast throughout the world later on in the final reports. This resolution was called by the American Library Journal one of the most important adopted by the international body and when the Business and Municipal Branch of the Boston Public Library is established in City Hall, the Library Trustees, librarian and all the employees of the department will endeavor to make it as easy as possible for the busy business man to secure the information that he is looking for. If he has not time to go to the Copley square central building or any of the branches and reading rooms, the library authorities will help him all they can by placing at his disposal in a convenient room at City Hall, maps, atlases, directories, books on special subjects, information about trade opportunities in South America and other countries, schemes for city planning, desirable real estate locations, information as to what other cities are doing to boom their industries, and valuable suggestions to local men regarding the opportunities that present themselves every day in this city. Legitimate publicity is recognized as a valuable aid to a city as well as to an individual, and the Mayor of Boston recognizing the merit in the proposition to establish a business men's municipal branch of the Public Library, has requested the Library Trustees to approve the plan and before long the initial steps will be taken to do something in this line. The development will be slow but certain. We will take time to do it right. We are going to start right, and with the assistance of clubs, civic bodies, heads of city departments, business firms and individuals, many of the obstacles will soon be overcome. The cooperation of all those interested, city officials and public-spirited citizens is absolutely essential. The librarian of the New York Municipal Branch informed me that the success of that institution was due mainly to the friendly spirit shown by the city officials who furnished valuable reports and other documents and were constantly making additions to the material in the library. There is no doubt the splendidly efficient heads in Boston and those under them will do their utmost to make this branch a success.

Yours sincerely,
WILLIAM F. KENNEY,
Vice President Board of Trustees,
Boston Public Library.

MILK INSPECTION IN CANADA.

The widespread effect of dairy inspection by the Boston Board of Health is shown by a clipping from a St. John, N. B., paper which states that nineteen farms in King's County, N. B., have been black-listed by the Board of Health of St. John. This is a result of the stopping of milk last year from this territory by the Boston Board of Health after an investigation made by its inspectors of dairy farms in that territory supplying milk to Boston. The conditions of these farms were made known by the Boston Board to the local authorities and since then they have adopted methods similar to those in vogue in this city relative to dairy farm inspection. No milk is now sent to St. John unless the places are approved by the local inspector.

FINAL REPORT OF REFUGEE COMMITTEE.

Mayor Curley has received the final report from the very efficient committee of women appointed by his Honor to care for the problem of the relief of incoming refugees arriving in Boston from European ports during the war crisis abroad, and headed by Mrs. William A. McNamara, chairman.

From the final report submitted the Mayor it appears that 116 refugees have been assisted, and the refugees provided means for reaching their homes, several journeying to the Pacific Coast.

The Mayor approved a draft for $481.69, which was the amount expended by the committee. The National Civic Federation of Women expended $286.74. It is hoped that much of the money expended will be eventually paid back.

Mayor Curley thanked the women's committee for the good work performed and congratulated them for doing it at so small a cost.

The Mayor further requested their cooperation toward preparing for the distress that will have to be met during the coming winter because of the European war. Their cooperation, he suggested, might take the form of an appeal to business and banking interests to take a more optimistic view of conditions, asserting that, at the close of the war now raging through Europe, Boston is bound to enter on an era of prosperity from an economic standpoint never before realized in her history.

The trouble now confronting the city, he explained, is to provide for caring for the thousands who will fill the army of the unemployed. The National Civic Federation, he felt sure, could do much toward getting business and banking interests, yes, large corporations also, to start work, which, if the times were normal, they would now be carrying on. He instanced, as a further way of meeting the unemployed problem, the raising of a fund of possibly $200,000, which could be used for reclaiming land in various sections of the city.

As for the city, it had about reached the end of its resources, he said, and explained that the Overseers of the Poor will spend over a quarter of a million more this year than last. At the Hawkins Street Lodge, better known as the Wayfarers' Lodge, the overseers are now housing nightly 90 against 10 who were provided for at this time last year. The House of Correction now has over 1,200 inmates, and is still increasing. Last year at this time it had about 900.

As a matter of fact there is an increase in commitments for nonsupport which appears to be the result of an agreement between husband and wife. While he is in jail the law provides that the wife shall receive fifty cents a day. In the nine months of this year there have already been paid out in this way over $12,000.

"It is better," he urged, "that employment be provided for those who are bound to be unemployed than to permit them to become objects of charity, and so lessen their patriotic respect for the institutions of the country. If a sum, say $200,000, as I stated before, could be raised it would provide employment for four months at three days a week, $2 a day, for at least 2,000 men."

The Mayor then suggested that if each of the 5,000 members of the City Club would contribute $10 each and the members of the National Civic Federation do likewise, $80,000 would be raised, which would be quite a start toward getting the $200,000.

As it has been his policy not to discharge the laborers during the winter the city will be carrying all it possibly can with the funds available. The forty women employed during the summer in the Bath Department will be continued through the winter with two days a week, while none of the other employees will be suspended or retired.

The members of the committee approved the Mayor's plans and accordingly decided to remain as a committee and take up his suggestions with the various women's clubs of the city.

Subsequently Mayor Curley received a communication from the Boston Branch of the Woman's Department, National Civic Federation, offering a hearty cooperation with the Mayor's labors for the relief of the unemployed.

The letter was as follows:

YOUR HONOR,—On behalf of the Woman's Department of the National Civic Federation, we wish to acknowledge the communication brought to us from you by our secretary, Mrs. McNamara, relative to our cooperation in dealing with the question of possible unemployment during the coming winter.

We deeply appreciate the confidence expressed by you in asking us to assist in this important matter. We stand ready to do our utmost for the public welfare, and are already organizing a committee to be fully prepared to deal with the question should the need become urgent.

We feel that our best service will be to concentrate our attention on women who may need assistance, following a method successfully carried out by the woman's department of the National Civic Federation in New York.

We are glad to be assured that you do not consider there is yet manifest any alarming amount of unemployment. We recognize the wisdom of your suggestion that the retention of all employees as far as possible be considered a public duty.

Assuring you of our readiness and our willingness to cooperate with all other agencies, we remain,

Respectfully yours,

MARY S. AMES,

ELEANOR H. WOODS,

For the Executive Committee.

SALARY OF CHIEF CLERK APPROVED.

The Mayor has formally approved the salary to be paid Ellen M. Cronin, chief clerk to the Secretary of the Boston School Committee, in the amount of $768 the year, in addition to the regular salary already established.

LIMITATIONS OF WATER FILTERS.

By GEORGE W. FULLER OF NEW YORK CITY.

Read Before the Convention of the American Society of Municipal Improvements, Hotel Somerset, Boston.

The modern water filter has been so markedly successful in its service of purifying water supplies for domestic purposes that it has sometimes been taken to be a care-all for any ills or unfortunate conditions which might affect the water. A water might be turbid enough to make it almost a liquid mud. It might be so badly polluted by bacteria that it is not much better than a weak sewage effluent. It might have such a strong color that it could easily pass at a soda water fountain, or would make a very strong circus lemonade. In all such cases it has often been taken as a matter of course that the addition of an ordinary water filter, either of the slow sand type or the mechanical type, would be sufficient to bring the water to a condition of perfect purity in all its properties and make it absolutely satisfactory and sufficient for all drinking purposes.

It is unfortunately true that such perfection of operation cannot at all times and places be depended upon, and that the water filter, while often doing what seems almost impossible, may not always do all that it has sometimes been called upon to do. In some particulars, such as the removal of turbidity and the removal of color, the eye can readily detect to what extent the water filter had fallen off from giving perfect results. In other particulars, such as the removal of bacterial pollution, so as to make the water of satisfactory sanitary quality, it is much less easy to see what has been accomplished by the filter, and because of inadequate supervision and lack of adequate bacteriological testing a filtered water of less than a reasonable standard of purity has often been accepted. This is particularly likely with a small plant which does not have regular and dependable laboratory supervision. There seems no doubt that a water filter can only affect so much and no more in the way of bacterial purification. Having in mind limits such as these, it will be necessary to consider the raw water to be applied to a filter and to determine how much of a burden the condition of the raw water will impose on the filter, so as to permit this filter to do reasonably satisfactory work and to apply to a filter only such water as with reasonable preparation can be properly treated to give a good drinking water supply.

While for some years this question of the proper loading or burden on filters has been considered in many places and attempts have been made to fix some sort of a standard which would serve the purpose, these attempts have met with very little success. The difficulties of fixing such a standard are self-evident. It is rather obvious that no exact relationship exists between the sanitary quality of the water and the number of bacteria present, no matter how the bacteria are tested, whether in the form of a total bacteria or some special form, such as the colon bacillus. It is possible that some waters should have good sanitary properties and yet have a rather large number of bacteria. Other waters, again, which might be relatively free from bacteria, would show themselves to be unhealthful.

While it has been clearly recognized that some limits, definite if possible, should be placed on the proper burden for filter plants, no such limit has, until recent times, been established.

The first question that arises for determination is, "How shall the quality of a water be measured or determined?" For bacterial purposes, bacteria have been taken in various ways, measuring the total number of bacteria either at 20 degrees centigrade or 37 degrees centigrade on various media. Then, again, special bacteria, such as the B. coli, may be considered a better indication of fecal pollution than total bacteria. In some extreme cases experimenters have suggested the taking of the actual determination of disease bacteria, such as the typhoid bacillus or the cholera bacillus, as a guide to the true disease-carrying sources of pollution. Each of these methods has some advantages and some disadvantages.

Considering the last, the direct determination of disease-producing bacteria, this is practically ruled out by the difficulty of making such determinations. It has not yet been generally feasible to determine with precision and certainty whether bacteria such as the typhoid are present in any water, and while such determination is sometimes successful it has not been generally so. In addition, we are not quite sure as to the limitations of water-borne diseases to any specific small number of kinds, and it would be quite possible that even exact and positive exclusion of a certain small number of organisms would not be a guarantee that the water could not contain some other disease-producing bacillus which has not yet definitely been determined as such.

The determination of the total number of bacteria present has been the simplest and most common form of water analysis procedure, and has quite a value. The old standard of the German sanitarians was an allowance of 100 bacteria per cubic centimeter in filtered water. This standard is a simple and in some ways a useful one, and has been widely extended in this country. Assuming a bacterial efficiency of the filters as 98 per cent, the raw water to give such a filtered water should not exceed a bacterial content of 5,000 per cubic centimeter.

It may be raised as an objection that by far the greater number of bacteria are simply water bacteria or non-pathogenic, and are no indication either of pollution or of having any harmful effect. A water may have a very large number of bacteria and still be absolutely harmless. This objection has been strong enough largely to discredit the total number of bacteria as being a very good evidence of the wholesomeness or unwholesomeness of any particular water.

The third determination, that of B. coli, has come to be recognized to be the most satisfactory, all things considered, of the possible methods of determining the pollution of a water. B. coli of itself is not, of course, any direct indicator of disease-bearing bacillus. It is only a very indirect evidence of the possibility of recent fecal pollution. As is well known, B. coli originates from many other sources than human fecal excrement. It is found in large quantities in animals, particularly domestic animals. It is also found in considerable quantities on grain materials and tilled fields. Water running off from farms, pastures, etc., must necessarily contain considerable quantities of such coli, and under such circumstances B. coli in no way show the evidence of dangerous pollution. Nevertheless, taking everything into account and knowing the limitations of the B. coli as an indicator of fecal pollution, it still must be said that this is the single best means we have of determining whether a water is most probably wholesome or unwholesome according to the number of B. coli present in the water. We recognize that this basis of determination is not at all conclusive or positive, but we also recognize that it is the best we have, and as such it is proper to make use of it in gauging the sanitary qualities of the water.

An International Joint Commission, composed in part of appointees of the United States and in part of appointees of Canada, has been investigating the question of pollution of the international boundary waters, with the idea of determining to what extent pollution must be limited in order not to endanger the health of the communities on the two sides of these boundary waters. As a great part, if not all, of the possible danger to health which must arise from drinking water, the question practically resolves itself down to this:

1. Is it possible to maintain the water in such shape that without treatment it shall be suitable for drinking water?

2. If it is not possible to maintain the water in such a condition of purity and it does need filtration before being suitable for drinking water, what is the limit of pollution allowable before the filtration plant will be overloaded, and safe drinking water cannot reasonably be obtained by ordinary filtration?

The first source of information is those cities which have been receiving a supply of unfiltered water which have sufficient data available to show how this water stands in rank on the basis of B. coli present in the water. An examination of these B. coli records and the records of the city, its typhoid data, to show whether this water can reasonably be classed as a fairly healthful and wholesome water or whether it should be classed as a water of rather deficient quality. A second source of information is the various filtered waters which are supplied to a number of communities and the records they have of coli content in this filtered water and the B. coli content in the raw water supplied to those filters. The most of our communities which do have filtered water show a satisfactory effluent and a satisfactory typhoid fever rate, which is some measure of the wholesomeness of the water supplied. An examination of the corresponding raw waters applied to the filters gives some indication of where a reasonable standard limit should be placed. A third source of information is the consideration of a standard of efficiency of bacterial removal and the assumption of a reasonable number of B. coli in water supplied for drinking purposes and a corresponding calculation of what would be a proper natural limit of B. coli in the water supplied to the filters under these conditions.

On the basis of the information of these three classes must be fixed the required standard. This information, which is afforded, is by no means exact in character, and no exact reading can be made from it even in any particular case. Moreover, the various data obtained from various cities are very conflicting, and even the data obtained at various times from the same cities under apparently similar conditions are conflicting and cannot always be reconciled. Some cities are receiving a markedly poor water in B. coli content, yet have a very satisfactory water from a sanitary standpoint, and typhoid fever rates are relatively low. Others, again, receive a rather good water and deliver for drinking purposes a decidedly good water and yet show a much less satisfactory typhoid fever rate.

It is recognized that typhoid fever originates only in part in water supplies, and that B. coli in the water and typhoid fever rates need not be in any relation to each other.

A case in point is that of the Birmingham, Ala., water supply. This city receives its water from two sources, namely, the Five Mile creek and the Cahaba river. The water from the Five Mile Creek is sterilized after being filtered and shows practically no B. coli as delivered to the consumer. The water from the Cahaba river is filtered, but not sterilized, and shows an appreciable amount of B. coli, though not an extraordinary number. Yet the typhoid fever of the two districts supplied from the two plants is no better in the first case than in the second. In the entire city the typhoid death rate is very low during the winter months, but is high during the warmer season of the year, when fly transmission becomes a factor of importance.

The best that can be done with the data at hand is to consider all these data, properly weigh them, and on the basis of a rather general judgment come to some conclusion on what is a proper limit of B. coli in water to be applied to the filters. Such a conclusion can by no means be considered an exact judgment, and should be considered rather an average than a rigid limit for any particular case. This standard specifies that water applied to filters should show by the presumptive test not more than 500 B. coli per 100 cubic centimeter of water as a yearly average, meaning by this that B. coli should not be found more than 50 per cent of the time in 0.10 cubic centimeter samples. For averages for shorter selected times, monthly, weekly, or daily, the allowable B. coli content may be considerably higher. It is believed that for this purpose the averages based on a year's readings are more useful than averages for a shorter time with a correspondingly different standard of allowable B. coli.

The adoption of a standard such as this means that, apart from pollution objectionable in other ways than bacterial, the allowable limit of bacterial pollution should be particularly measured by the condition of the water as it reaches the intake of some water supply where the water is purified. If this water shows no more than 50 per cent positive tests for B. coli in 0.10 cubic centimeter samples as a yearly average, the amount of bacterial pollution arising from a sewer outlet may be considered not too high. If, on the other hand, the bacterial standard so set is exceeded in the water supply, the need is set for the polluting community to purify its sewage by sterilization or further to such an extent that the water will not be affected to a more objectionable degree than the one allowed.

For any particular case to be considered special consideration must be given to the local conditions. If the water is such that practically all the B. coli can be attributed to sewage pollution, a rigid interpretation of the standard would properly be in order. In the case of a stream passing through farming communities where a large part of the B. coli does not originate directly from fecal excrement, but from fields, under such conditions that disease pollution would not follow, this standard can be more liberally applied. Other factors to be considered are the distance of the water supply intake from the source of pollution, the degree of dilution of the sewage effluent, the nature of wind and water currents, which may objectionably or favorably affect the movement of water to a water supply intake, and many other factors of this nature. While it is undoubted that a good deal of judgment must be used in special cases in applying any special standard of purity, and while such a standard cannot be used in ignorant hands as a substitute for expert supervision and expert judgment, a basis such as this is well worth establishing as a starting point for further investigations.

The bacterial efficiency of a filter is not an invariable quantity. Roughly speaking, 98 to 99 per cent may be placed as a fair average under ordinary conditions. Percentages, however, are not always a good gauge of efficiency, as a water with an initial bacterial content that is high will show a proportionately higher efficiency in a filter than a water with a low bacterial content, and yet the resultant filtered water may be much less satisfactory to the consumer from a healthful standpoint than would be the case with the other filter with a lower bacterial efficiency. In addition, sterilization is usually applied in modern filter plants as a reserve factor of safety, and should be available to be applied in all plants and with the use of effective sterilization added to properly filtered water an effluent can be obtained which is almost, if not entirely, sterile for ordinary use.

With these conditions in mind, it seems reasonably safe to say that a water having in its raw form a coli content not exceeding 500 per each 100 cubic centimeters, based on yearly averages, will show in the water supplied to the consumers something not more than five to ten B. coli per 100 cubic centimeters. Such water is believed to be a fairly safe water, when properly sterilized, for drinking purposes and for all other domestic uses.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

Thomas F. Frazer, assistant engineer in the department, has been retired from service by reason of a partial paralysis which incapacitates him from active duty. His name will be placed upon the pension roll at the rate of $700 the year.

Fire Commissioner Grady presents the following statement of fact relative to the retirement:

"Mr. Frazer was appointed to the department October 10, 1890, and is now fifty-four years of age. In August, 1900, he had a shock which rendered him unfit for further fire duty. He was detailed to the repair shop as a day watchman and has been there ever since. He is practically helpless and is unable to do ordinary work. He is being paid $1,400 the year—the pay of a permanent fireman.

"Since the installation of a motor truck in the repair department we have been left with a spare teamster who is receiving $2.50 the day. This man could be used to fill the position of day watchman, would be able to perform ordinary labor around the repair shop, and if an occasion demanded could be used as a teamster. His pay would remain the same as he is now receiving."

WITHOUT ADVERTISING.

The Mayor has approved the following contracts awarded without advertising, also additions to and deductions from contracts.

PUBLIC BUILDINGS DEPARTMENT.

The Mayor has approved, for the reasons set forth by Superintendent Lynch of the Public Buildings Department, the award of a contract to the Eastern Cold Storage Company for the heating of Faneuil Hall.

The communication of Superintendent Lynch is as follows:

CITY OF BOSTON,
PUBLIC BUILDINGS DEPARTMENT,
October 19, 1914.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—Authority is respectfully requested to award a contract, without advertising, to the Eastern Cold Storage Company for furnishing sufficient steam to comfortably heat Faneuil Hall Building, from October 15, 1914, to May 31, 1915, and for a term beginning October 1 and ending May 31 in the years 1915-16, 1916-17, 1917-18 and 1918-19 for the sum of $3,000, for the period beginning October 15, 1914, and ending May 31, 1915, and for the sum of $2,000 for each of the four succeeding periods beginning October 1 and ending May 31.

This authority is requested for the reason that there is no other concern that can furnish heat for the Faneuil Hall Building. The last contract for the heating of Faneuil Hall, made with this concern, was at the rate of $4,000 for a period of eight months.

The sum of $3,000 has been agreed upon for the first period, because it will be necessary for the Eastern Cold Storage Company to install additional equipment in order to properly heat Faneuil Hall.

The making of this contract will effect a saving of $1,000 the first year and $2,000 for each of the four succeeding years, on the basis of the last contract.

As the proposed contract is for a term ending beyond the fiscal year, I will insert a provision in it that it is made subject to appropriations being made by the city government.

Respectfully yours,

RICHARD A. LYNCH,
Superintendent of Public Buildings.

TO INCREASE SALE OF COTTON PRODUCTS.

Mayor Curley is in receipt of the following communication from Hon. George Ainslie, Mayor of Richmond, Virginia, relative to devising ways and means for the extension of trade in cotton products:

CITY OF RICHMOND,
OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,
October 19, 1914.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR MR. MAYOR,—I want to make a suggestion to you and to leave it to your discretion how to bring it to the attention of the people of New England if you think it worth while.

The United States consumes about 40 per cent of our cotton crop, and it is now in our power enormously to increase the products thereof by using them in many instances in which heretofore other products have been used, and thereby relieve not only the situation in which the grower finds himself on account of the European War, but that of the cotton manufacturers themselves who will be adversely affected by the general depression all over the cotton section, unless some way be found to take up the present crop, or more of it than at the present rate will be normally taken.

The suggestion is this, that your manufacturers use cotton product wherever possible in packing their own products. I know one firm in the West, Ballard and Ballard Company, of Louisville, Kentucky, which has increased its use of cotton bags $625 per day. Whereas, they were formerly using $180,000 worth of cotton goods per year in the packing of their products, they are now using at the rate of $367,500 worth. Although they only used flour bags prior to the war, they are now using cotton bags for feed, covers for small bags and for bakers' bags, and are thereby making grass grow where none grew before. The Dunlop Flour Mills, of the city, are doing the same thing, and have already increased their use of cotton bags to the extent of $300 a day. They have just made one shipment of 22,000 barrels of flour, all packed in cotton bags.

There are many things not now packed in cotton that can be so packed which would raise our own consumption of the crop by more than 50 per cent.

New England can wield immense power in this movement, and it is plainly to its interest to do so.

Very truly yours,
GEORGE AINSLIE, Mayor.

NOTICE OF LAYING OUT AND CONSTRUCTION WORK.

Especial attention is called to the advertisement of the Public Works Department in the current issue of the City Record relative to the laying out and construction of highways in Brighton, Dorchester and West Roxbury, and that all work in said highways relative to sewer, gas, water or other pipes must be accomplished before Saturday, November 14, 1914, as after that time no permits for openings will be granted until two years after the said highways are completed.

SETTLEMENT OF SHUMAN CLAIM.

A. Shuman has agreed to a settlement of his claim against the city for damage to his estate at the corner of Washington and Avery streets, for the sum of $45,000. In the widening of Avery street the Board of Street Commissioners caused to be cut off a portion of Mr. Shuman's building which projected beyond the intersection of Avery street at Washington street, and awarded him the sum of $34,125. Mr. Shuman was not satisfied with the award, and brought suit against the city. The building whose front was cut off had been occupied as a moving picture theater, and the cutting off of the front destroyed the business of the theater. The proprietors of the theater had a lease of the building, and their interests were involved in the suit against the city.

By the terms of the settlement Mr. Shuman is to satisfy the lessees of the building, besides which he agrees to pay, without contest, the betterment assessment which may be levied on the property on account of the widening of Avery street and the improvement of the Washington street corner. How much this assessment will be has not yet been determined by the Board of Street Commissioners. The Board has estimated a benefit of $31,643, an amount which cannot be exceeded when the assessment is made.

CLAIMS.

The Mayor has approved the claim of Margaret F. Orford, in the amount of $15, for damages occasioned her estate in Southern avenue, Dorchester, by the laying out of the avenue, and in confirmation of the order of the Board of Street Commissioners.

PERMISSION TO SELL METALS.

Commissioner Rourke of the Public Works Department has been granted permission to sell, after due advertisement, old metals, the property of the Water Service of the department, at yard 710 Albany street, not to exceed $500 in value.

THE CERTIFICATION OF MUNICIPAL BONDS.

BY PARK TERRELL.

A leading trust company making a specialty of certifying to the genuineness of municipal bonds sends out literature on the subject under the caption "Safety Is the First Requisite in the Issue of Municipal Bonds," and lays particular emphasis on the necessity for issuing securities for the payment of which taxpayers are responsible, under a plan of issue providing adequate protection to the issuing community, the dealer, the banker loaning on the bonds as collateral, and the investor, who, in this instance, is the "ultimate consumer." The cry of "safety first" is perhaps nowhere more justified than in this connection, since the ordinary loose way of issuing this class of securities lends itself to all sorts of abuses and may justly be termed an open invitation to crime, so easily may spurious paper be issued and the fraudulent act remain hidden for months. Often the municipality itself invites trouble by requiring in its published notices of sale that the blanks be furnished by the purchaser of the bonds. So easy a method of obtaining money is not to be overlooked by the unscrupulous, and duplicate issues are the result. It is to be hoped that every crime of this sort is finally brought to light and the perpetrator punished, but in spite of the popular theory that the criminal eventually reveals himself, there remains an uneasy doubt as to whether he may not sometimes successfully cover up all evidence of his wrongdoing and out of the earnings of his illicit capital repay the "loans" obtained by means of the duplicated paper.

We have pointed out only one of many routes by which lax methods of issue invite abuses. The fact that such lax methods prevail hinders in no small degree the free exchange of municipal securities between investors, and in other ways unfavorably affects the value of securities which should stand supreme at the very top of the market and pass unquestioned from one investor to another.

It seems strange that the officials of any municipality should hesitate to adopt measures to safeguard the interests of taxpayers, but "penny wise and pound foolish" is the prevailing policy, and, as our forefathers did so do we, though financial methods and conditions have entirely changed. Frequently when an issue of bonds is proposed and the question of having it "certified" is under consideration, a local financial institution will offer to place its signature on the back of the bonds attesting their genuineness, and the argument is advanced that public officials should patronize home industries, etc. On the other hand the trust company which has been most active in directing attention to the need for better methods in the issue of all public obligations insists that "the value of certification lies in the safeguards it attests" and that the mere writing of another name on a bond in no way protects against either overissues or forgery.

This trust company has backed up the foregoing statement by establishing a protective method for the issue of bonds composed of a rigid system of safeguards, yet so directed as to materially assist municipal officials in the performance of a most difficult duty, relieving them of responsibility and serving their convenience. The method not only protects the investor, but renders a much greater service in safeguarding the interests of the taxpayers—which, of course, should be the chief consideration of officials responsible for the proper issue of bonds.

At various times state authorities have endeavored to provide official supervision intended to protect bond issues, but so far none of these state directed plans have been wholly satisfactory, and municipalities situated in states adopting such procedure have had their bonds issued under trust company certification methods in addition to the modus operandi provided by the state.

It is unfortunate that municipal officials usually remain in office only for short terms, and therefore cannot familiarize themselves with the technical details of matters, such as bonds issues, which may come up only once or twice during their terms of office. It is encouraging, however, to note that the more experienced officials tend to the employment of safer methods for the issue of their bonds, many cities having adopted the plan of having their bonds certified by trust companies providing effective safeguards covering the process of preparation and issue.

ANANASSA SATIVA.

By CAPTAIN JOHN H. DILLON, Chairman of the Park and Recreation Department.

"Just an ordinary pineapple!" And one of the most delicious of our native fruits! The pineapple plant resembles very much in its habits of growth and formation of the leaves, our century plant or American aloe. It throws up a flowering stem from the center upon which the fruit forms and ripens. When the fruit has ripened the plant dies down to the roots from which the young plants are again reproduced, or from the leafy crown which grows on the top of fruit.

The culture of the pineapple plant in the United States, for commercial purposes, was first attempted in St. Augustine, Florida, about the year 1850, and did not meet with the expected success. However, after the sandy soil had been bountifully treated with good horticultural fertilizer, pineapple culture became assured. Many millions of the juicy fruit have been sent to market yearly and have proved quite remunerative to the grower. The fruit, when allowed to attain perfection upon the plant, possesses a much finer flavor than when it is cut off in the half-ripened condition necessary for market purposes. The numerous ways in which this delightful and favorite fruit may be served are so well known that an attempt to describe them here would be superfluous.

Respectfully,
 JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Ordered, That a conveyance by the Homœopathic Medical Dispensary to the Massachusetts Homœopathic Hospital, pursuant to chapter 137 of the Acts of 1898, of the parcel of land at the northeasterly corner of Harrison avenue and Stoughton street, being the same estate conveyed by the City of Boston to said Homœopathic Medical Dispensary by deed dated June 29, 1889, recorded with Suffolk Deeds, Book 1886, page 127, is hereby permitted and the same shall not be deemed a violation of the conditions of said deed; provided, that the said premises shall continue to be used for the uses named in said conditions, viz.: the maintenance of the dispensary or hospital thereon (including any department of any such hospital) and provided further, that this permission and order shall not be deemed to constitute a release of the conditions of said deed.

City of Boston,
 Law Department, October 17, 1914.
 Hon. James M. Curley,
 Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—The Massachusetts Homœopathic Hospital Trustees desire to establish a maternity hospital at the corner of Harrison avenue and Stoughton street, on land owned by the Homœopathic Medical Dispensary. The Medical Dispensary now has upon the land a building used for dispensary purposes and it is the desire of the trustees of both of these charitable corporations to raise the present building to four stories, the dispensary to be maintained as at present in the basement and the first story, and the maternity hospital to occupy the three stories above the first.

The land of the dispensary was given by the City of Boston on condition that it should be used for the purpose of a dispensary or hospital, and if used for other purposes the dispensary should pay to the city two dollars per square foot for the land.

The use now proposed is for a hospital and is not inconsistent with the conditions of the gift which was made by the city, by deed dated June 29, 1889.

The Legislature, by St. 1898, chapter 137, authorized the Homœopathic Medical Dispensary to convey its funds and other property to the Massachusetts Homœopathic Hospital. All of the property of the dispensary, except the land, has been conveyed pursuant to this legislative authority. The trustees of both corporations desire that the land also be conveyed, and as the purpose seems to be in harmony with the terms of the gift made by the city in 1898, and seems likely also to be for the public benefit, I recommend the passage of the inclosed order, which declares that the transfer shall not be deemed a violation of the conditions of the deed of 1889, or operate as a release of said conditions.

The form of the order has been passed upon and approved by the City Conveyancer, and I respectfully request your Honor to transmit said order to the City Council.

JOHN A. SULLIVAN,
 Corporation Counsel.

Referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

SALE OF SALEM STREET PROPERTY.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
 Office of the Mayor, October 19, 1914.
 To the City Council:

I transmit herewith a communication from John Beck, real estate appraiser and broker, setting forth an offer of five thousand five hundred dollars ($5,500) for the property owned by the City of Boston at 114 Salem street.

I recommend that this property be sold at public auction at an upset price of fifty-five hundred dollars ($5,500).

Respectfully,
 JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Boston, October 19, 1914.

Hon. James M. Curley,
 Mayor of Boston:
 Dear Sir,—A. A. Badaracco offers for a client $5,500 for the coal station at 114 Salem street, in Ward 6.

This property is assessed for $4,400, $2,900 being on the 417 square feet of land, and $1,500 on the old shed that is used for storage of cannel coal and coal wagon for Engine No. 8.

This is a valuable corner that, I believe, would sell at public auction for about $7,500. The Finance Commission's report of June 6, 1914, states that "the coal and wagon could be stored in the area adjoining the engine house, and this property should then be sold."

Respectfully yours,
 JOHN BECK.

Referred to Committee on Public Lands.

COST OF WIDENING WASHINGTON STREET, WEST ROXBURY.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, October 19, 1914.
To the City Council:
I transmit herewith communication from the Secretary of the Board of Street Commissioners containing information requested by your honorable body on September 28, 1914.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Street Laying-Out Department,
October 8, 1914.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—In reply to the inclosed order of the City Council, requesting an estimate of the cost of widening Washington street, West Roxbury, between La Grange street and Metropolitan avenue, at varying widths from 50 to 100 feet, I am directed by the Board of Street Commissioners to submit the following:

For a street 100 feet wide:
Land and building damages..... $45,380
Construction..... 147,000
$192,380

For a street 80 feet wide:
Land and building damages..... $30,000
Construction..... 125,000
$155,000

For a street 60 feet wide:
Construction..... $100,000

Washington street, between the points named, is now 60 feet wide. It was such before the annexation of West Roxbury to Boston. It has never been constructed at its full width, with the result that on the ground the street appears very narrow.

For the Board of Street Commissioners,
J. J. O'CALLAGHAN,
Secretary.

Placed on file.

RESOLUTION OF ESTEEM FOR "BRAVES."

Coun. WOODS offered the following:

Whereas, The Boston National Baseball team has won the championship of the National League for the year 1914, and has also won the World's Championship Series, thereby demonstrating its superior excellence as a baseball organization and gaining the admiration of all lovers of wholesome athletic contests; and

Whereas, These victories have added new luster to this city's crown, and have kindled the enthusiasm of its inhabitants for outdoor sports which promote the health and moral well-being of the community; and

Whereas, Mr. Joseph J. Lannin, owner of the rival baseball organization of the City of Boston, having demonstrated a superior evidence as a high minded and well intentioned sportsman in voluntarily extending the use of his baseball grounds, Fenway Park, to the World's champions, hereby receives the thanks of the City Council for his generous service. Now, therefore, be it Resolved, That the City Government of Boston hereby express to the members of the Boston National Baseball team, its owners, its manager, and its other officials, the esteem in which they are held by the people of this city for the sterling honesty, the consummate skill, the unflinching courage and the manly deportment which they have exhibited throughout in their long and arduous endeavor to reach the highest goal of honor in the realms of sport; and that a copy thereof be sent to each member of said baseball team, to its owners, to its manager, to each of its other officials and to Mr. Joseph J. Lannin, owner of the rival team.

The question came on the adoption of the preambles and resolution.

Coun. WOODS—Mr. President, in presenting this resolution I think I am voicing the sentiments of the entire people of the City of Boston. I only wish I were a baseball fan, so as to put the thing in proper shape, but I confess that I am not. I have been out of the game for twenty years. But I say that any organization of the kind that comes into the City of Boston and goes from the bottom of the ladder and reaches the top, as this did, is deserving of recognition at the hands of this City Council. I don't care whether this establishes a precedent or not. The Mayor of Boston, his Honor Mayor James M. Curley, has established a precedent; he has recognized the organization by giving a banquet at the Hotel Plaza. The money did not come out of the city but out of his own pocket. Therefore, I think it fitting at this time to say a few words in behalf of this great organization which has made our beloved city one of the most talked-of cities in the entire world. This is recognition of a sport that is honest, as shown to the most skeptical people, when they said the World's Series would be simply a hippodrome, whereas we found that the Boston club went in and won four straight games, in spite of the fact that it would have been money in their pockets to have the series prolonged. When I stood in the line and received my money back for tickets, I thought that was a great thing to be able to say of the Boston National Baseball Club, which has been losing money for four years—that when one word would have thrown the game on Monday they went ahead and won it, and it was one of the best games that has been played in the history of Boston baseball. Instead of allowing a game to be lost they gave back the $44,000. But it will be an advertisement worth millions of dollars to them in the future. As one gentleman who stood in line said, as he got his $18 for six tickets, he was going to take the $18 and spend it for tickets for the opening game next season for himself and his friends, as he thought the club deserved it. I want to say in behalf of the president, Mr. Gaffney, that I think he is a most wonderful man. In my conversation with him on the day of the last game, I said, "Do you think you will win to-day?" and he said, "Yes, we will win to-day and clean the thing up." I did not attend a baseball game for a number of years until I met little Maranville out at my theater, where he sang at a benefit for widows and orphans one Sunday night, and I said to him, "What kind of a baseball club have you got? It is away down at the bottom." He said, "We will be at the top in three weeks and win the pennant when we get at the top." I was anxious to see how the dope would work out, and I have been to every game since, and I want to say that every word he said was fulfilled. The fact is that we have won the championship, that Boston has it, no matter where the players come from. Boston has the credit. I hope the resolution will pass by a unanimous vote. I am perfectly willing to have it referred to the Executive Committee and have it talked over.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I have been converted to the smaller Council proposition because of the stability of this organization, but if we see a few more ridiculous orders introduced like that offered by the gentleman from Brighton, I think I shall be inclined to vote to abolish the present Council. About two weeks ago I introduced a resolution with some meat in it, some teeth in it, criticizing certain people for importing from New York citizens of New York to work here during the World's Series on the Boston grounds, when, as the Mayor has said, there are to-day more people in Boston walking the streets without work than ever before. The resolution offered by the gentleman on my left (Coun. Woods) is unnecessary, has no real bearing, is ridiculous, but my order meant something. It was not "bull." I am surprised at the gentleman from Brighton. I have been defending this Council against all kinds of argument. For a few months I was called a clown by certain individuals, and I said, "There are no clowns in the City Council." But I am afraid I have got to take back my statement. I cannot understand what has got into the gentleman from Brighton. The Boston National Club won the championship, and we are proud of it. I saw the games and enjoyed them. It is a great hall team. But the public paid the freight. I would like to vote to relegate this resolution to the waste basket without reference to the Executive Committee. I think it is uncalled for, unnecessary, ridiculous, and I know that it will die the death it ought to die in the Executive Committee.

Coun. WOODS—Mr. President, one thing more than another that induced me to put in the resolution was the ridiculous resolution presented here two weeks ago by a member of this body who did not know what he was talking about. He made statements at that time that he knew were wrong when he made them, but for the sake of notoriety he introduced the resolution, thinking he would get into the papers, having what he said emblazoned on the front pages of the Boston press. He failed in that, because not a paper in Boston printed it. When he said that Mr. Gaffney sold tickets to Herrick from which he got a premium of fifty cents he stated what he knew was an absolute lie. The fact is that President Gaffney, the president of the Boston National Club, had the interests of the people at heart when he made the price of certain tickets fifty cents, in spite of the fact that Ban Johnson, the president of the League, and Connie Mack of the Athletics, wanted to make the price a dollar. President Gaffney said, "No, the Boston public shall not be held up," and he sold 4,000 seats at fifty cents, when he might have got $1 or $2 apiece for them. They also went to the expense of having seats built on Duffy's cliff, for which they made the price $1 apiece, although they might easily have got more. I want to say candidly that I took care of my friends on the dollar seats, and some of the councilor's friends were also taken care of on the dollar seats, the cost of which must have been more practically than they made out of them. Those are facts that cannot be denied. If this is a ridiculous proposition, I want to plead guilty and to be thankful that I am here to favor it, instead of introducing any such resolution as was presented two weeks ago by the councilor and supporting it here and in committee by statements that were not facts, and no man who had a dollar of money in property that could be attached would dare to make them. As far as the tickets go, the full statement in regard to the disposition of the tickets can be examined. Every man who applied for tickets has received them and has signed a card, and the cards are in a box which can be opened and examined by every member of the Council. Mr. Gaffney showed them to me. That shows how many tickets were disposed of and where they went. They can account for every ticket, and not one went into the hands of speculators. So if there are clowns in the Council, they can take it to themselves. I want to see this Council get together and do team work, and then we will not be abolished in order to have a Council of seventeen. But as long as one member wants to put in ridiculous resolutions we will be criticized. If my fellow councilors think the resolution I have introduced is uncalled for and unwarranted, I hope they will vote against it. I have put it in in all honesty and sincerity of purpose. I think we should do everything we can to uphold any organization, any body of men, that is trying to place Boston on the map. I have a deep feeling for my beloved city, and I am not an importation, but was born and brought up here. There is no individual who thinks more of Boston than I do. I do not believe in getting hot over these things, but in taking things easy. As for what my friend Jerry says, it runs off my back like water off a duck. But I did want to make some few facts clear. I hoped when I presented the resolution that the honorable councilor would get up and say, "When I put in the resolution I did and said what I did, I made a mistake. What I said in regard to Mr. Gaffney was wrong; I don't believe he did it. I believe the Boston National League Club deserves a resolution like this, and I gladly withdraw anything I said upon my resolution two weeks ago."

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I have been a member of the Council for twenty months, and this is the first time since I have been a member that a member has arisen here and said that a fellow member deliberately lied, without being called to account for it by the Chair. I desire to say that the Chair owes it to me to see that there is spread on the record a statement that the gentleman withdraws his statement in regard to my lying, and lying deliberately, unless the Chair wants to show his bias in a very strong manner. I believe the member from Brighton was absolutely sincere in introducing that resolution. I believe it is an evidence of his stability. You can guess the rest. The gentleman speaks about facts, about seeing things that Mr. Gaffney of the Boston National League Ball team had, which showed certain facts. I am aware that the gentleman is an assistant manager; I am aware that he has some property that might be attached. The gentleman evidently knows very little about city affairs; as an illustration of his tremendous knowledge of municipal matters, he says that if I had any money or property I could be attached; it is about time he knew that statements made here are privileged; if he does not know it, I will so inform him; that is for your information, sir. I want to say that I opposed his resolution on its merits; I do not take back one single word I uttered upon the resolution I introduced concerning the bringing in to Boston of New York citizens to work; I do not take back one single word about the Boston National Ball Team, or somebody connected with it, placing in the hands of Herrick tickets to be speculated with; I have never accused Mr. Gaffney personally of placing tickets in that way in the hands of Herrick or other speculators. You can look up what I said; I will give you time enough. The gentleman from Brighton is the fifth wheel of this coach up here; he stands up here and talks as we have heard him, rambles along, tells me I lie, without the Chair calling him to account; I said it is unfair and unparliamentary. If I had used the slightest word that was outside of parliamentary rules and regulations, that gavel would have been down and broken by this time; I only insist upon my rights in this body. Everybody connected with the city government, if my barking at their heels will make them stand up, will stand up, during my membership, if I am a member three months longer or a year longer; my conduct in this body is going to mean a great many votes for retaining the present form of government, as far as the Council is concerned, because I think I have shown to the people, convincing every fair-minded man of it, my sincerity and honesty of purpose. This resolution has no place in this body; to begin with, it should have been referred to the Executive Committee before there was any discussion upon it, and then perhaps these words between the gentleman from Brighton and myself might not have been uttered. I am going to ask the gentleman from Brighton to show his manliness by rising on this floor and admitting that in saying I lied or words to that effect, he erred. I am not asking that his words be stricken from the record, but I want a correction from his own lips, and I give him an opportunity to make the correction.

Coun. WOODS—Mr. President, I do not intend to take up the time of the Council much longer, though I could talk for two hours if I wanted to do so. I simply claim the same rights as the councilor who presented resolutions here two weeks ago. Let the gentleman look up what he said. I had to look it up for myself and find it. The gentleman says that this resolution ought to have been referred immediately to the Executive Committee, and that I should not have been allowed to talk upon it. I want to say that he presented his resolutions at the previous meeting and immediately got up and talked upon them, and what he said went into the record. Now let us see what he said about Mr. Gaffney. It says in the records here:

"The tickets are going into the hands of Herrick and other speculators, not at the market price, but a premium is paid by Mr. Herrick to Mr. Gaffney and his organization."

That is the fact as to what the gentleman said. The gentleman denies it. I reiterate everything I said when I said that the gentleman was talking about something he could not substantiate. I didn't say he lied. I don't care to take any more time on the matter, but am willing to let it drop, because Jerry and I could argue here for two hours.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I want to bring to the attention of Coun. Woods, the gentleman from Brighton, the fact that my name is James A. Watson, not "Jerry" Watson, and I again refer to the fact that the Chair does not call the gentleman to account. I think I could show the Chair how to proceed in such matters. I am going to read my remarks at the last meeting. I will look them up, as long as the gentleman would not refer to the page where they occurred. He speaks about my referring to Mr. Gaffney getting the money. I want to show that I am a man by saying that at the last meeting of the Council, in saying what the record purports that I said, I erred. I never intended to say that Mr. Gaffney personally placed in the hands of Herrick tickets at a premium. I did intend to say that National League tickets for the World's Championship games in Boston were in the hands of Herrick and were paid for at a fifty-cent premium. If I used the name of Mr. Gaffney in that connection I did not intend to do it, and if I had read the records I would have corrected them. I have not heard the gentleman from Brighton withdraw his statement about my lying, and I take it for granted that he does not desire to withdraw it. I will not ask that it be stricken from the record. That should have been ordered when the remark was made, by the Chair. I am willing to let it remain and to leave it just where it is in connection with this controversy. But in conclusion I want to say that I have no feeling against Mr. Gaffney, Maranville, Councilor Woods, or anybody connected with Boston baseball, and that I have not slept on Mr. Gaffney's steps in order to get a few tickets for some purpose. I have no feeling in the matter. I was opposed to bringing from New York aliens to be employed here, while my constituents and the gentleman's constituents were walking the streets without employment. I had hoped that the gentleman from Brighton might measure up man fashion, mentally as well as physically, by withdrawing his statement about my telling a lie on the floor of this Chamber concerning any proposition.

Coun. WOODS—Mr. President, I want to say, as long as Coun. Watson has said he did not say or intend to say that Mr. Gaffney sold the tickets to Herrick, that I will willingly and gladly withdraw the statement I made in that connection. It was that statement of his that I worked on, as long as I read it in the record. Since he has apologized and has said that he erred, I am willing to do likewise, and I hope the gentleman will accept my apology.

The preambles and resolution were referred to the Executive Committee.

Coun. ATTRIDGE in the chair.

The City Treasurer, after having duly approved of the same, submitted the constables' bonds of Thomas A. McDonough, Charles M. Griffin, Louis M. Bianco, Owen Gallagher.

DEMAND FOR MUNICIPAL BONDS.

The Boston financial district reports a continued demand for tax-exempt municipal bonds.

The City of Boston bonds have been moving satisfactorily since the price was lowered. The serials up to the 1924 maturity were placed on a $4\frac{1}{2}$ per cent yield basis, and now all the other maturities have been cut to a flat price of 98 and interest.

INAUGURAL ADDRESSES.

REPRINTS OF ADDRESSES DELIVERED BY THE MAYORS OF BOSTON AT THEIR INAUGURATION FROM THE INCORPORATION OF THE CITY.

William H. Whitmore, formerly City Registrar, and a man who delighted especially in the preservation of historical data relating to the city, started in 1890 a compilation of the inaugural addresses of the mayors of Boston. Up to that time they were available only in odd and scattered municipal documents, kept with indifferent care, or in some instances in privately printed documents.

In 1894 he produced the first volume, which contained the addresses from Phillips to Bigelow. In 1896 he published a second volume, with the addresses from Chapman to Norcross. The two volumes make not only substantial but interesting reading for all citizens. Because of the fact that the volumes in question are out of print, it is proposed to reprint the addresses in occasional installments in the City Record.

No. 31.

Mayor Bigelow delivered the following inaugural address on January 1, 1849:

Gentlemen of the Board of Aldermen and of the Common Council:

Our municipal charter requires that the Mayor shall communicate to the two branches of the City Council such information and recommend such measures as may promote the improvement and substantial interests of Boston. It is not becoming that I should enter even upon this minor and incipient duty without tendering, as I now do through you to my fellow citizens, my grateful acknowledgments for the confidence with which they have seen fit to honor me. At present all which I can offer in exchange for unsought and unexpected demonstration of popular favor is the solemn promise that I will faithfully devote whatever energies I possess to the promotion of the public welfare, unswayed by any considerations or influence other than my deliberate convictions of right. I am fully aware that in the discharge of my official duties I must come in collision with the interests, the prejudices, the passions, of a greater or less number of my constituents, and am perfectly content to abide the result. Such has been the fortune of all my predecessors, and I cannot expect to fare better than they. Much as I value the good will and love of the people among whom I have dwelt these thirty winters, yet if it happen that in consequence of pursuing the course which my judgment and conscience may approve, my administration shall fail to be acceptable to the popular majority, I shall retire to private life with far more pleasure than I experience in assuming the responsibilities of office.

Boston and its environs within a radius of five miles contains at least 210,000 inhabitants. The city proper has about 130,000 inhabitants, with an assessed valuation of $167,000,000. So large an accumulation of people and wealth on a single spot could hardly have been anticipated within a region of our country so little favored by nature. The sterile soil, the mountainous surface, the stern climate, and the want of navigable streams in New England would have seemed to render it improbable that it would ever be considerably peopled or that any great commercial mart should arise within its borders. It would have seemed that such would only exist within the more central or southerly portions of the Union, under more genial skies and in the vicinity of the great natural routes of intercommunication. But the resolution and intelligent industry of our fathers surmounted every obstacle. The region, sneeringly stigmatized as having no natural productions for export but "granite and ice," now teems with 3,000,000 of the children of freedom abounding in the comforts of civilized life—and its metropolis ranks with the great cities of the globe. It is to be borne in mind also that that metropolis became an important city long before science and art had cut in sunder the hills, elevated the vales, and spanned the running waters to unite her commerce in easy and rapid communication with more favored climes. If our people could achieve a position so prominent while destitute of any of the facilities of intercourse with the interior with which the cities of the sunny south were so abundantly blessed, what may we not expect of the future destiny of Boston now that her iron highways, extending in all directions, bring her into convenient proximity with every section of the land? Those who could effect so much under the most repelling circumstances may be depended upon to avail themselves to the full of their new and ample advantages. The long winter of New England isolation is broken,—she warms and flourishes in friendly and thrifty intercourse with the luxuriant west; and it is not too much to anticipate that the day will come when there will be no greater or more prosperous city upon the American continent than the City of the Pilgrims.

This view of the prospects of Boston leads me to speak of our schools—education being the true basis of our institutions and the real secret of New England progress and power. Our schools are believed never to have been more deserving of confidence and support than at the present time. There are now in the city, sustained at the public charge, one hundred and eighty-eight schools with 19,064 pupils in attendance. There has been expended from the treasury for these schools, within the past year, $346,572, including the amount paid on account of new edifices. There is no expense which the people of Boston more willingly incur than that which is necessary for the support of the public schools; but it cannot be their intention to authorize unnecessary outlays for this or any other object whatever. With this conviction, I cannot but regret what appears to me to have been the extraordinary cost of erecting some of the newer school-houses. The amount expended for the new schoolhouse on Tyler street exceeded $60,000, and that for the new Hancock Schoolhouse was but a fraction under $70,000, sums adequate to founding and endowing a respectable college. The splendor of the edifice is no guaranty for the education of the pupil who is as efficiently fitted for the great duties of life in the older and less pretending seminaries of the city as in the magnificent structures of the present period.

Our public institutions for the relief and support of the destitute and insane, the Penitentiary and House of Reformation, are believed to be conducted upon wise and judicious principles and administered in a manner which should be satisfactory to the people.

The city has recently purchased a site for a new jail at an expense exceeding $113,000,—the existing prison, which was erected some twenty-five years since at great cost, being declared faulty in structure and deficient in the requirements suggested by modern philanthropy. It has been officially estimated that the expense of constructing the contemplated building will not exceed the sum of $150,000 in addition to that expended for the site. I have not had opportunity as yet to examine the matter, and have great confidence in the committee which has had it in charge. I find, however, an impression among mechanics of acknowledged ability that the estimates are too low, and that a vastly larger sum will hardly suffice to carry out the plan. I hope that we shall proceed no further in this work until it is ascertained to a moral certainty that the estimates are correct. Indeed, I can hardly persuade myself that the present jail may not be altered so as to suit the wishes, even of the most fastidious, at an expense far less than that contemplated in the adopted plan. The erring and abandoned should be treated as children of our common Father; but society should not be expected to furnish costly accommodations for those who set its authority at naught. A prison should never be built with reference to show. It were better that it should be screened from observation rather than elicit encomiums upon its architecture. In appearance it can never be other than a melancholy monument of the infirmities of our race, and it is not wise to whiten or garnish the sepulchre of shame.

The Fire Department—that all-important arm of municipal defence—continues in its accustomed state of efficient discipline, and is believed not to be excelled by any similar establishment in the country. The increasing facilities for extinguishing fires resulting from the introduction of the waters of Lake Cochituate, will doubtless enable us to reduce the expense of this department,—a subject which I commend to your careful consideration.

The remarkable degree of health prevailing in the city during the past year is a source of profound gratitude to Divine Providence. The mysterious pestilence, which has traversed the eastern hemisphere, again threatens to invade our precincts. From my position in the government at the period of its former visit to this city I had ample means of witnessing the saving effects of municipal precaution and vigilance, and am confident that if the City Council, with the cordial cooperation of the people, shall carry into effect the sanitary measures of 1832, the cholera, as an epidemic, need have no terrors for our fellow citizens. In this connection I would renew the suggestions of my honored predecessor in reference to burials within the limits of our dense population. Upon this point of economical regulation we are entirely behind the age. The average annual number of deaths for some years has exceeded 3,500. Making all allowances for interments at Mount Auburn and other suburban cemeteries, there cannot be much less than 2,000 human bodies annually consigned to their rest within the boundaries of Boston,—all deposited in tombs. Such an amount of accumulating decomposition cannot but tend, in some degree, to impair the purity of the atmosphere, and the evil as our population increases will daily become more serious. It cannot be doubted that a desirable burial lot may be obtained at no great distance from Boston, and in the vicinity of some of our numerous railroads, which would furnish ample facilities for conveyance of funeral trains. The example of the enlightened city of Roxbury in this respect is worthy of our imitation. For a lot similar to that recently consecrated there the expense would be inconsiderable and would soon be liquidated by charging a small fee for the right of sepulture.

The public lands claim your special attention. Besides the Public Garden (containing 23 acres), there are about 5,000,000 square feet of lands belonging to the city in the eleventh and twelfth wards. It is desirable that every practicable method should be adopted to bring these lands into market. If judiciously managed they will go far towards defraying the public debt. It is my opinion that they should be set at moderate prices, inducing citizens to settle within the limits of Boston and add to the taxable property rather than to hold them back in the hope of obtaining higher offers at a distant day.

The police, in all its various ramifications, demands the constant and vigilant supervision of the Mayor, under whose control it is exclusively placed. Faults are charged upon its organization and method of administration, and this might be expected if it were ever so perfect, for the very nature of the duties of the police is such as to insure the hostility and denunciation of those who reject the salutary restraints of the law and the authority of its ministers. I shall not fail, however, closely to scrutinize the conduct of the department in question and to investigate the sources of complaint. Security of life and property is indispensable to the enjoyment of all the other blessings of civilized association and must be maintained. If the number of the police and watch be inadequate to the protection of our citizens or if the manner of conducting those departments be in fault, the evil should be met promptly and effectively. I rely with confidence upon your support and cooperation, if necessary, in this important business.

I cannot dismiss the question of police without referring to that great and prolific source of crime—the intemperate use of intoxicating liquors,—an evil which seems to have more than kept pace with all which is good and desirable in our community, and has been the means of countervailing, in no small degree, in many privileges which we otherwise enjoy. Every good citizen must be anxious that an evil which, by its rapid strides, bids fair to render our city pre-eminently conspicuous in the annals of intemperance and crime,—should be ameliorated or diminished if, haply, it be found impossible to eradicate it.

In consequence of a constitutional question being held under consideration some years since in the Supreme Court of the United States concerning the right of the Commonwealth to restrict the sale of liquors (of course involving the right to punish for violation of our laws upon that subject), the authorities of the city saw fit to intermit the granting of licenses and to relinquish the usual measures for enforcing our statutes against unlicensed sales. The community continued, virtually, without any law upon this head for several years and the traffic in the proscribed articles steadily increased. The court finally decided in favor of the laws in question and the subject of licensing was once more formally taken into consideration by the Mayor and Aldermen in May, 1847. Actuated by motives to which I bow with sincere respect, the Board decided that licenses should not be granted, and the police was instructed to prosecute for infractions of the statute. This policy has been continued to the present time. I wish I could say, or that any one could demonstrate, that this decision of the executive department has contributed, in the slightest degree, to the promotion of the noble cause which actuated its course. The experiment has surely had a fair trial. No one can question the sincerity, ability and energy with which my predecessor endeavored to enforce the laws in this, as in other respects, aided by an efficient police and backed in his efforts by a large and influential portion of his fellow citizens. What has been the result? Many prosecutions have been instituted and convictions obtained. But has the traffic in the prohibited articles been in any measure suppressed? Have the dram shops ceased or in any degree diminished in number? Has temperance been promoted? Have riot and licentiousness received a perceptible check? Nothing of all or any of this—the reverse is apparent to every one whose eyes and ears are open. The evil has assumed a more menacing aspect than ever. The number of drinking places has augmented to a degree never before witnessed in Boston. The forbidden articles are sold (as formerly) in hundreds of conspicuous and well-known places and also in holes and corners which were never before systematically used for such purposes. The daily reports of the police and the watch, the nightly outcries in our streets, and the calendars of our courts bear witness to the accelerating and appalling increase of intemperance and its attendant crimes. It would seem as if the Saturnalia of Bacchus, or some more malignant of the heathen deities, took date from the vote which was to overthrow his altars and confound his votaries.

What then has been accomplished by the new policy for the cause of virtue and good order? Verily, we may adopt a sentiment from Junius and exclaim, "The good which has been done must have been done by stealth,—the evil is upon record!" It is clearly an experiment failed. To my mind it is apparent that it would be as well for society to have no laws upon the subject as to remain in its present anomalous position, for the existence of a law which you vainly strive to execute tends to bring all other laws into contempt and invite their infraction. The ignorant and wicked who find that they can openly and successfully resist your efforts to enforce a single established statute, will not be slow to bid defiance to your code and deride your constitution. What then shall we do? Shall we go on in the present course because we do not like to retreat from a position taken or route adopted? Shall the strong man struggle onward and downward in the deepening morass, without a single effort to regain the shore? Will he vindicate his wisdom by rejecting the admonitions of his experience, by declaring that his object is a good one, his course the direct one, and that, come what may, he will adhere to that route and none other?

What, then, is the remedy? I know not if there be any. The "experiment failed" has complicated a difficulty which was bad enough before. The refusal to license has practically resulted in a general license. It will, therefore, now be far more difficult, by any system, to restrain the sale within its former limits than it was before the experiment was tried. I know that it may be said that the prohibition of sales is carried into effect in other portions of the Commonwealth and therefore why may it not be so here? The "experiment failed" is palpable evidence that the rules of discipline which may apply in smaller communities are in some respects wholly inoperative in the very large gatherings of the human race. In these the reckless and vicious of every clime are assembled in numbers disproportionate to the actual population.

The license system was incomparably better in its actual workings than the present one, and, with suitable modifications, would seem worthy of another trial, unless some new and practicable substitute for the present unfortunate scheme can be devised. The license system, with all the objections to it (and there are many), possessed the substantial advantage of having a considerable body of respectable persons deeply interested in complaining of and helping to put down unauthorized sales. The individuals licensed might sell more, but the aggregate of sales would be less, and the more offensive resorts of the intemperate would, probably, to a great degree, be suppressed. In regard to returning to the license system, I know that many of my fellow citizens entertain conscientious scruples, and I have heard individuals of acknowledged worth speak as if it were immoral and irreligious to license the sale of the source of so much evil. Whoever takes that ground casts obloquy and reproach upon the memory of our fathers (for whose wisdom and virtue we profess so much veneration), who, from the landing at Plymouth until our own generation, saw fit to countenance the policy which is now repudiated.

The city, at last, enjoys the long-coveted blessing—a copious supply of pure water. The only prominent objection to Boston as a place of residence is removed, by a system of works which promises to be a permanent memorial of the public spirit and judgment of its authors and of the skill and energy of those under whose auspices it approximates completion. At the time of the recent celebration, ample details concerning this subject were laid before the public, and I shall not consume your time by repeating them. The length of the iron pipes now laid through our streets amounts to about sixty miles. Service pipes leading from the street mains, already conduct the water to 5,000 dwelling houses, and many places of business. The aggregate length of the service pipes already laid from the mains to the houses exceeds thirty-five miles. There remains yet considerable to be done to finish the great undertaking by carrying out the plan upon which it has so far been executed. The commissioners inform me that the reservoir upon Beacon Hill will probably be completed by the close of summer, and that on Dorchester Heights before the end of the year. The term of office of the commissioners will expire, by limitation of law, in May next, and I recommend that the City Council make seasonable application to the Legislature for the renewal of their term, for such time and with such modifications of their power as may seem advisable. The expenditures for the water works to the present date, including all charges against the city for work done and for land and materials purchased, exceed $3,300,000. The principal charges which remain to be defrayed are the cost of completing the reservoirs, of laying the additional distribution and service pipes, and of adjusting the claims for unsettled damages. The commissioners estimate that the final cost of this great undertaking will amount to about $3,800,000.

I will now call your attention to the state of the general finances of the city. The city debt, exclusive of that contracted for water, amounted, on the twentieth day of the last month, to $1,354,332.56. This includes the amount paid for the site of the contemplated new jail, already specified. It is estimated by the Auditor that the debt, even if no unanticipated expenditures shall become necessary, will amount at the close of the financial year (namely the thirtieth of April), to the sum of $1,500,000. To meet this debt we have bonds and mortgages, $298,717; balance to credit of Committee on Reduction of City Debt, $85,897; city wharf, valued at $600,000—amounting in all to $984,614. These assets are exclusive of the market, the Common, the many public buildings belonging to the city, the Public Garden, and the 5,000,000 feet of land to which I have previously alluded.

The specific appropriations for the current financial year were $1,374,855. In consequence of the large additional expenditure since authorized, the expenses of the city for the financial year will probably exceed $1,550,000.

The amount of the city and county tax assessed upon our citizens for the current financial year is $1,100,000. The ratio of taxation was raised last year from $6 to $6.50 on the thousand dollars.

The expenses, the taxes, and the debt of the city have all increased within a few years out of proportion to the growth and means of the city. This consideration is full of warning and exhortation. It becomes your Chief Magistrate to speak plainly upon a matter of such moment. If the ratio of increasing expenditures is to go on indefinitely, it needs not the gift of prophecy to foretell that the day will surely come when the question will be with our successors, how shall they meet engagements without pledging or parting with, property of the city, which it should be our pride and happiness to retain. Already do great numbers of citizens (and I regret to say that, among them, are many who possess the amplest means) escape into the country at the annual period of taxation, while very many, whose places of business are with us, have their dwellings permanently beyond our borders, on account of our onerous assessments. The number of such cases is constantly increasing, thereby rendering the weight still heavier upon those who remain. The complaints upon this subject of expenditure are loud and deep from all classes of our constituents. They must be heard—the evil must be remedied. The remedy is with us for the time being, and let us not be backward in applying it. Cut off every expense which is not absolutely necessary for the honor and interest of Boston. Commence no expensive projects, however alluring or desirable, and let us do in all things as is done in domestic economy—consider not what we would like but what we can afford!

The most prolific source of expense and financial embarrassment is, and has been for many years, the widening and extending of our older streets for which, in the several cases, there will never be wanting urgent advocates and plausible excuses. The amount expended under this head (agreeably to a statement of the Auditor) since the organization of the city in 1822, exceeds $1,540,000, including about $40,000 for improvements in the course of completion. Nearly two-fifths of this great sum have been expended within the last three years, amounting to $609,530.

If the laws against obstructions in the streets, by the prolonged stoppings of vehicles and other impediments, be duly enforced, our avenues will be found sufficiently capacious. The streets of the city of London (proper), the most thronged thoroughfares in the world, are on an average no wider or more regular than those of Boston, and yet, by proper police arrangements, they are made conveniently sufficient for the business which accumulates in that great metropolis. I recommend that the usual annual appropriation for widening streets be omitted in the estimates for the next financial year. If, in consequence of fire or other circumstances, an extraordinary case shall come up, let it be deliberately considered and settled upon its own merits and not in reference to any schemes of prospective improvement hitherto adopted.

Gentlemen, during the year whose advent we gratefully salute this morning, we are charged with duties of no ordinary responsibility. The action neither of the state nor national governments bears with such immediate and sensible effects upon the happiness of the great family whom we represent, as the conduct of their civic fathers. For our stewardship, brief though it be, we shall surely be held to account, here and hereafter. Let us seek light and wisdom from on high. Let our supplication be, like that inscribed upon the escutcheon of Boston, in the classic characters of a distant age—as God was to our fathers, so may He be unto us.

POLICE ARRANGEMENTS FOR ELECTION DAY.

OCTOBER 26, 1914.

General Order No. 905.

The Superintendent of Police is hereby directed to make the following details for duty at the State Election in this city on November 3 next:

1. Three patrolmen for duty in the office of the Election Commissioners, from 4 o'clock p. m., November 2, until relieved.

2. A sergeant and ten patrolmen for duty in Court square, keeping carriages in line, from 4 o'clock a. m., and from 4 o'clock p. m., November 3, until relieved.

3. The necessary number of patrolmen from the several police divisions to attend the several polling places in this city on State Election Day, to preserve order and protect voters in the full exercise of their rights.

4. Two hundred and twenty-five patrolmen to convey the registering ballot boxes, voting lists and other documents from the Election Commissioners' office, City Hall Annex, Court square, to the polling places, and deliver them to the warden or clerk of the precinct, allowing no person to take or examine them before such delivery. They will report promptly as follows: Patrolmen from the First, Second, Third and Fourth Divisions at office of the Board of Election Commissioners, City Hall Annex, at 5 o'clock a. m.; patrolmen from the Seventh, Ninth, Tenth, Eleventh, Twelfth, Thirteenth and Fourteenth Divisions will report at their respective station houses at 4 o'clock a. m.; patrolmen from the Fifth, Sixth, Fifteenth and Sixteenth Divisions at 4.30 o'clock a. m.; and those of the Seventeenth Division to report at the station house of Division 13 at 3.30 o'clock a. m. (excepting the patrolmen for Ward 23, Precinct 4, who will report at the station house of Division 13 at 4 o'clock a. m.), and proceed thence in carriages to the Election Commissioners' office.

5. Two patrolmen from Division 18 to report at the Election Commissioners' office on Monday, November 2, at 3 o'clock p. m.; thence to proceed in a vehicle provided for the purpose to the station house of Division 18 with the ballot boxes and paraphernalia required for the election in Ward 26.

6. Seven patrolmen from Division 18 to report at the station house of that division at 4.45 o'clock a. m., November 3, 1914; thence to proceed in a vehicle provided for the purpose, with ballot boxes and other paraphernalia, and distribute the same to the various precincts in Ward 26.

7. On arriving at the polling places to which they are assigned, officers will deliver to the warden or clerk of the precinct the registering ballot box, voting lists and such other documents as may be received from the Election Commissioners, and hand the key of the registering ballot box to the warden. On delivery of the ballots to the warden, the police officer will take from him a receipt for the ballots, which receipt will be returned to the Election Commissioners.

8. After the warden has opened the box and allowed the election officers and the public to see that it is empty, the box is to be again locked and the key given to the police officer, who is to retain it until after the polls have closed, except that the warden may be allowed to open the box for the purpose mentioned in section 3 of the circular issued by the Board of Election Commissioners, entitled, "Instructions to Police Officers on Election Days." They will remain on duty at the polling places during such hours as their superior officers may designate. Commanding officers will exercise their judgment in relieving officers during the day, but will see that one or more officers are always on duty at the polls.

9. When the polls close, the officers detailed for the purpose will receive the unused and spoiled ballots, registering ballot box and key thereof, voting lists envelope, signed by the warden and other election officers, receipts for ballots, stamps for marking spoiled ballots, carry them to the Election Commissioners' office, and deliver them to some member of the Board of Election Commissioners in person.

10. When the ballots are sorted and counted, the officers detailed for the purpose will receive in the box sent for the purpose the tally sheets and ballots, which box is to be sealed and signed by the election officers. The officers will then bring the box, official return, precinct seal, press return and stamps for marking defective ballots to the office of the Election Commissioners, and deliver same to some member of the Board of Election Commissioners.

11. After the close of the polls, a vehicle, provided for the purpose, will be sent to the various precincts in Ward 26, to bring police officers with regular ballot boxes, unused ballots, etc., to the station house of Division 18, from which place only two officers need accompany the vehicle with the regular ballot boxes, unused ballots, etc., to the office of the Election Commissioners.

12. While the polls remain open an officer of rank will visit the polling places in each division at stated intervals, to be designated by the captain, and in case of any disturbance will report the fact to the commanding officer at the station house without delay. If additional men are needed beyond the number available in that division, the officer in charge will communicate immediately with headquarters.

13. Special attention is called to the circular issued by the Board of Election Commissioners, entitled, "Instructions to Police Officers on Election Days," and commanding officers of divisions will see that each officer detailed for duty on Election Day is furnished with a copy.

APPOINTMENTS AND CONFIRMATIONS.

APPOINTMENT.

October 24, Timothy Walsh to be a member of the Board of Appeal.

SUSTAIN PRESENT CHARTER—VIGOROUS APPEAL FOR CONTINUANCE OF SMALL COUNCIL.

By HIS HONOR, JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor of Boston.

The question of a large or small City Council, provided the welfare of the municipality is to be the prime consideration, can be determined in but one way, namely, the rejection of the referendum providing for the establishment of a larger City Council.

The only purpose served by a large City Council is that of providing eight positions at $1,200 per annum, direct from the public treasury, and the creation of a resulting burden one hundred times greater than the aggregate salaries paid, to be borne by the entire people.

Every fair-minded individual and every business organization that has given serious thought to the proposed change are a unit in favor of the retention of the present system and in opposition to the project now being advanced.

Our citizens are gradually realizing that the nation, the state and the municipality have certain limitations in the matter of expenditure and that judgment and logic demand that these limitations be respected.

A large City Council is not new to Boston nor to other American cities, whose fair names have been besmirched because of the existence of such a body. Wherever a large council has obtained, the words, "graft," "corruption" and "mismanagement" are as commonplace as the words, "How do you do?"

I have served under the old system, so called, of a larger council, and also under the present smaller council system and speak with knowledge, based on experience and observation, as to the merits or demerits of the two systems. Tenure of office under the old large council system depended not upon the actual service rendered to the city as a whole but the service rendered to a division of the city, either a ward or a district from which the councilor was elected. The old system was responsible for the pay roll abuses known as "student employment," under which the drone received salary for services which were never rendered. It was responsible for what was commonly known as the split contract system under which the office holder distributed among his friends, without competition and without protection of the people's rights, contracts, which, if awarded on a competitive basis, would result in a saving of at least 40 per cent to the city.

It was customary under the old system of a larger council to frame annually a loan bill usually involving more than $1,000,000. This was the result, not of the combined action of the entire membership, but of a combination made up of a majority of the members, and in the making of which the sole consideration invariably was the benefit that might accrue to certain wards of the city and to individual members of the combine through the unloading upon the taxpayers increased values of properties neither necessary nor desirable.

The result of these log-rolling practices by the old district council was made manifest in the large increase of the city's debt. From 1895 to 1909, inclusive, the net city and county debt, inclusive of rapid transit loans, increased $19,696,206.33, or, at the rate of $1,313,080.42, per year. Contrast this with the results under the present council. Under the present small council system, from January 31, 1910, to December 31, 1913, the total increases in the net city and county debt, inclusive of rapid transit loans, has been but $1,086,054.02, or an annual increase only one-fifth as great as under the larger council system. And this, despite the fact that the demand for the expenditure for public purposes during the past four years, has increased rather than diminished.

It will be argued by those favoring a larger council that as the body is denied financial responsibility under the charter there is little danger of a return to the conditions which caused Boston to be regarded as a horrible and hopeless example of popular government. But, if what the advocates of a larger council state is true, that financial responsibilities will be denied the large council, then why spend $9,600 more annually for the services of eight additional men whose duties will be simply to serve without power to be useful?

All these arguments for a large council are intended to mislead the public so as to get this proposed change in the charter, and afterwards secure other changes so as to break down all the securities in the charter against irresponsible and extravagant government. If the amendment now proposed is accepted the incoming Legislature will be urged to grant the large council the right to initiate expenditures and thereby effectually block any honest attempt to lower the cost of government or to increase efficiency in the conduct of the departments. The camel's head enters the tent, then his entire body follows.

It is argued that ward or district representation will result in more direct representation and an extension of the principles of popular government. The miselading character of this contention is best appreciated when one realizes that under the proposed larger council system the electorate of the city are permitted in certain districts to vote for two members of the City Council, and in other districts but for one, whereas, under the present system every voter in every part of the city can vote for every member of the City Council. In the case of a larger council, therefore, we find the exact reverse of direct and popular representation, whereas in the smaller council we have both direct and popular representation.

The whole public has been served better by the council under the present system than it was under the old system when we had a larger council elected by districts. The city, during the past twelve months, has authorized the expenditure of $500,000 for additional hospital buildings, for which there has been a crying demand for the past ten years and which has been neglected. Under the proposed larger council system with the demands for local improvements often intended to benefit a few individuals at the expense of the whole community, it would be impossible to provide the money for such a necessary purpose as increased hospital facilities.

During the past ten years Boston has been visited three times with an epidemic of infectious diseases common to children and it has been the custom, because of lack of accommodations at the City Hospital, to treat the overflow at the smallpox hospital on Southampton street. This is not proper treatment for a great city to its unfortunates. It is dangerous for the children and it added to the misery of their parents. It is one of the most powerful indictments of the old system under which selfish and oftentimes corrupt personal interests were considered paramount to the people's real needs.

For many years earnest men and women have labored for the abolition of the parental school at West Roxbury, where it was customary to commit boys for truancy during a period of from six months to two years, and this despite the fact that the per capita cost of education in Boston is greater than in any other city of the United States, largely because of the fact that some twenty-five or more individuals in the event of the abolition of this institution would lose their positions.

Under the present small council system this institution has been abolished, consequently 110 boys, there incarcerated, have been restored to their families, and through the appointment of five additional male and female truant officers to advise with the parents and the children, and the adoption by the School Committee of a free vocational course where any boys who loves mechanics better than books will be afforded the priceless opportunity to indulge in both tastes and be saved to a useful future. The abolition of this institution makes available for hospital purposes, where children and convalescent cases can be treated, an area in excess of 1,000,000 feet of land and buildings representing a total value, with the land, of approximately $500,000, thus anticipating the need of the municipality for the next half century. This reform could never have been accomplished under the old district council system, which the reactionaries now ask us to restore.

Every increase in the tax rate represents an added burden to the householder in the form of increased rental. Many think that only the owners of property suffer through corrupt, ignorant or profligate administration of public affairs but the fact remains that the individual whose family occupies a tenement or a flat is the real sufferer. This is because the invariable rule upon the part of the property owner is to apply the yearly increase in his tax rate not once during the year but each month during the year, so that an annual increase in the tax rate of $1 instead of representing an increase of 8½ cents per month in the rental paid by the dweller in tenement or flat is invariably represented by an increase of $1 monthly in rental.

Under a larger council system it would be utterly impossible to inaugurate necessary economies for the benefit of the entire people. Under the larger council system city laborers received a daily wage of $2, while under the present small council system they receive $2.50 a day, and the indications are that the humane proposition to give to laborers two weeks vacation annually will be adopted.

Under the larger council system it would be impossible to institute these advanced reforms because experience shows that public funds would be diverted to private channels, that a few so-called bosses might enjoy luxury at the expense of the toilers.

Under the present small council system a gas street lighting contract has been adopted which will result in a saving during a ten-year period of approximately $360,000. An electric lighting contract is now pending, the adoption of which will result in a further saving during a ten-year period of about $820,000, or a total during this period of $1,180,000, or an annual saving of more than sufficient to offset many times the expenditure made necessary through the adoption of a two weeks' vacation bill for city laborers.

The City of Boston has authorized the expenditure during the past twelve months of $500,000, to provide more humane conditions and a better system of housing the poor at Long Island. Under a larger system it would be impossible to secure a loan of this magnitude for the reason that political capital would make necessary the frittering away of this money for so-called local improvements neither necessary nor important to the present or future growth of the municipality.

That frightful holocaust, the Arcadia lodging house fire, was a monument to the old system of political pull as against public good. Under the present small council system, with a building commissioner unhampered by political obligations and free to labor for the welfare of the community, every building used for public lodging purposes has been stripped of its cubicles, fire escapes have been installed on the outside, the interior has been fireproofed; a sprinkler system established on every floor, with a sprinkler head over every bed, furnishing needed protection to all of the occupants. This work has entailed the expenditure of a vast sum of money, tremendous pressure has been exercised to prevent a compliance with the law. Under the old system the evil conditions would have continued without abatement.

Under a large council system political expediency rather than public good would of necessity be the basis of action. During the existence of a larger council system the establishment of private hospitals was permitted in every section of the city without proper regard for the protection of the inmates. The Building Commissioner, who desired to retain his position, was compelled to act according to the dictates of the members of the large council rather than the direction of the statutes and ordinances. During the past six months under the smaller council system more than one hundred unsightly, unhealthy and dangerous fire-breeding, dilapidated structures have been torn down upon the orders of the Building Commissioner, which under a large council system, would have been impossible.

Under the present system contracts for public work are awarded in every case to the lowest responsible bidder and in every case from five to fifty per cent below the estimate of the department engineers. Under the larger council system public work on our highways, water mains and sewers represented a loss annually as against present day methods and figures of not less than $500,000.

Under the present small council system there has been appropriated this year for the acceptance, laying-out and construction of private way streets, $800,000, which, together with $300,000 authorized last year, represents a total of $1,100,000 for this most necessary purpose. Under the old system this would have been impossible since the care of our public thoroughfares was considered of less importance than personal bank accounts or political patronage.

Under the present small council system the needs of the city as a whole have been the sole consideration underlying expenditure of public money. The amount of money appropriated for the various districts under the old system in 1908 and 1909 and under the present system in 1910 and 1911 is set forth in the accompanying table, and the figures are extremely interesting.

	1908-09. Old System.	1910-11. New System.
East Boston.....	$119,000	$275,625
Charlestown.....	45,000	347,125

Brighton.....	10,100	20,175
Hospital.....	109,250	130,000
General.....	115,787	1,822,671

* And in addition there will, this year, be expended in Dorchester, West Roxbury and Brighton, for sewers and streets, $1,100,000.

The results shown above have been possible under a small council system and students of financial administration to-day visit Boston for the purpose of studying the best system of administration to be found in the country.

Under the present small council system favoritism in the purchase of supplies has been abolished, and the practice of purchasing in wholesale quantities at retail prices has been ended. To-day it is the custom to purchase all supplies required for a period of twelve months for every department and in each case the award has been made to the lowest responsible bidder and resulting in a saving of approximately $200,000 on food supplies alone, which, under the old system of a large council, would have found its way to the pockets of favored friends rather than to the public treasury.

Contrast the present efficient and business-like method with the parody of a large council which existed from 1895 to 1907 when the debt of the municipality increased seven and a half times as fast as assessed valuation, when graft and inefficiency were the watchwords and when financially the city was in a condition verging on bankruptcy.

A vote in favor of a larger council is a vote against the best interests of the best city in the entire world. A vote in favor of a continuance of the present system is a vote in favor of honesty, efficiency and progressive administration of public affairs in our municipality.

THE BOSTON FIRE DEPARTMENT.

By FIRE COMMISSIONER JOHN GRADY.

Every day of our lives each one of us is brought in close contact with man's servant—fire. Fire is truly man's servant as it is essential in the production of heat, light, clothes, food, and, in fact, almost every single thing we use or enjoy. So long as fire remains within the control of man it remains his servant, but as soon as it gets beyond his control it becomes his master, his superior.

To combat the ravages of uncontrolled fire the City of Boston expends on an average two million dollars annually. It costs this amount to maintain the present fire department at the high point of efficiency it has attained.

I desire to say that the Fire Department of the City of Boston stands second to none in the country in efficiency or equipment. Its apparatus is being brought up to the minute as fast as possible and much time is spent in training its men in the science of fire fighting. The Boston Fire Department conducts schools for probationers, engineers, chauffeurs and telegraphers. Every man, before he is accepted as a permanent member, must pass through the drill school, where he is taught the value and use of the different apparatus. After he has become a permanent member he may enter the other schools and become an engineer or chauffeur.

With the advent of motor apparatus it was found necessary to instruct the men in the driving and handling of the powerful cars used in a fire department. The chauffeur's school is in charge of competent instructors, specialists in their line, and is showing excellent results.

The engineer's school is conducted for the purpose of instructing men in the operation of steam fire engines. Like the chauffeur's school, it is in the hands of experts and furnishes the department with the necessary engineers to care for its apparatus.

The telegraphers' school is conducted for those who desire to become chiefs' drivers, as each chief's driver must be a competent telegrapher.

The men attend these schools during their hours of duty and are not called upon to give any of their own time to the classes.

The City of Boston takes better care of its firemen than any city of the country. The houses are fitted up with almost every known contrivances for comfort and pleasure. Much money is spent in keeping the houses in a pleasant and sanitary condition. Among other things most of the houses are equipped with a recreation room, where game and pool tables are installed, and a library. The living conditions in the fire houses of the City of Boston are excellent.

The City of Boston pays its firemen well. Of an appropriation of $2,000,000 over $1,430,000 will be used in salaries alone this year. A man on entering the department, is paid at the rate of $720 per year for six months, at the end of which time his pay is raised to $900 per year. Each year thereafter he receives annual increases of $100 until the maximum of $1,400 per year is reached. This amounts to $26.85 per week. Engineers receive $1,500 per year, lieutenants $1,600, captains $1,800, district chiefs $2,300, and so on up to the chief of department.

Appointments are made to the Fire Department from eligible lists established by the Civil Service Commission after competitive examination. Promotions in the department are made in the same manner. This rids the department of politics, puts all the men on the same basis, and leaves the way open for any young man who desires to better and improve himself by study and application.

Members of the department are allowed one day off in five and four and one-quarter hours each day for meals. They receive two weeks' vacation each year. In addition they are allowed church leave on Sunday and time off on account of special detail duty.

The pension system in vogue in this city is a liberal one. If a man is permanently incapacitated for fire duty, after fifteen years of service, he is entitled to a pension equal to one-half the amount of the annual salary he is receiving at the time of his retirement. If he is totally incapacitated in the line of duty he is entitled to a pension equal to two-thirds his annual salary. When a man reaches the age of fifty-five, and has served in the department for twenty-five years, he must be pensioned on his own request, at one-half the amount of his annual salary. The Boston Firemen's Relief Fund, which is supported by receipts from the annual ball and donations of kindly-spirited citizens, provides gratuities for men off duty through sickness and injury, and for the dependent widows and children of deceased firemen. On the whole, the firemen of this city are treated as well, if not better, than those of any other city of the country.

The City of Boston strives to keep its equipment abreast of the times. Motor apparatus has come to stay, and this city is motorizing its apparatus as fast as the money is made available. To-day, every chief is equipped with an automobile and there are in service twenty pieces of motor-driven fire apparatus, consisting of pumping engines, combination hose and chemical wagons, ladder trucks, tractors, supply and wrecking wagons. Six more pieces of motor apparatus will be installed in a short time. Boston ranks well up among the cities of the country in its percentage of motor equipment.

Almost every large city of the country has a high pressure system. It is gratifying to know that within a couple of years Boston will have the most modern and most powerful high pressure system in the country. This system is being installed in the business section of the city proper, in what is known as the congested value district. As soon as a site for the pumping station has been secured the work of installation can continue without further interruption. The high pressure system will be of invaluable assistance in fighting large fires and conflagrations. Steam fire engines will not be necessary in connection with this system, as each hydrant will have a capacity of two thousand gallons per minute—almost the capacity of three steam fire engines. The pumping station will be able to deliver thirty thousand gallons per minute.

During the past year, the Boston Fire Department responded to 4,824 alarms of fire. The fire loss in this city amounted to $3,225,000, exclusive of the loss on the steamer "Templemore," which was $1,025,000. One cannot think of these figures without demanding to know the cause. Fire protection and fire prevention are so closely allied that one can seldom talk of one without referring to the other. As I have just stated, the fire loss in Boston last year was over three million dollars. The per capita loss by fire in Boston is larger than in any city of the country. Where shall we look for a remedy? We know that over 50 per cent of the fires in this city are caused by carelessness. It is safe to say that 25 per cent more are due to ignorance. The remedy lies in the efficiency of our Fire Department and rigid control over fire matters. Proper precautions should be taken by householders and property owners to see that their property is free from conditions that are liable to cause fire. Frequent inspections of property should be made to see that no dangerous conditions exist. I might enumerate here a few things to which special attention should be paid.

1. Accumulations of combustible rubbish, such as papers, cardboard, packing material, boxes, barrels, broken furniture, etc. These accumulations are usually found in cellars, basements, hallways, elevator and light shafts and attics.

2. The placing of ashes and rubbish in wooden barrels or boxes. Metal barrels with metal covers should be used.

3. The careless handling or storage of combustible materials, such as paints, oils, etc. Oily waste and rags should be kept in self-closing metal cans and removed from the premises as often as possible.

4. The protection of woodwork where it is in close proximity to heaters and heater pipes.

5. Defective chimneys. Holes should not be allowed in chimneys, and unused funnel holes should be kept closed with metal caps. Chimney flues and vent pipes should be kept clean.

6. Carelessness in the use of matches. They should always be kept in metal holders, and should not be lighted in closets.

7. The thawing of frozen water pipes. Hot water should be used in thawing pipes. Never use anything aflame.

8. The use of gasoline for cleansing purposes. Gasoline should never be used in a closed room, for the fumes it gives off, when confined, will ignite from a lighted match, lamp or gas.

9. Care in the lighting of swinging gas jets or lamps near curtains.

10. The use of kerosene in starting fires.

At the present time a systematic inspection of buildings is being made throughout the city by the Fire Department, and the attention of property owners and occupants is called to defective conditions. If an inspector calls at your home or place of business listen to what he may have to say. These men are trained fire fighters. They have been schooled; they know how fires start and how they spread. Remember their interest is your interest and any suggestion they might make to you is backed by years of experience. With the hearty co-operation of property owners, and authority to enforce certain regulations the fire loss of the City of Boston could, in a very few years, be cut in halves.

Another matter that is very closely allied with fire protection is fire notification. It is astonishing to realize how few people know how to send in an alarm of fire. It is more astonishing to know how few people know the location of the nearest fire-alarm box to their home or place of business. Go to the nearest fire house and find out the location of the fire-alarm box nearest your home. If you have an occasion to sound an alarm, be sure to follow closely the directions given on the box. Remember that when you open the door the alarm has not been given. A bell on the door will ring, but, in order to give an alarm, the hook must be pulled down once. It is when you pull down the hook that you sound the alarm. Lives have been known to be lost because of failure to give prompt notice to the Fire Department, and ignorance in the sounding of an alarm.

In closing, I want to say one word in regard to the firemen of Boston. We have in the fire-fighting force 989 men who have pledged to go wherever duty calls them. They endanger their own lives in order to save the lives and property of others. As to their bravery, integrity and character, I proudly and honestly say that throughout the length and breadth of this country there are none better.

A GOOD RECORD.

The results of efficiency and economy, associated with a business administration, are well evidenced by the receipts of the office of John J. Curley, City Collector, during the present week, as compared with a similar period of a year ago, despite the fact that the present force of employes in the Collector's office is five less than during the same period in 1913.

FICUS CARICA.

BY CAPT. JOHN H. DILLON, Chairman Park and Recreation Department.

Just the name of the ordinary edible fig. The fig is of very ancient mention as an edible fruit, the Old Testament referring to it quite frequently. It is a native of Asia and was introduced into America first, I believe, in California at the mission houses, in the early part of 1700. The culture thereof spread rapidly throughout the state and numerous fine fig orchards are the result. This delicious fruit may be picked from the trees, and when eaten in this condition for the first time is certainly a delightful surprise to those who have partaken of them in the dried state only. Figs are much used as a dessert; a very pleasing wine, also syrup are obtained from them. To the same family belongs the Ficus Elastica, or India rubber plant, so much employed for decorative purposes. This is the rubber plant of the horticulturist, a native of the East Indies, and should not be confounded with the rubber producing plant of Brazil, whose sap furnishes the staple article of commerce. The latter has the very interesting appellation of Hevea Braziliensis, and belongs to the Euphorbia family, many of which have a milky juice which is an acrid poison. The plants do not require rich compost, a coarse, sandy soil being more suitable.

THE SERVICE OF THE INDUSTRIAL BOARD.

Mayor Curley received upon the 29th instant the following communication from Chairman John N. Cole of the Boston Industrial Board, relative to the service of the organization in the commercial and industrial development of Boston.

BOSTON, MASS., October 29, 1914.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor:

MY DEAR MR. MAYOR,—I was unable to get in touch with you to advise you of the preliminary meeting held at our office yesterday to further consider plans for an organization that should provide an effective clearing house for industrial, social, and commercial activities in Boston, as outlined in your conference with business men at the City Hall a week ago. The conference yesterday was in a way informal, but was attended by representatives from important organizations in the city who were unanimous in their belief that such an organization, as was contemplated by you, has tremendous possibilities for service to Boston and Massachusetts. Personally I am convinced from the interest shown yesterday that this movement is the most important yet undertaken by you to work out a comprehensive plan along the lines which are so much needed to give to Boston and Massachusetts a new impetus in the development of the wonderful resources that they both possess.

You have already reviewed the six months' work of this Board in a recent interview given to the papers, but in addition to the aid which the Boston Industrial Development Board has given to the establishment of new industries, and the building of new industrial plants, representing a very large investment during the past six months, with proposals for work involving still greater amounts in the near future, there has been a great deal of work that does not yet show on the surface.

The Board was organized in April of this year. Immediately following its organization it was necessary to determine some of the functions in which the Board might properly become interested. The determination of these functions was left almost entirely to the chairman, and you may be interested to know some of the other accomplishments, and some of the work which promises accomplishment, realized in the few months that have passed.

We have used our organization all the time that has been available in investigating propositions for new business and for improving conditions for the conduct of existing business entirely within the limits of the City of Boston. The latter work is of the greatest importance. It consists of personal interviews with managers of business houses whose problems are many and varied. The investigation is not yet complete, but its purpose has been to find out every possible way in which business in Boston at the present time may be hampered by any kind of public or private service upon which it depends, or to determine any possible way by which improved or new public or private service can aid its efficiency and its development. Complaints relative to freight, mail, power, light, rent, municipal, state and national service are included in this inquiry, and when the inquiry is complete such a classification will be made of these complaints, and the suggestions which accompany them, as to put this Board in a position where it can bring to proper authorities a statement covering many different kinds of business, and possible remedies and improvements.

The action taken last week by the Port Directors and the Elevated Railroad to provide transportation facilities for the Boston Fish Pier is in direct answer to a movement initiated and pushed by this Board.

A great deal of attention has been given and must continue to be given to the development of transportation facilities in Boston, a development that must go much further than the carrying of passengers, or the carrying of freight from point to point along lines that have been previously recognized as covering complete service of transportation companies. The interest given to this subject by this Board contemplates a very much better service, involving a direct connection between Boston as a market for immense quantities of the product of interior New England, and the possibility of bringing those things which are marketed from Boston more directly to the consumers of New England.

While the State is doing a great and important work to develop the Port of Boston, this Board has not been unmindful of your desire that Boston shall find a way to make of all the city service a much more efficient connecting link between the port which the State is developing and the business of Boston and New England to which the City of Boston is naturally the key.

The many organizations bound to conflict because of the great amount of cross-purpose work which has been manifest for many years, make one of the most serious factors in the way of hearty co-operation by all parties to bring about the fullest possible service that Boston can render to Massachusetts and New England. This latest movement on your part for regular Get-Together-Conferences by representatives of all of these organizations has tremendous possibilities for good at this time when the natural leadership for commercial and industrial New England should come from Boston, and at a time when such leadership can only be made effective by close cooperation on the part of all interested parties.

Cordially yours,
JOHN N. COLE, Chairman.

RENT WILL BE PAID.

Mayor Curley has turned over to John Beck, the city's real estate expert, the report of the Finance Commission in regard to city employees occupying houses belonging to the city rent free.

The Mayor declares that this custom was another of the bad methods that came down as a heritage from the days of the large City Council. The best interests of the city demand that it be ended once and for all. Mr. Beck will make an investigation and upon his report the Mayor will act, selling property where advised and charging a rental where not.

Mr. Thomas A. Forsyth has deposited a $2,000,000 fund with a Boston banking institution to insure the successful carrying on of the work of the Forsyth Dental Infirmary.

Through the munificent gift of Mr. Forsyth the City of Boston is able to see established under the best auspices a great public utility, and one in which the poor and deserving will receive the best character of dental surgery.

Hon. Federico Alfonso Pezet, minister of Peru, a guest of the city Columbus Day, upon visiting the Forsyth Dental Infirmary, declared: "The endowment by Mr. Forsyth of this splendid institution marks not only a great and enduring gift to the City of Boston but the infirmary is one of the finest buildings of its character that I have seen in the municipalities of either Europe or America. The layman has but a slight idea of how largely serious diseases are fostered by imperfect or neglected dentistry, and Mr. Forsyth will be duly honored as one of the greatest benefactors this beautiful city has ever known."

SUCCESS OF NEW STEAMERS.

Mayor Curley was immeasurably gratified to learn that the Emery Steamship Company, in whose success he has been greatly interested since his inauguration, had added another steamship, the "Corozal," 5,500 tons, to their Boston and Pacific fleet, sailing through the Panama Canal.

"I appreciated immediately after assuming office," declared Mayor Curley, "the opportunity offered the commercial development of Boston by the successful operation of a steamship line to the Pacific coast via the Panama Canal. I conferred with the officers of the steamship company relative to several matters of interest and promised them my undivided support.

"It is especially pleasing to learn that the cargo which sailed from Boston upon the steamship 'Atlantic' of the Emery Line was delivered in both the cities of Los Angeles and San Francisco in excellent condition, and assuring the splendid success of the Emery steamships as freight carriers from Boston to the cities of the Pacific coast.

"It is further very pleasing that both the New Haven and Boston & Maine roads, realizing the opportunity for trade development now afforded, have arranged to deliver at the Emery Line docks in Charlestown, the former with a special rate and the latter without charge for transfer of shipments of 6,000 pounds or more.

"Every Boston merchant should encourage this steamship company in every manner possible, as marking an important departure in our commercial development, and one that opens a great field for the trade extension of both Boston and New England."

FINANCE COMMISSION.

BOSTON, October 26, 1914.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor:

SIR,—In answer to your communication requesting the Finance Commission to investigate and report on the best method of increasing the revenue derived from various properties controlled by the Park and Recreation Department, which are at the present time occupied, rent free, by employees of that department, the commission reports as follows:

I. PARK AND RECREATION DEPARTMENT.

A. 381 Chestnut Hill Avenue.

The Chestnut Hill Avenue Playground, located at the junction of Beacon street and Chestnut Hill avenue, is under the jurisdiction of the Park and Recreation Department. Situated in one corner of the playground is a two and one-half story house of eight rooms, in fair condition, and numbered 381 Chestnut Hill avenue. The house is furnished with water by the city without cost to the tenant, but the heat and light are paid for by the occupant. It is occupied by Michael O'Brien, a foreman in the Park and Recreation Department, and is given to him for extra services he may render from time to time. A member of Mr. O'Brien's family stated that from 1900 to 1912 Mr. O'Brien paid a rental of $8 a month to the city, but about two years ago was given the house rent free. As a sale of this house would not in any way interfere with the use of the playground, it should be sold or a proper rental should be charged the occupant.

B. Parker Hill Reservoir, Summit of Parker Hill.

There is a one and one-half story frame house located on the summit of Parker Hill, adjoining the reservoir. It is occupied by Mark Cuniff, an employee of the Park and Recreation Department, who is given the house rent free for extra services he may render from time to time in supervising the playground which is located on the top of the hill. Inasmuch as the playground is very small, the amount of additional service required consequently must be very slight. Mr. Cuniff furnishes his own heat and light, but water is furnished by the city without charge. As the house is situated on an eminence and is rather difficult of access, it may not be practicable to sell it. The occupant, however, should be charged a rental which would net the city a fair return upon its investment.

C. 260 Highland Street, Roxbury.

This is a two-story frame house, located in a corner of the Marcella Street Playground. It is a ten-room house and is occupied by Thomas Carroll and family. No rental is charged Mr. Carroll, who is an employee of the Park and Recreation Department, but he is supposed to render extra services in the supervision of the Marcella Street Playground. Mr. Carroll has lived in the house for eight years and stated that, while he furnishes his own coal and light, the city furnishes water without charge. The house and land should be sold, or a proper rental should be charged for the use of the house.

D. Williams Farm, Centre Street, West Roxbury.

Williams Farm is an estate owned by the City of Boston, which runs from Centre street, West Roxbury, to the West Roxbury Parkway. A two-story house of twelve rooms, in fair condition, is situated in a part of the farm and is occupied by Thomas J. Murphy, who is employed in the office of the Park and Recreation Department at Franklin Park. He has occupied the house for the last eighteen years and is given the use of it without rent. A proper rental should be placed upon the property and collected from the occupant.

E. Strandway Stable, Columbia Road, South Boston.

The Park and Recreation Department maintains a yard on the Strandway, known as the Strandway Yard, in which is located a stable. There are four rooms above the stable which are occupied by Patrick Daly and family. Not only is no rent charged Mr. Daly for these rooms, but in addition he is given heat, electric lighting and water, without cost to himself. He is supposed to perform extra services in taking care of the yard in addition to his regular duties as an employee of the Park Department, but these extra services are merely nominal. The department should set a proper charge for the occupancy of the rooms and for the other facilities which are furnished Mr. Daly.

F. House and Land, Mt. Ida Playground, Dorchester.

This parcel consists of a two and one-half story, white frame house and several out-buildings, located at 151 Adams street, Dorchester. The house consists of eight rooms and is supplied by the City of Boston with water without charge. The premises are in very good condition, with the exception of rotting planks in the floor of the piazza. The house, which adjoins Mt. Ida Playground and has a considerable amount of land about it, is finely situated and commands a magnificent view of the harbor and a part of Dorchester. It is occupied by James N. Brady, an employee of the Park and Recreation Department, without rent, supposedly in return for extra services. The house could be sold without detriment to the use of the playground. If not sold, the city should receive a proper rental for it.

II. CEMETERY DEPARTMENT.

In the course of its investigation of this matter the commission learned that the Cemetery Department trustees also were allowing the cemetery employees to occupy houses controlled by the department without requiring monetary consideration therefor. The commission believes that your Honor would desire to know the facts ascertained by the commission and consequently adds the following information about the occupation of the Cemetery Department houses:

A. Fairview Cemetery, Hyde Park.

The Cemetery Department Trustees, with the approval of the former mayor, allowed the custodian of Fairview Cemetery, Frank T. Donovan, to occupy a small house situated outside the cemetery grounds without charging him rent. This arrangement has been in effect for the last two years. Prior to that time the occupant of the house, another Cemetery Department employee, was charged a rental of $10 a month. With the appointment of Mr. Donovan to the position of custodian of the cemetery, he was given it without rent, and in addition the department expended $1,341.28 on it for repairs and maintenance, as follows:

YEAR.	Carpentry Repairs.	Painting.	Plumbing Repairs.	Electric Fixtures.	Telephone.	Furnishings.	Stove Repairs.	Total.
1913.....	$502 00	$235 00	$222 00	$97 00	57 82	$195 80	$4 00
Totals.....	$502 00	$235 00	$222 00	$97 00	$85 48	$195 80	$4 00	$1,341 28

The house is one and one-half stories in height, consists of five rooms, and is in very good condition. Mr. Donovan stated that he pays for his own heating and lighting. With the exception of Mr. Morton, the custodian of Mt. Hope Cemetery, the principal cemetery of the department, who receives a salary of $1,300, the custodians of the other "active" (i. e., where burials are taking place) cemeteries receive $1,200 a year, the same salary paid Mr. Donovan, but do not receive in addition to their salaries living quarters. The furnishing of the house free to the custodian of Fairview Cemetery in effect gives him larger remuneration than that paid the other custodians mentioned above and weakens the discipline of the department. A proper rental should be charged by the city for the occupation of the house.

B. Mt. Hope Cemetery.

The general superintendent of the Cemetery Department, Leonard W. Ross, occupies a two and one-half story, white frame house, situated in one section of Mt. Hope Cemetery. The house is in excellent condition, consisting of thirteen rooms and bath, with a large area of cultivated land about it, beside an orchard of fruit trees. In addition to the $3,000 per annum salary which Mr. Ross receives as general superintendent, he is allowed the free use of the house, together with electric light, water, heat, telephone, automobile and farm help. At the time of the visit of the representative of the Finance Commission to the cemetery, he interviewed Mrs. Ross, who showed him through the house and stated that she thought the City of Boston ought to furnish her with a maid free, in addition to the assistants which she was already receiving from the city. The maintenance of this house has cost the City of Boston in the last five years $2,758.35, as the table on next page will show. This cost is exclusive of the electric lighting charge, amounting to $718.70, which cannot be subdivided, because the greenhouse, chapel and office are on the same meter as the house, but the secretary of the department stated that the major part of the charge is for the superintendent's house.

YEAR.	Carpentry Repairs.	Painting.	Plumbing Repairs.	Electric Fixture Repairs.	Fuel.	Telephone.	Heating Repairs.	Furnishings.
1909.....	$629 59	$283 00	$124 85	$35 07	$134 64	$42 02	$8 35	$234 13
1910.....					135 36	44 04	3 73
1911.....					138 48	32 20	31 15
1912.....			1 25		152 40	18 20
1913.....	125 00	285 00	21 69		157 44	20 51		100 25
Totals.....	$754 59	$568 00	$147 79	$35 07	$718 32	$156 97	$43 23	$334 38

An analysis of the item for furnishings shows that it consists of linoleum and window shades from Jordan Marsh Company, at a cost of $94.88 and $26.95, respectively; carpets from Henry Siegel Company, at a cost of $22.50; papering, $112.30; new laundry range at $67.25; and in addition, seven grate bars at a cost of $10.50, making a total of $334.38 for this one item. In addition to all these privileges, Mr. Ross has access to a large conservatory maintained by the city, and has the privilege of keeping hens, cows, and formerly sheep, the attendants for which are paid by the City of Boston. The salary paid the general superintendent of the Cemetery Department should be his total compensation, and he should be required to pay a rental for the premises occupied. In addition the city should refrain from giving him attendants for his live stock and providing him with household furnishings, electric light, heat, water and telephone.

Another matter which has been called to the attention of the commission by your Honor is the lease of park lands in South Boston to various yachting clubs, with the privilege of erecting clubhouses on the strandway. These clubs pay rentals varying from $50 to $200 a year to the city. They are the South Boston Yacht Club, the Columbia Yacht Club, the Mosquito Fleet Club, the Puritan Canoe Club, and the Boston Yacht Club. All these clubs, with the exception of the Boston Yacht Club, pay a monetary rental, but the latter has a lease for twenty-five years of its locus in settlement of a land damage case against the City of Boston. As the leases of these clubs, however, do not expire in the earliest case until 1917, and the last one, that of the Boston Yacht Club, until 1923, the commission does not think it is necessary to go into the question of the adequacy of the rental paid at the present time. The attention of the Park and Recreation Department, however, should be called to this fact, so that when the leases expire the question of a proper ground rental can then be considered.

The Finance Commission is of the opinion that in many of the above instances the city has provided employees with living quarters not for the consideration claimed, but as a mark of special favor to certain employees. It believes that such a procedure wrecks discipline in the departments and in effect gives a larger salary to certain individuals than the status of their position warrants.

Respectfully submitted,

THE FINANCE COMMISSION,

by JOHN R. MURPHY,

Chairman.

BOSTON, October 7, 1914.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor:

SIR,—The Finance Commission submits its report on the following letter:

CITY OF BOSTON,

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

October 16, 1914.

HON. JOHN R. MURPHY, Chairman,

Finance Commission:

DEAR SIR,—In view of the fact that the City of Boston pays the major portion of the expenses of construction of rapid transit facilities and seems to be considered less, I believe that this city is entitled to at least the same consideration as the city of Cambridge in the matter of subway entrances and exits.

I feel that the matter is worthy of consideration by the commission and I trust that it will be arranged to have a study of conditions made with a view towards eliminating the unsightly structures now adorning Tremont street and substituting something more in keeping with beauty.

Very sincerely,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

The commission assumes that your Honor's letter refers to the structures over the entrances and exits to the Cambridge Tunnel, on the easterly side of Tremont street, as it is clear that no physical difficulties will be encountered in substituting new structures for the present structures on the Common.

The matter in question has been already taken up with the Transit Commission by the last Mayor. His correspondence with the Transit Commission may be found in the Eighteenth Annual Report of the Transit Commission for the year ending June 30, 1912. As a result of this correspondence, certain changes have been made in the entrance and exit coverings over the Cambridge Tunnel, on the easterly side of Tremont street, opposite Park street. The objections of the Transit Commission to more radical changes than have been made are outlined in a letter of May 9, 1912.

The objections of the former Mayor to the structures as originally constructed seem to have been on account of their obstructing the view and on account of their detriment to the business of the city.

The commission assumes that your Honor objects to the structures not only for aesthetic reasons, but because they obstruct traffic and shut off the light from the adjoining buildings and the view of Tremont street.

As regards the aesthetic features, the commission does not at this time venture to give an opinion. The consulting engineer of the commission has made an examination of the structures to see if they can be reduced in size so as to lessen the obstruction of traffic on Tremont street and give a better view.

He reports that there are at present four structures; two of them cover stairways of conventional type, and two, which are of somewhat larger size, cover so-called escalators, which are elevators for carrying passengers from the station platforms to the street. The escalators are of different types. The type installed in the southerly covering requires a structure about twelve feet longer than the escalator in the northerly covering.

The Transit Commission feels that it would be unsafe to dispense with a covering over the escalators, on account of injury to the machinery and interference with the operation of the escalators by rain and snow.

As regards the two structures which cover stairways there seems to be no physical reason why they could not be entirely removed and smaller uncovered structures, similar to those about the Cambridge entrances and those installed by the Transit Commission at the Copley Station of the Boylston Street Subway, substituted.

As regards the structures covering the escalators, there seems to be no reason why their height should not be reduced under present conditions by approximately eighteen inches, without detriment, except possibly as regards architectural beauty. If an escalator were installed in the southerly structure of the same type as the one in the northerly structure the length of the southerly structure could be reduced by about twelve feet.

The commission is of the opinion that by the exercise of a little ingenuity, and with slight changes in design, the escalators could be so protected from rain and snow as to operate successfully if the surrounding structures should be made similar to the Copley Station entrances. In addition, the commission recommends, subject to the approval of the Transit Commission, and to obtaining the consent of the Boston Elevated Railway Company, which has control of the existing leases of the Cambridge Tunnel and incidental structures, that the following changes be made.

1. That the two structures covering stairways be eliminated and the Cambridge type of entrances substituted.

2. That the height of both the structures containing escalators be reduced by approximately eighteen inches from their highest point.

3. That the length of the southerly escalator covering be reduced by approximately twelve feet by installing an escalator of the same type as the one in use at the northerly covering.

Respectfully submitted,

THE FINANCE COMMISSION,

by JOHN R. MURPHY,

Chairman.

BOSTON, October 30, 1914.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor:

SIR,—In reply to your letter dated September 2, 1914, requesting the Finance Commission to investigate the entire subject of salaries, including school and county salaries, with a view to making recommendations regarding standardization of salaries to be included in the budget for the consideration of the City Council in January, 1915, the commission reports as follows:

The City of Boston has, according to the report for 1914, 14,014 employees. In addition to the above the county of Suffolk has 735, making a total of 14,749 individual cases to be considered. Some of these employees have their compensation fixed by statute or ordinance and other classes, for example, the day laborers, can be investigated to a certain extent by classes. The matter of school salaries has already been reported on by the Finance Commission (see report on school system, Volume VII., Finance Commission reports), but notwithstanding these considerations there will probably be at least 8,000 individual cases to be examined.

Problems theoretically similar have been investigated by the authorities of various cities and by the departments of the United States government. A study of the City of Boston along the lines already laid down by such previous investigators, with such modifications as local conditions demand, would seem to offer the best method for study of the subject.

The principal difficulty in submitting a report at the time requested is the immense amount of work to be done, in order that such a study be made properly. A large force of clerks must be employed, record blanks prepared, a multitude of interviews with heads of departments and other interested persons, and with the employees themselves, must be held; ordinances drawn, and possibly additional legislation secured. It is clear that such a study would take a longer amount of time than is possible before the first of January, as well as a larger sum of money than the Finance Commission has available for the purpose.

A similar study taken up by the city of Chicago seems to have involved an expense of approximately $31,000 for preliminary study alone; the expenditure extending over a period of about three years. The result of this study was the formation of a special division of the Civil Service Commission of Chicago for the purpose of keeping the records and enforcing the regulations necessary to secure successful operation of the plan. The problem of standardization of salaries is inseparably linked with the matter of departmental and individual efficiency. The rates or amounts of salaries or wages paid the city employees should be adjusted, as is done by private corporations, on the basis of the efficiency of the employees, giving due consideration to previous work and length of service. This is a difficult problem as regards a municipal employee, as there is no financial measure of the benefit to the city of the work of an employee, except in a few particular cases. That is, there is no financial return to the city that can be directly credited to the work of an individual employee, as is the case in commercial business. It is therefore necessary to take into account other considerations which are peculiar to municipal employment.

Some of the factors to be studied are shown on the following schedule taken from the report of a commission which has recently investigated the problem of city employees. The following titles are typical of the subjects and the methods with which the Chicago commission investigated the subject.

A. Ability.

Ability to perform the special duties of the position, physical ability, general health, endurance, technical ability, special knowledge, mechanical skill, neatness of work, originality, resourcefulness, initiative, ability to direct work and to manage men, executive ability, sense of order, system, judgment, discretion, tact.

B. Activity.

Alertness, promptness, speed, industry, perseverance, energy, diligence, willingness to work.

C. Economy.

Efficiency of labor, quantity, results.

D. Reliability.

Certainty of action, sobriety, health, accuracy, exactness, freedom from errors, truthfulness, attention to duty, faithfulness.

Without going into the subject in such minute detail as this, it is nevertheless clear that the magnitude of the problem involved can hardly be overstated. When it is considered that in addition to these subjects a study must be made of matters which are influenced by local conditions, such as the salaries for similar work in private business generally, labor conditions, living expenses, etc., it will be realized that the subject cannot be reported upon without exhaustive study. In addition, the inauguration of a system of standardization in order to be effective must be enforced by some authority.

In Chicago not only was the study of the question intrusted to the commission, but also the enforcement of the scheme. In the United States government boards of personnel have been organized in the various departments.

There is no question that such a study as suggested in your letter is urgently needed, and the successful solution of the problem would without doubt show one of the greatest possibilities for economy in the administration of city affairs.

The Finance Commission recommends:

1. That an exhaustive investigation of the entire subject of salaries of the city and county employees be made.
2. That an appropriation of $10,000 be included in the annual budget to be devoted specifically to the study of this question, as it is not possible for the Finance Commission to undertake the study within its regular appropriation.

Respectfully submitted,

THE FINANCE COMMISSION,
by JOHN R. MURPHY,
Chairman.

CONTROLLING COMMUNICABLE DISEASES.

The City Record is in receipt of the report of an epidemic of septic sore throat in New York City, arising from infected milk sold from a dairy at which cases of septic sore throat were found among the employees.

The epidemic was summarily stopped by prohibiting the sale of milk from the dairy.

The report concludes with the following statement:

The experience of this epidemic leads to the conclusion that the following measures are of the utmost importance in every municipality:

1. The prompt reporting by practising physicians of all cases of sore throats and other infectious diseases among employees in dairies.
2. The exclusion from dairies of every person having an infectious disease, even if it appears only to be a common sore throat.
3. A prompt quarantine by the local health officer of every dairy whose owner or manager fails to exclude helpers who are known to be infected.
4. The pasteurization of all milk supplies.

During the last few years epidemics of septic sore throat of considerable size, and spread through the agency of milk, have occurred in a number of American cities. Several of the larger of these outbreaks have been reported in the medical press.

The occurrence of such outbreaks could be avoided if pasteurized milk only was used. However, owing to the prejudice of many people against pasteurized milk, this method of preventing the spread by milk of septic sore throat and of other diseases—among which are typhoid fever, scarlet fever and diphtheria—is not practicable in all instances. The time may come when pasteurized milk only will be used, and then there will be no more epidemics of these diseases.

spread by milk. In the meantime, however, it will be the duty of health departments to prevent their occurrence in so far as possible. To do this it is necessary that early information be obtained of the occurrence of cases of these diseases.

In septic sore throat this is not always easy, for the differential diagnosis between septic sore throat and other and more common types of pharyngitis and tonsillitis is not always a simple matter and must frequently be in doubt. This is one of the difficulties encountered in securing satisfactory morbidity reports of the disease. However, since septic sore throat must be controlled by the Health Department, the matter of having cases reported is a thing which the health officer must work out satisfactorily. As previously mentioned, milk outbreaks could be prevented by the use of pasteurized milk. However, this would not lessen the necessity for the early reporting of cases, for the diseases which are spread by milk are frequently, and in fact generally, spread in other ways as well and the milk route of infection is not the only one to be guarded against.

That the securing of morbidity reports is attended in many diseases with considerable difficulty is true. This constitutes an obstacle in the control of many of the commoner communicable diseases, an obstacle, however, which health departments must solve and overcome if they are to continue to have a cause for being.

By DR. F. X. MAHONEY, Chairman,
Boston Board of Health.

Outbreaks of septic sore throat in which milk was the carrier of infection were first reported in England. The first American city to report such cases was Boston.

In April, 1911, fourteen hundred cases of sore throat in this city were reported to this department, a majority of which were found to be on one milk route, but the milk supply was not wholly blamable at this time.

In 1912, forty cases of septic sore throat were reported in Boston, milk being the carrier in all of these. Pasteurization of this supply under the supervision of the Boston Board of Health was ordered and cases on this route ceased.

In the spring of each year there are numerous cases of sore throat, some, undoubtedly, septic, but it was not until May of 1914 when this disease was traced, and then to the dairy of a small dealer. Investigation by this department of this dairy was made and one of the attendants was found to be suffering with a sore throat; this supply was ordered stopped and the dealer distributed a pasteurized supply, with the result that no more cases were reported on his route.

The Boston Board of Health, by regulation, forbids the sale of milk from any dairy where a communicable disease exists among the handlers of the milk or the cattle.

Outbreaks of septic sore throat and other communicable diseases found to be spread through the agency of raw milk only show that no milk is absolutely safe unless perfectly pasteurized.

With the inspection maintained by this department over dairies and milk receiving stations, together with pasteurization, the Board feels that every effort is being made to render the milk supply safe in removing the danger and preventing the spread of disease through its milk supply.

The Massachusetts State Department of Health in a recent circular has included in its diseases dangerous to the public health, septic sore throat, and thereby under penalty of a fine provides that all such cases must be reported by physicians and others having knowledge of the existence of such cases.

THE NECESSITY OF BIRTH REGISTRATIONS.

A case is cited in which the son of a former governor of the State of North Carolina has been refused an increase of salary in the United States Navy, and to which all native-born are entitled, because he could not furnish an official birth certificate.

It appears that the state has had a very imperfect method of registering both births and deaths.

It is the manifest duty of every citizen to see that the births of his children are properly recorded with the Registry Department, 103 City Hall Annex. A birth record may be a matter of great importance some time in the future. The loss of an estate or some other serious contingency may arise and if you are not sure that your children's births are properly recorded, it is a manifest duty that you confer with the office of Registrar McGlenen.

OPPORTUNITY FOR GOVERNMENT POSITIONS.

The City Record is in receipt of a communication from Hon. John A. McIlhenny, chairman of the United States Civil Service Commission, declaring that the commission is unable to supply the demand for male stenographers and typewriters in the United States government service, especially at Washington, D. C.

Young men who are willing to accept appointment at an entrance salary of $840 to $900 per annum have excellent opportunities for appointment. Advancement of capable appointees is reasonably rapid. Occasionally appointment is made at a salary of as much as $1,200 per annum. For such salary only those who attain a rating of at least 85 per cent in the subject of stenography and who have had at least two years' practical office experience will be certified.

The government service offers a desirable field to bright and ambitious young men.

Examinations are held monthly, except in December, in 400 of the principal cities of the United States, and applications may be filed with the commission at Washington, D. C., at any time.

For full information in regard to the scope and character of the examination and for application forms address the U. S. Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C., or the secretary of the U. S. Civil Service Board of Examiners, 141 Post Office Building, Boston.

THE NECESSITY OF ECONOMY.

By CHARLES W. BARRON.

The receipts of the City of Boston from the corporation tax for the fiscal year beginning April 1, 1914, will be much less than those of the year preceding—when it received as its share from the state, $1,847,062. The franchise tax of a corporation is arrived at by multiplying the total number of its shares by their market value on April 1, of any year, and deducting from the product the value of its property taxed locally.

It is easy to see that many causes have greatly reduced the market value of our corporation shares, and accordingly the income of the City of Boston from this source will be much diminished.

This is not a year to introduce a new system of city government which every one knows will greatly increase the expenditures of the municipality.

All citizens should turn out and vote "no" on the proposed amendment to the city charter enlarging the council. The existing city council of nine has given general satisfaction to every one, except small politicians.

It is of the greatest importance to everyone that the city in which they live should be well governed and thrifty. Such a city attracts business and factories and in it work is plentiful.

TRANSFER OF A JANITOR FROM INSTITUTIONS DEPARTMENT TO SCHOOL COMMITTEE.

A communication was received from the Secretary, under date of Oct. 5, 1914, reporting that, pursuant to the action of the Board at its meeting on Sept. 14, 1914 (see p. 140), he has made requisition upon the Civil Service Commission to authorize the transfer of Michael J. Murphy from the Institutions Department to the School Committee, and authority for his appointment as janitor of the Henry Vane School-house, and stating that the Commission refuses to authorize the transfer or appointment, as Mr. Murphy was employed in a position which was outside of classified service in the Institutions Department. CONVERSATIONAL METHOD OF INSTRUCTION IN FOREIGN LANGUAGES.

A communication was received from the Board of Superintendents, under date of Oct. 16, 1914, which Board was requested at the meeting of Dec. 29, 1913 (see p. 216), to report to what extent instruction in modern foreign languages in the public schools is given by conversational method, and whether or not it is feasible or desirable to adopt this method of instruction exclusively, reporting at length on this matter, and submitting the following recommendations:—

1. That all teachers of modern foreign languages in our high schools be urged to place increasing emphasis upon oral and aural instruction.
2. That colleges be urged to attach greater importance in their entrance requirements to oral instruction in modern foreign languages.
3. That, since the colleges are almost exclusively the source of supply of secondary school teachers, college authorities be urged to make provision for the adequate training of modern foreign language teachers, such equipment to include the ability to speak a modern foreign language intelligently.
4. That candidates for positions in the schools of Boston be given an even more rigid examination than heretofore to test their ability to speak correctly the modern foreign languages which they aspire to teach.
5. That candidates for admission to the Normal School who elect a modern foreign language be urged to pursue the study of a single modern foreign language for four consecutive years, and that wherever it is practicable greater emphasis than at present be placed upon conversational work.
6. That pupils in our Normal School, who during their high school course have shown proficiency in a modern foreign language be permitted to continue the study of this language as a part of the Normal School course, in order to qualify as teachers of a foreign language in our elementary grades. The methods pursued with this class of pupils should be distinctively of the conversational type.
7. That pupils in commercial courses who elect a modern foreign language be urged to continue its pursuit for four years, and that throughout the entire course emphasis be placed upon the conversational method of instruction.

phases be placed upon the conversational method of instruction.

8. The Board of Superintendents is of the opinion that modern foreign languages should be pursued with greater continuity and seriousness in high schools. It believes that pupils in all courses should be urged to continue a single foreign language for four consecutive years, instead of devoting two years to one foreign language and then shifting to another.

9. The Board of Superintendents, furthermore, believes that pupils should be encouraged to begin the study of a modern foreign language earlier than they are accustomed to at present.

Laid over, and a copy ordered to be sent to each member of the Board.

Coun. BALLANTYNE called up assignment, viz.:

3. An Ordinance Concerning Members of the Fire Department. Be it ordained, etc.:

Section 1. Any person weighing not less than one hundred and forty pounds shall be eligible for appointment as a member of the Fire Department of the City of Boston, provided that such person meets the other requirements necessary for such appointment.

Sec. 2. Chapter four of the Ordinances of 1912 and chapter one of the Ordinances of 1913 are hereby repealed.

Coun. BALLANTYNE—Mr. President, I will ask that this ordinance be referred to the Executive Committee, for the reasons that sections 1 and 2 seem to me to conflict. If they are all in one ordinance, as they appear on this calendar, it seems to me there has been a mistake made somewhere. I would like the matter referred to the Executive Committee so that it can be discussed and reported upon to-day. I would like to have the matter finished up, because the examination of firemen takes place on the 12th of November and applications must all be in by the second.

The ordinance was referred to the Executive Committee.

Later in the session Coun. WATSON offered an order—That chapter four of the Ordinances of 1912 and chapter one of the Ordinances of 1913 are hereby repealed.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

RELOCATION OF ELEVATED RAILWAY POLE.

Coun. COULTHURST offered an order—That the Boston Elevated Railway Company, through his Honor the Mayor, be requested to relocate the pole now at the corner of Centre street and Seaverns avenue, in Jamaica Plain (in front of store of E. Clark & Co.), to a new location, six or eight feet nearer Green street, so that it will be opposite to corresponding pole on opposite side of Centre street.

Passed.

COMPENSATION TO MICHAEL O'KEEFE.

Coun. ATTRIDGE offered the following orders:—That, under the provisions of chapter 228 of the Acts of 1914, there be allowed and paid to Michael O'Keefe the sum of two hundred and fifty dollars in compensation for injuries received while in the discharge of his duty as an employee of the city, said sum to be charged to the Reserve Fund.

Ordered, That chapter 228 of the Acts of 1914, entitled "An Act to Authorize the City of Boston to Pay a Sum of Money to Michael O'Keefe," be and the same hereby is accepted.

Orders referred to the Executive Committee.

PERMITS FOR STREET OPENINGS.

On motion of Coun. KENNY, the Council took up assignment, viz.:

4. An Ordinance Relating to Permits for Street Openings.

Be it ordained by the City Council, etc.:

Section 1. Section nine of chapter nine of the ordinances of 1910 is hereby amended, by substituting the following new section:

Sec. 9. The commissioner may issue permits to persons having authority in the premises to open, occupy, obstruct and use portions of the streets. Such permits shall specify the time, place, size and use of such opening, occupation or obstruction, and shall be granted upon a condition, the terms of which shall be those stated in section twenty-one of chapter three of the Revised Ordinances of 1898, and upon further conditions as follows:

1. That the restoration of the paving or other surface of such streets shall be effected by the city as directed by the commissioner, the work to be done by city employees or by contract (A) at his discretion, the standard, type and extent of the repairs necessary to effect such restoration to be determined by him and to be paid for by the person receiving the permit, such payment to be made in advance on the basis of the commissioner's estimate or during the progress or after the completion of the restoration as the commissioner may elect.

2. That the person receiving the permit shall place and maintain from the beginning of twilight, through the whole of every night, over or near the place so occupied, opened, obstructed or used, and over or near any dirt, gravel or other material placed in or near such place, a light or lights sufficient to protect travelers from injury; shall place and maintain a safe and convenient way, satisfactory to the commissioner, for the use of foot travelers and for vehicles around or over such place; shall protect such trees as shall be designated by the park and recreation department in such manner as said department shall specify; shall provide suitable sanitary accommodations for his employees, and shall deliver the coupon attached to the permit to an officer of the police force of said city on or before the expiration of the time fixed in the permit for completing the work, such coupon to be returned by said officer to the public works department.

3. That the commissioner may detail an inspector, at the expense of the person receiving the permit, to supervise said opening, occupation and use, and to see that the backfilling is properly done.

4. That the commissioner may require the person receiving the permit to inclose the place in the streets so opened, occupied or used, with a rail, fence or other guard as specified by the commissioner.

All amounts paid to the city under the provisions of this section shall be credited to, and used as a part of, the appropriation for the public works department.

The question comes on amending the proposed ordinance by inserting at "A" the words "or otherwise."

Referred, on motion of Coun. KENNY, to the Executive Committee, to be reported upon to-day.

RECESS.

The Council voted, on motion of Coun. BALLANTYNE, at 3.52 p. m., to take a recess subject to the call of the Chair.

The members reassembled in the Council Chamber, and were called to order by President McDONALD at 5.42 p. m.

(16) Report on the ordinance concerning members of the Fire Department (referred to-day)—recommending the passage of the ordinance in the accompanying new draft:

City of Boston.

In the Year Nineteen Hundred and Fourteen.
An Ordinance Concerning Members of the Fire Department.

Be it ordained, etc.:

Section 1. Chapter 4 of the Ordinances of 1912 and chapter one of the Ordinances of 1913 are hereby repealed.

The report was accepted and the question came on the passage of the ordinance.

Coun. BALLANTYNE—Mr. President, I am going to vote for the repeal of this ordinance for two reasons. The first is that I have always been of the opinion that men less than five feet five, being otherwise qualified, were fit men to be employed in the Fire Department of Boston, and I further believe that this City Council has no right to establish the height of five feet seven inches. I am going to read from chapter 19, section 11, of the Revised Laws:

"Persons five feet five inches in height or over, if otherwise qualified, shall be eligible to appointment in the Fire Department of the City of Boston. Call members in said department who have served three or more successive years, shall, upon application to the Civil Service Commissioners, be placed upon the eligible list for appointment as permanent men without further examination, and may, at the discretion of the Fire Commissioner, be appointed at the same salary as permanent men who have served three or more years in said service."

Chapter 19 of the Revised Laws is a special act relating to the City of Boston. Chapter 194 of the Acts of 1904, in section 1, reads as follows:

"No regulations concerning the height or weight of persons who shall be eligible to become members of the Fire Department in any city or town shall be made or enforced, except by the City Council of such city, by the selectmen of such town, or by the board or officer having authority to make appointments in the Fire Department of such city or town."

I take it from this, Mr. President, that this Act of 1904 neither amended nor repealed section 11 of chapter 19 of the Revised Laws, and I also contend that the Act of 1904 does not supersede chapter 19 of the Revised Laws; and even if this act applied to the City of Boston, I claim that under the general law we would have no right to make regulations as to height, setting a standard higher than that established by the previous law, of 5 feet 5 inches. Section 1 of chapter 352 of the Acts of 1911 reads as follows:

"Chapter 194 of the Acts of the year 1904 is hereby amended by striking out section 1 and inserting in place thereof the following: Section 1. No regulations concerning the height or weight of persons who shall be eligible to become members of the Fire Department in any city or town shall be made or enforced except by the City Council of the city or by the selectmen of the town."

Mr. President, I claim that neither of those acts of 1904 or 1911 have amended or repealed chapter 19 of the Revised Laws, and for that reason I am of the opinion that we have no right to establish a height of more than 5 feet 5 inches. Under the general law of 1904, the Council, the selectmen of a town, the Fire Commissioner, or those having the appointing power, had a perfect right to establish a height limit and also had a right to make rules as to the weight required. But they had no right to do higher than 5 feet 5 inches in the City of Boston. The Act of 1911 was practically the same as that of 1904, with this exception, that it took from the Fire Commissioner the discretionary power and left that power entirely in the hands of the city councils of cities and the boards of selectmen of towns. I claim that we had no right to establish a height of 5 feet 7 inches, and even if we had I claim that we made a mistake when we barred good, strong, able-bodied young men from entering into the fire service of this city. I have always been of the opinion that a short, stockily built man, for certain branches of our Fire Department work, such as handling ladder trucks, etc., was preferable to a man much over 5 feet 7, and if I take the opinion of the officers of the Fire Department I am further convinced that they are satisfied that we made a mistake in establishing a height of 5 feet 7 inches. Some of the very best men we have in the Fire Department to-day are less than 5 feet 7 inches in height, and I believe our Fire Commissioner and some of our district chiefs and deputies are less than 5 feet 7 inches in height. Gentlemen, if we made a mistake in 1913 in establishing that height I hope we will rectify that mistake to-day by repealing the entire ordinance.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I heartily concur in all the councilor opposite has said concerning the repeal of the ordinance regulating the height of firemen. I have voted every time I have had the opportunity in favor of limiting the height. I agree heartily with him that we should eliminate the question of height altogether. In fact, I think we have in the past violated at least the spirit of the charter, which specifically says that we shall not enter into the employment of labor. I think when we pass an ordinance that tells the Fire Chief or Fire Commissioner that he shall not place at work as a fireman a man who is 5 feet 6½ inches in height, or a fraction less than 5 feet 7 inches, we are certainly interfering with the employment of labor in at least the Fire Department. I know of many firemen who are shorter than the height described by the ordinance. I believe the Fire Commissioner is only 5 feet 6½ inches in height, and I might enumerate at least eight or ten of some of the best firemen in the city's service who are under 5 feet 7 inches. I know that we have the votes to-day; we tested that out in executive session, and I am reminded of an old phrase of a past president of the Council, when a member who was worrying about the action of the Council said to him, "I am afraid we are going to have quite a little talk against this thing." "Well," said the President, "we have got the votes; let them talk." I think that same remark might well be applied to the present matter. I think there are others perhaps quite as anxious to have the present height stricken out, and I will give way to them. I agree heartily that a 5 foot 6½ man, a man of the height of the councilor opposite, would make quite as good a fireman, if he were younger, as a taller man, and I hope that the ordinance will pass.

Coun. COLLINS—Mr. President, this matter has come before us in one form or another for the past three years. As I recollect it, in 1911 the then fire commissioner, acting under the statute, was using his discretion in regard to the height and weight of firemen. That discretion was challenged by many aspirants and there was much agitation, resulting in the passage of this act of 1911, which I will read:

"An Act relative to regulations concerning the height and weight of members of fire departments.

"Chapter 352.

"Be it enacted, etc., as follows:

"Section 1. Chapter 194 of the acts of the year 1904 is hereby amended by striking out section one and inserting in place thereof the following. Section 1. No regulations concerning the height or weight of persons who shall be eligible to become members of the Fire Department in any city or town shall be made or enforced except by the city council of the city or by the selectmen of the town.

"Section 2. This act shall take effect upon its passage."

I listened with a great deal of interest to my good friend from Roxbury expounding his idea of the law. It seems rather singular at this time, about three years after the time, in 1911, when this agitation took place, that he is now firmly of the opinion that no regulations concerning height and weight of firemen are legal and proper. Three of us in Executive Committee respectfully asked our associates in the city government to request the Corporation Counsel to give us an opinion on this subject, concerning which there has been much talk and considerable effort put forth by many members of the Council.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, if the gentleman will yield for a moment, I would like to ask a question.

President McDONALD—Does the gentleman yield?

Coun. COLLINS—I do.

Coun. WATSON—I would like to ask the gentleman from Dorchester if the reason given by the proponents of this ordinance was not that they wanted to pass the ordinance before a given time in order that certain good citizens who were under 5 feet 7 inches in height might have an opportunity of filing their applications with the Civil Service Commissioners for the examinations to take place shortly, which they are now denied doing because of this ordinance?

Coun. COLLINS—Mr. President, I understood that an examination was to be held and that applications had to be filed a couple of weeks hence. Consequently the three members of the government—I think I speak for the other two—were perfectly willing to have a continuance of this for three or four days, which would not take away any of the rights of the aspirants, and which would enable us to get some light from the only constituted legal officer of this city, the Corporation Counsel. In answer to my friend from Roxbury—

Coun. WATSON—Which one?

Coun. COLLINS—Coun. Ballantyne—I think he will agree that any act passed by the Legislature in any year which is inconsistent with any act that has been passed heretofore, either expressly or impliedly, repeals that previous act. In so far as any acts he has read here concern the height and weight requirements, if those requirements are inconsistent with this act, they are necessarily repealed. If the duty devolves upon this body of establishing the height and weight of members of the Boston Fire Department, I certainly desire to know that fact. I wish to know just how the matter stands. No man in this body has desired to take hasty action upon this matter less than I. I believe that we are nothing but amateurs, not experts, and that we should defer to the experts. Certainly when the statute was passed we could not shirk our duty, which we supposed was placed upon us by the statute. We had hearings. We had the opinion of Fire Commissioner Daly, and also of his immediate predecessor, Fire Commissioner Carroll, that men whose height was less than 5 feet 7 inches and whose weight was less than 140 pounds should not be in the Fire Department. There was also the opinion of one of the most noted fire chiefs in this country, Chief Croker of New York. We went down the line and found what they were doing in other cities, and in all the large cities of the country but two the height and weight were at least 5 feet 7 inches and 140 pounds, while in New York laddermen had to be 5 feet 7½ inches. There is not a member of this body who is interested in keeping up the requirements who is of the opinion that there are not good and competent men under 5 feet 7 inches. We believe there are. But when this duty is placed upon us we cannot shirk it. We have to assume it, and we have put the height and weight where the experts say they should be. I may say in passing that other firemen and other chiefs in the Fire Department of Boston were before us. Our late lamented friend, Benjamin Wells, for instance, gave us his opinion to the same effect. Scores of officers were before us and every one whose opinion we considered of value from a technical standpoint considered that, for the efficiency of the department, a height of at least 5 feet 7 inches should be maintained. As I say, we called the experts, and the statute that was passed was passed without our acquiescence, without our demand. It being before us, we had to stand in our hoots, take the consequences, and place the height and weight of firemen where the experts said they should be placed. For that reason I am against repealing this ordinance, because in doing so we should realize our responsibility, should realize that under the statute the entire duty is placed upon the city government to fix the height and weight requirement. Each of the three members taking that position realizes that it is an unpopular thing to do to advocate maintaining the height and weight at 5 feet 7 inches and 140 pounds, but we believe it is the right thing to do, and I shall insist upon it and shall vote against the repeal of the ordinance.

Coun. BALLANTYNE—Mr. President, my brother on the opposite side of the Chamber, who has just spoken, is no doubt a first-class lawyer and reads law in the way that all good lawyers do. He has read from the statute of 1911, which commences by stating that the Act of 1904 is hereby repealed; but he did not read from the Act of 1904 anything to the effect that chapter 19 of the Revised Laws, which is a special act relative to Boston, has been repealed or amended, and he did not, either, explain to us how a general law will supersede a special law, a law made especially for a particular city. As far as his willingness to rely upon the opinion of the Corporation Counsel is concerned, I think every member of the Council was willing that the Corporation Counsel should come before that committee. It was suggested by my brother opposite that the Corporation Counsel be called at the next meeting, and I said, "I am perfectly willing to have the Corporation Counsel called at this meeting, and will stay here as long as you have a mind to, but I oppose delay for one week for this reason. The examination for the Fire Department takes place on the twelfth day of November and applications must be in at least ten days ahead, so that these applications must be filed by the 2d of November. Failing to get in an application at that time throws all these men back six months." That was my only objection to having this laid on the table for the opinion of the Corporation Counsel in writing. But I think if my friend was not afraid of the opinion of the Corporation Counsel he would probably have agreed to have the Corporation Counsel called before the committee meeting this afternoon, and I wish he had.

Coun. COLLINS—Mr. President, I would like to ask the gentleman a question. Will my good friend from Roxbury accede to the wish of some of the members of the Council that this matter be delayed for three days from to-day so that the Corporation Counsel may give us a written opinion in regard to it?

Coun. BALLANTYNE—Mr. President, I will answer that question. If this Council will adjourn for three days, I will agree to adjourn with them and take the opinion of the Corporation Counsel.

Coun. COLLINS—Mr. President, the gentleman has not answered my question. I ask him whether or not he will accede to a motion to that effect?

Coun. BALLANTYNE—Mr. President, I will agree to and vote for a motion to that effect if you will make a motion now that the Council adjourn for three days.

Coun. COLLINS—Mr. President, will the gentleman yield the floor now so that I may make a motion to that effect?

Coun. BALLANTYNE—I will.

Coun. COLLINS—Mr. President, I move, sir, that this Council, when it adjourns, adjourn to meet on Thursday, at three o'clock p. m., at which time a special meeting may be held to consider the matter of the ordinance concerning members of the Fire Department, and that the Corporation Counsel be requested in the meantime to give a written opinion concerning our rights under the statute.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I ask for unanimous leave to make a statement, if I am in order in speaking on the question of adjournment. I am perfectly willing to adjourn to next Thursday, if the councilor from Dorchester (Coun. Collins) will agree to vote for this order next Thursday, provided the Corporation Counsel does not send to this Council a written opinion. I am pretty well satisfied that the Corporation Counsel will take a number of days to send a written opinion to this body, that he will be very careful in regard to it, much more careful than he would be in the case of an oral opinion, and I am not so certain that, if we adjourn to next Thursday, further delay may not be asked. But if the gentleman will withdraw his motion to adjourn and put it in different shape, I may vote for it. I shall be willing to vote for a motion that when this Council adjourns it be to meet on Thursday next, at a given hour, and that the only matter to be considered at that meeting shall be this ordinance before us, and that if we have no written opinion from the Corporation Counsel on that day we shall take action on that matter then and there. If the gentleman wants to play fair, I am willing to play fair with him. I am willing to adjourn to next Thursday for that purpose, but I want the matter settled then one way or the other.

Coun. BALLANTYNE—Mr. President, I was in hopes that the gentleman would put the motion in different form. I am perfectly willing to have further action upon this matter postponed until Thursday, at eleven o'clock, and that the Corporation Counsel's opinion be asked for in the meantime. I would be glad to meet here with the other members in the afternoon, but I have to go out of town at four o'clock that afternoon.

Coun. COLLINS—Mr. President, the purpose of my motion, of course, was merely to gain any information that the Corporation Counsel might be able to transmit to us. As to any agreement I might make, at the suggestion of the gentleman on my right (Coun. Watson), of course I make no agreement at all. I simply want the Corporation Counsel's opinion on this important matter and I think we ought to have it and are entitled to it. I congratulate my friend on the other side on his fairness in acceding to my request. As to the hour, eleven o'clock is agreeable to me, and I will assent to that if the gentleman will put the motion in that way.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President.

Coun. COLLINS—Mr. President.

Coun. WATSON—I will yield to Coun. Collins.

Coun. COLLINS—Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to withdraw the hour I suggested, three o'clock, making it eleven o'clock a. m. instead.

Coun. BALLANTYNE—And that the meeting be simply for the purpose of discussing the ordinance before us now?

Coun. COLLINS—Yes.

Coun. BALLANTYNE—That will be the special business of that meeting?

President McDONALD—Yes.

Coun. BALLANTYNE—I will agree with you on that.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, as I understand the motion before the House, it is a motion by Coun. Collins that when we adjourn it be to meet on Thursday next at eleven o'clock, and that in the meantime the Corporation Counsel be asked to give an opinion on the question of the legality of our action in attempting to regulate the height and weight of firemen? The councilor opposite bows his head and says that is correct. That is sufficient for me, knowing that he knows the law very thoroughly. I don't think I care to know whether or not this law or ordinance is legal or illegal. I think the important question we ought to ask the Corporation Counsel is, whether or not we can, if we so wish, refuse to pass an ordinance prescribing the height and weight of firemen, or whether we can repeal an ordinance prescribing the height and weight of firemen if we wish, and if the councilor opposite will embody that in his request to the Corporation Counsel it will be pleasing to me.

Coun. WOODS—Mr. President, I am opposed to any further delay in this matter. This ordinance was reported two weeks ago to-day. It was assigned for two weeks because of Coun. Kenny's absence, and the gentleman who wants the delay at this time could then have asked that the Corporation Counsel's opinion be obtained. This is merely a subterfuge, in order to have action on this matter delayed. The councilor on my left (Coun. Collins) was one of the members who voted to have the present ordinance put into effect. The Council did not ask the Corporation Counsel's opinion at that time as to whether they had a right to take that action or not, but went ahead and did it. This matter has been before us for a long time, and I see no reason for postponing action further. I think to-day is the time for us to decide the thing one way or another. If we pass an order that is illegal, the Corporation Counsel can come in and the Mayor can send it back to us saying that the order is illegal. We can get the Corporation Counsel's opinion then. If we have a right to do this the order will go through and there is no need of the Corporation Counsel's opinion. Therefore, I am opposed to any postponement. I hope the ordinance will be passed upon to-day and that the Council will not adjourn to Thursday.

Coun. COLLINS's motion, that a special meeting be held on Thursday next at 11 o'clock a. m., to consider the matter of the ordinance concerning members of the Fire Department, was declared lost. Coun. COLLINS doubted the vote and asked for the yeas and nays.

The motion was carried, yeas 5, nays 4:

Yeas—Coun. Ballantyne, Collins, Coulthurst, Kenny, Watson—5.

Nays—Coun. Attridge, Coleman, McDonald, Woods—4.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I would like with unanimous consent to say a word. I did not want to interfere with the arrangement being entered into here, because I thought if I broke in it might possibly interfere with the plans that were being made for the meeting on Thursday. But I want to say just this, that my understanding is not that we are going to call upon the Corporation Counsel to give us an opinion as to the legality of our action here in repealing something. Rather, it is to get an opinion as to our right to act under the statute, which we did in 1912.

Coun. COULTHURST—Mr. President, might I ask unanimous consent to say a word? I assume that the question we are going to put up to the Corporation Counsel is as to whether the ordinance we passed is a legal ordinance.

Later in the session Coun. COULTHURST said: Mr. President, Coun. Collins, before he left us, agreed that an order should be drafted covering the request to the Corporation Counsel for his opinion. I have not got it in form yet. If the Council will delay a moment, I would like to comply with his request. I suppose it should be an order requesting the opinion of the Corporation Counsel.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I trust that that will not be done. It seems to me that it will be better to call the Corporation Counsel into conference. We may each of us have our own theory and idea of what should be done, and how we should vote. Let us meet the Corporation Counsel and each of us put to him questions that we wish in regard to the matter. I hope that is the course that will be taken.

Coun. COULTHURST—Rather than getting his written opinion?

Coun. KENNY—Yes.

CONSTRUCTION OF NEPTUNE ROAD.

President McDONALD offered an order—That the Board of Street Commissioners be requested to lay out and construct as a public street Neptune road from Bennington street to Wood Island Park.

President McDONALD—The Chair wishes to state that he introduces that order for Mr. Giblin, Mr. Thomas J. Giblin of Ward 1, who is very much interested in that road. He asked me to put the order in requesting the Street Commissioners to lay it out.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I was wondering whether this demand or request was from more than one citizen of East Boston, whether the request is backed up by any one except Representative-elect Giblin.

President McDONALD—The Chair has put the order in for Representative-elect Giblin. He handed it to me, asking me to put it in for him.

Coun. WATSON—All right.

The order was passed.

GENERAL RECONSIDERATION.

On motion of Coun. COLEMAN a general reconsideration of all action taken to-day was refused.

Adjourned, on motion of Coun. KENNY, at 6.24 p. m., to meet on Thursday, October 29, at 11 a. m.

TO IMPROVE SALE OF CITY BONDS.

Cities throughout the country have been finding difficulty during the past two months in selling their bonds. They are by no means alone in this predicament, however, and there is every reason to think that, when money is again brought out for investment, municipal bonds will be more the favorite than ever. But rates are high, and may continue so for months—perhaps even three or four years. Under these conditions a famous fiscal authority recommends that cities "carefully consider the issuance of a short term bond at 5, 5½ or even 6 per cent, before selling a long term bond in the present market and burdening present and future generations with a high interest charge. When the notes approach maturity, say in 1917 or 1918, the municipality may then be able to refund them with long term bonds" at a lower rate. A bond dealer who specializes in municipals believes that the more conservative banks and investors are now favoring an obligation of short maturity to one of long life, which would be an additional argument for taking such action.

FOR PREVENTION OF DISEASE.

To guard against an epidemic of either diphtheria or scarlet fever in Boston the coming winter, Mayor Curley sent a communication to the Board of Health during the week requesting that he be informed at once what steps, in its opinion, should now be taken to prevent a recurrence this year of epidemics of diseases common to children.

Mayor Curley said that he was willing to go as high as $50,000, believing that if with this sum Boston could be protected, the citizens at large would applaud the expenditure.

The Mayor stated further that once in every three years the city is visited by an epidemic with the result that it costs the city more than $30,000 to stamp it out, besides sacrificing the lives of at least fifty children. This may be traced to one of three causes, improper sanitation at the homes, carelessness on the part of school physicians, or milk. He believed that it was time to take steps to prevent these recurrent epidemics by closer inspection in every direction. Efficiency must be increased, even if it be necessary to increase the force.

The Health Board has already instructed that in every case where a child is absent from school a single day, no cause being assigned, the physician in that district shall visit the home on the following day to examine the real cause or causes.

The Mayor believes that there are too many old physicians in the service of the schools, and would favor their places being filled by younger and more active men.

To further assist the Board of Health in its efforts to prevent recurrences of epidemics of communicable diseases in Boston, Mayor Curley has decided to have all open sewers in the city closed, as for instance, the Davenport brook sewer; also to have all swamp land filled in.

Another source of danger to health are the sewers that empty into the South Bay. The Mayor will have all those sewers along the Strandway diverted to the main sewer at Calf Pasture. This will cost from $175,000 to $200,000. Commissioner Rourke will have charge of this work.

Another source of danger to public health are the old shacks and dilapidated buildings to be found throughout the city, especially in the North and West Ends. Commissioner O'Hearn of the Building Department will get after the owners of such buildings as speedily as possible.

In this connection the Mayor proposes to seek legislation next year that will make the laws governing alterations more stringent. Under the present laws a person having a dog house in the yard may keep adding to it until finally it terminates in a three-flatter.

CLINICS FOR THE MENTALLY INFIRM.

THE NECESSITY AND IMPORTANCE OF OUT-PATIENT SERVICE IN MASSACHUSETTS.

By DR. L. VERNON BRIGGS, Secretary, the State Board of Insanity.

The State of Massachusetts assumed care of all the insane, abolishing the almshouse colonies, January 1, 1904, with the exception of Tewksbury. A virtual monopoly for the care of the insane in this state was thus established. The work carried on by the state for the past ten years has been to receive into the state institutions such committed cases as the courts sent them and a few voluntary cases. The following table shows the population of the state institutions for the insane:

October 1, 1914.
Worcester State Hospital.....	1,420
Taunton State Hospital.....	1,283
Northampton State Hospital.....	942
Danvers State Hospital.....	1,471

* For epileptics, both sane and insane.

Massachusetts has done nothing for the prevention of insanity until within a few months. The millions she has expended have been for custodial care and for the institutional treatment of such cases as happen to be sent to them early enough to receive benefit. Patients committed have been sent to all parts of the state, regardless of their residence. The overcrowded condition of the Boston State Hospital has necessitated the sending of 4,000 patients to hospitals throughout the state.

There has been a system of equalization, i. e., when one hospital is overcrowded and another one has spare beds, a certain number of patients have been taken from the crowded hospital and sent to the hospital whose population was below their capacity. In this way there has been such a mixing up of cases that every state hospital has patients from every county in the state, excepting the Boston State Hospital.

One of the first acts of the new Board was to devise a plan to bring about a more stable population in the hospitals, i. e., that hospitals should contain patients from the districts which the respective hospitals cover. Having adopted this plan, the next step was for the prevention of insanity—having the state reach out for the early cases and prevent their commitment to the hospitals, if possible.

In 1912, Dr. Adolf Meyer made a survey of our state hospitals and said that the time had come when each community should take care of its own; that there should be a more circumspect distribution of hospitals over the state, according to centers of population, and he found that the counties remote from the existing hospitals had fewer cases discharged into them than those nearer the hospitals. This undoubtedly was because the medical staffs did not dare to discharge to points far away, not knowing the conditions into which they were discharging the patients.

Two or three of the hospitals had what they called an out-patient department, which consisted of their setting aside certain days at the hospital to receive such cases as came there, but they did not reach out into the community.

Men who are the wage-earning members of the family are committed to our State hospitals and the family left without care. Patients are discharged into the community without a dollar and without a position. The early case of mental breakdown,—the man who has insomnia or who feels despondent, and does not know which way to turn, has usually had to wait until his mental breakdown was so far advanced that he was committable. Under an out-patient plan he could go to the out-patient clinic, receive advice from the physicians and very often avoid a serious breakdown. At the same time physicians could attend an out-patient clinic and receive the benefit of the examinations of patients by trained alienists from the hospitals.

The large cities have always had out-patient clinics. The Boston City Hospital and the Psychopathic Hospital have had out-patient clinics for some years, but the people throughout the State have had no opportunities of this kind.

The present Board, early in August, determined upon a policy for out-patient work by the hospitals, and at their request Dr. A. W. Stearns, who had been appointed by the Board organizer of the out-patient service, made a survey of what was being done at the institutions. This is a policy which will effect all of the institutions and the whole state, as it is the intention of the Board to stimulate each hospital to reach out into the community, and to be, as has been said, responsible for the mental health of the community or district which is covered by each hospital. The Board recommended that each hospital then doing out-patient work should extend the same along the general plan outlined for all the institutions that the work might be uniform, and that those institutions which had not been doing out-patient work should at the earliest possible date establish out-patient departments and out-patient clinics in the several large cities, in their own districts, preferably in the evening, when every one could visit such clinics without interference with their duties or jeopardizing the positions which they might hold. The Board felt that this could be started without an increase of expense or increase in the staffs, as members of the staffs would be glad to see early cases and work along the lines of prevention, and also see discharged cases, thereby keeping track of them.

If the hospital has an after-care worker he or she should be present at the clinics. It is hoped that the out-patient department will eventually cover the work of the clinics, the after-care or social service work, mental hygiene and boarding out. It is also hoped to stimulate the discharge of cases earlier than has before been possible, for patients can safely be sent out earlier than has heretofore been possible if clinics are established in or near the town or city where the patients reside. If the patients do not report regularly at these clinics the after-care worker will, of course, immediately look them up. The Board believes that the out-patient department clinics will be the first important step for the prevention of mental disease, and that after care of patients will prevent the return of those who have been discharged.

The first communication from certain of the State hospitals was that they would have to have another physician added to their staff and more money. The Board, realizing that it was impossible to meet this demand, endeavored to stimulate them by showing them how valuable it would be for their own staffs to get outside of the hospital, see the early cases, meet the public and the physicians in the community, and the workers in public service, instead of remaining in the hospitals and closing the doors after each patient who entered.

First one and then another hospital saw their way clear to establish evening clinics, which would not interfere with the work of the hospital. As a result of the Board's adopting the policy of out-patient work, the hospitals have now, with one or two exceptions, heartily cooperated and without any added expense to the state. Out-patient clinics are held by the Danvers State Hospital in Newburyport, Lawrence, Gloucester, Salem, Lynn and Haverhill; by the Worcester State Hospital at Worcester and Spencer; by the Northampton and Monson State Hospitals at Springfield and Pittsfield; by the Taunton State Hospital at Taunton, New Bedford and Fall River; by the Worcester State Asylum at Worcester, making two clinics now in Worcester. All this work has been accomplished since the first day of September.

The Worcester Telegram of October 30 has the following information from Spencer:

"Spencer physicians were to-day notified by Dr. E. V. Scribner, Superintendent of the Worcester State Hospital, that arrangements had been made for the opening of the free clinic in the Good Samaritan rooms of the Richard Sugden library, Wednesday afternoon, from three to five o'clock. If deemed feasible the practice will be continued monthly.

"It is the intention of Doctor Scribner to have a staff doctor from the hospital conduct a clinic in Spencer one afternoon each month. The clinic has been established primarily to give advice and treatment to persons suffering from insomnia, unusual worry, depression and other mild cases of mental distress.

"No charge will be made for admission and any person desiring treatment in the intervals between the monthly clinics will be welcome at the out-patient department of the Worcester State Hospital every Tuesday, from 2 to 4 p. m., and from 7 to 9.

"Dr. J. C. Austin to-day said: 'The Spencer physicians will undoubtedly cooperate with the efforts of the experts from the State hospital, with the purpose of following up the policy of the state, which is to keep people out of the State hospitals, rather than to put them in.'

"The motive is to give the public a better understanding of insane hospital work and correct methods of treating mild mental disorders. There are many cases which are on the border line of nervous breakdown and if they are given proper treatment by experts they might often be saved from more serious troubles and the necessity of forcible confinement in institutions.'

"Dr. F. J. Sanborn said: 'A free state clinic in Spencer conducted by specialists seems to me to be a most interesting matter. There is no doubt but what it will be of immense benefit to the people of Spencer and I expect it to have a very successful career. I am sure that the doctors of Spencer will do everything in their power to further the work which the state proposes to start here.'

"Dr. A. F. Peck said: 'A free clinic in Spencer is a mighty fine thing. The doctors of this town will be pleased to recommend those of their patients who stand in need of the treatment afforded in the clinic to go there and get the expert advice of the specialists. Of course, in time the clinic will be established in better quarters than those now available in the rooms of the library.'

"Dr. George W. Ellison outlined his views on the proposed clinic as follows: 'The state has done its part. It has provided the means whereby nervous troubles may be treated. The public must now do its part and bring its cases to the attention of the specialists at the clinic.'

"Of course there may at first be some hesitancy on the part of the persons suffering from nervous disorders to patronize the clinic for fear that people seeing them go to the clinic will think them candidates for some institution. A policy of education will, I think, ultimately convince the public that such a view of matters is wholly erroneous and when that time arrives we may expect the clinic to be well patronized."

Arrangements have also been made with the staff at the School for the Feeble-Minded at Waverley to send one of their physicians to clinics located in the different parts of the state for the examination of such children as are brought to them by school teachers, local physicians and others interested in improving the condition of the defective and receiving expert advice as to his care and education, free of charge.

One of the most valuable branches of the out-patient work would be the after care, which would be connected with each institution. If properly organized, such a service will improve home conditions throughout the State and prevent many duplicate commitments from the same family or environment. It will also facilitate early discharges by making a survey of cases in the hospital and a survey of the community conditions into which such patients will be discharged, that the paroled or discharged patient may be placed in the most advantageous surroundings on leaving the hospital or being transferred to what should be an ever rapidly increasing group. I refer to the boarded out patients. The follow-up work and after care of the discharged cases to prevent a return to the hospital would greatly reduce the commitments which now amount to a considerable percentage of our so-called insane population in institutions.

Money should be spent at the beginning for the prevention of insanity by social service and similar agencies. It is just as much a necessity, if not a more crying need, than that many thousands of dollars should be spent at the terminal end of the disease in laboratories.

The present plan for out-patient work at the Massachusetts state hospitals is as follows:

Outline for Out-patient Work at Massachusetts State Hospitals.

Hospital (Out-patient department.)	Clinic.	Examination and treatment of all pre and non hospital cases ^a such as psychoneuroses, alcoholics, syphilis and mild insane. Diagnosis of feeble-minded. FIRE DEPARTMENT.

James A. McGee, hoseman, Engine Company No. 32, has been retired upon half pay and his name will be placed upon the pension roll with compensation of $700 the year.

The report of the Medical Examiner is as follows:

"While responding to Box 17, city of Somerville, June 1, 1913, the hose wagon collided with a post of the Boston Elevated structure, throwing Mr. McGee to the ground. He was treated at the City Hospital Relief Station for multiple contusions. He reported for duty August 7, 1913.

"On May 2, 1914, a sick leave was granted him on account of an attack of bronchitis, and he reported for duty June 26. On July 11 he was again granted a sick leave for bronchitis and is still off duty.

"Hoseman McGee is fifty-seven years of age, and was appointed to the department January 28, 1888. In my opinion his illness is due to natural causes, and is not the result of an injury received in the line of duty."

Capt. George B. Norton of Engine Company No. 28 has been retired upon half pay and his name will be placed upon the pension roll at the rate of $900 the year.

It appears that Captain Norton was appointed to the department May 24, 1889. He was made a lieutenant August 28, 1896, and captain May 12, 1905.

"On July 5, 1914, Capt. George B. Norton, age 48, of Engine Company 28, was stricken with an attack of cerebral hemorrhage, and from that date has been on the sick list. There is partial paralysis of the left arm and leg, with consequent loss of power. His heart is enlarged and displaced. He complains of vertigo and headache. In all probability there will be a recurrence of cerebral hemorrhage. In my opinion he is permanently incapacitated from the performance of fire duty."

TULIPS.

By CAPT. JOHN H. DILLON, Chairman Park and Recreation Department.

The tulip derives its name from "thoulaban," a turban, from the fancied resemblance to that style of Oriental head dress, and is the bulb that appears to give a better general satisfaction for the cost and labor than any other spring flowering protuberant. There are many varieties of the tulip, double and single flowering, all having excellent qualities to recommend them to the would-be purchaser. The tulip is a native of Europe and Asia, but can be propagated and grown in every temperate climate where good loam, well rotted cow manure and sand can be had, care being taken in planting the bulb that it does not come in contact with the manure. Prepare beds for planting in the early part of November, giving them a deep spading; plant bulbs not more than 5 inches deep, adding a little sand on top and bottom of bulb. Smooth off the bed and when it becomes frozen, cover with leaves or litter from stable. In the springtime, at proper season, remove litter, and if desired plant a different colored pansy plant, and when the tulips are done flowering cut off the stem and part of the leaves and you will have a nice bed of heart's-ease that can remain until June, when you can remove them for your summer planting.

About the year 1630 such was the craze for the tulip in the Netherlands that tulip markets were opened and bulbs were sold and resold like stock on exchange. This craze was carried to such an extent that the government was obliged to put a stop to it, but not before many failures and financial embarrassments occurred.

Most of the bulbs planted in and around Boston are imported from Holland, the great bulb-growing center of Europe, where farms, large and small, are entirely devoted to their culture. I am informed that one way of procuring the tulip bulb so as to be absolutely sure that each color is grown separately is for the bulb merchant to go among the people who own or rent small farms and arrange with them to grow for him one variety of bulb only; for instance, one small farmer would grow for him white swan, another yellow prince, another Kaiser Kroon, another cottage maid, another Coleur Cardinal, and so on, each growing a distinct color. When the proper time arrives for the bulbs to be prepared for shipment the employees of the bulb merchant visit the small farmers, dig up, count, pack and transport the bulbs to the warehouse of the merchant where they are again handled and separated into classes, first, second and third, and prices scheduled per thousand for all that have any shipping value for that year.

The small bulbs which are left over as unsalable are replanted and grown until they mature or arrive at a marketable condition.

Beds in which tulips are grown are fertilized every second year.

FINANCE COMMISSION.

BOSTON, November 2, 1914.

To the Honorable the Mayor and City Council:

GENTLEMEN,—The City Council has requested the Finance Commission "to study the budget systems of the principal cities and states of the United States, and make comparisons between the systems in use in other cities and states and that in use in Boston."

The Finance Commission assumes that the City Council in making this request desires not so much a digest of the budget practices obtaining in the cities and states of the United States, as a report based upon the best experience available, which should contain specific recommendations for the improvement of the method now employed in preparing the Boston budget.

The commission is of the opinion that the experience of the city of New York in the matter of budget preparation offers the most valuable suggestions for the improvement of the Boston budget. Since 1909, when the segregated budget was first adopted by New York City, constant effort has been made to perfect the form of the budget, and, while it has made great progress, New York is still at work further developing budget procedure. The commission accordingly submits, in response to the request of the City Council, a report setting forth first, the development of the New York idea in budget making; second, the Boston budget as it now is formulated; and third, recommendations.

I. THE NEW YORK BUDGET.

The procedure in the preparation of the New York budget is as follows:

In the summer of each year the department of finance distributes to all the departments, bureaus, boards and commissions for whose support money is appropriated by the city, a supply of estimate forms. These forms call for detailed information in support of the requests to be made thereon for appropriations for the ensuing fiscal year. Opportunity is afforded by these forms for indicating not only the actual expenditures of the department for the preceding six months, and for the preceding fiscal year, but also the actual consumption of supplies and materials. For the purpose of obtaining a uniform basis for the comparison of expenditures and consumption between certain definite periods of time and the estimated expenditure and consumption for the ensuing fiscal year, a uniform classification of objects of expenditure has been devised.

Departmental estimates drawn up in conformity with this plan of expense classification must, under the law, be returned to the Department of Finance before September 10. Upon their receipt by the Bureau of Municipal Investigation and Statistics of the Department of Finance, they are distributed for study and report to examiners familiar, each with the needs of the department or departments assigned to him. For a month this Bureau works studying these requests, conferring with representatives of the departments and determining, so far as possible, the irreducible minimum for which the several departments can be efficiently administered. Based upon the results of this month's work, and upon previous intimate knowledge of departmental needs, the examiners make recommendations to the budget committee of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. The budget committee then holds hearings on the appropriations for each department; these hearings are attended by representatives of the department whose appropriations are under consideration, as well as by the examiner who has reported thereon. The department head defends his original request in the hope that the budget committee may override the recommendations of the examiner; the examiner, on the other hand, offers proof in substantiation of his recommendations. The budget committee, acting as judge, allows or disallows in whole or in part the recommendations of the examiners. The allowances made by the budget committee comprise the "tentative budget," which is printed in book form and distributed free on application.

Shortly after the publication of the "tentative budget," a series of public hearings is given by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment as a whole. At these hearings any interested taxpayer may appear to plead for increased appropriations for those municipal activities which he feels to be insufficiently supplied with funds, or to oppose, as excessive or unnecessary, appropriations made for purposes with which he is not in sympathy. After these hearings, the Board of Estimate and Apportionment makes the budget in accordance with its best judgment. Under the law the budget must be passed by the board of estimate and apportionment prior to November 1.

The budget as passed is then transmitted to the Board of Aldermen, who, under the charter, have power to reduce but not to increase items in the budget. The aldermen are allowed twenty days for the consideration of the budget as submitted to them, and at the end of that period are required to transmit to the Mayor the budget as amended by them. The Mayor has power only to veto the action of the Board of Aldermen; should he exercise this veto, it can be overridden by a three-quarters vote of the aldermen. The budget, as finally approved and adopted, must be certified by the Mayor, comptroller and City Clerk prior to December 25, whereupon the several amounts indicated in the budget are appropriated to their several purposes. On or before December 31, the budget must be filed in the office of the comptroller and published in the City Record, and on January 1, commences the fiscal year for which the appropriations have been made.

Among the positive results claimed to be attained by the adoption of a budget framed on the New York plan are the following:

1. Appropriations are made for such specific purposes that it is possible at any time to compare the program of expenditure as outlined at the time of budget preparation with actual expenditures after the allowance of the appropriations.
2. The schedule supporting the appropriations for salaries and wages prevents the diversion from or to pay roll purposes of funds appropriated for other purposes, and also prevents the manipulation of payrolls to meet the exigencies of political considerations.
3. By affording the basis for a uniform system of accounting procedure, the budget makes possible accurate comparisons of expenditures for the same purpose from year to year.
4. Careful distinction can be drawn between expenditures from current revenue for current purposes and expenditures from bond issues for permanent improvements.
5. Almost complete control is had of appropriations.
6. The public is informed as to precisely what use is being made of public moneys.

II. THE BOSTON BUDGET.

When compared with the system of budget preparation followed in New York, the Boston method affords a striking contrast. New York took steps in 1906 to do away with the lump sum budget then in operation, but Boston still follows that form. The auditor's report for the year 1924-25 contains for the first time the appropriation bill of the City of Boston. In form this appropriation bill differs very slightly from the form of appropriation bill passed to meet the expenses of the city for the year 1914-15.

In 1824 the total appropriations were only about $350,000. The appropriation from taxes and current revenue for city and county purposes in 1914-15 was $27,727,040.89.

Although no change has been made in the form of the annual budget, some attempt has recently been made to change the method of preparation. In the early years of the city's history, little attention was paid to the supporting details of the appropriations. This subject later on received more attention, however, and as a result the department estimates have for many years been printed in greater detail as a city document; but, even though made in such detail, the estimates have differed so much from year to year, and the forms followed by the several departments have varied so greatly, that adequate consideration of the departmental requests is difficult.

In the last annual report of the Finance Commission attention was called to the defects of the present budget system. The Finance Commission then stated:

"In the years 1908-09 and 1909-10 steps were taken to improve the budget and considerable improvement was made. Forms of estimate were required which provided for a better system of classifications and for much greater detail in the statement of estimated expenditures."

In speaking of the effect of the charter amendments of 1909 upon the method of preparing the budget, the Finance Commission called attention to the opportunities afforded the Mayor, under the amendments, for making radical improvement in the form of budget. The commission stated:

"By the proper exercise of the power thus conferred upon him the Mayor could have made an intelligent study of the needs of the departments, but at no time since the adoption of the charter amendments has he grasped this opportunity. He did, however, cause improved forms of estimates to be made by his secretary, working in conjunction with a representative of the Finance Commission. This was a step in the right direction."

The present method of preparing the annual budget is as follows:

In the late fall or early winter the Mayor's office sends to all departments and branches of the city government receiving money from the city treasury a supply of blank estimate sheets. These forms call for a certain amount of information, but not so specific as is called for in the New York forms. The estimate forms are drawn up as follows:

Form 1 calls for "A brief statement to be signed by the head of the department, pointing out its needs for the incoming year, together with the general reasons for any increase of appropriation that may be required."

Form 2 calls for "Expenditure and Revenue for Five Years" in totals only; also the "Expenditures for Three Years—Grouped." It should be noted, however, that whenever comparisons are made of yearly expenditures, the estimated expenditures for the current year occupy one of the columns provided and the estimated expenditures for the ensuing year (in fact the request for appropriation) another column. The grouping is according to the following classes of expenditure:

"Office Expenses (Central Administration and Divisions), not including Pay Rolls.

"Pay Rolls (other than for construction).

"Pensions (total payments).

"General expenses (other than office expenses).

"Construction (a.) Pay Rolls.

(b.) Materials and Supplies."

Provision is also made on this form for showing expenditures for three years by departmental divisions. These figures are given in total only.

Form 3 provides for showing the expenditures for three years for office expenses, pay rolls, etc. (as quoted above), of each division of the department, one form being used for each division. A blank space about 9 inches by 6 inches at the bottom of the sheet is reserved under the caption "In this space specific reasons should be given for any increases asked for."

Form 4 is headed "Central Office Division, Office expenses—Itemized, Comparative table." Three columns provide for indicating the expenditures for three years, i. e., the preceding year, the estimates for the current year, and the estimates for the ensuing year, according to the following "Itemization."

Printing.

Postage.

Stationery.

Telephone.

Messenger service.

Travel.

Advertising.

Automobiles.

(a.) Purchase.

(b.) Maintenance.

This form allows a space of about 9 inches by 4 inches for "specific reasons for any increases asked for."

Form 5 gives a comparative list of regular employees paid on an annual basis but the average number of employees in each of the three years with wage totals is the only information called for. Form 5.1 corresponds with Form 5 but is used only for those employees paid at a daily rate.

Form 6 gives general information relative to payments made to temporary employees.

Form 7 is headed "Construction (Material and Supplies) and General Expenses—Itemized. (Follow classification in Auditor's report)." With the exception of columnar division giving space for listing the items, the expenditures for the preceding year, the estimated expenditures for the current year and the estimated expenditures for the ensuing year, the sheet is blank.

These estimate sheets are filled out as best may be by the departments to whose use they seem adapted. Certain departments do not use these forms on the ground that they do not meet their requirements. Once compiled, however, the departmental requests, whether made in the prescribed form or in some other form, are sent, usually in January, to the Mayor and by courtesy to the Finance Commission, and are printed in pamphlet form.

Upon the receipt of the estimates, therefore, it is the Mayor's duty to consider the needs of the departments as evidenced by their requests and to make the budget in accordance with his best judgment. Due consideration of the matter seems never to have been given. In the last annual report the Finance Commission stated:

"The Mayor, however, has never fully examined the department heads as to their estimates, nor has he caused competent analyses to be made of such estimates. His interviews with department heads have been too brief, and his examination of the estimates has been generally with reference to their totals only and not to the items in detail. The information thus obtained by the Mayor has been inadequate and because he has not known what items to cut out or reduce he has made horizontal cuts in the totals of department estimates and has then sent to the City Council an unitemized appropriation bill providing lump sums for the departments. This created the semblance of a desire to economize, but it left the heads of departments and the City Council in a state of confusion, as they could not know to what items the reductions should be applied."

It has often happened that the Mayor has not deemed it necessary to consult the department heads at all with reference to their requests, but has made his horizontal cuts in the most summary fashion.

After an examination of the annual budget, the Mayor sends to the City Council his recommendations in the form of an appropriation bill, allowing certain lump sums to each of the city departments under his control. To support and explain this appropriation bill the City Council has before it only the estimates originally submitted to the Mayor by the several departments; the total of these estimates agreeing in no respect with the Mayor's budget. Neither the City Council nor the department heads know what items in the estimates have been reduced or rejected by the Mayor. The committee on appropriations of the City Council, a committee of the whole, holds public hearings on the budget in an endeavor to obtain some light on the situation. These hearings are not, however, attended by the public. The questions which the committee directs to the department heads must be general in scope, because there is not any definite information in the possession of the City Council. It would be necessary for the committee on appropriations to request the department heads to submit entirely new sets of budget estimates which would agree in their totals with the recommendations made by the Mayor, if it were desired by the committee to make a competent study of the annual budget. No such request, however, is made. The committee confine itself to general questions which are concerned chiefly with the adequacy of the appropriation recommended by the Mayor. In view of the fact that the City Council has not before it sufficient information upon which to base its inquiry, it cannot properly exercise the duty imposed upon it by the charter amendments of reducing the items in the Mayor's budget. An important purpose of the framers of the charter is thus defeated, for the City Council does not act as a competent check upon the Mayor.

The installation of a scientifically made budget, according to the New York Bureau of Municipal Research, would require among others the adoption of the following improvements which are not used in the Boston budget:

1. Installation of unit costs systems, expense and liability accounting, central financial control, time reports, proper pay roll methods and an effective organization for audit.

2. Adoption of definite and adequate classifications or appropriation titles, making them standard and adhering to their use from year to year.

3. Preparation of the budget estimates on uniform schedules, which provide for showing in detail all information necessary as a basis for judgment in determining the amounts which should be appropriated for each function or purpose.

4. Preparation of the budget estimates sufficiently in advance of the time of adoption of the budget and careful examination thereof by the proper authorities.

5. Adoption and publication of a tentative budget and holding of public hearings thereon.

6. Inclusion in the budget ordinance or resolution of such restrictions as will insure its administration for the functions and purposes for which the appropriations were requested.

The present budget system of Boston as it is carried out in practice has not sufficient protection against any of the following abuses:

1. The use of funds for purposes other than those for which they were granted.

2. The incurring of liabilities in excess of appropriations.

3. The charging to bond issue of labor and materials employed on maintenance work.

4. The running of departments at a relatively low rate of expenditure for a considerable portion of the year in order that a part of the annual appropriation may be available for increasing the compensation of favorites just prior to the close of the fiscal year and making these increases the basis for the next year's allowance.

5. The running of departments at a relatively high rate of expenditure at the beginning of the year, thereby exhausting appropriations before the year is ended and forcing the transfer of moneys from the Reserve Fund to meet the unnecessarily created emergency.

6. The expenditures of year-end balances of appropriations in a wasteful manner, instead of permitting these balances to revert to the treasury.

7. The consideration by department heads of all funds appropriated to their departments as subjects of unlimited official discretion.

The Finance Commission is of the opinion that the adoption of a budget similar to that of New York may eventually be of advantage to Boston. Its installation, however, in Boston would necessitate many and varied changes in the present budget system. Among these changes would be that of the system of accounting in the City Auditor's office, the formation of a Bureau of Municipal Investigation and Statistics, the changing of the forms of estimates, and various other changes not only far reaching but expensive. The commission believes that the adoption of the New York budget system as a whole for this year would be too sudden and radical.

The Mayor of Boston, under the charter has the power to follow many of the advantageous features of the New York budget without introducing a new system.

III. RECOMMENDATIONS.

The Finance Commission recommends:

1. That the Mayor make a study of the needs of the departments.
2. That the Mayor have an analysis of the estimates made by a competent person, other than a department head.
3. That the Mayor, basing his judgment upon such information, cut or reduce the items of the estimates.
4. That the Mayor shall not make horizontal reductions in the totals of the departmental estimates.
5. That the Mayor, in making his budget recommendations to the City Council, indicate precisely the disallowances and changes he has made in the departmental estimates.
6. That the Mayor in framing the appropriation bill for the year 1915-16 adopt classification titles similar to those of the city of New York, and the City Council, in conformity with this appropriation bill, appropriate the amount of money for each function of the department, item by item.
7. That the preparation of the budget forms for and the investigation of the requested appropriation of one department of the city be given to the Finance Commission so that the utility of the scheme for Boston may be demonstrated according to the New York budget system.

Respectfully submitted,

THE FINANCE COMMISSION,
JOHN R. MURPHY,
Chairman.

BOSTON, November 5, 1914.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor:

SIR,—The commission hereby calls your attention to the manner in which the contract for lighting lamps on the election booths is being carried out, which is not in accordance with its terms.

These booths are used for voting purposes on primary and election days, and are located in the public highways in various parts of the city. At the present time the Election Department states there are fifty-six booths so located.

The present contractor (Thomas McMann, of 49 Burrell street, Ward 17, Roxbury) has had the contract for the last six years, having been given it on September 28, 1908, without competition and at a price of 7 cents per lamp per night. Prior to September 28, 1908, the lamplighters of the city lighted the lamps for 7½ cents per lamp per night, but on a demand of the Lamplighters' Union that the price per lamp be increased to 10 cents, the Election Department gave the unadvertised contract to Thomas McMann at 7 cents. Since 1908 Mr. McMann has yearly been given the contract without competition. From 1908 to 1911 he was paid 7 cents per lamp per night, but on August 16, 1911, the Election Department allowed him to increase his price to 10 cents, stating that the contractor had demanded such an increase because some of the election booths had been withdrawn from the highways, and that the department considered the price "reasonable compensation" for the work.

According to the terms of the present contract, dated August 4, 1914, the city undertook to furnish the lanterns, the oil, globes and wicks, and Mr. McMann agreed "to hang and place and to light and keep lighted two lanterns on each of the voting booths * * * each and every night from August 24, 1914, until January 1, 1915," and whenever "extensions on the booths are open and ready a third lantern upon each of said extensions." He further agreed "to keep said lanterns placed and lighted at or before sunset each night until sunrise next morning." On one booth, located at the junction of Lenox and Sawyer streets, he contracted to hang and light and keep lighted four lanterns.

As compensation for this work the contractor was to receive from the City of Boston the sum of ten cents per lamp per night. Under the terms of this contract, therefore, the city was required to furnish the lanterns and accessories and the contractor was to furnish only the lamplighter. Not only does the city furnish these accessories, but it undertakes to deliver 5-gallon cans of oil, etc., at the various booths, so that the lamplighter in visiting the booths can easily and readily supply the lamps with the necessary equipment.

Representatives of the commission made an inspection of all the booths located in the public highways of the city on Friday night, October 23, 1914, with the following result:

Fifty-four booths (instead of 56) were found located on the highways, and of this number only 9 booths had 2 lamps; 2 of these 9 booths had unlighted lamps on them; 39 booths had 1 lamp, 5 having lamps not lighted; 6 booths had neither lamps nor lights.

Thus, out of a total of 54 booths which were supposed to have two or more lighted lamps on them, it was found that only 7 were lighted in accordance with the terms of the contract.

For one month prior to October 23, 1914, a representative of the commission has kept note of two booths in his district, and he has reported to the commission that these booths have had only one lamp lighted on them during this period, and on several nights even this lamp was not lighted.

Mr. McMann was questioned at the office of the commission and as he stated that he kept neither books nor papers relating to this lighting business, nothing of a definite nature could be obtained from him. He testified that he made up his monthly bills for the lighting service by taking the number of booths, multiplying it by the number of lamps which were supposed to be on each booth, and then multiplying the product by the number of days in a month, and rendered the bill accordingly. He has no system whereby reports of unlighted lamps or lamps missing are made to him and therefore gives the city no credit for lamps not lighted. He further stated that he employs for this lighting work a man by the name of "Jimmy" (whose surname he could not give), who lives somewhere on Parker Hill (the street he could not give), and that he furnished said "Jimmy" with a horse and carriage which he estimated was worth about $35 a week, and paid him $10 a week for his work; or an average cost of approximately $190 a month, whereas he receives from the city on this contract approximately $350 a month, a profit of $160 a month.

"Jimmy" was located, and when questioned turned out to be James E. Murphy, who stated that he started out on his work of lighting the booths at noon-time each day and finished his work about 7 p. m. He further testified that many of the booths have had only one lantern on them for some time past, and that he had not reported this fact to Mr. McMann because he was afraid he might be blamed for the loss of the lamps.

The Election Department stated that no supervision over the work of Mr. McMann was attempted, inasmuch as the department depended upon the policemen of the district to report the need of new lamps or the fact that the booths were not properly lighted, but no record could be shown where complaints had been received from the Police Department.

It is interesting to note that, while the Election Department inaugurated the policy of using school basements for polling places in the year 1909, and has thereby decreased the number of booths on the highways from 116 to 54, the amount of money paid to Mr. McMann has not varied greatly from the amount paid to the lamplighters in the years prior to 1909, although there were twice as many booths located on the streets for the same comparative periods. Thus, in 1903 it cost $1,273.70 to light 121 booths for four and one-quarter months, while in 1913 it cost $322 more to light sixty-nine booths less for one month more. The table on page 1051 shows that the present policy of the Department is much more expensive for the city than the old arrangement:

The Commission recommends:

1. That the Election Department estimate the number of nights inadequate lighting has been furnished by the contractor and deduct this amount from his monthly bill.

2. That the Election Department abrogate the contract with the present contractor and employ a person at a weekly wage to light the lamps on the booths.

Respectfully submitted,

THE FINANCE COMMISSION,
by JOHN R. MURPHY,
Chairman.

EXTENSION OF EDWARD EVERETT SCHOOL YARD.

The Mayor has formally approved the vote of the Board of Commissioners of the Schoolhouse Department in the taking of land for the extension of the yard of the Edward Everett School, Dorchester. The communication of Chairman Lomasney is as follows:

November 2, 1914.

To the Honorable Mayor of Boston:

SIR,—At a meeting of the Board held this day, and in compliance with chapter 473 of the Acts of 1901, it was voted, subject to your approval, to take, for the purpose of extending the yard of the Edward Everett School, Dorchester, a certain piece or parcel of land, bounded and described as follows:

Beginning at a point on the northerly side of Peverell street, at the westerly corner of land now occupied by the City of Boston; thence running northwesterly by northerly line of Peverell street 3,710 feet to land now or formerly of Sarah O. Chase; thence turning and running northeasterly by land now or formerly of Sarah O. Chase 114.60 feet to land of the City of Boston; thence turning and running southeasterly by land of said city 37.00 feet to land of said city; thence turning and running southwesterly by land of said city 117.59 feet to the point of beginning, and contains 4,296 square feet of land. Be all said measurements more or less.

We submit herewith the written opinion of the Superintendent of Schools thereon, and respectfully request your approval of an expenditure, not exceeding 25 per cent over assessed valuation, for carrying out the same.

Respectfully,

J. P. LOMASNEY,

Chairman Schoolhouse Commission.

SHORT-TERM MUNICIPAL NOTES.

The issuance at an attractive rate of bonds or notes having only a comparatively short time to run is commending itself to municipalities as the best way out of the financing dilemma in which the war has placed them. Following the sale by New York city of $100,000,000 one, two and three-year serial notes, city of Toronto now comes out with $2,000,000 debenture 5½s, maturing $750,000 1915, $650,000 1916, and $600,000 1917. At a price of par, to yield 5½ per cent, the return compares with 4.65 per cent on the last issue of Toronto debentures sold a few months ago.

THE WIDENING OF OAKLAND STREET.

The Board of Street Commissioners have presented the Mayor the following report relative to the proposed widening and improvement of Oakland street, Dorchester:

November 2, 1914.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—In reply to your communication of the 30th instant, requesting a report on the proposed widening of Oakland street, Dorchester, from Rexford street to Mattapan square, I am directed by the Board of Street Commissioners to submit the following:

This widening has been urged by the Mattapan Improvement Association as a general public improvement. The Board has on file a petition signed by about seventy citizens and property owners of the Mattapan district asking that the widening be made. At a hearing given by the Board on the petition it was brought out that it was the intention of some of the land owners on Oakland street to erect apartment houses in the street on the present lines. The erection of these buildings, it was claimed, would prevent the widening of the street for many years to come, if not indeed forever. At the present time most of the land necessary for the widening is vacant.

Oakland street, between Rexford street and Mattapan square, is now fifty feet wide. The width would seem to be ample for a street in that part of the city. The Board is of the opinion that such a width would be sufficient for the traffic that the street will be called upon to bear; but, some years ago, in the abolition of a grade crossing in this street, the special commission appointed by the Superior Court for this crossing widened and constructed the street to 80 feet between Rockdale street and Richmond road, which is about one-third of the street's length.

If it were not for the widening already accomplished the Board would not favor the proposal for the widening between Rexford street and Mattapan square. The Board is of the opinion, however, that it would be an incongruous condition to have the street 80 feet wide in its middle portion and the more important part of it, leading into a busy thoroughfare, 40 feet wide.

The street itself will in time be an important cross-town thoroughfare between Mattapan and Hyde Park and West Roxbury, if it is not already such.

At the request of this department the Building Department has withheld granting two additional petitions for permits to erect buildings on this part of Oakland street until the question of the proposed widening is disposed of.

For the Board of Street Commissioners,
J. J. O'CALLAGHAN, Secretary.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE GRANTED.

The Mayor has approved the order of the School Committee granting leave of absence to William C. Crawford, Master of the Boston Industrial School for Boys, without loss of pay December 7-11 inclusive, that he may attend the annual convention of the National Society for the Promotion of Industrial Education, at Richmond, Virginia, and also visit schools in New York, Philadelphia, Newark, Montclair and Carlisle. Expenses are allowed in an amount not to exceed $80.

REJECTION OF CLAIMS.

The Law Department on November 3, 1914, disapproved twenty-four claims against the city.

In sixteen of these no amounts were specified. The other eight claims aggregated $307.25.

These claims are as follows:

Two against the Schoolhouse Department—one of amount not specified and one for $27.25.

Two against the Public Buildings Department—one of amount not specified, and one for $72.

Four against the Park and Recreation Department—three of amounts not specified, and one for $9.25.

Seven against the Public Works Department—four of amounts not specified, and three aggregating $175.

Three which have already been settled by insurance companies—one of amount not specified, and the other two aggregating $33.75.

One against the Cemetery Department, for amount not specified, in which suit has been brought.

Five, of amounts not specified, against the Public Works Department, in which suits have been entered.

These claims were rejected on the ground that there was no legal liability against the city.

PERMITS FOR GARAGES.

The Mayor has formally approved the orders of the Board of Street Commissioners, granting permits for the erection of garages to the following-named persons:

Octavius T. Howe, 154 Beacon street, Ward 11.

William F. Brennan, 4 Commonwealth terrace, Ward 25.

Margaret R. Brebaut, 62-74 Orchard street, Ward 22.

Robert D. Farrington, 35 Richards street, Ward 23.

Aron Josephson, 21 Mascot street, Ward 24.

Curtis & Pope Lumber Company, 30-32 Reading street, Ward 17.

Kate M. Gleason, 50 Sturgis road, Ward 23.

Joseph Ventola, 1 Jackson street, Ward 26.

CENTRAL SUPPLY STATION.

Mayor Curley is in favor of the establishment of a central storehouse for supplies, purchased for the several departments of the city, and has addressed the following communication to Superintendent Doherty of the Supply Department:

MAYOR'S OFFICE,
CITY HALL, BOSTON,
November 5, 1914.

D. FRANK DOHERTY,
Superintendent of Supplies:

SIR,—The necessity for the establishment of a central storehouse for supplies purchased and to be used by various departments of the city, in my opinion, would be advisable.

The availability of the quarters formerly occupied by the Wire Department on Wareham street could, at a slight expense, serve this purpose admirably.

I would appreciate your considering at once with the Superintendent of Public Buildings, Richard A. Lynch, and making a thorough investigation of the said premises, reporting to us your findings and recommendations thereon within the present week.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

A GREAT WORK AT LAWRENCE.

Paul Hannagan, Acting Mayor and Commissioner of Engineering of the city of Lawrence, has most successfully accomplished a magnificent municipal service in the laying of about ten miles of grouted granite block pavement upon a sand base, and so excellent has proved the general character of the work that from fifteen to twenty carloads of blocks are received daily by the city for this class of highway construction.

The work is all done by day labor and the success attending his effort has resulted in Mr. Hannagan applying for letters patent upon his paving process, and with especial reference to the use of a squeegee for the removal of the excess grout from the surface and a subsequent smoothing operation involving the application of water by means of a brush.

At an initial cost of about $3 per square yard a street surface of substantially permanent character is provided, the maintenance charges on this construction being practically nil. The surface obtained is dustless, wears but little under the heaviest traffic, and while fairly smooth is still sufficiently uneven to furnish a footing for horses even in unfavorable weather. The principal trunk highways entering and leaving the city, as well as a number of side streets, have been built in this way, and general application of this method of construction is being made by the city.

The first use of granite block paving with cement grouting on a sand base was on Park street, Lawrence, 12 years ago, and to-day the surface of this roadway, which is a downtown lateral thoroughfare, shows little evidence of its long service. The street resembles an asphalt pavement in appearance, and only on close inspection can the blocks be seen.

On Merrimac street a section one mile long has been paved in this way with second-hand blocks 35 years old, taken from Broadway and Essex street. In the first year of its service it has not been necessary to expend a cent in maintenance and no sign of cracking has appeared, even at the edges of the roadway. Paving with new blocks has lately been completed on Broadway from the Andover to the Methuen town line, as well as on east and west streets leading toward Haverhill and Lowell. The Massachusetts Highway Commission has requested the city authorities to pave a section of Jackson street comprising a part of a state highway in this manner.

The blocks used are the so-called standard Boston block and are purchased direct from New England quarries, ready for laying. These must be at least 8 inches deep, from 3½ to 4½ inches wide, and from 10 to 13 inches long, with sharp and straight edges, forming right angles at intersections both horizontal and vertical. The faces are straight split and are required to be free from bunches or depressions; but the presence of voids is considered advantageous since they key the cement grout and greatly increase the rigidity of the pavement. The blocks are not dressed by the city.

In laying this pavement the roadway is excavated to a smooth surface to a depth of 9½ inches below the surface of the completed pavement. It is then rolled, and a sand cushion 2 to 3 inches deep is applied, the sand being useful mainly in laying the blocks to line and enabling the builder to compensate for varying heights in the blocks. The blocks are then laid by hands generally in parallel courses at right angles to the street axis. The longitudinal joints are broken by a minimum lap of 2 inches, sufficient sand being used under the blocks to bring them to the grade and form of the finished roadway after ramming. Blocks are laid with a clearance of $\frac{3}{8}$ inch on all four sides. The blocks are stiffened with a sprinkling in the joints of clean pea gravel used very sparingly and are then rammed and wet down for the reception of the grout. The latter is composed of half-and-half Portland cement and sand, mixed on the street in inclined steel boxes carried on rollers, each box holding $1\frac{1}{2}$ bags of sand and $1\frac{1}{2}$ bags of cement, with a sliding gate at one end, handles and a mounting of 12 inches above the ground. Enough water is added to make a thin grout and extreme care is taken to mix the ingredients thoroughly.

The wet pavement is covered about $\frac{1}{2}$ inch deep to allow for shrinking, but before the initial set begins, all surplus cement is removed from the surface with a rubber squeegee, hoe or trowel and returned to the mixing box for further use. Shortly after removing the surplus cement and before the grout is set the pavement is smoothed by water applied with a kalsomine or other smooth brush, brushing across the joints and leaving no cement on the paving. For ten days the street is kept closed and wet as often as needed to keep the pavement from being dry for any length of time. The resulting surface, while smooth to the eye, preserves the roughness of the blocks, prevents skidding of automobiles and allows no dust to arise from the grinding of the cement surface that otherwise would be left on the roadway. One paver can lay about 50 square yards of blocks in eight hours. A crown of 5 to 6 inches is generally used, and the streets are paved up to the curbs, no flagstones being employed at crossings.

On steep grades where street railway tracks are located, the city now provides special paving rails, and leaves a $\frac{1}{2}$ -inch to a $\frac{3}{8}$ -inch groove between blocks to facilitate the handling of vehicular traffic without slippage. These grooves are formed by sweeping sand over the blocks after the cement has had about fifteen minutes in which to set following its pouring from the mixing box. Outside the tracks the roadway is left smooth with the usual paving as described above. The city also does the paving between street railway tracks on level thoroughfares.

NEW RECORD BOSTON EXPORTS.

All export records from the Port of Boston for recent years were broken in October. The total money value of merchandise clearing through the Boston custom house was $8,426,167.

This is more than double the exports for September and is $1,903,177 larger than for the corresponding month a year ago. In the first two months of the war, exports from this port showed a decrease of $6,007,601. But beginning with October there was a decided improvement, exports for week ended October 16, for instance, — $3,088,667, — being nearly as large as for the entire month of August.

The exports from Boston for the first three months of the war compared with corresponding period a year ago follow:

	1914.	1913.	Decrease.
August.....	$3,153,394	$7,119,032	$3,965,638
September...	4,185,524	6,227,487	2,041,963
October....	8,426,167	6,522,990	*1,903,177
Total....	$15,765,085	$19,869,509	$4,104,424

* Increase.

INCORPORATIONS IN STATE.

New business incorporations under Massachusetts laws in October numbered 110 with total authorized capital of $4,469,220, compared with 106 in September with authorized capital of $7,270,200. In August 107 companies were organized with total capital of $5,442,100.

The number of new companies formed in October is somewhat smaller than a year ago when 122 were organized with authorized capital of $18,410,000, an exceptionally large amount for one month.

During the first ten months of the current year the Massachusetts secretary of state has issued charters to 1,364 new companies with total authorized capital of $108,047,620. This compares with but 1,254 corporations with $140,155,600 in the same period last year.

LAND WILL BE SOLD.

The Commissioners of the Park and Recreation Department have voted to sell the land at the corner of Seaver street and Walnut avenue and at the corner of Harold and Seaver streets, Roxbury. Mayor Curley has approved the sale of the property.

The formal communication from Secretary D. J. Byrne of the department to Mayor Curley, declares:

"By vote of this Board, I am directed to notify you that this department cannot use, for park purposes, the land at the corner of Seaver street and Walnut avenue, and also the land at the corner of Harold and Seaver streets, and would therefore respectfully recommend that these two plots be placed on sale.

"Very respectfully yours,

"Park and Recreation Commission,
"D. J. BYRNE, Secretary."

GOVERNMENT CONTROL OF STATIONS.

Mayor Curley conferred with Hon. Byron R. Newton, Third Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, upon the 5th instant, relative to Federal control of the quarantine station, also of the pest station for lepers on Penikese Island.

The Mayor declared the Federal authorities are seeking to get control of all quarantine and pest stations on the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts so that this country may be better able to prevent the introduction of any plague from Europe as the result of the war.

Mayor Curley is in favor of turning over the quarantine station on Gallop's Island to the Federal Government, and also believes that the State should be equally willing to have the Federal Government handle the station at Penikese Island.

PROCEEDINGS OF CITY COUNCIL.

Thursday, October 29, 1914.

Adjourned special meeting of the City Council, held in the Council Chamber, City Hall, at eleven o'clock a. m., President McDONALD in the chair. Absent, Coun. Coleman.

The meeting was held subject to adjournment, and to consider the proposed ordinance reported at the last meeting of the City Council repealing the ordinance of 1912 in regard to qualifications for membership in the Fire Department.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. Chairman, I move that we take a recess subject to the call of the Chair.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. Chairman, I am not acquainted with the reason for this proposed recess, but I have an idea that it is for the purpose of discussing the legality of some phases of this question concerning the height of firemen. It seems to me that whatever takes place concerning this matter ought to take place in open session and be made a matter of record. The Law Department is here, represented by Mr. Sullivan, at the request of the Council, to answer certain questions concerning the legal aspect of this matter. I would have preferred an opinion from the Corporation Counsel in writing, but, in order to facilitate matters, I think it was universally agreed upon among the members that Mr. Sullivan should come here in person in order that we might push this matter along, so that whatever action we might take would become effective; so that, if the proposed ordinance is passed, certain applicants for positions as firemen may have an opportunity to take out their papers and take the examination on or before a certain date. I would like to have this made a matter of record. If we have any hearing in executive session, what is said and done there becomes a question of veracity between the different members, and there might be a controversy later as to the opinion of the Law Department. We are a happy little family here for a while longer at least, considerably longer, I hope, and I think we ought to take the matter up in the open. In the executive session there is nobody present but the members and the reporters, and I think it should be made a matter of public record. For that reason I certainly trust that no recess will be taken for the purpose of having the opinion of the Law Department in this matter in executive session, where there will be no record made of it.

Coun. BALLANTYNE—Mr. President, I have no objection to this being threshed out in open board. I understand, however, that several members think it would be unfair to the Corporation Counsel to have him come in here and have every word that is passed placed upon the records, without his having had proper notice beforehand as to just what is wanted of him. I am going to leave the matter entirely in the hands of the man who asked for the postponement. Coun. Collins asked for the postponement at the last meeting, and I am going to leave it with him. If he prefers to have whatever is said said here in open session, I will agree with him in that; if in executive session, I will agree to that.

Coun. COLLINS—Mr. President, in matters of this kind, which may come before the body, it has been our practice at some meeting previous to the one held for final discussion of a matter to have questions put to the Corporation Counsel, giving to the Corporation Counsel ample opportunity to give an answer in writing. That has not been done in this case. When there has not been that opportunity, it has been the custom to have the Corporation Counsel appear before us in executive session. Accordingly, I see no reason for departing from our practice of having meetings in executive session, at which the reporters are present, and if the Council sees its way clear to do so the stenographer can be called in and questions can be put to the Corporation Counsel, to be answered by him, and to be made a matter of record. I see no reason for having the questions and answers put here in open board. In my opinion it will save time for us to have it done in executive session. I believe we will make more progress by having it done in our executive meeting.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, if the Council will vote for a motion that I will make, providing the motion to have a recess is withdrawn,—for the moment,—that a record of what takes place in executive session be kept by the official stenographer for the benefit of the Council, not to be made a matter of public record except for our own special benefit,—I will agree to that. I believe that request of mine is a reasonable one. I believe I will be voted down on the question of taking a recess, but I believe in granting a courteous and reasonable request of every member. Such a request as I now make is, I think, a reasonable one. The fact that the reporters are going to be present in executive meeting does not mean that everything that is said or done will appear in the public press. It simply means that they will state, as they interpret it, the opinion of the head of the Law Department on this question. I think it is of some consequence to have an opinion, and to have it made a matter of record, and I think it should be taken down by the stenographer. Of course, I shall vote against a recess, believing that we should consider the matter in open board here, in order that we may have an official record of what is best. But if the member who moved the recess, Coun. Kenny, will withdraw his motion, and then allow me to make a motion—if the Chair will entertain it—that the official stenographer be called in and make a verbatim report of what transpired there, in order that we may have his statement of the legal aspect of the matter for our own benefit, if any question arises now or later, I will be satisfied to vote for the recess immediately afterwards. Otherwise I shall vote "No" on the question of taking a recess for the reason given.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, it seems to me we are making a mountain out of a molehill in this matter. We have already debated this very simple question nearly fifteen minutes. This meeting was called for the purpose of conferring with the Corporation Counsel. It may not be so important a matter as the member who has just taken his seat would lead us to believe. It, of course, should be transacted carefully and accurately. The Corporation Counsel has been invited to confer with us. I presume he is going to discuss the law question with some of the laymen on the Board, and there may be suggestions that he will have to make. His suggestions and explanations may be misunderstood, and may have to be explained. It is entirely improper, under those circumstances, to ask the Corporation Counsel to come in here to a conference in open session with all the members. That is not the purpose for which this meeting was called, and I hope my motion will prevail.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I am going to take up just a minute longer. I believe eleven minutes have already been taken up, and I have taken one or two minutes in discussing the proposition. If it had not been for my vote at the last meeting this matter would have been settled then and would not be up before us here to-day. But I took the ground that the members who wanted more light should have an opportunity to obtain it and that an opportunity for a continuance should be given. My vote would have killed the attempt to postpone action. I think my request that we have an official record kept of this conference ought to be granted, but I am satisfied that I will get my own vote on this proposition, and that is all.

Coun. Kenny's motion to take a recess, subject to the call of the Chair, was declared carried. Coun. WATSON doubted the vote and asked for the yeas and nays. The motion was carried, yeas 7, nays 1, Coun. WATSON voting nay.

The members retired into executive session at 11:34 a. m., and reconvened in the Council Chamber and were called to order by President McDONALD at 12:27 p. m.

The following opinion of the Corporation Counsel was read:

Boston, October 29, 1914.

To the Honorable the City Council:

Gentlemen,—In reply to your request I state that it is my opinion that an ordinance passed in 1912 fixing the height of firemen at a minimum of 5 feet 7 inches, as a condition of eligibility for the Fire Department, is not valid, as it is in conflict with Revised Laws, chapter 19, section 11, which establishes the right to admission to the Fire Department of any person 5 feet 5 inches in height who is otherwise qualified. This right in my opinion was not taken away by Statutes of 1904, chapter 194, as amended by Statutes of 1911, chapter 352.

Yours respectfully,

JOHN A. SULLIVAN,
Corporation Counsel.

The opinion was placed on file.

The question came on the passage of the ordinance reported at the last meeting, which was as follows:

An Ordinance Concerning Members of the Fire Department.

Be it ordained, etc.:

Section 1. Chapter four of the Ordinances of 1912 and chapter one of the Ordinances of 1913 are hereby repealed.

The question came on the passage of the ordinance.

Coun. BALLANTYNE—Mr. President, this matter was up for discussion at adjournment of the last meeting of the Council. I occupied some little time upon it at that meeting, and I am going to take but a moment at this time. I want to say that I gladly agreed to postpone action last Monday, for the purpose of allowing my brother on the opposite side (Coun. Collins) to obtain an opinion of the Corporation Counsel as to the legality of the ordinance, stating that I was not afraid of the opinion that the Corporation Counsel would render. I am perfectly satisfied with the opinion rendered to-day, and have nothing further to say on the subject other than this, that I am going to vote for the repeal of the ordinance, that I am going to vote for this ordinance, repealing chapter 4 of the Ordinances of 1912 and chapter 1 of the Ordinances of 1913.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I shall vote against the repeal. I think I have always made it clear, since I came into this Council, that on legal questions it is the duty of members of the Council to consult with the city Corporation Counsel, where there appears to be some doubt as to our action. But there have been times, Mr. President, where members of the Council, starting out with that desire, have felt obliged to differ with the opinion of the Corporation Counsel. When we reach a point where we find ourselves unable to agree with his opinion, I think it then becomes our duty to stand upon our own judgment, much as I regret having to do so. That in the position in which I find myself this morning, I differ with the opinion of the Corporation Counsel. I cannot concur with him in his opinion, which has just been read here, that the ordinance passed by this Council in June, 1912, is illegal—I think he is wrong. Therefore, I am going to act upon my own judgment and am going to vote against the repeal of the ordinance. I do not suppose there is any special object now to be gained in discussing the law in this matter. My friend from Roxbury, if I may mention his name, Coun. Ballantyne, I have no doubt had a conference with the Corporation Counsel before he came here last Monday, and no doubt they discussed the matter to his satisfaction. In view of what has happened the member from Roxbury, who is not a lawyer, would hardly have come in here and undertaken to discuss these statutes and given his opinion, as he did, without having been in conference with the Corporation Counsel. I say that—

Coun. BALLANTYNE—Mr. President, I would like to rise to make a correction. I would state to my brother on the right that I had no conference with the Corporation Counsel previous to the meeting last Monday, but some time previous to that I stated my opinion to the Corporation Counsel and asked him to read over the law and consider it and be prepared to give an opinion. He gave no opinion then, expressed no opinion at the time.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I did not offer those remarks as a criticism of the gentleman. On the contrary, I think he would be quite within his rights in going to the Corporation Counsel in the matter. But I think most of us at the last meeting were somewhat amused by the offhand manner in which our friend discussed the statutes, when after all it appears to have been a matter of considerable doubt to the Corporation Counsel himself, because within ten minutes of our re-assembling in this Chamber this morning he stated to us outside that it was a matter where there was considerable doubt. However, I have no criticism to offer of the member's position. In acting as he did he was perfectly within his rights and was acting as he should have done under the circumstances if he desired the assistance of the Corporation Counsel. As I have stated, I do not propose to discuss the law, but it must be manifest to every fair-minded man who examines into this question that it was at least the intention of the Legislature in the spring of 1911, when it passed chapter 352, to give this Council the right to determine the height and weight of men who might be called on to render service to our Fire Department. That statute was a ratification or re-affirmation of the Statute of 1904, chapter 194. Mr. President, it is well known to everybody, it is a matter of common knowledge, that in 1910 an agitation sprung up in favor of what might be called the "shorties" for appointment in the Fire Department. The then Fire Commissioner had declined, acting under the Statute of 1904, chapter 194, to make appointments to the Fire Department of men who were under 5 feet 7 inches in height, and he rested his right upon that Statute of 1904. Thereupon the agitation arose. I remember, we must all recall, the newspaper articles upon the subject, the members of the Senate who had violent discussions with the Governor at that time, because he declined to sign a bill, as I remember, making it arbitrary for the Fire Commissioner to make appointments of men under 5 feet 7 inches in height. Chapter 352 of the Acts of 1911 was a compromise measure, the Governor taking the position that the City Council should have the right to determine the qualifications as to height and weight. A bill or measure had been before the Legislature, which passed and went back from the Governor for reenactment and finally became a law. That was the result and that was brought about with the new modifications after a compromise. They were trying to force the Fire Commissioner into appointing men to the Fire Department who were less than 5 feet 7 inches in height. By this legislation they intended to accomplish this in another way, otherwise why did they pass this act at all? Why the agitation? Why the effort to have men under 5 feet 7 inches in height appointed if they did not regard the Statute of 1904 as being preventative? It seems, according to Corporation Counsel Sullivan, that the Fire Commissioner, being bound by the Statute of 1896, reaffirmed in the Revised Laws, chapter 19, had not a right to exclude a man necessarily if he failed to measure to a height in excess of 5 feet 5 inches. It comes right down after all, Mr. President, in the last analysis, to the question of efficiency or inefficiency. Coming to the merits of the proposition, I suppose there has been no matter before the City Council in the past four or five years that has been made a football of more than this matter. I suppose there has been no matter of a public character that has been more misunderstood than this very matter of the height and weight of firemen. In 1910, when the agitation started, the present Mayor of Boston was a member of this Council, and he was in favor of the short fireman. He made a speech here on the 16th of May, 1910. I will read from page 152 of the minutes of that year. He was replying to remarks by Coun. Collins. He was advocating an order in favor of short firemen, the height suggested at that time being 5 feet 5 inches. We have had a resolution here from him at one time, also, in favor of a height of 5 feet 4 inches. An ordinance to that effect was introduced by the present Mayor in April, 1911, suggesting a height of 5 feet 4 inches and a weight of 130 pounds. You will find that on page 125 of the minutes of 1911. The present Mayor on May 16, 1910,—and I will quote him literally,—said:

"This is the only fire department in the entire state of Massachusetts, or, that I know of, in the United States, where a 5 foot 7 limit is established."

I am not reviewing this for the purpose of making any strictures upon or criticisms of the Mayor, but I am only referring to it to show that the question has been misunderstood, that the people who should be cognizant and in possession of the facts have not been and are not in possession of the facts to-day I fear. At that particular time, when Mayor Curley made that statement, or rather a little later in the year, on August 22, 1910, we had a communication from the then Fire Commissioner, Francis M. Carroll. This is what Mr. Carroll said in his response to the City Council to a resolution from this Council on this particular matter:

"Under the present law"—he was referring then, Mr. President, to the Statute of 1904—"the Fire Commissioner has the authority to fix the height regulation, and the minimum has been placed at 5 feet 7 inches. From this fact and from the further fact that the Civil Service Commissioners in examining applicants for the Fire Department do not reject candidates because of failure in height requirements a heavy burden has been put upon this office to make explanation of our refusal to appoint men under 5 feet 7 inches in height who were on the Civil Service list. The commissioner has also received innumerable requests that the height limit be reduced."

"It therefore becomes advisable, in order that there may be a satisfactory understanding of what the attitude of this department shall be, that a definite statement of policy in this regard should be made. Having this purpose in mind, I have investigated the requirements and tests to which the more important cities of the United States subject their candidates for the fire department, and as a result of this investigation, and of what I have myself observed, I have come to the conclusion that it would be imprudent and perhaps dangerous to change the present minimum requirement as to height for probationers in this department."

And then, farther along in this communication, he says:

"In the absence, however, of a well worked out system based upon tests for brawn, speed and agility, the best practical results are obtained by setting a height standard, and if such a standard is set it cannot wisely be set at less than 5 feet 7 inches, though some of our older and best men would not now be in the department if the present minimum had applied at the time of their admission."

"In New York the minimum requirement is 5 feet 7½ inches for ordinary firemen, and Chief Crocker recently advised me that he was in favor of even larger men; and that for ladder service the rule of the New York department makes the minimum 5 feet 9 inches."

"In Chicago the minimum limit is 5 feet 8 inches, while 5 feet 7 inches is the standard for St. Louis, Baltimore, Cleveland, Buffalo, Detroit, Cincinnati, Milwaukee and Washington. In fact, Philadelphia is the only large city in the country where a lower standard obtains. Appended hereto is a summary of the height and weight requirements in fourteen cities."

"There are frequently met cases of hardship where men are one-fourth, one-fifth, one-eighth or even one-sixteenth of an inch under the height requirements. Of course, as a practical matter, such slight differences would not affect a man's efficiency for fire service. But while the rule obtains, it must be respected. Nor will a change in the present regulations eliminate this hardship; for at whatever arbitrary limit this minimum may be fixed we shall always find the same sort of hard cases as we do at the present time. The standard for Boston should not be lower than for other great cities."

"For these reasons I do not think it expedient to reduce the present height limit."

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, will the gentleman yield for a question?

Coun. KENNY—I would rather not at this time. The gentleman will be afforded an opportunity when I have finished, and I suggest that he make a minute of what he wishes to ask and ask it when I get through. I will be glad to answer.

Coun. WATSON—I have got a minute already made.

Coun. KENNY (Quoting)—"For these reasons I do not think it expedient to reduce the present height of 5 feet 7 inches, and therefore I am unable to comply with the request of the City Council."

Commissioner Carroll was not the only commissioner who adopted that position and that attitude. Fire Commissioner Wells for a number of years administered the office of Fire Commissioner with great ability and was looked upon as a man perhaps as well versed in fire fighting as any man in the country outside of Chief Crocker. Mr. Wells came before this Council and advised us not to reduce the height below 5 feet 7 inches or the weight below 140 pounds. Other fire commissioners also adopted that attitude. That was the policy of Fire Commissioner Parker. Fire Commissioner Daly took the same position.

So in June, 1912—not because we were at all expert in the matter of determining the matter of height and weight of firemen, as I believe none of us would have made that claim, but because it seemed to us that the Legislature had imposed upon this Council the duty of determining the matter—we looked about for assistance, called to our aid the Fire Commissioner of Boston and his predecessors, went to New York for Fire Commissioner Crocker's opinion, looked over the entire country and saw that, taking the fifteen larger cities of the country, with the exception of one, every city called for a height requirement of at least 5 feet 7 inches, and in the case of Chicago, Brooklyn and New York even more than 5 feet 7 inches—and with that advice and assistance and light, this Council passed the ordinance which it did in June, 1912, establishing the height at 5 feet 7 inches and the weight at 140 pounds. There was no politics in that; it was done in the interests of an efficient Fire Department. If there is any one department in our municipal government which should be free from political influence, it is the Fire Department; if there is any one department that should be free from political pressure and allowed to rest its standards upon efficiency, it is the Fire Department. The Fire Department protects the lives and property of all the citizens of Boston, and is the one great department to which the city must and does look to have its affairs administered in such a way as to command the respect of the entire citizenship. Therefore, I say that the Fire Department, above all departments, should be the one free from any charge of contamination or political influence, that its work should be done solely upon merit, that the members of the department should be recognized through only one channel, and that, merit. Acting upon that theory, the Council of 1912 passed that ordinance. A year later another Council changed the ordinance. The personnel of the Council was different in 1913, and the "shorties" had a new advocate in our membership. So, as I say, this matter has been made a football of since this Council came into being. But the Mayor of Boston at that time, Mayor John F. Fitzgerald, was big enough, broad enough, fair enough and sufficiently realized his obligations to the City of Boston to stand up and veto that ordinance. I am going to read his veto. The City Council in May, 1913, amended the ordinance so that a height of 5 feet 6 inches should be established, with a weight of 138 pounds. That was passed by a majority of the members of the Council at that time, the personnel of the body having, as I say, changed, and some new member or members of the Council voting in favor of it. The Mayor's veto message was as follows:

City of Boston.

Office of the Mayor, June 11, 1913.

To the City Council:

I return herewith without my approval an ordinance passed by your honorable body at its meeting of May 29, 1913, amending chapter 4 of the Ordinances of 1912, in regard to the height and weight of firemen. I find upon investigating the question the following facts:

In the following cities the minimum height is 5 feet 7 inches: Detroit, Cleveland, St. Louis, San Francisco (hosemen), Milwaukee, Cincinnati, Buffalo, Washington and Baltimore.

In New York City the minimum height is 5 feet 7½ inches.

In Chicago the minimum height is 5 feet 8 inches.

In San Francisco the minimum height of ladder-men is 5 feet 9 inches.

In the following cities the minimum weight is 140 pounds: New York, Cleveland, San Francisco, Baltimore.

In Detroit and Washington the minimum weight is 145 pounds.

In Chicago and Milwaukee the minimum weight is 150 pounds.

The Fire Commissioner [at that time Fire Commissioner Cole] reports to me that since the minimum height of 5 feet 7 inches and a minimum weight of 140 pounds has been in force in Boston the men appointed under this standard have been exceptionally good from a physical standpoint.

While my refusal to sign the amendment will work an injustice to a few men, I think it will serve the interests of the general public, whose rights should be our chief concern. It is the business of a fireman to protect life and property and there is a limit of physique below which life and property are rendered too insecure. I think the present height of 5 feet 7 inches and the weight of 140 pounds is the minimum for the character of service which the citizens have a right to expect.

Respectfully yours,

JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Mr. President, that closed the question of the height and weight of firemen until the present year, when the Council again received a new acquisition in the form of a member who was willing to support the "shorties." Because of that fact, because there are now in the Council a majority of members who are willing to go back to the ordinance as it was amended in 1913, we are here discussing this matter to-day, and not because the ordinance of 1912 was illegal. That is an eleventh hour proposition; it has come to us to-day for the first time. The Fire Department of the City of Boston and the various departments throughout the Commonwealth have been acting for ten years under the Statute of 1904, and with all due respect and deference, Mr. President, to Mr. Sullivan, the Corporation Counsel, I must disagree with him. Being of that opinion, I am going to vote against the repeal of this ordinance.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, it was my intention before the councilor opposite, who has just taken his seat, took the floor to speak on this proposition, to remain silent, in order that we might complete our business and leave this Chamber. But he has made certain statements, upon one of which I desired to ask him a question during the discussion, in order that I might not have to speak now. That privilege he denied me, so I wish to say just a word at this time. I am but a layman, and do not presume to think or believe for a moment that I know much, if anything, about law. But there is a common-sense point of view or angle from which I am looking at this proposition. I heard the gentleman opposite, who has just taken his seat, refer to the Fire Commissioners who have held office prior to the present commissioner, under other administrations, and quote them. It is strange that, of those he mentioned, not one—Wells, Parker, Carroll or Cole—could be considered practical fire fighters or firemen, so far as active participation in the work was concerned. I don't think that their opinion is much better than my own or than that of some of the other laymen here, but it is a trifle better perhaps than that of one or two whom I have in mind. I have been particularly fair in action on this ordinance. There is no member of this Council who dislikes to disagree with the gentleman who has just taken his seat more than I do. He is seldom wrong, but he is not perfect. Therefore, I must say that, in my opinion, he is wrong now. As far as I am concerned, I don't care whether the ordinance passed in 1912 is legal or illegal. That is of minor importance, so far as I am concerned. The important consideration that I have in mind and that I desire to have cleared up to-day is the question of allowing certain of our fellow citizens who may be of a height below 5 feet 7 inches and more than 5 feet 5 inches to qualify as firemen. I am interested in their behalf. Reference has been made to the action of one of our previous mayors, ex-Mayor Fitzgerald, when he vetoed this measure. He vetoed the measure in all probability on the recommendation of Francis M. Carroll, who was then Fire Commissioner. He had had three months' experience as Fire Commissioner, and his other profession was that of the law. I have been corrected and am told that it was Fire Commissioner Cole. But the gentleman who just took his seat referred to Fire Commissioner Carroll, and I may have become confused. I am being coached, by the way, by an opponent to my side of the case, and perhaps I am taking his correction when I should not take it literally. I do want to say, however, that it does not matter to me whether the ordinance passed in 1912 was legal or not. Of course, we want to have an efficient Fire Department. Do any of us believe that men under 5 feet 7 will not make good firemen? I know a fireman who is 6 feet 5½, and the captain he was under said he wished to get rid of him. If you want to make the Fire Department of Boston efficient, why not go to the Legislature and get a statute passed limiting the height, and doing away with the giants as well as the shorties, if you are looking for efficiency? There is another thing I would like to refer to and that is the disagreement between the two very learned attorneys who are members of the Council. About 45 or 50 minutes ago, when I was taking up some of the Council's time and some of the lead in the pencil of the official stenographer, Coun. Kenny arose and said, "This is a matter of no importance." Then along came the learned councilor from Dorchester if I may so refer to him, and said, "This is a very important matter." I agree with both of them, for the sake of argument. It is an important matter to some and is not important to others. It is a very important matter to each and every red blooded young man in Boston who may be 5 feet 5 inches in height and under 5 feet 7 inches, and who may want to be occupied in a very honest though dangerous occupation. I say—and I say this, although I am not a lawyer, but I say it as a sensible man, or partly sensible at times—that I believe we are interfering with the constitutional rights of citizens of Boston, who may desire to become members of the Boston Fire Department, when we undertake to limit the height to a point under 5 feet 7 inches. I have taken a longer time than I intended, but will be through in a few moments. As I have said, I dislike to disagree with the councilor who preceded me. I think he is one of the most conscientious members of this body or of any legislative body in this Commonwealth. I know he takes his stand on absolutely sound ground, from his point of view. But, as I said awhile ago, he errs in this particular case. I heard him in executive session trying to interrogate the Corporation Counsel as to the intent of the Legislature—not what the Corporation Counsel thought was the intent of the Legislature when it passed a certain question, but what was the intent of the Legislature. That sounded ridiculous to me. How could the Corporation Counsel know what was the intent of any of the members of the Legislature when that particular statute was under consideration? Anything of the sort must be merely a matter of opinion, until it is passed upon by the Supreme Court—and, while we have near members of the Supreme Court here, we have no real members of the Supreme Court who can aid us in the matter. The gentleman opposite will remember that I was pretty broad-minded in the matter of postponing action upon the repeal of this ordinance, because at his suggestion I voted with him before he went abroad to try to settle the war which he anticipated. I agreed not to take action, to wait until he got back, so that he might obtain information, and I now find that he already had a lot of information that I never knew about until to-day as to the height of firemen. So the gentleman took advantage of me. Whether he intended to do so or not I don't know. My vote the other day was a vote of postponement on this matter for him, and him alone. In conclusion, I will say that I am going to vote to give the so-called "shorties" a chance, and I regret the fact that the gentleman who preceded me cannot see it in the same light that I do. I only hope that some of the members who follow me will move the previous question, because I think we are all tired of having so much said upon the matter, when it has now come to a question of votes. What is the use of bothering with more extended discussion?

Coun. COLLINS—Mr. President, the opinion of the Corporation Counsel is given for the purpose of trying to help any member of this body or any head of a department. In my previous experience in this body I have disagreed with the Corporation Counsel on different matters. To-day I disagree with the opinion of the present Corporation Counsel in this matter. Mr. President, we all hold our commissions from the people. We are all responsible to the people. I have given this matter as much attention as I could, have arrived at a conclusion and, as far as I am concerned, that is final—that the law of 1911, framed as it was, was put through for the express purpose and the intention, expressed or implied, of superseding the preceding statute. The Corporation Counsel to-day agreed that a later statute which is in conflict with a preceding statute may expressly or impliedly revoke or repeal the previous statute. That is fundamental. On the point of repealing a pre-existing statute, what does the Statute of 1911, which is a short one, say? It reads—and this is chapter 352—as follows:

"Section 1. Chapter one hundred and ninety-four of the acts of the year nineteen hundred and four is hereby amended by striking out section one and inserting in place thereof the following: Section 1. No regulations concerning the height or weight of persons who shall be eligible to become members of the fire department in any city or town shall be made or enforced except by the city council of the city or by the selectmen of the town.

"Section 2. This act shall take effect upon its passage."

The gentleman from South Boston (Coun. Kenny) referred to an agitation which had taken place just before the passing of the statute. That is interesting only as showing the circumstances under which the statute was passed and in helping us—and this is, as admitted by the Corporation Counsel, a somewhat doubtful question—by throwing some light upon the situation, showing how the statute was passed and what the intention of the Legislature was when it passed it. Mr. President, this statute of 1911 in general terms repeals a pre-existing statute. In 1904 there was a statute, which I shall read. It is chapter 194 of the Acts of 1904:

"Section 1. No regulations concerning the height or weight of persons who shall be eligible to become members of the fire department in any city or town shall be made or enforced except by the city council of such city, by the selectmen of such town, or by the board or officer having authority to make appointments in the fire department of such city or town.

"Section 2. This act shall take effect upon its passage."

That is interesting as showing that the commissioner in 1911 was acting under that statute. He was using his discretion, and in the exercise of that discretion he saw his way clear to permit men who were 5 feet 7 inches in height and 140 pounds in weight to be admitted to the Fire Department. Isn't it interesting that for all these years which have preceded the present one, when all this agitation was going on in 1910, 1911 and before, a question was never raised in regard to the old statute in the Revised Laws—namely, chapter 19, section 11. Isn't it interesting to learn, if there was a decided difference of opinion and it was so clear that these statutes of 1904 and 1911 were in conflict with that, that nobody tested the question in the courts? The court of last jurisdiction in these matters is the Supreme Court of this Commonwealth, and whenever the Corporation Counsel sets forth an opinion which I believe is an error I shall disagree with him. I believe it is my duty, holding my commission from the people, to do so, and to permit the courts to determine what is right and what is wrong. It is particularly significant that in all these years this question was never tested or tried out in the courts. The gentleman from South Boston read an excerpt from the communication from the then Fire Commissioner Carroll of August 13, 1910, and I shall ask that the entire letter of that time, with the accompanying memoranda, be made a part of this record. He did consult experts. He consulted Chief Croker, the man who perhaps above all others in this country was recognized as having the highest standing in considering a question of this kind; and on the basis of the report which he succeeded in getting from Mr. Croker and other data, he concluded that the minimum height should be 5 feet 7 inches and the minimum weight 140 pounds. Following along this line, every commissioner since, including Mr. Wells, has stood by that rule and regulation—that the minimum height should be 5 feet 7 inches and the minimum weight 140 pounds. The small city of Worcester, less than one-quarter the size of Boston, at present has a minimum height regulation of 5 feet 7 inches. Mr. President, this is a question on which men may reasonably differ. Personally the easier thing for me to do would be to vote to repeal this ordinance.

It is more difficult to stand up and follow the great weight of authority—and the weight of authority unquestionably is on the side of maintaining a height of at least 5 feet 7 inches and a weight of at least 140 pounds. There is another question which has not been discussed here, and which, if this ordinance is repealed, will present itself. The Corporation Counsel did not contend that the regulations as to weight were eliminated. The proposed repeal of the ordinance contemplates the wiping out of any weight requirement. The Civil Service Commission that has to pass on these questions in accordance with law, refuses, I understand, at present to accept any regulations as to height and weight unless they are set forth by the City Councils in the respective cities and the selectmen in the various towns, under the statute of 1911. Mr. President, it is an easy thing to drop the bars; it is a harder thing to maintain the standard. Since this question has been before us, the past four years, my heart has been entirely one way. I wanted to drop the bars if I felt that I ought to, but after the fullest consideration I believe it would be wrong to do so. It would tend toward demoralization, producing inefficiency in our Fire Department. I am thoroughly convinced that if this thing continues, some day—perhaps not this year or next year, but some time in the near future—those who are insistent to-day upon dropping the bars may not be praised.

The letter of Francis M. Carroll, Temporary Fire Commissioner, under date of August 22, 1910, with accompanying memoranda, which Coun. Collins was allowed by unanimous consent to have inserted in the record, was as follows:

City of Boston,
Fire Department, Boston, August 13, 1910.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, Mayor:

Sir,—On May 16 the City Council passed the following resolution, which was duly forwarded from the Mayor's office to the Fire Commissioner:

"Ordered, That the Fire Commissioner, through his Honor the Mayor, be requested to reduce the height limit for applicants for fire service to 5 feet 5 inches."

Under the present law the Fire Commissioner has the authority to fix the height regulation, and the minimum has been placed at 5 feet 7 inches. From this fact and from the further fact that the Civil Service Commissioners in examining applicants for the Fire Department do not reject candidates because of failure in height requirements a heavy burden has been put upon this office to make explanation of our refusal to appoint men under 5 feet 7 inches in height who were on the civil service list. The commissioner has also received innumerable requests that the height limit be reduced.

It therefore becomes advisable, in order that there may be a satisfactory understanding of what the attitude of this department shall be, that a definite statement of policy in this regard should be made. Having this purpose in mind, I have investigated the requirements and tests to which the more important cities of the United States subject their candidates for the fire department, and as a result of this investigation, and of what I have myself observed, I have come to the conclusion that it would be imprudent and perhaps dangerous to change the present minimum requirement as to height for probationers in this department.

This decision is reached not because I believe that there is any peculiar sanity in this particular standard, for there may be better methods of examining the fitness of candidates than by the height test. While size and height may be very important qualifications in a police officer, whose physical appearance may have much to do with his efficiency, this is not necessarily true of firemen, with whom agility and brawn may be of much more importance than height.

In the absence, however, of a well worked out system based upon tests for brawn, speed and agility, the best practical results are obtained by setting a height standard, and if such a standard is set it cannot wisely be set at less than 5 feet 7 inches, though some of our older and best men would not now be in the department if the present minimum had applied at the time of their admission.

In New York the minimum requirement is 5 feet 7½ inches for ordinary firemen, and Chief Croker recently advised me that he was in favor of even larger men; and that for ladder service the rule of the New York department makes the minimum 5 feet 9 inches.

In Chicago the minimum limit is 5 feet 8 inches, while 5 feet 7 inches is the standard for St. Louis, Baltimore, Cleveland, Buffalo, Detroit, Cincinnati, Milwaukee and Washington. In fact, Philadelphia is the only large city in the country where a lower standard obtains. Appended hereto is a summary of the height and weight requirements in fourteen cities.

There are frequently met cases of hardship where men are one-fourth, one-eighth or even one-sixteenth of an inch under the height requirements. Of course, as a practical matter, such slight difference would not effect a man's efficiency for fire service. But while the rule obtains, it must be respected. Nor will a change in the present regulations eliminate this hardship; for at whatever arbitrary limit this minimum may be fixed we shall always find the same sort of hard cases as we do at the present time. The standard for Boston should not be lower than for other great cities.

For these reasons I do not think it expedient to reduce the present height limit of 5 feet 7 inches, and therefore I am unable to comply with the request of the City Council.

Respectfully,
FRANCIS M. CARROLL,
Temporary Commissioner.

St. Louis.....	Minimum, 5 feet 7 inches; 135 pounds. Maximum, 6 feet 4 inches; 180 pounds, not under.	Chest measurement 33 inches. Department adheres strictly to height and weight regulations and rigid medical examination.
Newark.....	Minimum, 5 feet 5½ inches; 130 pounds.	Opinion that small men in proportion to weight are better adapted for fire service than what is termed "big men."
Baltimore.....	Minimum, 5 feet 7 inches; 140 pounds. Maximum, 6 feet 4 inches, and not less than 190 pounds.	Chest measurement 34 inches. Stress is laid with reference to brawn. Man might pass height and weight regulations, but is rejected for this reason. Engineer's height waived.
Buffalo.....	Minimum, 5 feet 7 inches; 133 pounds.	Chest measurement 35 inches. Physical examination by department surgeon.
Detroit.....	Minimum, 5 feet 7 inches; 145 pounds; 6 feet, 165 pounds. Maximum, 6 feet 4 inches; 175 pounds.	Age 21 to 30. Physical examination by surgeon.
Cincinnati.....	5 feet 7 inches; weight and other measurements in proportion.	Regulation has just been changed from 5 feet 6 inches to 5 feet 7 inches and opinion is that it is advantageous, eliminating light men who could not stand exposure and strain.
Milwaukee.....	5 feet 7 inches; 150 pounds; 4 pounds each additional inch.	Age limit 22 to 32 years. Opinion is that present regulations give good results for men in the line. Assistant engineers are accepted at 5 feet 6 inches.
New Orleans....	Minimum, 5 feet 5 inches.....	Would personally prefer height regulation 5 feet 7 inches and not less than 150 pounds.
San Francisco...	5 feet 9 inches for laddermen; 5 feet 7 inches for hosemen.	Minimum weight, 140 pounds; maximum, 220 pounds; waist measurement not to exceed chest. Considers height regulations essential.
Washington.....	Minimum, 5 feet 7 inches; 145 pounds..	Opinion is that it is necessary to have height and weight limit, but examining board be allowed discretion if applicant is one-half inch short if physically qualified otherwise.

Coun. ATTRIDGE—Mr. President, I am going to vote to pass this ordinance, repealing our action of 1912 and 1913, because I believe that inches do not make a man. The gentleman on the other side of the Chamber said at the last meeting of the committee that Fire Commissioner Wells did not appoint short men to the department, as I remember it. Nevertheless, Fire Commissioner Wells did make an appointment of a man who was but 5 feet 5 inches to the position of lieutenant in the Fire Department. The man who has been claimed to be the best Fire Commissioner Boston ever had, Commissioner Russell, appointed men to the fighting force of the city who were under 5 feet 7 inches in height. Fire Commissioner Cole did the same thing. I have a letter here from the office of the Civil Service Commission, under date of January 28, 1913, which contains a list of men under 140 pounds in weight and under 5 feet 7 inches in height, who were appointed by Commissioner Cole to the Fire Department. Commissioner Daly stated at a hearing in the Aldermanic Chamber, below, that in his opinion men under 5 feet 7 inches in height made good firemen. I believe that a short man, if otherwise qualified under the law, passing the mental and physical tests, has the same right to be appointed to the fire-fighting force of Boston as a man 5 feet 7 inches in height or over. I am going to cite the case of one man who was appointed to the Fire Department, who was under 5 feet 7 inches in height, and who made a record in that department. If at the time when he was appointed the 5 foot 7 ordinance was in force he never would have been appointed to the department. That man was appointed by Fire Commissioner Russell. He was 5 feet 5 inches in height. He was promoted to be lieutenant under the administration of Fire Commissioner Wells. This "shorty" was appointed drill master under Fire Commissioner Parker, and under Fire Commissioner Daly he was put in charge of the autos in the Boston Fire Department, being sent by the commissioner to New York to study the manufacture and operation of fire department automobiles. Under Commissioner Daly this man was promoted to a captaincy, and when he took his examination for promotion with other men this "shorty" received a mark which I believe had never before been received by any man in the department for promotion, 99.92 per cent. This same "shorty" is on the roll of the Boston Fire Department as a medal of honor man. Nevertheless, if a 5 foot 7 ordinance was in effect at the time when this man was appointed under Commissioner Russell, who is claimed to be the best Fire Commissioner Boston ever had, he would never have been appointed to the Fire Department. At the time of the Arcadia fire there was one member of the Fire Department who was commended by the Grand Jury who investigated that fire, and that man was only 5 feet 5 inches in height. I will read an extract from the report of the Grand Jury statement from District Attorney Pelletier to the Press on December 15, 1913. And, mind you, this man was 5 feet 5 inches in height.

"The Grand Jury paid particular attention to the service of the Fire Department and feels justified in expressing the opinion that the department responded with commendable promptness and worked most efficiently in fighting the fire and in saving human life. The rescue of an old man from the coping at the rear of the building by James P. Rose of Engine 22 was a deed of heroism rarely surpassed, and the Grand Jury is proud to publicly commend this young man who risked his life to save another."

That member of the Fire Department was not 5 feet 7 inches in height, and does not weigh 140 pounds. That young man has served in the United States Army, where the requirement is but 5 feet 4 inches, serving in the Philippines before entering the service of the city. The 5 foot 7 ordinance has worked a hardship upon young men in this city who desire to become members of the department, and in my opinion with short men who are not 5 feet 7 inches in height the department can be just as efficient as with tall men. I want to call to the attention of the Council the action of one young man from South Boston who was on the civil service list but could not be appointed because of the 5 foot 7 requirement. Nevertheless, that same young man—who, by the way, was appointed as captain of the Life Saving Service in South Boston—could not be appointed to the fire fighting force of Boston. I have here a copy of the Sunday Herald, under date of August 2, 1914, and the caption says, "Rose from deckhand to captain in nine years." The young man's picture is here. I have seen him personally, and I know he is as fine an example of an athlete as one would want to see. But he has been prevented from getting into the service of the city because of the fact that he is not 5 feet 7 inches in height. He is below the height required for entrance into the Fire Department. Nevertheless, that young man is appointed by the United States Government to save lives, and there are recorded here a number of cases where he took part in South Boston and Dorchester bay in helping save human lives. But this young man, who is a perfect specimen of physical manhood, is barred from entrance into the Boston Fire Department. Men appointed in the olden days, under Fire Commissioner Russell, were good men, although short men. Former District Chief Keyes, in my opinion, was a good fireman, even although he was not 5 feet 7 inches in height, and other men who have become district chiefs were not 5 feet

7 inches in height. They would have been barred in the early days if the 5 foot 7 ordinance was in existence. I say if those men are otherwise qualified, passing the mental and physical tests, they should not be barred by reason of the fact that they are one-quarter of an inch, half an inch, or one or two inches too short. As far as the efficiency of the department is concerned, the Fire Commissioner, even if this ordinance is repealed, still has the power of selection. He still has the choice of men. If three men are sent to his office from the Civil Service Commission for appointment, and one of them is 5 feet 7 inches in height, and the other two 5 feet 5 inches, he can use his discretion and select the man who in his opinion will be the best man for the department. I say that we should give to these men a chance to be appointed to the fire fighting force of the City of Boston, and I am not afraid on the question of efficiency or inefficiency. We amended the ordinance which was passed a year or so ago so as to allow the young men who had taken an examination previous to action by this Council in June, men who were under 5 feet 7 inches in height, to be appointed to the fire fighting force. I saw and talked with some of those young men personally, and I say that they, in my opinion, would make as efficient firemen as men 5 feet 7 inches or more in height. I think, as a matter of fairness, we should repeal this ordinance and give to a young man who possesses the other qualifications and requisites the opportunity to become a member of the Boston Fire Department. These men are entitled, in my opinion, to the same chance that a tall man has to be appointed to the service of the city. I shall, therefore, vote for the repeal of this ordinance, because I believe we should be fair to these "shorties," as they are termed, giving them an even and equal chance with other men to take the civil service examination and be appointed to the Fire Department.

Coun. COULTHURST—Mr. Chairman, I have been in grave doubt as to what action I should take to-day, after listening to the opinion of the Corporation Counsel upon the legal phases of the situation, because we have adopted the policy generally of accepting the opinion of the Corporation Counsel as to the scope of our powers and the legality of our actions. But I have decided, inasmuch as we passed this ordinance in 1912, assuming that we had the power then to do so, and it having been in force for two years, that it is not for us, merely on the say-so of the Corporation Counsel, to repeal that act. It is not necessary in order to protect the rights of the individuals involved for us to take that action. If the opinion of the Corporation Counsel is correct, and that ordinance is illegal, the young men who are not 5 feet 7 inches in height have their constitutional and legal rights fully protected in the courts. They have a right to go to court to compel the Civil Service Commission to permit them to take the examination and have the further right to compel the Fire Commissioner to consider them fairly and legally, if their names come down for his consideration. So, Mr. President, I am not going, so far as my vote is concerned, to make this matter a further football in this Council. I am going to vote "no" upon the question of repealing the ordinance. As to the merits of the case I have no opinion on the question of whether a man 5 feet 5 inches in height is qualified to be an efficient fireman, any more than I have an opinion whether a chap 5 feet tall would be an efficient fireman. Of course, it is a hardship upon the fellow 5 feet 5 inches in height or 5 feet tall, who may weigh 98 pounds or 120 pounds, not to be able to get a position as fireman in the City of Boston. It is one of the best paying jobs in the country, $1,400 a year being the maximum salary that a common fireman can aspire to, and he gets that during his productive years, followed by a pension of one-half that amount for the rest of his life. There is also a pension in case of disability or illness. So it is one of the best jobs that a young man can possibly aspire to, Mr. President. But the public interest requires that the men who go into the Fire Department should be the best men in the city, the pick of the city; and, while it is a hardship upon the individuals involved to be debarred from this employment, the public interest requires that we should have the best possible men there are in the Fire Department. And there are enough men 5 feet 7 inches in height and more who are willing to take the positions to fill all the possible jobs. Certainly we, acting in the performance of our public duty, cannot take individual cases into consideration. We have to act on averages. I could not qualify in taking out a life insurance policy at the present time. I do not for a moment think I am going to die in the next 15, 20 or 25 years, but 10,000 men having rheumatism, in my condition, have not the same chance of life that the same individuals not having rheumatism have. It is averages that we must consider. In life insurance they cannot consider individual cases; neither should we consider individual cases, but averages, in passing on the requirements of the firemen of the Fire Department of the City of Boston. The individual cases brought up by the gentleman from the South End should not decide a question of this kind. As I said before, I have no opinion as to the necessary height or weight for a fireman; but I find that since 1896 at least every Fire Commissioner of the City of Boston has insisted that applicants for positions in the department shall be 5 feet 7 inches in height or more, and I find, going throughout the entire country, that the same rule is applied in all the large cities at least. That is sufficient data for me to have my action upon—not my expert action but my official action. Let us let well enough alone; let us not, because twenty, thirty or forty individuals, young fellows who have the making of good citizens, come hammering at our doors year after year, go to the Legislature and monkey with the statutes of the Commonwealth. Because these things are brought to our attention, let us not interfere with the proper conduct of the affairs of the City of Boston as far as the Fire Department is concerned. To my mind, looking back and analyzing the statutes of 1896, 1904 and 1911, it is clear that all those statutes were passed in the Legislature by a little group of individuals who got together in those three years and who put three fool statutes on the books. Not one of them has a right to be there. If the Mayor does his duty he will go to the Legislature next year and say, "Gentlemen, there is a mess of three statutes. Repeal them, and leave the matter to the proper authorities of the City of Boston to determine what the height and weight of firemen and their qualifications shall be." That is what should be done. We do not know where we are at the present time. So I, for one, am going to stand pat and vote against this proposed action to-day. If anybody is aggrieved by my vote or by the action of the City Council, if it acts as I trust it will, let them go to the courts and protect their constitutional rights.

Coun. WOODS—Mr. President, I did not intend to take a minute of the Council's time until I heard the remarks of the speaker who has just sat down. He says, "Let these men fight for their constitutional rights. There will be no hardship on these young men in doing that." I ask the councilor who has just spoken what right has a young man, or what chance has he to take to court the question of the constitutionality of a law which says that from the ages of twenty-two to thirty he can apply for an examination, after perhaps a year has gone by and he has got over the thirty-year limit? What redress has he got? They should not be expected to fight such matters in the courts. They should be settled right here. I want to see this foolhardy ordinance wiped off the books. Therefore, I shall vote to repeal it.

Coun. COLLINS—Mr. President, the gentleman from the South End on the other side of the Chamber (Coun. Attridge) made a mistake when he said I said that Commissioner Wells appointed men who were 5 feet 4 inches in height. What I did say was this, that Commissioner Wells came before a committee of this city government and expressed his opinion substantially as follows: That the minimum height should be 5 feet 7 inches and the minimum weight 140 pounds. The gentleman quotes a number of individual cases. He ought to know that by the citing of a few individual cases he does not prove his case. How do we know whether they are the exception or the rule? This statute has come to us, as the gentleman from West Roxbury has stated, without our invitation. They have placed a duty upon us. Although I disagree with the Corporation Counsel, as I have already stated, I have not heard any of the members here stand up and defend their attitude on the question of making no regulation as to weight. He said clearly that that was taken out of the hands of the Fire Commissioner and was not discretionary with me. The gentleman from the South End suggests that when names are sent down from the civil service list the Commissioner can reject No. 2, No. 3 or No. 1, because a man may not be up to the requirements as to weight or height. I ask, Mr. President,—

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, will the gentleman yield for a question?

Coun. COLLINS—Yes.

Coun. WATSON—I would like to ask the councilor who now has the floor—or who had it before I interrupted him—if he can explain how it is that whenever the Corporation Counsel agrees with his views he always says, "Stand by the Corporation Counsel," and whenever there is some doubt in his mind about the views of the Corporation Counsel he always wants to kick the view out of the window?

Coun. COLLINS—Mr. President, in answer to the gentleman who has just spoken, I beg to say that I have disagreed with the Corporation Counsel on more than one occasion. If he will look over the records he will come to the conclusion that if I do not believe the Corporation Counsel is right I stand up and vote against his contention or opinion. In this particular case, pertaining to the height of firemen, I believe he is in error. But as to the question of weight of firemen, nobody here has contended that there should not be some regulation made by this Council as to weight. The statute clearly fixes the responsibility on us, and to do it is to avoid the issue. To say that the Fire Commissioner can go forward and reject a man because he does not come up to weight is placing the Fire Commissioner in a position of chicanery and trickery to an honest applicant. It is not fair or just. I submit that this ordinance ought to stand. It has been here over two years. Nobody has tested it in the courts. The duty is upon us and we ought to shoulder our responsibility.

The ordinance was declared passed. Coun. BALLANTYNE doubted the vote and asked for the yeas and nays.

The ordinance was passed, yeas 5, nays 3:
Yeas—Coun. Attridge, Ballantyne, McDonald,
Watson, Woods—5.
Nays—Coun. Collins, Coulthurst, Kenny—3.
Coun. ATTRIDGE moved to reconsider; lost.

WHERE CITY CHARTERS FAIL.

FROM THE NEW VOLUME "MUNICIPAL CHARTERS," BY EX-MAYOR NATHAN MATTHEWS.

Many city charters contain too much detail; others not enough. The management of some department is often, for instance, the subject of an elaborate chapter or statute, which in practice is found ineffectual to secure the end in view, because some essential direction is omitted, and the city officials do what the law requires and no more. There is too much attention, particularly in the newer charters, to political machinery, and too little to administrative methods. There is too much hasty re-enactment and copying of the provisions of prior charters, thus perpetuating and spreading their defects. Our city charters, moreover, are as a rule carelessly drawn, thus requiring constant amendment. There is no uniformity in language, order or terminology; and there is generally an unnecessary amount of repetition.

Above all, the political features of a city charter, whatever they be, should not be allowed to overshadow or imperil the operation of the more important provisions relating to the administration of the city business. These are of far greater consequence than the political constitution of a city; and, in the opinion of the writer, much of the extravagance, waste and inefficiency of city government as commonly practised in this country is due to a failure to recognize this fact. Hundreds of city charters have brought disappointment to their authors because the administrative provisions have been inadequate. Others, containing sound administrative details, have been wrecked in application because some inconsistent political feature has been thoughtlessly inserted. Many a charter draft prepared with skill and knowledge has been so amended by a hesitating Legislature as to be wholly ineffective. Simplicity of political structure accompanied by thoroughness in the administrative details must be the basis of charter reform.

THE REAL CITY PROBLEM.

Ninety-nine per cent of the questions which arise in municipal government are questions of business administration rather than of political policy, and while the main problem is not so much to keep down expenses and taxes as to secure without excessive waste the service demanded of our cities by a progressive age and people, this itself is a question of sound finance rather than a question of social ethics or doctrinaire politics. The increasing complications and requirements of modern city life will doubtless lead to progressively larger expenditures by municipal corporations, but the aggregate amount of money which in any community or age can be expended upon public account without harm to all is limited by conditions over which the lawmaker has no control. The pressure upon the city's financial resources of the increasing numbers who prefer urban to rural life, and whose social and moral welfare must be provided for in great part by contributions from the public treasury, can only be met by the most rigid rules for securing efficiency in the expenditure of the heavy taxes necessitated by these conditions. To secure the maximum amount of public service for a given and reasonable amount of public money is, therefore, the real problem of municipal administration. The solution of this problem is not to be advanced by shutting our eyes to the successes and failures of American city government during the past fifty years, or by adopting new and radically different methods, whether borrowed from the experience of foreign cities under entirely different conditions, or invented by socialist unbelievers in the capacity of our people for representative government. Bearing in mind that the ultimate aim in drawing a city charter should be to secure a practical working scheme of administration, and remembering the accumulated experience to which we now have a more or less troublesome access, the last thing we should do is to adopt revolutionary suggestions for the political constitution of the city until they have been thoroughly tested by actual experience under similar conditions. Admitting, as we must, that the mistakes and poor results of municipal government in this country are largely due to the adoption of political machinery unsuited to the motive power, the way to improve this machinery is to examine carefully why and where it has failed and then to mend it in the light of this information, not to throw it away and substitute some different mechanism borrowed from the shorter or still more unsuccessful experiments of other times and countries.

ELECTORAL FATIGUE.

The initiative and referendum are inconsistent with the "short ballot," and it has been demonstrated that they lead to the adoption, by the unreflecting vote at a general election, of measures which could not command a majority at a special election. The result is not a true expression of the popular will, but an unintelligent and unintended exercise of popular power. These schemes tend, moreover, to impair all sense of political responsibility, first on the part of the members of the Legislature, ultimately on the part of the voters themselves. Repetition breeds indifference; and the initiative, in particular may be said to have created a new political disease, a sort of electoral fatigue, which through the repeated votes upon a given question forced by a small percentage of the voters results in what is virtually a government by minorities.

If a true expression of the popular will at a given time is to be sought by the referendum or initiative, the vote must be taken at a special election; but such elections if frequent would be impracticable except in the smallest communities, and the whole scheme is therefore of no value except as a means of securing for a minority of the people the passage of measures which the majority at a fair election would probably reject. And if applied to ordinary municipal questions these new devices could not fail to bring about a state of administrative paralysis.

LEGAL OPINIONS BY CORPORATION COUNSEL.

Hon. John A. Sullivan, the Corporation Counsel, has sent down the following opinions of interest relative to the duty of the Election Commissioners in passing upon the validity of votes and the vacation period of city employees under the new statute approved at the recent state election.

The decisions are as follows:

CITY OF BOSTON,
LAW DEPARTMENT, Nov. 9, 1914.

JOHN M. MINTON, Esq.,
Chairman Board of Election Commissioners:

DEAR SIR,—In reply to your request, dated November 6, 1914, for an opinion as to the meaning of the phrase "determine questions raised," as used in section 332, chapter 835, Acts of 1913, and especially whether such phrase is broad enough to require you to pass upon the validity of votes which have been cast and challenged at an election, I submit the following:

The phrase "determine questions raised," as used in said section 332, seems to give the Election Commissioners the right only to pass upon questions raised as to errors in the records or copies of records of the election officers or in the count of the votes cast at an election. If the petitioners who filed the statement required by said section 332 raise questions as to the validity of challenged votes which were cast at an election and request you to determine the questions raised by the challenging of such votes and to reject any challenged vote cast by a person found not entitled to vote, you will have the right to refuse to pass upon such questions as being beyond your lawful authority.

It seems to have been the intention of the Legislature to leave the question of the validity of a challenged vote cast at an election to be determined either by the courts or by the body to which the person making the protest claims to have been elected.

The questions which can lawfully be raised under the provisions of said section 332 are different from those which can be raised under section 181 of said chapter 835. Said section 181 relates to the recount of votes cast in a caucus, and it gives not only the right to contest the accuracy of the record of the election officers and of the count of the ballots, but also the validity of challenged votes cast at such caucus. It may be that the Legislature believed that there was a necessity of having a prompt decision as to the validity of nominations made in caucuses, so that names could go upon the official ballot without causing the confusion which would be likely to result if persons whose names appeared upon the ballot had not prior to the election had their right to be upon the ballot determined.

I think that if the Legislature intended that the Board of Registrars or Election Commissioners should have the same right to pass upon the validity of challenged votes cast at an election, it would have expressed that intention in clear language. The omission to do so is indicative of the legislative intent to withhold from the Registrars or Election Commissioners authority to pass upon the validity of challenged votes cast at an election and to leave the determination of such questions to the courts or to the body to which the claimant asserts that he has been elected. It is also significant that the Legislature in previous acts codifying the election laws made the same distinction between caucuses and elections as to the authority to reject challenged votes cast therein. (See Statute 1898, chapter 548, sections 126 and 264; Revised Laws, chapter 11, sections 126 and 267; Statute 1907, chapter 560, sections 139 and 300.)

As a further indication that the right to pass upon the validity of challenged votes must be specifically given by statute, see Attorney-General v. Drohan, 169 Mass. 534, at page 538, and compare Statute 1896, chapter 435, section 4, with Statute 1897, chapter 530, section 12, therein cited.

Statute 1896, chapter 435, is an act relating to the holding of caucuses in the City of Boston, and section 4 gave the right to the Election Commissioners to determine the same questions raised as appear to have been given by Statute 1913, chapter 835, section 332, the only practical difference being that the provisions of said section 4 relate to caucuses, and the provisions of said section 332 relate to elections.

Statute 1897, chapter 530, is a general act relating to caucuses and elections held within this Commonwealth, but section 12 relates to caucuses held in the City of Boston, and amends section 4 of chapter 435 of the Acts of 1896 by providing expressly that the validity of challenged votes cast at such caucus should be determined by the Election Commissioners.

Yours truly,

JOHN A. SULLIVAN,
Corporation Counsel.

CITY OF BOSTON,
LAW DEPARTMENT, Nov. 9, 1914.

LOUIS K. ROURKE, Esq.,
Commissioner of Public Works:

DEAR SIR,—In reply to your request for an opinion as to how Statute 1914, chapter 217, should be applied in your department, I submit the following:

You will be required to give every employee who is classified under civil service rules as a laborer, i. e., in the labor service class 1, or who has been doing the work of laborers in such class, and who has been regularly employed by the city for more than one year, a vacation of not less than two weeks without loss of pay during each year of the employment of such laborer. These provisions are mandatory, but you and all other heads of executive departments will have discretionary power in fixing the length of the vacation beyond the statutory minimum, two weeks, and also in fixing the date when the vacation shall begin. In the exercise of this function you may fix two weeks as the maximum period for vacations, and may fix the date when each vacation is to begin and end within the calendar year beginning November 3, 1914.

Yours truly,

JOHN A. SULLIVAN,
Corporation Counsel.

PROTECT THE BABIES.—NECESSITY OF RIGID LAWS FOR SAVING THE LITTLE ONES.

By GEORGE BREWSTER GALLUP OF BOSTON.

Boston is busy this week with plans and methods for saving the babies.

The Fifth Annual Convention of the Society for Prevention of Infant Mortality is in session here.

In other cities previously these conventions have gained little attention outside of professional and charitable circles.

The new feature in Boston is a great popular mass meeting in Faneuil Hall to be addressed by leading representatives of the business interests of the city and state. Important facts will be published at this meeting, organized by Major P. F. O'Keefe, president of the Pilgrim Publicity Association, and held under the auspices of this organization.

It is well that we get down to practical facts in dealing with this subject. We have waxed sentimental long enough, now let us be cold blooded and look at the matter from an industrial and economic standpoint.

Boston is bound to become a much more important city than in the past, because of results following the great European war.

Many believe Boston can become the most important city in the United States, in the sense of completeness, beauty, efficiency, commercial leadership. No surer way to build for this great result can be found than to adopt heroic measures for saving the babies.

Human life is precious. Especially will the baby be regarded as precious in the next decade, and the city which makes the best preparation for conserving the lives and health of its babies will be the city which will make the most progress in the direction of industrial and commercial efficiency.

To care properly for the baby, all babies, so that not one shall be lost unnecessarily, will require great attention to sanitation and the enforcement of all existing health and building laws, and the passage of some new ones.

Beyond this the entire area of municipal improvement will be covered by far-sighted plans to realize the highest standards.

The lowest possible death rate in the country will be the slogan of the wise advocates of Boston. This ideal requires for its realization the elimination of all possible obsolete, archaic and decrepit mechanism, and the introduction as far as and as fast as possible of all necessary new and up-to-date methods and mechanisms.

Better streets, better housing, better transportation, better, more courageous far-sighted administration of the affairs of the city.

The city having the lowest death rate will not have to prove to the outside world that it is an efficient city. It will not be compelled to convince manufacturers that it will be profitable for them to locate there, by any other sign or symbol.

To achieve the lowest death rate will mean the perfection of a multitude of conditions that have to do with low unit cost of production.

Boston's death rate is already low, but still far too high. The things which prevent our forcing it to a lower percentage are things the present administration of Boston under Mayor Curley is now making and will continue to make great effort to improve.

The death rate in Massachusetts last year among infants of one year and under was 111 per thousand. In New Zealand in the same period it had been reduced to 51 per thousand.

Were the same efficiency secured in Boston and Massachusetts as in New Zealand, we would have saved in Massachusetts in one year the lives of 5,400 little babies.

Children born in this era of war are going to be the most valuable lives to their generation.

Boston, in preparing to save every possible baby born into its midst, will be thinking, acting, praying, fighting for the most scientific, hard-headed, efficient methods of improving and administering the city.

Commercially, industrially and economically Boston will become supreme when among American municipalities she can show the lowest death rate, and the place of attack is on all those things which militate against the safety of the baby.

Study this gospel in all its phases, and you will find it the greatest booster programme ever entered upon by practical, sane and statesmanlike citizens.

GREAT TRADE OPPORTUNITY FOR BOSTON.

ARGENTINA OFFICIALS SET FORTH ADVANTAGES.

Mayor Curley's excellent friend, the Honorable Don Romulo S. Naon, Ambassador of Argentina, sets forth in a communication just received the present opportunity for Boston merchants to secure the most extensive character of trade advantages in Argentina, and which is embraced in a report to Ambassador Naon by the Argentine Minister of Foreign Relations.

He declares:

"There is at present no congestion of merchandise in our ports. Wheat and flour are not exported at present because of the embargo established by the executive power on those products. Corn, meat and wool are exported without great difficulty, but we fear the scarcity of the means of transportation for our production in the near future. A very effective outlet would be the arrival of steamers from the United States with usual cargoes—that is to say, impure naphtha, wood, iron, agricultural machines and implements, petroleum, furniture, lubricating oils, etc. Those boats would return with our products—that is to say, meat, wool, hides, quebracho, live stock, etc. American manufacturers can occupy the place left vacant by European industry in all the branches that have been served by it. The present moment offers to American manufacturers very appreciable advantages for occupying positions, profiting by the present European inability. In order to get these advantages they must take the initiative themselves, sending, at least, small cargoes and also agents, and especially adapting themselves to the custom of not demanding cash payment, as has been practiced by others with very well-known success."

The opportunity for United States exporters is all the better because of the spirit of impartiality and fairness toward all foreign goods which governs fundamental commercial conditions in Argentina. This point is elaborated in a recent communication from the Argentine Minister of Finance, Senor Enrique Carbo, to a financial institution in the United States, which also sets forth the importance of helping the industries necessary to the development of Argentine commerce in order to reap an ultimate trade benefit. The article follows:

"I believe that commercial relations based upon the constant interchange of the products that are required by the two countries for consumption or for the development of their economic activities will necessarily strengthen the international ties between them and stimulate other relationship to the profit of this republic and of its worthy North American sister. I do not believe that it is possible for commercial intercourse between two free nations to result in loss to the one and profit to the other. In the development of commercial relations with our country the United States need only follow the example of European countries that have most rapidly succeeded in occupying the first place in the Argentine market. They gave the initial impulse to industries that were most necessary to the development of our commerce. They consulted our merchants regarding the tendencies and the tastes of our consumers and granted them credit facilities by founding in this country great banking institutions. Also they have established excellent lines of navigation and maintained continental traffic by means of moderate freight rates. In order to keep the transportation service going they arranged to take the greater part of our products to supply their markets and their big manufacturing concerns.

"Such a system of encouraging commerce has proved profitable to the countries that put it into practice, as is shown by the world's commercial statistics of the last thirty years. In these, the United States figures as one of our best customers, precisely because of the adoption of the methods referred to.

"Neither the United States nor any other country has ever found, nor will any ever find, any obstacle in the way of the exercise of its full commercial activities in this republic. Argentine legislation is liberal to business. Our custom-house regulations have not been modified for some ten years. They influence imports so little that prices ruling on the markets have shown scarcely any effect on account of them. The taxes levied on goods for international consumption are the smallest possible. The same thing may be said of the republic's fiscal burden upon our national industries, our transportation lines, and our business with the neighboring republics that are supplied from our markets or through our ports.

"Our tariff policy is based upon absolute international impartiality. One clause in Article 74 of our customs law makes reciprocity treaties unnecessary because it authorized the executive to reduce by one-half the duties on goods imported from countries that allow special privileges to Argentine products, and to increase by as much as half the tariff on the imports from countries that take measures which benefit the entry of merchandise of other nations to the detriment of our exports. Legislation is now pending that will create a permanent organ of the government, whose mission will be to propose gradual modifications of duties as the necessities of our internal economy and those of our foreign commerce require. In my opinion the United States could not have a better opportunity than exists at the present moment to develop its commerce in the countries reached by the River Plate, either by increasing the quantity sold here of North American products which competed before with those of European countries now at war, or by promoting new industries that may supply such articles as are not now exported from your country.

"The department under my direction is able to supply representatives of business in the United States with lists of the principal imports which your nation may undertake to market in Argentina with assurance of success and of probable increase in the future.

"There is an increasing development of profitable opportunities for investments of foreign capital in this country. The people of North America can with advantage apply their own experience in studying this phase of opportunity in Argentina. The capital which has run the greatest risk has been that which was attracted by high interest rates. The rapid increase in land values has brought extraordinarily large returns within the shortest possible time. But capital invested with the productive capacity of the soil, the development of agriculture and the cattle industries, and the manufacture of our natural products taken into account can rely upon profits that come somewhat more slowly, but are undoubtedly more certain. The expansion to their present proportions of many of the largest concerns in the Republic is due to this conservative method of operation.

"Finally, I must advise you that we possess only the beginning of a mercantile marine, and this is needed for exclusive coast service between the cities and along the navigable rivers. Fortunately, the countries that have commercial relations with us have understood that the best way to develop those relations was through the establishment of great navigation lines, and the organization of companies destined exclusively for transportation in the southern hemisphere.

"I hope that this which I have said may be of service and that it will contribute to the impulse that will increase business relations between the Argentine Republic and the United States."

THE RHODODENDRON.

By CAPT. JOHN H. DILLON, Chairman of the Park and Recreation Department.

Of all our native evergreen flowering shrubs none can compare with the rhododendron for effect when planted in masses with a suitable background of shrubs or trees, or for a side hill where kalmia latifolia (our native mountain laurel) can be introduced into the plantation. The hardy hybrid varieties combined with the daphne cneorum, and planted with due regard for scenic effect cannot be surpassed. The soil required for their growth should be a good compost of peat, leaf-mould, sand and loam. These shrubs thrive best in a rather moist situation. When the plantation is completed a mulching with leaves or litter from the stable spread over the soil, and watered, will tend to keep them in a moist condition, and also protect them from hot sun as they are what is known as surface feeders: that is, the roots grow near the surface. When planting rhododendrons have them good and firm and water them well. In very hot and dry weather frequent waterings should be the rule. Never allow them to suffer for want of water and good healthy shrubs will reward your effort. These shrubs are comparatively free from injurious insects.

FINANCE COMMISSION.

Sadie C. Teed has been appointed as temporary typewriter for a period of ten days, at a salary of $10 the week.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

Ladderman George A. Verkampen of Ladder Company No. 23 has been retired upon half pay, and his name will be placed upon the pension roll at $700 the year.

It appears that Ladderman Verkampen was appointed to the department June 7, 1901, was absent from duty on account of colds from December 23, 1906, to January 1, 1907, and from December 12, 1908, to December 17, 1908, and sustained an injury to his right knee July 5, 1910, at fire box 65, reporting back for duty on July 18, 1910.

The City Physician reports as follows: "The applicant has locomotor ataxia in a well advanced stage. It would be dangerous for him to climb a ladder or do the ordinary work of a fireman at a fire. He is permanently incapacitated for the performance of duty as a fireman, there being no cure for the disease of locomotor ataxia from which he is disabled."

Solomon E. Aaron, hoseman, of Engine Company No. 36, has been retired upon half pay, and his name will be placed upon the pension roll in the amount of $700 the year. Hoseman Aaron is forty-four years of age and joined the Department January 7, 1898. On July 31, 1913, Hoseman Aaron went off duty for a rectal abscess and reported for duty August 2, 1913. He went off duty again for the same cause August 7, 1913, and reported back August 27, 1913. On December 5, 1913, he went off duty again for the same reason, and did not report back until May 6, 1914. On September 26, 1914, he went off duty for the same reason and returned October 2, 1914.

Dr. Paul Thorndike, Surgeon-in-Chief, Boston City Hospital, and Dr. Morton Prince, City Physician, declare:

"I do not believe that the man will be fitted to do his duty as a fireman for many months to come, and I should doubt extremely if he would ever be fitted for such duty."

"If he came to me for advice I should advise him to leave the service, and to take up some occupation which would enable him to work in the open air, preferably in the country."

PAUL THORNDIKE,
Surgeon-in-Chief, Boston City Hospital."

"The question at issue is whether the fistula can be cured and, if so, whether it is likely that the applicant will be able to continue as an efficient member of the Fire Department. In this matter I think we must be governed by the opinion of the special surgical expert, Doctor Thorndike, engaged by the Department to examine the case."

"In view of Doctor Thorndike's opinion, in which I concur, I believe that Solomon E. Aaron is permanently incapacitated for the performance of his duty as a member of the Fire Department."

MORTON PRINCE,
City Physician."

SCHOOLHOUSE DEPARTMENT.

Upon November 10 the Mayor approved a contract with the American Architectural Iron Works for building fire escapes upon the buildings numbered 39, 40, 41 and 42 Blossom street, West End. Bids for the work, opened November 6, were as follows:

American Architectural Iron Works, $2,090; W. A. Snow Iron Works, $2,345.

WITHOUT ADVERTISING.

The Mayor has approved the following contracts awarded without advertising; also additions to and deductions from contracts.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

The Mayor has formally approved the request of Fire Commissioner Grady, after due presentation of facts, for permission to enter into contract with the American & British Manufacturing Company, Providence, R. I., for the purchase of equipment in the amount of $16,610.

The communication of Commissioner Grady is as follows:

BOSTON, November 10, 1914.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,

Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—I respectfully request permission to enter into contract with the American & British Manufacturing Company of Providence, R. I., without advertising, for the purchase of the following:

One A and B tractor for Water Tower No. 1, $5,430.

One A and B tractor for Water Tower No. 3, $5,580.

One A and B tractor and supporting frame for spare Water Tower, $5,600.

My reasons for desiring to make these contracts without advertising are as follows:

Automobile fire apparatus is not a staple product and the lowest bidder would not necessarily be the best one to accept. This company has just delivered to this department Water Tower No. 2, and r which it has installed one of its tractors. This company will agree to deliver one of the tractors within sixty working days and the other two tractors within ninety working days.

This make of apparatus has been personally investigated by the supervisor of motor apparatus and the advisory engineer of this department and they recommend the acceptance of this proposal. I believe that this is the best proposition this department can enter into in the interest of both efficiency and economy.

By the installation of these tractors the city will do away with the maintenance of nine of the biggest horses used in the service.

It is my intention to install the spare water tower in the house of Chemical No. 7, East Boston. The other two towers are located in the business section of the city and will be used to a great advantage in conjunction with the high pressure system when it is completed.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT.

The Commissioner of Public Works states his intention to construct a surface drain of 10, 12 and 15 inch earthen pipe in Columbia road, between Seaver and Washington streets, Dorchester, at an estimated cost of $2,662.

The Commissioner of Public Works states his intention to construct a surface drain of 10-inch earthen pipe and one catch-basin, and rebuild about 125 linear feet of 10-inch pipe, sanitary sewer, in Powellton road, between Columbia road and Glenarm street, Dorchester, at an estimated cost of $1,203.

The Commissioner of Public Works states his intention to construct a sanitary sewer of 10-inch earthen pipe, in a taking in private land and passageway, south of Bennington street, about 150 feet west of Saratoga street, East Boston, at an estimated cost of $750.

The Commissioner of Public Works states his intention to construct a surface drain of 10 and 12 inch earthen pipe, and two catch-basins, in Wellington Hill footway, between Walk Hill and Wellington Hill street, Dorchester, at an estimated cost of $1,045.

The Commissioner of Public Works states his intention to construct a sanitary sewer of 10-inch earthen pipe, and four catch-basins, and connections, in Westmoreland street, from Adams street about 584 feet westerly, Dorchester, at an estimated cost of $2,160.

HIGH PRESSURE SERVICE AT HOSPITAL.

Mayor Curley received the following communication, upon the 10th instant, from the Hon. A. Shuman, president of the Board of Trustees of the Boston City Hospital, heartily approving the extension of the high pressure fire service to the institution, and as directed by the Mayor:

Boston, November 9, 1914.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR MR. MAYOR,—I am in receipt of your esteemed favor of the 6th instant, informing me that you have instructed the Commissioner of Public Works to extend the high pressure service system to the Boston City Hospital for protection against fire.

This, Mr. Mayor, is a great and good act on your part. Sympathy for the helpless and endeavors for their care and protection are among the highest attributes of humanity, and when we consider the danger of fire to the poor sufferers under our care at the hospital, it stirs our best feelings, and inspires us to do all in our power to prevent such an appalling catastrophe.

Your prompt action therefore, in this matter, is not only appreciated by the trustees and the staff but by all the citizens of our good city.

Faithfully yours,

A. SHUMAN.

LAND TAKEN FOR SEWERS.

The Mayor has formally approved the order of the Board of Street Commissioners in the taking of land for sewerage works in Bennington street, East Boston, and supposed to be the property of the Boston, Revere Beach & Lynn Railroad.

The first parcel contains 444 square feet, more or less, and the second parcel contains 1,080 square feet, more or less.

The sewerage works to be constructed are as follows: About 250 linear feet of 10-inch pipe sanitary sewer.

The Board declares that no person sustains damages in his estate by the taking for and construction of the sewerage works and awards no damages therefor.

EXTENSION OF CONTRACT.

The Mayor has approved the order of Commissioner Rourke of the Department of Public Works extending the contract of the Epping-Carpenter Pump Company for furnishing and erecting automatic electric sewage pumping plant, in the proposed pumping station at Union Park and Albany streets, city proper, for a further period to February 1, 1915.

ARRANGING FOR THANKSGIVING CHEER.

Mayor Curley conferred with Mr. F. A. Kerry, vice-president of the W. & A. Bacon Company, during the week, relative to the matter of preparing 200 Thanksgiving baskets for distribution, arrangements being made that each basket will contain food sufficient for six persons.

The Mayor feels that there will be a cooperative effort extended by the citizens of Boston in so far that 5,000 Boston families may be suitably cared for upon Thanksgiving Day.

CONSECRATION OF BISHOP SHAHAN.

Mayor Curley received an especially cordial invitation to attend the ceremonies incident to the consecration of Rev. Thomas J. Shahan, Mgr., rector of the Catholic University of America, by His Eminence James Cardinal Gibbons, as Titular Bishop of Germanicopolis, at the Cathedral, Baltimore, upon Sunday, 15th instant.

The Mayor was unable to attend the ceremonies owing to pressure of executive duties, but sent Monsignor Shahan the following letter of regret:

CITY OF BOSTON,

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR, Nov. 10, 1914.

REV. THOMAS J. SHAHAN, Mgr.,
Rector of the Catholic University of America, Brookland, D. C.:

MY DEAR MONSIGNOR,—I regret immeasurably that the pressure of municipal affairs precludes my acceptance of the kind invitation to be present at the ceremonies attending your consecration as Titular Bishop of Germanicopolis, and the fruition of your devoted labors for Mother Church, now so happily rewarded.

But my thoughts upon this auspicious day will be constantly with you and I pray that every hour may return its blessings to you.

With many renewed assurances of my highest consideration and esteem.

Very sincerely yours,

JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston.

The required application form, 1800, may be obtained from the Board of Civil Service Examiners, Watertown Arsenal, Watertown, Mass., with whom it must be filed on or before December 15, 1914.

IMPROVEMENT IN LOCAL BOND MARKET.

The brightest spot in the bond situation is the continued strength in municipals. Perhaps it would be more exact to say that this strength mainly lies in Massachusetts tax-exempt municipals, but it has spilled over and is favorably affecting the entire municipal group. We understand that the first break below a 4 per cent income return basis for Massachusetts tax-exempts has been made and that a lot of city of Newton bonds is being offered on a 3.90 per cent income basis. The improvement in municipal issues from the low point of the war crisis represents an advance of 10 to 12 points on a twenty-five-year 4 per cent bond. The advance has also been most helpful to the bond houses, as it has materially reduced what seemed like inevitable losses in blocks of municipals on hand when the war started.

Incidentally it is of interest to know that a number of the bond houses are approaching a nearly normal volume of business. This does not, of course, mean anything like a normal volume of profits, because a majority of the bonds recently sold have been disposed of at a loss. One house which in October had the best October in its history with one exception. Sales were considerably in excess of the same month in 1913.

BUILDING PLANS PROMISING.

Prominent builders declare that more money will be available for building after first of the year. Large insurance and trust companies had made large building commitments, the last payments on which will be made before January 1, 1915. These lenders will then be free to make new commitments. One insurance company this year loaned $18,000,000 on buildings under construction, and has not been in the market as a lender for many months. Building is dull, but we are sure of an improvement in the near future.

BOSTON BANK STATISTICS, 1914.

Bank clearings or exchanges in year, 1913, $8,116,213,999, a decrease from 1912 of $847,594,531, or 9.46 per cent. Number of national banks, 17, with $28,700,000 capital and $35,011,345 surplus and undivided profits; trust companies, 24, with $17,450,000 capital, and $29,412,910 surplus and undivided profits, nine trust companies each have a savings department, with deposits amounting to $6,740,424; savings banks, 22, with $273,924,995 deposits; cooperative banks, 31, with $17,832,315 assets.

FINANCE COMMISSION.

BOSTON, November 9, 1914.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor:

SIR,—The Finance Commission submits a report covering the purchase of brooms for the Street Cleaning Service of the Public Works Department from the New England Broom and Supply Company, owned by M. J. Finn. Mr. Finn is also the owner of the New England Crushed Stone Company, which is at present selling crushed stone to the city under contract. The New England Broom and Supply Company is located near the Forest Hills Station.

The Supply Department on June 8, 1914, asked for bids on a year's supply of brooms, and the following bids were received:

	19-inch.	Teamater.	Stable.	House.	Handles.
New England Broom and Supply Company....	$4 50	$4 50	$4 75	$4 75	$0 75
Perrin, Seamans & Co.....	2 85	3 25	3 95	2 65	40
Massachusetts Commission for the Blind.....	{ 3 55 4 30 }	2 75	4 00	{ 2 40 3 75 }	45
Gardner Broom Company.....			{ 3 75 4 00 4 25 }	{ 4 00 4 25 }

The contract was awarded to Mr. Finn, the highest bidder, on the ground that the sample broom which he submitted with his bids was the best.

The contract was for one year's supply and called for the furnishing of 350 dozen brooms, more or less. The first lot ordered under this contract was 50 dozen, to be up to sample furnished at the time the contract was awarded.

Representatives of the Finance Commission have inspected at the yard of the Street Cleaning Service, Public Works Department (650 Albany street), some of the brooms received in the 50 dozen lot, and found 129 brooms not up to sample. Of this 129 brooms, 37 were made of flat split bamboo stock, where square cut bamboo was required, and 92 were shorter than the sample. An inspection of brooms in use on Washington street, between Milk and Northampton streets, of used brooms in the Gibson street yard, and of new brooms in the stock room, showed that many more brooms of coarser stock and shorter than sample were received in the 50 dozen lot. Of the 50 dozen lot in question, the Supply Department, after the matter was brought to its attention by the Finance Commission, rejected 30½ dozen, and a claim has been made for a rebate on 9½ dozen in use. This leaves 10 dozen brooms only of the fifty dozen lot which were similar to sample.

Neither the Supply Department nor the Street Cleaning Service of the Public Works Department inspected the brooms when they were delivered to see if they were up to sample. The Superintendent of the Supply Department, in his last annual report, dated January 31, 1914, warned the city regarding such inadequacy of inspection of the city's purchases in the following words:

"Inspection of purchases upon delivery or before the materials have been used by a representative of the Supply Department. This has never been done. The present superintendent has given such time as he could spare, and gratifying results have been obtained."

The Supply Department annually purchases approximately $1,500,000 of supplies, and some of these articles, such as hay, grain and coal, are inspected by the department, but many of the other deliveries are not. The Superintendent of the Supply Department has stated to the commission that at least 20 per cent of the materials purchased by his department is accepted without proper inspection.

The commission recommends:

1. That the provisions and specifications of the contract with the New England Broom and Supply Company be strictly enforced, according to the terms thereof.

2. That the person receiving supplies at each city yard be furnished with samples and that he be made responsible for the inspection necessary to secure goods equal to the sample furnished with the bid

3. That a system of inspection of all supplies purchased by the City of Boston be instituted by the Supply Department.

Respectfully submitted,

THE FINANCE COMMISSION,

by JOHN R. MURPHY,

Chairman.

The change agreed upon was to extend Old Colony avenue to Columbia road, thereby doing away with the expense of a new bridge that would cost about $50,000.

In Quincy the commission has purchased land to the end that there may be a connection out to the Blue Hills Reservation and a second one from Quincy square to Nantasket and the South Shore.

IMPROVEMENTS FOR FANEUIL HALL.

Mayor Curley has indorsed a plan, submitted by Chairman R. A. Cram of the City Planning Board, for the improvement of Faneuil Hall and the elimination of the fire hazard.

Chairman Cram in the communication addressed to his Honor the Mayor declares:

THE CITY PLANNING BOARD,
November 9, 1914.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor:

DEAR MR. MAYOR,—I am very interested to learn that some steps are to be taken toward the eliminating—a portion at least—of the fire hazard in the case of Faneuil Hall. May I not unofficially suggest to you at this time the possibility of broadening the scope both of the inquiry and the contemplated action.

I have long felt that Faneuil Hall, being one of the important historical and architectural monuments in Boston, should be accorded treatment more commensurate with its distinction. The Old State House and the Old South Meeting House have both been admirably restored during the last few years, and Park Street Church is now undergoing similar treatment. Would it not be desirable that the whole question of Faneuil Hall should be considered by a special board or committee on which the architectural profession was strongly represented? Speaking personally, I think it would be of great public benefit if the whole building could be overhauled both from a practical and artistic standpoint; the floor over the markets being fireproofed; the markets themselves tidied up; the stairways fireproofed or protected; the unsightly awnings all removed from over the surrounding sidewalks and, if awnings are necessary, new ones of iron and glass provided; the interior of the hall renovated and the paint removed from all the brick of the exterior, which would be left in its original state as in the case of the Old State House, the wood trimmings then being painted white.

I am confident that such action would commend itself not only to the historical and architectural organizations in Boston but to all citizens, since more than almost any other building in Boston perhaps Faneuil Hall holds the affection of everyone.

I am writing quite informally, but if your Honor feels that the matter could possibly be pressed at this time, I should like to take the question up both with the City Planning Board and with the Boston Society of Architects of which I am president.

I am, sir,
Very respectfully yours,
R. A. CRAM, Chairman.

STREET RESTRICTIONS ESTABLISHED.

Additional one-way traffic streets are to be established by the Board of Street Commissioners. The Board recently gave hearings to make Mason street, Avery street, between Tremont and Mason streets, Howard street, Morton street, between Endicott and Salem streets, Stillman street, between Salem street and North Margin street, and Wall street, from Minot street to Causeway street, one-way streets, at which no opposition developed.

The old Avery street was a one-way street from Mason street to Washington street. With its extension to Tremont street the traffic rule will have to be amended to meet the new condition, and have all vehicles enter at Tremont street.

Fire Commissioner Grady asked that Mason street and Howard street be made one-way streets, in order that fire apparatus may go quickly through these thoroughfares, which are greatly congested during the business hours of the day.

The Police Department asked that Morton and Stillman streets be made one-way streets. Both streets are very narrow and extensively used. They are so narrow in fact that it is almost impossible for vehicles to pass each other, and disputes between drivers are common.

The Board is studying the problem of relieving the congestion of vehicles on Beacon street, between the State House and Tremont street. This is one of the worst congested streets of the city. It has been suggested to the Board that Beacon street be made a one-way thoroughfare between Park street and Tremont street, and that Park street be also made a one-way thoroughfare between Tremont and Beacon streets. There is also serious congestion of traffic on Somerset street, between Beacon street and Pemberton square. These streets are all narrow. They were once residential streets pure and simple, but now they are almost wholly given up to business.

The trouble in making these streets one-way thoroughfares is that it is a long distance on Tremont street between Beacon street and Park street. The corner of Beacon street and Park street is as badly congested as any part of the city, and the Board is somewhat afraid that by diverting more traffic to that corner it would mean merely the shifting of troubles from one place to another.

A few years ago the Board thought of making Park street a one-way street, but there was almost unanimous opposition from the people doing business on the street.

The zig-zag routes to and from Beacon Hill make the traffic problem in that vicinity one of the worst in the city.

WATER TOWERS TO BE MOTORIZED.

Mayor Curley has approved the recommendation made by Fire Commissioner Grady that the three water towers of the Boston Fire Department be motorized, at a cost of $16,613. Two of the towers will be used in the downtown section, while the third will go to East Boston.

The Mayor declares that within four years all of the apparatus of the department will be motorized, making it possible to maintain the efficiency of the department with two-thirds of the present force.

UNITED STATES CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATIONS.

The United States Civil Service commission announce an open competitive examination for oil and gas inspector for mapping oil and gas wells, for men only, November 17, 1914. From the register of eligibles resulting from this examination certification will be made to fill a vacancy in this position in the Bureau of Mines, Department of the Interior, for service in Oklahoma, at a salary ranging from $1,800 to $2,160 a year, and vacancies as they may occur in positions requiring similar qualifications unless it is found to be in the interest of the service to fill any vacancy by reinstatement, transfer or promotion.

APPEAL FOR EUROPEAN CHILDREN.

Mayor Curley received a ringing message during the week from William George Jordan, who is directing the "Christmas Morning in Europe" movement, of which Mrs. John Hays Hammond is president, and intended to bring good cheer to the little children of the seven great nations of Europe now at war, and of which the children of America will be declared the donors.

The message to Mayor Curley declares: "Have you realized what a sad, lonely, empty Christmas morning there will be in thousands and thousands of homes in Belgium, England, France, Russia, Serbia, Germany and Austria?"

"Vacant chairs will tell, with grim pathos, of the husband, the father, the son or the brother who went bravely out to the field of battle for the country that he loved—and never returned. The wounded lying on beds of pain, or weakened, worn and wrecked by shot and shell, that make life a burden and labor impossible, will be mute memorials of the awful might of war.

"To-day, in the heat of conflict, despite our earnest effort to be impartial, our judgment, our nationality, our prejudices, and our interests make it hard for us to be rigidly neutral. But in the glow of the approach of the greatest anniversary in the world, Christmas Day, the day of 'Peace on Earth, Good Will to Men,' set apart for all the nations and all peoples, let the fine neutrality of the soul sweep away all human prejudice and make us realize that all these fighting men of the seven nations are equally our brothers, brothers in the divine Brotherhood of our common humanity.

"Let us do at least for the children what we can to make them happy, the innocent, suffering little non combatants in this greatest war of the ages.

"What can you, as an individual, do to help?

"The War Children's Christmas Fund has been organized to send Christmas boxes to the orphaned and helpless children of Europe. Each child's gifts will be put into a separate little pasteboard box, carefully wrapped and decorated with a bit of ribbon and a bit of holly to give it a real Christmas flavor. Each box will contain some useful little article of wearing apparel, a Christmas card, a few pennies in the coin of the country and a handful of candies, raisins and nuts.

"Each box will bear a printed label, in the language of the country to which it is delivered, stating that the box is a Christmas box sent with best Christmas wishes and 'with love of children of America.'

"Such an expression of international peace good will cannot fail to do good far beyond the mere gladdening of the children; it will tend to lessen the burden of the older ones in seeing the joy of the little ones and in the consciousness of loving hearts sympathizing with them in their hour of sorrow beyond the seas.

"The final distribution of the boxes will be intrusted to the care of generous-hearted men and women on the other side, ready and anxious to do their part.

"It is estimated that about 50 cents will be expended on each box, though the fund, through its wholesale buying on best terms, may be fortunate to reduce this amount a little.

"A whole day of happiness in a child's life—and a golden memory that will live throughout the years—all for 50 cents.

"How many children do you thus want to make happy? If you can afford $100, give that, and know that 200 children will thereby be blessed with a joyous day. Whatever the amount, give it, give it promptly too, for the time is short. If it is only 50 cents give that, with the fullness of your heart behind it. Seek to get the children to contribute personally, even at a sacrifice that will make their gifts bigger, finer and sweeter.

"No other investment can yield such dividends—dividends of happiness paid in two continents simultaneously—on Christmas morning."

Mayor Curley said:

"The beautiful idea suggested by Mrs. John Hays Hammond and the active committee of good men and women who are assisting her in the 'Christmas Morning in Europe' movement, enlists my hearty support, and I have been very pleased to send my personal check to Mrs. Hammond in the amount of $100, that Christmas Day may be made brighter and better for 200 children in Europe deprived of the joys of Christmastide.

"I sincerely trust that Boston citizens will lend an active aid to Mrs. Hammond in this magnificent work and mail her checks immediately that Boston may contribute its full share in bringing the message of Christmas to the unfortunate little ones abroad."

REINFORCING PAVEMENT FOUNDATIONS.

By C. D. FRANCE.

The determination of the use of reinforcement in concrete pavement will depend upon the type of foundation and width of pavement. Reinforcement may be used in either single or two-course work and is particularly designed to care for slight settlement of fills, and to guard against contraction cracks developing where the pavement is wide. In any road where a new fill of over 2 feet is made, and the material used is other than sand or gravel, the pavement should be reinforced, no matter what the width of the road. No amount of compacting by roller or puddling can effectively settle such a fill, so that no further movement of the foundation is probable after the placing of the pavement.

The type of reinforcement which is most economical in price and handling is wire fabric. The weight of material to use in this fabric has been the subject of much discussion and, although it may be well sometimes to consider each specific case, in general it may be said that reinforcing metal running parallel to the center line of the pavement should have a cross-sectional area of 0.038 inches per foot of pavement width, and a cross-sectional area perpendicular to the center line of the pavement of at least 0.049 inches per foot of pavement length. Reinforcing has been advocated in two-course work where it is spread upon the still plastic base, which, being slightly undulating, insures that no line of cleavage can possibly develop between the two courses, and, in addition, imparts greater strength and security to the pavement. In single-course work, reinforcing is placed about 3 inches from the surface.

THE BEST METHODS IN CONCRETE ROADS.

Cracks in concrete roads are generally considered to be one of the most serious objections to this form of construction, and also the most difficult to avoid, and the report just issued by a national committee appointed to consider the question of contraction and expansion in such roads is of particular interest.

One of the most important features of this report, as well as that which undoubtedly seemed the most novel to many, was the statement and apparent proof that not only does concrete expand with the absorption of moisture and contract as it dries out, but that this effect of moisture is very much greater than the effect of temperature changes and may be sufficient to cause a stress in the concrete opposite to that which would be caused by a normal temperature change. Moreover, this effect of moisture absorption and drying out apparently continues throughout the life of the concrete. It would seem to follow, therefore, states the committee, "that the condition that would provide for a decrease in moisture content when the temperature increases and an increase in the moisture content when the temperature decreases would be an ideal one."

The experiments made also indicate that variation in the quality of the concrete will cause a variation in the tendency to expand and contract with change in moisture content, as dense mixtures absorb moisture less rapidly than porous ones. Consequently, if there are two qualities of concrete in a road existing either as a top and bottom layer or in two masses (such as two successive batches of slightly different mixture) occurring side by side, the more porous of the two would have a tendency to expand more than the other and consequently move a greater distance, resulting in tensile masses and possibly in shearing between the two masses of concrete. If the base of a two-course pavement is more porous than the top, the tendency would be for the former to expand and contract more than the latter and thus cause a separation of the two.

The above is the strongest possible argument for securing absolute uniformity in both proportioning and mixing, in order that not only all of the contents of any one batch but also all the batches in a given pavement shall be as nearly as possible absolutely uniform in composition and homogeneous in structure. How far this is from realization in too many concrete roads is known by many engineers who have given the subject attention.

Another point suggested by this effect of moisture on concrete pavements is the desirability of draining the subgrade. In a number of cases concrete paving has been adopted for certain stretches of road, because they were too soft and moist for macadam construction, and the assumption is made that dampness under a concrete pavement does not injure it in any way. If the soil and the pavement are kept uniformly damp all the time, this would probably be true, assuming that the dampness has no other effect. The committee, however, calls attention to the probable effects of frost in the subgrade, due to the expansion of the soil when the moisture in it freezes. If the subgrade is dry, there will, of course, be no such freezing and consequent expansion. On the other hand, if the soil be wet and the temperature falls sufficiently low, there will be freezing and expansion. If this freezing and expansion are uniform across the entire width of the road, and if the frost likewise leaves the ground uniformly throughout the width, thus allowing the pavement to settle uniformly, there may be no objectionable results. The committee remarked, however, that it is reported that cracks in concrete usually appear during a thaw rather than during a frost, and that this may be explained by the fact that the heat may be transmitted more rapidly through the shoulders than through the center of the road, thus causing the sides of the paving to settle more rapidly than the center. On the other hand, it seems probable that the action of frost will occur sooner and be more considerable along the edges than in the center. The results of this double action would be the raising of the edges of the road during freezing, thus causing a longitudinal medial crack on the underside of the pavement which would not show, followed by the opening of the pavement above this crack on its top surface as, during the subsequent thaw, the shoulders settle more rapidly than the center. This explanation would account for the frequent occurrence of long cracks down through the center of concrete pavements, and also of many other kinds of pavements which are laid on concrete foundations. If this explanation is correct the drainage of the subgrade of concrete and concrete foundation roads would appear as essential as in the case of the various kinds of macadams.

The committee, in view of their investigations, advises that the best mixture is that which is most dense, that the concrete should be mixed and placed in such a way as to produce a product of uniform quality; that the subbase should always be thoroughly wet before the concrete is placed to prevent rapid drying out, and that the concrete should be kept moist until it is strong enough to resist the stresses which will be caused by contraction due to drying out.

As to the effect of length of slab upon transverse cracks, the committee gives 25 feet as the maximum length for slabs in localities where there is little rainfall, while in localities where the rainfall is intermittent and the ground water rises in cool seasons and lowers in warm seasons the length may vary from 30 feet to a continuous slab. The length of slab should vary with the quality of the concrete, since the denser concrete will absorb less moisture and consequently have less tendency to move. The length should also vary with the condition of the subgrade. If smooth on a steep grade the slab should be made shorter to avoid the tendency to slide down hill. Where there is any decided change along the length of the road in conditions of smoothness of subgrade, a joint should be placed at the point where this change occurs.

The thickness of the slab also may be considered in determining the length, since the greater the thickness the greater the strength of a horizontal foot of cross-section, and this increase is greater than the increase in resistance to motion due to friction between the concrete and the subgrade.

Experiments indicate that there is greater movement in a concrete pavement or concrete base covered with a bituminous carpet than in that uncovered, the reason for which probably is that a dark surface absorbs more sun heat and also that the bituminous coating causes the concrete to retain for a longer period any moisture which gets beneath and into it.

The committee does not believe that the width of slab affects transverse cracking.

It favors a dished subgrade under all climatic conditions as being best able to resist tendencies to longitudinal cracks.

As to reinforcement, it recommends this when foundations are uncertain; in regions where there is little rainfall and long or wide slabs are desired, or where there is insufficient water for curing; when it is necessary to have a thin slab; when a decided change in grade occurs; when the movement of the concrete is restrained, as at street intersections or on curves, if joints cannot be placed properly; when the width of the slab is greater than 25 feet; or when it is necessary to crown the subgrade and the slab cannot be made thicker at the crown than at the sides. Fabricated steel should be used in that form which will give the greatest distribution. Where the reinforcement should be placed depends upon what conditions seem to demand it, it being placed nearer to that surface which will be placed under tension by such conditions. When used to resist stresses due to temperature and moisture changes, it should be placed near the bottom. Ordinarily, it is unnecessary to provide for temperature stresses, which are insignificant compared to those of moisture.

Where a road is constructed without joints, with the idea that nature will provide the joints where most needed, the concrete will weaken for some distance on each side of the place where the crack occurs, which may result in a partial disintegration of the concrete. There is, of course, the additional objection that the cracks will be irregular in line and more objectionable in appearance than with a straight joint. The thinner a joint the better, since stresses caused by expansion are readily absorbed by the concrete, and the less the actual expansion permitted the less will be the movement from contraction and consequently the tensile stresses which produce cracking.

Uniformity in the subgrade is very important, this applying to both the compactness and the smoothness, since unequal compactness will allow unequal settlement and unequal smoothness will allow unequal motion in different parts of the pavement, both of which will produce stresses unequally distributed and therefore more likely to produce cracks.

BOSTON'S MUNICIPAL SWIMMING POOLS.

Beautiful swimming pools are open to the public in these three buildings: Curtis Hall Gymnasium, Jamaica Plain; Columbia Road Gymnasium, Dorchester; Cabot Street Gymnasium, Roxbury. Modern methods are employed in keeping these pools perfectly clean. Admission costs fifteen cents, but this includes the use of bathing costume. Private bathing costumes are not allowed. A swimming instructor is always in charge of the pool and will give instruction free of charge.

RIGHTS OF UNION FREIGHT RAILROAD COMPANY.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Law Department, November 5, 1914.

To the Honorable the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I submit the following in compliance with the request contained in the order of the City Council, to wit:

Ordered, That the Corporation Counsel be hereby requested to make an investigation of the franchise of, and the various grants of locations made to, the Union Freight Railroad Company and its predecessors, and inform the City Council whether or not the use of streets by the said company can be regulated, or the locations revoked, and in what body, if any, the authority exists for such regulation or revocation; also whether or not said company has the right to occupy or use its tracks and operate cars on Atlantic avenue at the junction of Summer street, in the daytime.

I think the question of the rights granted to the predecessors of the Union Freight Railroad Company is now of little, if any, importance, as both of its predecessors, viz., the Commercial Freight Railway Company and the Marginal Freight Railway Company, have gone out of existence, and the locations used by the Union Freight Railroad Company have been granted directly to it either by act of the Legislature or action of the Board of Aldermen, and have not come to it by a transfer of the locations of either of its predecessors. The Union Freight Railroad Company was required by a provision of its charter to take the tracks of the Marginal Freight Railway Company and to compensate the company for such taking, but this provision gave no rights to the locations previously granted to the Marginal Freight Railway Company.

The charter of the Marginal Freight Railway Company—Statute 1867, chapter 170—was repealed by Statute 1872, chapter 342, section 7. Prior to the incorporation of the Union Freight Railroad Company the Commercial Freight Railway Company, which had been incorporated by Statute 1866, chapter 267, had sold its property to the Marginal Freight Railway Company.

The act incorporating the Union Freight Railroad Company, Statute 1872, chapter 342, was passed because the predecessors of the Union Freight Railroad Company had failed to furnish the service which the Legislature intended should be performed. The Union Freight Railroad Company was authorized to locate, construct, maintain and operate a railroad for public use in the conveyance of freight only, with convenient single or double tracks, between the terminal points of the several steam railroads entering the City of Boston, extending through certain streets designated by section 1 of the act, and such other streets as the Board of Aldermen of the City of Boston might from time to time determine on the petition of the corporation. Rights were given also to construct, use and maintain side tracks from the corporation's main tracks to wharves or warehouses on request of the owners or occupants of such wharves or warehouses, such side tracks to be laid in a public street only upon approval of the Board of Aldermen, who also were authorized to prescribe the pattern for the rails of all tracks so that they would be suitable for railway freight cars in common use. The corporation was authorized also to enter upon and use any part of the tracks for street railways in the streets or parts of streets within which the Union Freight Railroad Company was authorized to operate, and to strengthen such tracks so as to accommodate its heavy cars. By section 2 of the Act of Incorporation, as amended by section 2 of chapter 229, Statute 1876, it was provided that any railroad corporation whose road meets the road of the Union Freight Railroad Company may, in the manner prescribed by the Aldermen, make connections with and use the road of the Union Freight Railroad Company for the transportation of freight, and it was also provided that the cars of the Union Freight Railroad Company might be drawn by steam power, subject to the approval of the aldermen.

The act of incorporation limited the capital stock of the company to $500,000, and limited the rates it could charge for the service performed to a sum sufficient to pay the reasonable and necessary expenses of the corporation and a dividend of 5 per cent semiannually upon the cost of construction and equipment. The dividend rate was subsequently cut to 3½ per cent semiannually by Statute 1876, chapter 229, section 4.

The act of incorporation by section 1 gave the company all the powers and privileges, and made it subject to all the duties, restrictions and liabilities, provided by the general laws relating to street railway corporations and other railroad corporations so far as the same were applicable.

Statute 1873, chapter 235, authorized and required the company to receive and deliver passenger cars at each of its connections with the tracks of other railroad corporations, and to haul such cars at its established rates.

Statute 1876, chapter 229, made certain changes already referred to, and also provided for the purchase of stock in the Union Freight Railroad Company by any railroad company having a terminus in Boston, such railroads purchasing stock not to be given any preference in rates by the Union Freight Railroad Company.

In the act of incorporation certain streets were designated upon which the Union Freight Railroad Company was authorized to operate its cars, viz.: Lowell, Brighton, Causeway, Minot, Nashua, Commercial, Prince, Hanover, Fleet, India, Broad, Atlantic avenue, Federal, Kneeland, Cove, Lincoln and Eliot streets. By Statute 1901, chapter 430, certain streets were eliminated, viz.: Brighton, Minot, Nashua, Prince, Hanover, Fleet, India, Broad, Federal, Kneeland, Lincoln and Eliot streets. This amendment of the charter of the company left only five streets specifically designated by statute as streets upon which the company could operate, viz.: Lowell, Causeway, Commercial and Cove streets and Atlantic avenue. The Statute of 1901 also provided that Lowell street and that part of Causeway street lying between Haverhill and Lowell streets should be used only between the hours of twelve o'clock midnight and five o'clock in the morning except when perishable freight was to be transported. The company has the right to operate its railroad for the transportation of perishable freight at any hour of the day or night under such permission as may be granted by the Public Service Commission.

The company was authorized by vote of the Board of Aldermen on May 5, 1873, to use steam as a motive power between the hours of six p. m. and six a. m.; and on April 20, 1874, it was authorized by vote of the Board of Aldermen to use a dummy engine on its tracks in the day time until otherwise ordered.

In answer to the question whether or not the use of streets by the Union Freight Railroad Company can be regulated or the locations revoked, and in what body, if any, the authority exists for such regulation or revocation, I submit the following as my opinion:

1. That the powers given to the aldermen by Statute 1872, chapter 342, and by Statute 1876, chapter 229, viz.: To determine the streets, other than those designated by the statute, upon which the company should be permitted to operate; to approve or disapprove of the laying of side tracks upon public streets; to provide for the pattern of tracks, and to authorize the use of steam as a motive power, have passed to, and may be exercised by the Mayor and City Council as provided in Statute 1909, chapter 486, section 1.

2. That the Mayor and City Council may also exercise the power to regulate the speed of the company's cars and the manner in which, and the extent to which, it may use its tracks. (See Statute 1906, chapter 463, Part III., section 74.)

3. That any locations granted by the Board of Aldermen may be revoked by the Mayor and City Council. This does not include, however, the right to revoke locations granted by the Legislature on Lowell, Causeway, Commercial and Cove streets and Atlantic avenue. (Statute 1901, chapter 430, section 1.)

4. That the exercise by the Mayor and City Council of authority to regulate the speed of the company's cars, and the manner and extent of the use of its tracks, and of the authority to revoke locations granted by the aldermen, with the exceptions above noted, are both subject to the approval of the Public Service Commission. (Statute 1906, chapter 463, Part III., sections 74 and 66.)

Your question, whether the company has the right to occupy or use its tracks and operate cars on Atlantic avenue at the junction of Summer street, in the day time, should, in my opinion, be answered in the affirmative. The company seems to have the right to operate its cars on any of its locations at any time of the day or night except on Lowell street and that part of Causeway street which lies between Haverhill and Lowell streets. In these restricted places operation must be confined to the hours between twelve o'clock midnight and five o'clock a. m. The Public Service Commission, however, has authority to permit the use by the company of its tracks in such restricted places at any time of the day or night for the transportation of perishable freight.

A list of locations granted to the company up to the present time is hereto appended.

Yours truly,

JOHN A. SULLIVAN,
Corporation Counsel.

FINANCE REPORT, BUDGET SYSTEM.

The following was received:

Boston Finance Commission,
October 31, 1914.

To the Honorable the Mayor and City Council:
Gentlemen,—The City Council has requested the Finance Commission "to study the budget systems of the principal cities and states of the United States, and make comparisons between the systems in use in other cities and states and that in use in Boston."

The Finance Commission assumes that the City Council in making this request desires not so much a digest of the budget practices obtaining in the cities and states of the United States, as a report based upon the best experience available, which should contain specific recommendations for the improvement of the method now employed in preparing the Boston budget.

The commission is of the opinion that the experience of the city of New York in the matter of budget preparation offers the most valuable suggestions for the improvement of the Boston budget. Since 1909, when the segregated budget was first adopted by New York City, constant effort has been made to perfect the form of the budget, and while it has made great progress, New York is still at work further developing budget procedure. The commission accordingly submits, in response to the request of the City Council, a report setting forth first, the development of the New York idea in budget making; second, the Boston budget as it now is formulated; and third, recommendations.

1. The New York Budget.

The procedure in the preparation of the New York budget is as follows:

In the summer of each year the department of finance distributes to all the departments, bureaus, boards and commissions for whose support money is appropriated by the city, a supply of estimate forms. These forms call for detailed information in support of the requests to be made thereon for appropriations for the ensuing fiscal year. Opportunity is afforded by these forms for indicating not only the actual expenditures of the department for the preceding six months, and for the preceding fiscal year, but also the actual consumption of supplies and materials. For the purpose of obtaining a uniform basis for the comparison of expenditures and consumption between certain definite periods of time and the estimated expenditure and consumption for the ensuing fiscal year, a uniform classification of objects of expenditure has been devised.

Examples of the classifications used in New York are as follows:

Personal Service:

- Salaries, regular employees.

Departmental estimates drawn up in conformity with this plan of expense classification must, under the law, be returned to the department of finance before September 10. Upon their receipt by the bureau of municipal investigation and statistics of the department of finance, they are distributed for study and report to examiners familiar each with the needs of the department or departments assigned to him. For a month this bureau works studying these requests, conferring with representatives of the departments and determining, so far as possible, the irreducible minimum for which the several departments can be efficiently administered. Based upon the results of this month's work, and upon previous intimate knowledge of departmental needs, the examiners make recommendations to the budget committee of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. The budget committee then holds hearings on the appropriations for each department; these hearings are attended by representatives of the department whose appropriations are under consideration, as well as by the examiner who has reported thereon. The department head defends his original request in the hope that the budget committee may override the recommendations of the examiner; the examiner, on the other hand, offers proof in substantiation of his recommendations. The budget committee, acting as judge, allows or disallows in whole or in part the recommendations of the examiners. The allowances made by the budget committee comprise the "tentative budget," which is printed in book form and distributed free on application.

Shortly after the publication of the "tentative budget" a series of public hearings is given by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment as a whole. At these hearings any interested taxpayer may appear to plead for increased appropriations for those municipal activities which he feels to be insufficiently supplied with funds, or to oppose, as excessive or unnecessary, appropriations made for purposes with which he is not in sympathy. After these hearings the Board of Estimate and Apportionment makes the budget in accordance with its best judgment. Under the law the budget must be passed by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment prior to November 1.

The budget as passed is then transmitted to the Board of Aldermen, who, under the charter, have power to reduce but not to increase items in the budget. The aldermen are allowed twenty days for the consideration of the budget as submitted to them, and at the end of that period are required to transmit to the mayor the budget as amended by them. The mayor has power only to veto the action of the Board of Aldermen; should he exercise this veto, it can be overridden by a three-quarters vote of the aldermen. The budget, as finally approved and adopted, must be certified by the mayor, comptroller, and city clerk prior to December 25, whereupon the several amounts indicated in the budget are appropriated to their several purposes. On or before December 31 the budget must be filed in the office of the comptroller and published in the City Record, and on January 1 commences the fiscal year for which the appropriations have been made.

Among the positive results claimed to be attained by the adoption of a budget framed on the New York plan are the following:

1. Appropriations are made for such specific purposes that it is possible at any time to compare the program of expenditure as outlined at the time of budget preparation with actual expenditures after the allowance of the appropriations.
2. The schedule supporting the appropriations for salaries and wages prevents the diversion from or to pay roll purposes of funds appropriated for other purposes, and also prevents the manipulation of pay rolls to meet the exigencies of political considerations.
3. By affording the basis for a uniform system of accounting procedure, the budget makes possible accurate comparisons of expenditures for the same purpose from year to year.
4. Careful distinction can be drawn between expenditures from current revenue for current purposes and expenditures from bond issues for permanent improvements.
5. Almost complete control is had of appropriations.
6. The public is informed as to precisely what use is being made of public moneys.

II. The Boston Budget.

When compared with the system of budget preparation followed in New York, the Boston method affords a striking contrast. New York took steps in 1906 to do away with the lump sum budget then in operation, but Boston still follows that form. The auditor's report for the year 1824-25 contains for the first time the appropriation bill of the City of Boston. In form this appropriation bill differs very slightly from the form of appropriation bill passed to meet the expenses of the city for the year 1914-15.

In 1824 the total appropriations were only about $350,000. The appropriation from taxes and current revenue for city and county purposes in 1914-15 was $27,727,040.89.

Although no change has been made in the form of the annual budget, some attempt has recently been made to change the method of preparation. In the early years of the city's history, little attention was paid to the supporting details of the appropriations. This subject later on received more attention, however, and as a result the department estimates have for many years been printed in greater detail as a city document; but even though made in such detail, the estimates have differed so much from year to year, and the forms followed by the several departments have varied so greatly, that adequate consideration of the departmental requests is difficult.

In the last annual report of the Finance Commission attention was called to the defects of the present budget system. The Finance Commission then stated:

"In the years 1908-09 and 1909-10 steps were taken to improve the budget and considerable improvement was made. Forms of estimate were required which provided for a better system of classifications and for much greater detail in the statement of estimated expenditures."

In speaking of the effect of the charter amendments of 1909 upon the method of preparing the budget, the Finance Commission called attention to the opportunities afforded the Mayor, under the amendments, for making radical improvement in the form of budget. The commission stated:

"By the proper exercise of the power thus conferred upon him the Mayor could have made an intelligent study of the needs of the departments, but at no time since the adoption of the charter amendments has he grasped this opportunity. He did, however, cause improved forms of estimates to be made by his secretary, working in conjunction with a representative of the Finance Commission. This was a step in the right direction."

The present method of preparing the annual budget is as follows:

In the late fall or early winter the Mayor's office sends to all departments and branches of the City Government receiving money from the city treasury a supply of blank estimate sheets. These forms call for a certain amount of information, but not so specific as is called for in the New York forms. The estimate forms are drawn up as follows:

Form 1 calls for "A brief statement to be signed by the head of the department, pointing out its needs for the incoming year, together with the general reasons for any increase of appropriation that may be required."

Form 2 calls for "Expenditure and Revenue for Five Years" in totals only; also the "Expenditures for Three Years—Grouped." It should be noted, however, that whenever comparisons are made of yearly expenditures, the estimated expenditures for the current year occupy one of the columns provided and the estimated expenditures for the ensuing year (in fact, the request for appropriation) in another column. The grouping is according to the following classes of expenditure:

- "Office Expenses (Central Administration and Divisions), not including pay rolls.
- "Pay Rolls (other than for construction).
- "Pensions (total payments).
- "General expenses (other than office expenses).
- "Construction (a) Pay Rolls,
- (b) Materials and Supplies."

Provision is also made on this form for showing expenditures for three years by departmental divisions. These figures are given in total only.

Form 3 provides for showing the expenditures for three years for office expenses, pay rolls, etc. (as quoted above), of each division of the department, one form being used for each division. A blank space about 9 inches by 6 inches at the bottom of the sheet is reserved under the caption, "In this space specific reasons should be given for any increases asked for."

Form 4 is headed "Central Office Division, Office Expenses—Itemized, Comparative Table." Three columns provide for indicating the expenditures for three years, i. e., the preceding year, the estimates for the current year, and the estimates for the ensuing year, according to the following "Itemization":

- Printing.
- Postage.
- Stationery.
- Telephone.
- Messenger Service.
- Travel.
- Advertising.
- Automobiles.
- (a) Purchase.
- (b) Maintenance.

This form allows a space of about 9 inches by 4 inches for "specific reasons for any increases asked for."

Form 5 gives a comparative list of regular employees paid on an annual basis, but the average number of employees in each of the three years with wage totals is the only information called for.

Form 5A corresponds with Form 5, but is used only for those employees paid at a daily rate.

Form 6 gives general information relative to payments made to temporary employees.

Form 7 is headed "Construction (Material and Supplies) and General Expenses—Itemized. Follow Classification in Auditor's Report." With the exception of columnar division giving space for listing the items, the expenditures for the preceding year, the estimated expenditures for the current year and the estimated expenditures for the ensuing year, the sheet is blank.

These estimate sheets are filled out as best may be by the departments to whose use they seem adapted. Certain departments do not use these forms on the ground that they do not meet their requirements. Once compiled, however, the departmental requests, whether made in the prescribed form or in some other form, are sent, usually in January, to the Mayor, and by courtesy to the Finance Commission, and are printed in pamphlet form.

Upon the receipt of the estimates, therefore, it is the Mayor's duty to consider the needs of the departments as evidenced by their requests and to make the budget in accordance with his best judgment. Due consideration of the matter seems never to have been given. In the last annual report the Finance Commission stated:

"The Mayor, however, has never fully examined the department heads as to their estimates, nor has he caused competent analyses to be made of such estimates. His interviews with department heads have been too brief, and his examination of the estimates has been generally with reference to their totals only and not to the items in detail. The information thus obtained by the Mayor has been inadequate, and because he has not known what items to cut out or reduce he has made horizontal cuts in the totals of department estimates and has then sent to the City Council an unitemized appropriation bill providing lump sums for the departments. This created the semblance of a desire to economize, but it left the heads of departments and the City Council in a state of confusion, as they could not know to what items the reductions should be applied."

It has often happened that the Mayor has not deemed it necessary to consult the department heads at all with reference to their requests, but has made his horizontal cuts in the most summary fashion.

After an examination of the annual budget the Mayor sends to the City Council his recommendations in the form of an appropriation bill, allowing certain lump sums to each of the city departments under his control. To support and explain this appropriation bill the City Council has before it only the estimates originally submitted to the Mayor by the several departments; the total of these estimates agreeing in no respect with the Mayor's budget. Neither the City Council nor the department heads know what items in the estimates have been reduced or rejected by the Mayor. The Committee on Appropriations of the City Council, a committee of the whole, holds public hearings on the budget in an endeavor to obtain some light on the situation. These hearings are not, however, attended by the public. The questions which the committee directs to the department heads must be general in scope, because there is not any definite information in the possession of the City Council. It would be necessary for the Committee on Appropriations to request the department heads to submit entirely new sets of budget estimates which would agree in their totals with the recommendations made by the Mayor, if it were desired by the committee to make a competent study of the annual budget. No such request, however, is made. The committee confines itself to general questions which are concerned chiefly with the adequacy of the appropriation recommended by the Mayor. In view of the fact that the City Council has not before it sufficient information upon which to base its inquiry, it cannot properly exercise the duty imposed upon it by the charter amendments of reducing the items in the Mayor's budget. An important purpose of the framers of the charter is thus defeated, for the City Council does not act as a competent check upon the Mayor.

The installation of a scientifically made budget, according to the New York Bureau of Municipal Research, would require among others the adoption of the following improvements which are not used in the Boston budget:

1. Installation of unit costs systems, expense and liability accounting, central financial control, time reports, proper pay roll methods and an effective organization for audit.

2. Adoption of definite and adequate classifications or appropriation titles, making them standard and adhering to their use from year to year.

3. Preparation of the budget estimates on uniform schedules, which provide for showing in detail all information necessary as a basis for judgment in determining the amounts which should be appropriated for each function or purpose.

4. Preparation of the budget estimates sufficiently in advance of the time of adoption of the budget and careful examination thereof by the proper authorities.

5. Adoption and publication of a tentative budget and holding of public hearings thereon.

6. Inclusion in the budget ordinance or resolution of such restrictions as will ensure its administration for the functions and purposes for which the appropriations were requested.

The present budget system of Boston as it is carried out in practice has not sufficient protection against any of the following abuses:

1. The use of funds for purposes other than those for which they were granted.

2. The incurring of liabilities in excess of appropriations.

3. The charging to bond issue of labor and materials employed on maintenance work.

4. The running of departments at a relatively low rate of expenditure for a considerable portion of the year in order that a part of the annual appropriation may be available for increasing the compensation of favorites just prior to the close of the fiscal year and making these increases the basis for the next year's allowance.

5. The running of departments at a relatively high rate of expenditure at the beginning of the year, thereby exhausting appropriations before the year is ended and forcing the transfer of moneys from the Reserve Fund to meet the unnecessarily created emergency.

6. The expenditures of year-end balances of appropriations in a wasteful manner, instead of permitting these balances to revert to the treasury.

7. The consideration by department heads of all funds appropriated to their departments as subjects of unlimited official discretion.

The Finance Commission is of the opinion that the adoption of a budget similar to that of New York may eventually be of advantage to Boston. Its installation, however, in Boston would necessitate many and varied changes in the present budget system. Among these changes would be that of the system of accounting in the City Auditor's office, the formation of a bureau of municipal investigation and statistics, the changing of the forms of estimates, and various other changes not only far reaching but expensive. The commission believes that the adoption of the New York budget system as a whole for this year would be too sudden and radical.

The Mayor of Boston, under the charter, has the power to follow many of the advantageous features of the New York budget without introducing a new system.

III. Recommendations.

The Finance Commission recommends:

1. That the Mayor make a study of the needs of the departments.

2. That the Mayor have an analysis of the estimates made by a competent person other than a department head.

3. That the Mayor, basing his judgment upon such information, cut or reduce the items of the estimates.

4. That the Mayor shall not make horizontal reductions in the totals of the departmental estimates.

5. That the Mayor, in making his budget recommendations to the City Council, indicate precisely the disallowances and changes he has made in the departmental estimates.

6. That the Mayor in framing the appropriation bill for the year 1915-16 adopt classification titles similar to those of the city of New York, and the City Council, in conformity with this appropriation bill, appropriate the amount of money for each function of the department, item by item.

7. That the preparation of the budget forms for and the investigation of the requested appropriation of one department of the city be given to the Finance Commission, so that the utility of the scheme for Boston may be demonstrated, according to the New York budget system.

Respectfully submitted,

THE FINANCE COMMISSION,
by JOHN R. MURPHY,
Chairman.

Referred to the Committee on Ordinances.

CONFIRMATION OF APPOINTMENTS.

Coun. BALLANTYNE called up unfinished business, Nos. 1 and 2, viz.:

1. Action on appointments submitted by the Mayor October 26, of John P. Sullivan and John J. Fay to be Constables of the City of Boston.

2. Action on appointments submitted by the Mayor October 26, of John F. Ahern and A. J. Barbour to be Weighers of Coal.

The question came on confirmation. Committee, —Coun. Watson and Woods. Whole number of votes cast 7, yeas 7, and the appointments were confirmed.

REPORTS ON CLAIMS.

Coun. BALLANTYNE called up unfinished business, No. 3, viz.:

3. Ordered, That there be allowed and paid to Henry F. Brady the sum of $916.95, being the amount of wages lost by said Brady from August 3, 1913, to April 10, 1914, on account of injuries received while a member of the Fire Department, the amount so paid to be charged to the Reserve Fund.

The question came on the passage of the order. Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, may I suggest—not being a member of the committee reporting this appropriation—that the chairman explain to the Council the facts in relation to the matter?

Coun. COLEMAN—Mr. President, I recall that case very well. You will remember that I was sitting with the committee. At the time the man came before us he had suffered from an accident, from which he possibly recovered sufficiently to go back to the service, but he was not able to remain in the service owing to some trouble in his head, which resulted in dizziness, making it not only unsafe for himself but for other firemen with whom he worked. He received compensation from the city for his wages during the time he was in the employ of the department, but before he was given a pension there was an interim during which he did not receive any pay from the city or any pension. That is the portion of the time for which he is asking remuneration. He came before us and his condition was manifestly pitiable. He could hardly control himself, although he was a man of more than average intelligence. He was a man who gave faithful service to the city. He has a wife and two small children and we all felt unqualifiedly that he was undoubtedly entitled to what he was asking for.

Chairman BALLANTYNE—The Chair remembers the case very well and coincides with every word Coun. Coleman has said. It is a very, very worthy case.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I desire to say that I am quite content with the explanation.

The order was passed.

Coun. BALLANTYNE called up unfinished business, No. 4.

4. Ordered That under the provisions of chapter 178 of the Acts of 1887, an annuity be paid to Margaret M. Callahan, widow of John J. Callahan, formerly a member of the Police Department, the amount of said annuity not to exceed $300, to be determined by the Police Commissioner, and to be charged to the appropriation for Police Department, Pensions.

The question came on the passage of the order. Chairman BALLANTYNE—Does any member desire any further explanation?

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I ask to have that explained also, as I see that it is a report of the Committee on Claims.

Chairman BALLANTYNE—Coun. Coleman also sat on that case.

Coun. COLEMAN—Mr. President, I do not recall as clearly as in the other case the details, but I was there and listened to the statement of the widow. I remember that I was fully persuaded that it was an honest, legitimate and worthy case, but I cannot give the details of it as accurately as in the other case.

Chairman BALLANTYNE—The Chair will say that he was present and sat on the case. If any other member of the committee is present and can explain the case I would rather have him do so. But I will say that this man was a member of the police force and suffered an injury in South Boston sometime ago by reason of a gate falling on his right foot. It afterward developed into very serious trouble which was, really, according to the statement of the doctor, the remote cause of his death. So the doctor was perfectly willing to go on record as saying that he died of injuries received in the discharge of his duty. I think it is a very worthy case.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I am quite content with the explanation.

The order was passed.

FIRE ESCAPES, CITY HALL.

Coun. WATSON offered an order—That the Building Commissioner, through his Honor the Mayor, inform the Council whether or not City Hall is equipped with fire escapes and egresses as called for by law.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

RECESS TAKEN.

The Council voted at 3.22 p. m., on motion of Coun. COLLINS, to take a recess subject to the call of the President.

The members of the Council reassembled in the Council Chamber and were called to order by the President at 3.58 p. m.

PUBLIC LANDS.

Coun. ATTRIDGE, for the Committee on Public Lands, submitted the following:

- (1) Report on the message of the Mayor (referred October 5) relative to leasing of building on Maverick and Bremen streets—recommending reference to the Executive Committee.

Report accepted; said reference ordered.

- (2) Report on message of Mayor, communication and order (referred May 11) authorizing sale of Gibson street land—that no further action is necessary.

Accepted.

- (3) Report on message of Mayor and order (referred January 16) for sale of Police Station No. 2—that no further action is necessary.

Accepted.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE REPORTS.

Coun. ATTRIDGE, for the Executive Committee, submitted the following:

- (1) Report on petition of M. Agnes Gillen (referred to-day) for permit for children to appear at Whiton Hall on evening of November 10—that leave be granted.

Report accepted; leave granted on usual conditions.

- (2) Report on petition of the Enterprise Hardware Company (referred to-day) for permit to sell, rent or lease firearms at 37 Fleet street, Ward 6—that permit be granted.

Report accepted; permit granted on usual conditions.

(3) Report on orders (referred October 26) concerning acceptance of chapter 228, Acts of 1914, relative to Michael O'Keefe, an order for payment of $250 to said O'Keefe—that the orders ought to pass.

The report was accepted and the question came on the passage of the order.

Coun. ATTRIDGE—Mr. President, I simply desire to say for the benefit of the committee that Michael O'Keefe was employed in the Sewer Division of the Public Works Department and on September 10, 1912, was injured. Two of his toes were cut off. Because of the injury he was compelled to pay $80 to doctors for two operations performed, and he also lost in back pay $180. This particular order is for the purpose of making him whole for the money which he really lost. He received from the city thirty days' pay, as provided by law, and this order to pay him $250 is simply to make him whole for the money he expended for the two operations and also for the lost pay.

Chairman BALLANTYNE—This order, involving an expenditure of money, will under the rule lie over for one week.

The order was laid over under the rules.

(4) Report on order (referred to-day) concerning fire escapes on City Hall—that the order ought to pass.

Report accepted; order passed.

(5) Report on the ordinance (referred October 26) relative to permits for street openings—that the same ought not to pass.

Report accepted; said ordinance rejected.

PERMIT FOR STREET OPENINGS.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, this afternoon the Executive Committee returned to the Council an ordinance relating to permits for street openings, and under the vote of the Council that ordinance has been rejected. As I understand the situation, that action was taken in executive session in contemplation of the Council this afternoon reporting favorably upon a new draft of the ordinance, being the same ordinance with a slight amendment, so that it shall read as follows:

An Ordinance Relating to Permits for Street Openings.

Be it ordained by the City Council, etc.:

Section 1. Section nine of chapter nine of the ordinances of 1910 is hereby amended by substituting the following new section:

Sec. 9. The commissioner may issue permits to persons having authority in the premises to open, occupy, obstruct and use portions of the streets. Such permits shall specify the time, place, size and use of such opening, occupation or obstruction, and shall be granted upon a condition, the terms of which shall be those stated in section twenty-one of chapter three of the Revised Ordinances of 1898, and upon further conditions as follows:

1. That the restoration of the paving or other surface of such streets shall be effected by the city as directed by the commissioner, the work to be done by city employees or by contract (or otherwise) at his discretion, the standard, type and extent of the repairs necessary to effect such restoration to be determined by him and to be paid for by the person receiving the permit, such payment to be made in advance on the basis of the commissioner's estimate or during the progress or after the completion of the restoration as the commissioner may elect.

2. That the person receiving the permit shall place and maintain from the beginning of twilight, through the whole of every night, over or near the place so occupied, opened, obstructed or used, and over or near any dirt, gravel or other material placed in or near such place, a light or lights sufficient to protect travelers from injury; shall place and maintain a safe and convenient way, satisfactory to the commissioner, for the use of foot travelers and for vehicles around or over such place; shall protect such trees as shall be designated by the Park and Recreation Department in such manner as said department shall specify; shall provide suitable sanitary accommodations for his employees, and shall deliver the coupon attached to the permit to an officer of the police force of said city on or before the expiration of the time fixed in the permit for completing the work, such coupon to be returned by said officer to the Public Works Department.

3. That the commissioner may detail an inspector, at the expense of the person receiving the permit, to supervise said opening, occupation and use, and to see that the hackfilling is properly done.

4. That the commissioner may require the person receiving the permit to inclose the place in the streets so opened, occupied or used, with a rail, fence or other guard as specified by the commissioner.

All amounts paid to the city under the provisions of this section shall be credited to, and used as a part of, the appropriation for the Public Works Department.

Paragraph 1, section 9, of chapter 9 of the Ordinances of 1910. "That the restoration of the paving or other surface of such streets shall be effected by the city as directed by the commissioner, the work to be done by city employees or by contract," and that the words "or otherwise" he added at that point. I now offer an ordinance in the form in which the rejected ordinance has been before this Council to-day, with that amendment. The amendment is the insertion of the words "or otherwise" after the word "contract" in the first paragraph of section 9. Inasmuch as the Council has through hearings and conferences examined into the ordinance, has reviewed it and been over it the past two months on various occasions, I offer it, hoping that it will be passed to-day. The object of the Council in rejecting the old ordinance was this. Under the law any ordinance or loan order introduced here by the Mayor becomes a law in sixty days unless the Council takes action thereon. Under that statute the Mayor's ordinance would have become effective on Sunday or Monday next. So if we amend the ordinance with the words "or otherwise," it is not giving to the Commissioner of Public Works the right to determine how this work shall be done. The Mayor might veto the ordinance, as we passed it, with those words, and in that event, if we had not rejected the ordinance which he himself introduced, it might be claimed that that became a law, not having been rejected by the Council under the statute. In order to save that question, and in order that we may put that ordinance into effect without any question, I now offer the ordinance with the inclusion of the words "or otherwise," and ask for a suspension of the rules.

Coun. COLLINS—Mr. President, I hope that suspension will prevail. The Council has given much attention to this matter. We have had interviews and conferences with his Honor the Mayor, the Corporation Counsel and the Commissioner of Public Works, and we believe substantially that it is a very good ordinance. We did, however, see fit to put in the words, "or otherwise," as suggested by the gentleman who has just taken his seat. Of course, any ordinance which is offered by the executive becomes operative within sixty days unless acted upon. This may be acted upon, either affirmatively or through a motion that the ordinance ought not to pass, without prejudice, or by substitution of another ordinance in a new draft. It may also be done, as is suggested by the gentleman who has just spoken, by the substitution of a brand new ordinance. The point is simply this, that the Mayor's ordinance does become operative and cannot in itself be amended, although a new draft thereof may be made. It has been rejected to-day, and the ordinance offered by the gentleman who has just spoken simply contemplates the addition of a very innocent amendment which we believe is important. It is to protect our rights and carry out our intentions that this new ordinance is put in. I hope suspension of the rule will prevail, and that this new ordinance will take its passage to-day.

The rule was suspended and the ordinance was passed.

GENERAL RECONSIDERATION.

On motion of Coun. COLLINS the Council refused a general reconsideration of all action taken to-day.

THE NEXT MEETING.

Coun. COLLINS—Mr. President, I move that we adjourn to meet a week from Monday, November 16, at three o'clock p. m.

Coun. COUTHURST—Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to ask a question.

Chairman BALLANTYNE—There being no objection the gentleman has permission.

Coun. COUTHURST—Mr. President, I assume that the Finance Commission's report on the budget has been incorporated in our minutes. I would like to make sure of that.

Chairman BALLANTYNE—Yes.

Coun. COLLINS' motion was carried and the Council voted at 4.10 to adjourn, to meet on Monday, November 16.

THE CARE OF FIRE HOSE.

By H. B. WELLS.

The deterioration of hose is usually caused by neglect of the hose surface. After every fire this cover fabric is bound to be water soaked and filled with sand or mud and foreign matter. The sand insidiously works its way into the fabric, its sharp particles cutting the strands of the covering. The accumulation of grains of sand soon causes that fuzzy appearance which predicts early weakness of the fabric and often results in a burst hose.

Of first importance, therefore, in the care of hose, I consider the hose surface. After each time of use, the hose covering should be thoroughly washed and scrubbed and then dried. If the hose is put away without first drying out all surface moisture, disastrous results are bound to follow.

The hose is immediately attacked by fungus, and mildew results; then rotting sets in, and within a very short time the hose is worthless junk.

Avoid friction on the surface of the hose fabric when the hose is in use. Be sure especially to arrange that the section nearest the fire plug is not being chafed by the vibration at the point of contact with the ground.

As fire will immediately ruin a hose, so also will the direct rays of the sun. All stored hose should, therefore, be kept away from hot sunshine, as within a very short time the rays of old Sol will act like fire on cotton hose covering. I might add that very hot, dry air has similar effect, though to a lesser degree.

In the opinion of the writer, there is little choice as to the external fabric of the fire hose, as the object of this outside fabric is simply to give sufficient strength to withstand the water pressure. The inside lining of rubber is of the greatest importance and should be of pure rubber of the finest quality.

For a long time an old idea prevailed that it was disastrous to leave any particle of water inside the hose after having been in use. My experience, coupled with the experience of others, has convinced me it is unnecessary to drain a hose thoroughly after use. The inside surface had better be kept damp or moist. Moisture has no effect or bad influence on pure rubber, and therefore need cause no fear in the minds of the department using first-class equipment. Pure rubber has, however, one real enemy. Oil of any kind is ruinous. Avoid all oil as you would a pestilence. I am of the opinion that it is quite unnecessary to oil hose couplings. Others, however, disagree with me on this point. If you do resort to lubrication of couplings, avoid all leakages; do not permit any of your lubricant to get into your hose. If through accident this does happen, no time should be lost in thoroughly wiping out and cleansing the part which has been oiled. Acids and other chemicals, iron rust, sulphur fumes, etc., are also injurious to hose, and contact with them is to be avoided.

Hose, like horses or like man, suffer from lack of use. If you permit your fire horses to stand in their stalls without exercise they are sure to stiffen up and become worthless; so also with your hose. Handle it, keep it soft and pliable, do not allow it to remain in its cart or on its reel indefinitely without pulling out or unwinding it. It should be a fixed rule in every department that all hose must be taken from the trucks at least twice a month. The hose is then worked over, brushed and thoroughly wet inside. It is then reinstalled, the men being particular to see that the bends in the hose come at a different point from the one they occupied before. Avoid short bends in your hose when stored away. Severe cold causes deterioration of rubber, and freezing temperature tends to crack the hose. Under the exigency of fire fighting, no preventives for these troubles can be suggested. Usual care and a thorough draining of hose is the best that can be done.

MAYOR ADVOCATES NEW TUNNEL.

A tunnel to be devoted to teaming and the travel of pedestrians between Boston and East Boston is advocated by Mayor Curley in a formal communication to Chairman Swain of the Boston Transit Commission.

Mayor Curley declares:

November 19, 1914.

GEORGE F. SWAIN, Chairman,

Boston Transit Commission:

MY DEAR SIR,—In connection with the development of the transportation facilities of Boston, I am of the opinion that it would be advisable for your Board to make a study as to the advisability, necessity and cost of establishing a teaming and pedestrian traffic tunnel between Boston and East Boston.

With a system of elevators connecting the street surface with the bed of the tunnel, it might be possible to establish such physical connection between Boston and East Boston as will result in the proper commercial development of East Boston.

The present cost of maintenance of the ferry service by the municipality is ample to cover a five million dollar bond issue annually and if a teaming and pedestrian traffic tunnel were established at a cost of less than three millions of dollars, it might be possible for the city to finance the same, discontinuing the ferries, and effecting a saving of approximately $50,000 annually, in addition to furnishing better service to a section of Boston where the very best commercial opportunities are to-day neglected because of the lack of proper physical connection.

Respectfully yours,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

CITIES NEED HELPFUL AID.

ADDRESS BY HIS HONOR JAMES M. CURLEY AT THE CONFERENCE OF MAYORS OF AMERICAN CITIES, PHILADELPHIA, PENNSYLVANIA, NOVEMBER 13, 1914.

"I want to say that I do not subscribe to the proposition that it is an impossibility to secure the assistance of the substantial, hard-headed business man of any community in the matter of assisting in the proper, and honest, and economic administration of public affairs.

"I will admit, it is an almost impossible task to induce them to become candidates for office in our city government, but it has been possible for us in Boston to avail ourselves of their services in an advisory and supervisory capacity through the creation of an Industrial Bureau, whose existence is made possible by the private subscriptions of more than 300 of our leading successful business men. Those men have raised a fund of $70,000. They are financially, and they are personally interested in an honest administration of public affairs, and through their instrumentality it has been possible in Boston for this year, to secure the adoption of a gas street lighting contract on a ten-year basis at a saving of $36,000 per annum to the city, and within the next thirty days an electric lighting contract will be signed whereby a saving of $82,000 per annum, or a total of more than $1,180,000 on a ten-year street lighting contract.

"The real weakness of all municipal administration is the fact that there is no standard system to follow, and the establishment of municipal standards that may serve as a guide for proper municipal administration are just as necessary to publicly owned utilities as they are to the privately administered public service corporations."

FIRE INSPECTIONS IN BOSTON.

By COMMISSIONER JOHN GRADY, Boston Fire Department.

The Boston Fire Department has in practice to-day an inspection system, which, for some time appeared to be only a theory. About six months ago it was decided that whether we had laws or not something must be done by this city to cut down the enormous loss from fire under which we were laboring. After careful consideration the "moral suasion" plan was adopted and the inspection system put in practice. Two lieutenants were detailed to inspect buildings in certain sections of the city. The class of buildings decided upon were hotel, apartment and mercantile buildings. The greatest fire risk exists in these buildings and it was felt that the inspection system should properly start where the greatest danger existed. The plan was to make the owners of property see where the serious mistakes were by bringing the matters to their attention in a proper and effective way. Since the beginning of this inspection system the inspecting force has been greatly enlarged and inspections are being made in all parts of the city. I give below a few figures which show the amount of work that is being done and that is necessary in order that the inspections may have the proper effect.

Number of premises inspected from April 12 to November 1, 1914.	2,000
Number of inspections made by chiefs and subordinate officers.	15,277
Special inspections.	2,000
Number of recommendations offered.	1,800
Number of recommendations adopted.	1,725

Some of the recommendations have entailed the expenditure of large sums of money, but it is gratifying to state that in almost every case the fire department officials have been met with the hearty cooperation of property owners.

The inspectors have been carefully instructed in their work, just what to look for, and just how to go about their duties. Business is done only with the men in charge of a building and everything is carefully explained to him. After the inspector completes his inspection a report is forwarded to headquarters stating the conditions found and offering recommendations for their corrections. At headquarters the recommendations are carefully gone over and requests from the Fire Commissioner to remedy the conditions set forth are mailed to the owners. When conditions are found that are dangerous and liable to cause fire the Fire Commissioner has the authority to demand their correction. This is immediately done. A follow-up system is in force in order to find out whether or not the recommendations have been adopted. If the conditions which are liable to cause fire are not corrected the owner is notified a second time, and if no action is then taken, prosecution is immediately commenced. Considering the large number of cases reported, the number of cases turned over to the police are comparatively few.

Of course it will take a long time to cover the entire city, as buildings have to be inspected over and over again to see if the recommendations are receiving proper attention. The inspecting force must necessarily be small as the fire fighting strength of the companies must not be weakened. The work is being done, and done well, and with the continued hearty cooperation of householders and property owners much good is bound to result.

PROCLAMATION.

I, James M. Curley, Mayor of the City of Boston, having been notified by the School Committee of the City of Boston that the Disciplinary Day Schools, provided for by chapter 738 of the Acts of 1914, are open and ready for occupancy do hereby proclaim that said schools are legally established under the provisions of said act.

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Done in the City of Boston on the sixteenth day of November, nineteen hundred and fourteen,

CARE OF POLLING BOOTHS.

The Election Commissioners have addressed his Honor the Mayor the following communication relative to the polling booths in the City of Boston, maintained upon the public highways:

Boston, November 16, 1914.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston.

DEAR SIR,—We beg to acknowledge your letter of the 11th instant in reference to polling booths on the public highways, and to say that we have gradually reduced the number of polling booths on the highways until the number now remaining thereon is but fifty-six. It is the purpose of the Board to discontinue these wherever possible by locating the polling place in a public building, notwithstanding the fact that we have been criticised in many instances for taking the booths from the highways in some precincts and placing them in the basement of the schoolhouses.

Owing to the great amount of vacant territory in the suburban wards, we often find it possible to rent different lots of land to be used for the location of polling booths. This is not possible, of course, in the downtown wards where we are confronted with our greatest difficulty in locating polling places.

We trust, in accordance with your Honor's suggestion, that when the new precincts are located it will be possible for this Board to use even more public buildings than we are now using.

In reference to your Honor's suggestion that it would be advisable to comply with the recommendations of the Finance Commission as to a rebate by the contractor on account of the inadequate lighting, we beg to say that we have directed the contractor to make such a rebate, and also have insisted that he strictly comply with the terms of the contract during the remainder of its existence.

We have also made arrangement through Police Commissioner O'Meara for reports to this Board of any inadequate lighting while the present contract is in force.

Respectfully,
BOARD OF ELECTION COMMISSIONERS,
by JOHN M. MINTON,
Chairman.

MAYOR CURLEY WILL BRING THANKSGIVING CHEER.

Mayor Curley will remember 200 worthy families in Boston with a pleasant surprise on Thanksgiving Day by the receipt at each home of a basket containing a dinner for six persons. The W. & A. Bacon Company department store will prepare the baskets and deliver them.

Mayor Curley's generosity gave the Bacon firm the idea of furnishing similar baskets for purchase by philanthropic citizens who desire to aid the needy poor on the festal day and, as a result, it is prepared to put out any number of baskets. Each basket will cost $1.88 which, the firm announces is the actual cost of the food, plus enough to cover the delivery expenses.

The baskets will contain the following:
2 fresh killed tender roasting chickens (about 3 pounds each).

- 1 can tomato soup.
- 1 package biscuits.
- 1 quart cranberries.
- $\frac{1}{2}$ peck potatoes.
- 1 can peas.
- 1 package jelly.
- 1 package tea.
- 1 package plum pudding.
- 1 pound choice quality mixed nuts.

THE SALE AND USE OF POISONS IN CITIES.

The alarming increase in the number of suicides in our metropolitan cities from the use of mercuric acids has resulted in a country-wide agitation for restrictive legislation governing their sale and distribution.

The necessity of such character of legislation is excellently set forth in a brief presented the City Record by Mr. Martin I. Wilbert, the distinguished expert in pharmacology of the United States Public Health Service.

Mr. Wilbert declares:

"For more than a year corrosive mercuric chloride has had the undesirable distinction of being one of the most commonly used poisons for self-destruction because of the fact that it was the most frequently mentioned and the most actively discussed of all the available toxic substances. It is probable that no one article of a poisonous nature ever attracted greater attention than was accorded to corrosive mercuric chloride in the daily papers of this country during the past year. The number of measures that were proposed in the lawmaking bodies of our cities, states, and Nation to restrict its sale and use would run well into three figures.

"So far as is known, however, only two of the larger communities have, up to the present time, enacted restrictive legislation—the state of Maryland and the city of New York.

"Even a cursory study of the available statistics concerning the nature and kind of poison used in cases of accidental or intentional self-poisoning will suggest the futility of legislation directed against the possible abuse of any one given substance. The appended tables, compiled from the report of the Registrar-General of Births, Deaths, and Marriages in England and Wales for 1911 and 1912, and from the annual reports made by the coroner of the city of St. Louis for the years 1911 to 1914, inclusive, will suffice to show that while no satisfactory conclusions can be drawn from the figures at hand, enough is evidenced to indicate that corrosive mercuric chloride is by no means the most readily available nor the most dangerously potent substance that may be used by persons intent on committing suicide.

"Psychologists have long since recognized the part that imitation plays in the duplication or the possible increase of criminal acts, and the table compiled from the annual reports of the coroner of the city of St. Louis emphasizes more strongly than can be expressed in words the unfortunate effect of newspaper publicity regarding the nature and kind of poison used for self-destruction.

"The number of cases of suicide in the city of St. Louis from the use of corrosive mercuric chloride for the year ended March 31, 1914, is out of all proportion to what might have been expected under normal conditions. The period of time is practically coincident with that during which newspapers of the country gave unusual publicity to the use of this substance as a poison, so that it seems quite probable that the increase is due to suggestions offered the morbidly inclined by the suicide items in the local papers.

"The figures given are further emphasized by the fact that, compared with the population of England and Wales, the suicides reported in St. Louis from this one substance alone would aggregate a total of 600 cases, while if the same ratio held true of the total population of the United States, the aggregate number of suicides from corrosive mercuric chloride during the past year would number nearly 1,600.

"It is generally recognized that the underlying object of legislation to control the sale and use of poisons is the protection of the public. It is practically impossible to make poison regulations foolproof, and it is also admittedly impracticable to dissuade the person bent on self-destruction from accomplishing his end. Easy access to poisons greatly increases their abuse, and it is difficult indeed to conceive of ways and means that will tend to prevent or even discourage the constantly growing abuse of poisonous substances.

"A consistent and persistent enforcement of existing laws to restrict the sale of poisons should go far toward making the enactment of additional special laws unnecessary. The difficulties encountered in this direction, however, are evidenced by the fact that even at the present time some of the states have two or more laws restricting the sale and use of poisons which overlap in part, either in scope or in the nature of their enforcement, and usually differ sufficiently to make compliance with all the laws impracticable, if not impossible.

"This conflict in the nature as well as the scope of the laws relating to poisons in the several states and even in the same state is unnecessary, and the opinion has frequently been expressed that a Federal or National poison law would lead to a better understanding of the problem and to a more efficient enforcement of the laws in all of the states. It has also been pointed out that the existing discrimination between the sale of a poison as a drug and the sale of the same article for mechanical or other purposes fosters a disregard of the law on the part of the druggist and leads to noncompliance with its requirements.

"A national poison law on which food and drug officials, the postal officials, the producer, the dealer, and the consumer alike could rely would go far toward bringing about effective methods for controlling the sale and use of poisons and of poisonous drugs in all parts of the country. Such a law would also afford dealers doing an interstate business an opportunity to determine with reasonable certainty whether any particular article should be handled as a poison or not, and in the event that an article is to be handled as a poison the regulations and restrictions in the several states might be made reasonably uniform.

By DR. FRANCIS X. MAHONEY, Chairman Boston Board of Health.

The monograph by Doctor Wilbert of the United States Public Health Service covers the matter very thoroughly. However, prompt action is necessary to stem the great increase of deaths due to the voluntary use of this drug. Pending any interstate action relative to legislation along these lines, and in the event of any difficulty in getting a uniform law, it would be well and advisable if individual States this year would endeavor to have a law enacted prohibiting the sale of this drug unless ordered by a registered physician. The great increase in the number of deaths from this cause is due in a great measure to the publicity given by the press in cases of persons committing suicide. If it is necessary for the police and for medical examiners to report these cases, it would be advisable that the means by which the individual destroyed himself be omitted in the public print.

The alarming increase in the number of deaths from mercuric poisoning would warrant early legislation for the control and sale of this drug.

In November, 1913, his pay was increased from $1,000 to $1,200, and in March, 1914, was reduced $200, in accordance with an order from the Mayor's office affecting this department. Over seven months have elapsed since his decrease in salary took effect. POLICE DEPARTMENT.

General Order No. 910.

A Trial Board consisting of Captains Kimball, Goodwin and Bowley having heard by reference a complaint against Patrolman Edson T. Miner of Division 2, charging him with absence from duty without leave, has reported its finding to the Commissioner. The accused patrolman appeared without counsel and pleaded not guilty, but explained later that this plea was entered not as a denial that he had been absent without leave, but in order that he might have an opportunity to explain his position.

The principal facts in the case are as follows: Patrolman Miner has been a member of the police force twelve years and by his record and by the testimony of his official superiors, he is shown to have been in all respects an excellent officer. He was brought up in a Christian denomination which holds that the seventh day, or Saturday, rather than Sunday, is the Lord's Day and should be so observed; and that such observance forbids labor between sunset Friday and sunset Saturday. Early in September of the present year he informed his commanding officer that he had been aroused to a sense of his responsibility and that thereafter he would decline to do police duty within the twenty-four hours just specified. He absented himself without leave and the matter was reported to the superintendent to whom he made a like statement. He was advised that if he could not conscientiously obey the rules of the department and perform the work required of all its members his proper course would be to resign, but this he then and thereafter declined to do. At the instance of his friends, and with his own consent, he was examined by two alienists who found no reason to doubt his sanity. September 24 he presented a petition for thirty days' leave of absence, without pay, for the purpose of regaining his health in New Hampshire. Attached to the petition was a letter in which his physician certified that Patrolman Miner was in his care, was sick and was unfit for work on account of nervous exhaustion. The petition was granted September 25. Patrolman Miner, on his return in October, informed his commanding officer that he would not do duty at any time between sunset Friday and sunset Saturday. He was warned of the necessity of presenting charges should he adhere to this course, but he absented himself without leave on the following Friday night and Saturday. Charges were presented and a day for hearing was assigned. He appeared before the Trial Board and asked for a continuance in order to secure testimony as to his standing from superior officers with whom he had formerly been in close official relations. His request was granted and two days later he was heard by the Board in his own behalf as fully as he desired. He stated that following the dictates of his conscience it was his intention to absent himself as before every Friday night and Saturday as long as he remained in the department; that he would be glad to have an arrangement made which should permit him so to do, but was ready to take the consequences whatever they might be.

This department has neither the desire nor the power to compel any member to do work which his conscience forbids him to do. It is a civic organization, with no stated term of enlistment, and for any reason personal to himself any member may leave it at his pleasure. In this respect it is like innumerable other organizations governed by rules and principles, including, without doubt, the church of which Patrolman Miner is a member. The Police Department, upon which the people of Boston depend for the protection of life and property and the preservation of order, is in full and active service every minute in the year. Its members are subject not only to regular duty but to calls for action wherever needed, and those calls are of great frequency. They know this when they join and in taking their oath of office, all have sworn to obey all rules made for their government and discipline. It was the plain duty of Patrolman Miner to withdraw from the department when he found that his conscience forbade him to observe his oath. It is a matter for regret that he has failed to take that course and instead has made it necessary to deal with him as an offender against vital rules of the department.

The Trial Board reports a finding of guilty, in accordance with which and with the recommendation of the Board, it is hereby ordered that Patrolman Edson T. Miner be dismissed from the Police Department, to take effect Monday, November 16, 1914, at 5.45 p. m.

WITHOUT ADVERTISING.

The Mayor has approved the following contracts awarded without advertising; requests of heads of departments to do work with the department forces without advertising; additions to and deductions from contracts.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT.

The Commissioner of Public Works states his intention to construct a surface drain of 10 and 12 inch earthen pipe in Lothrop street, between Market and Portsmouth streets, Brighton, at an estimated cost of $986.

The Commissioner of Public Works states his intention to construct a surface drain of 10, 12 and 24 inch earthen pipe and five catch-basins in Waverly street, between Market and Waverly streets, at an angle in the latter street, Brighton, at an estimated cost of $3,401.

The Commissioner of Public Works states his intention to construct a drain of 15 and 20 inch earthen pipe and five basins in Portsmouth street, between Waverly street and a summit about 220 feet south of Lothrop street, Brighton, at an estimated cost of $1,299.

The Commissioner of Public Works states his intention to construct a sanitary sewer of 10-inch earthen pipe, a surface drain of 10-inch earthen pipe, and a basin in Oriole street, between Park and Wren streets, West Roxbury, at an estimated cost of $1,542.

The Commissioner of Public Works states his intention to construct a sanitary sewer of 8-inch earthen pipe in Wren street, from Oriole street, about 208 feet southeasterly, West Roxbury, at an estimated cost of $350.

By reason of the facts sets forth by Commissioner Rourke of the Department of Public Works, the Mayor has approved a contract with the Central Construction Company for replacing the asphalt and base on Columbus avenue, between Station and Camden streets, at a cost of $2.75 the square yard.

The communication of Commissioner Rourke is as follows:

November 18, 1914.

To the Mayor of Boston:

In connection with laying the high service water pipe in Columbus avenue, the asphalt area between Station and Camden streets is still under guaranty by the Boston Asphalt Company and this guaranty has two years to run. The ordinary price charged by the Asphalt Company for replacing cuts in its asphalt is $3.25 per square yard, including base and top. The Central Construction Company has been doing the repair work for the Boston Asphalt Company and it has also relaid the asphalt on our high pressure trench in Tremont street.

I respectfully request permission to award, without advertising, to the Central Construction Company, a contract for replacing the asphalt and base on Columbus avenue, between Station and Camden streets, for the sum of $2.75 per square yard. The total approximate cost of the work will be $5,000 and the Central Construction Company will guarantee this area for the two years which the Boston Asphalt Company's guaranty has yet to run.

My reason for not advertising this contract is that the price offered by the Central Construction Company is reasonable and the probability is that a lower price would not be secured by advertising; but what is of still more importance is that the Central Construction Company is now engaged in this work and can attend to it properly, which the lateness of the season demands.

Respectfully,

L. K. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

WAIVER ASKED UPON BONDS.

Hon. John A. Sullivan, the Corporation Counsel, has addressed the following communication to the holders of East Boston Tunnel bonds:

To the Holders of East Boston Tunnel Bonds:

DEAR SIR,—I write under instructions from the Mayor of the City of Boston to ask if you will execute the inclosed waiver of the pledge expressed on the face of the East Boston Tunnel bonds held by you, to wit, that the whole amount of the tolls collected from persons passing through the East Boston Tunnel shall be used to meet the principal and interest of said bonds. This pledge is provided for by section 17 of chapter 500 of the Acts of 1907 and if waived the city may, under a later act, chapter 667 of the Acts of 1913, appropriate $125,000 annually until June 10, 1922, and add it to the annual rental received from the Boston Elevated Railway Company for the lease of the East Boston Tunnel. The object of chapter 667 of 1913 is to substitute the annual appropriation of $125,000 for the penny tolls, and if the holders of all the bonds waive the pledges the public will be relieved of the inconvenience of paying such tolls and the annual appropriation of $125,000 by the city, from taxes, will be used with the said rentals to meet the principal and interest of said bonds. This act (1913, chapter 667) was submitted to the voters of Boston at the city election in January 1913, and accepted by a large majority. This acceptance is conclusive evidence of the desire of the people of Boston to abolish the tolls and substitute payments from money raised by taxation on property generally, and there does not seem to be any doubt whatever that the annual appropriation of $125,000 for this purpose will be made by the Mayor and City Council up to the time of the maturity of said bonds. The only risk assumed by a bondholder who waives said pledge is that the city may not make the annual appropriation of $125,000, but in view of public sentiment, as expressed so emphatically, in accepting chapter 667 of the Acts of 1913, it seems impossible that any Mayor and City Council would fail to make such appropriation. Moreover, if the pledges were waived and the city should fail in any year to make the appropriation it is morally certain that the Legislature would pass a mandatory act requiring the city to make it and thereby keep faith with the bondholders.

Yours truly,

JOHN A. SULLIVAN,
Corporation Counsel.

WAIVER.

I, the holder of East Boston Tunnel Bonds, numbered _____, hereby waive the pledge contained in said bonds that the tolls collected from persons passing through the East Boston Tunnel shall be used to meet the principal and interest of said bonds, and release the City of Boston from said pledge so far as it relates to said tolls but without releasing said city from said pledge so far as it relates to the application of the rentals received from the Boston Elevated Railway Company to meet the principal and interest of said bonds.

THE LIGHTING CONTRACT.

The formal communication of Commissioner Rourke to his Honor the Mayor, relative to the public hearing under the auspices of the City Council, and regarding the municipal lighting contract, was as follows:

CITY OF BOSTON,
PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT,
November 16, 1914.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—A contract for furnishing electric street lighting service for the City of Boston for a term of ten years, executed by the president of the Edison Electric Illuminating Company on behalf of the company and by me on behalf of the city, on March 18, 1914, was rejected by the City Council on August 24, 1914.

A new contract has been drawn for furnishing such electric lighting service for the city for a period of ten years dated November 16, 1914, which has been signed by the president of the Edison Electric Illuminating Company on behalf of that company, and I respectfully request authority to award said contract to said company without advertising for bids, the reasons being as follows: The service is of a kind upon which there is no competition, the Edison Electric Illuminating Company being the only company which is equipped to perform such service, therefore there is no necessity for advertising for bids.

I respectfully request that you submit said contract to the City Council for its consideration and that you ask the City Council to pass a vote fixing as early a date as possible for a public hearing upon said contract according to the provisions of section 6 of chapter 486 of the Acts of 1909.

Yours respectfully,

L. K. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

The contract submitted by Commissioner Rourke is for ten years at $87.53 per lamp, as against $103, the present price per lamp a year.

The first hearing on this new draft of contract will be given by the City Council at 7 p. m. of December 1.

MR. JOHN GRADY,
Fire Commissioner:

DEAR SIR,—On behalf of the officers of the Boston Young Men's Christian Union I want to express to you, and through you to the officers and men of your department, heartiest appreciation of the efficient service rendered the city and the Union last evening in extinguishing the fire in our building. The prompt response of the department and the skill and judgment shown in handling every detail call for special mention. We wish particularly to call to your attention the courtesy and interest shown us by Chief McDonough, Deputy Chief Taber and District Chief Sennott—as well as to commend the attention given by your men, one and all, to care in handling statuary, pictures, and such property as it was necessary to move. The service of the Protective Department also deserves mention and we are especially indebted to the men of this department for assistance rendered our Vice President, Mr. George S. 5. BOSTON DEVELOPMENT AND SANITARY COMPANY,
November 16, 1914.

MR. JOHN GRADY,
Fire Commissioner:

DEAR SIR,—On behalf of the Boston Development and Sanitary Company I desire to express our sincere appreciation for the very excellent service rendered by the crew of Engine No. 31, fireboat, in command of Captain Moran, who responded so promptly to the call from Spectacle Island on Saturday night about 9 o'clock and fought the fire so ably that the same was confined to our storage room of tankage instead of spreading to the other parts of our plant, which would have proven most disastrous to this company, as well as to the continuance of our contract with the City of Boston.

I congratulate you as Commissioner on having in the Fire Department service men of this calibre, my understanding being that while there were two crews aboard this fire boat, permitting one crew to rest while the other worked, both crews worked continuously all night and well into yesterday to accomplish the desired result.

Inclosed herewith please find check payable to your order for $250. Will you please accept the same as a token of our appreciation toward the Firemen's Fund, thereby obliging.

Yours very truly,
BOSTON DEVELOPMENT AND SANITARY COMPANY,
by CHARLES CRANFORD,

IMPROVEMENT OF CAR SERVICE DESIRED.

Mayor Curley addressed an open letter to Gen. William A. Bancroft, President of the Boston Elevated Railway Company, relative to the improvement of car service in South Boston, during the week.

The communication was as follows:

CITY OF BOSTON,
OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,
November 17, 1914.

GEN. WILLIAM A. BANCROFT, President,
Boston Elevated Railway Company:

MY DEAR SIR,—The residents of South Boston would be better served if the present system of transportation on L street were extended from Fourth to First street, thereby making possible direct and easy communication between the heart of South Boston and the heart of the city.

In my opinion this extension would result in increased patronage for your car service, and, in addition, would constitute an improvement that necessity demands shall no longer be delayed.

Trusting you will give the matter your immediate attention, I remain,

Sincerely yours,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

IMPORTANT MERCANTILE DECISION.

The attention of Boston merchants is called to the decision just sent down by the Imperial Privy Council of Canada declaring that a province can not interfere with the status and corporate capacity of a company incorporated by letters patent issued under the Companies Act of the Dominion of Canada, in so far as that status and capacity carries with it powers conferred by the Parliament of Canada to carry on business in every part of the Dominion. The question decided is one which has been for some years in dispute. Under this decision any company seeking incorporation in Canada and expecting to do business in different provinces should obtain Dominion rather than provincial incorporation.

DELEGATES APPRECIATE COURTESIES.

There appears to be no question but what the delegates attending the recent convention of the American Society of Municipal Improvements, held at the Hotel Somerset, in this city, were deeply appreciative of the courtesies extended them by Mayor Curley and Mr. George C. Warren, according to the formal reports of the convention, just issued, in the publication "Better Roads and Streets."

In speaking of Mayor Curley's address of welcome the report declares:

"President Christ immediately introduced Mayor James M. Curley of Boston, who delivered an excellent address of welcome, which was considerably out of the ordinary run of such addresses before technical societies. Mayor Curley soon demonstrated that he had real knowledge about paving and other municipal construction matters, and gave some interesting data concerning the streets and roads of Boston, which he frankly admitted were not in the condition they should be for a city of the size and importance of Boston. He stated there are slightly over five hundred miles of streets within the limits of the city, not including the park drives, and that about three hundred and fifty miles of these streets cannot be classified other than as dirt roads. There is a great deal of trouble caused in the city by the dust raised under traffic over the streets, even in the downtown section, and this is hard to improve just at the present time, owing to the large amount of subway construction going on, and the general poor condition of so many of the main thoroughfares.

"In spite of this dust nuisance, Mayor Curley stated that the city has the lowest death rate of any city in the entire country, due to a great extent to the excellent water, sewer and sanitary systems completed and in operation. He also stated that Boston has the finest park system in the entire world, and there is little doubt but that he is right. A high pressure water system for use during fires is being laid over about fourteen miles of the downtown streets, and many of them are torn up and in bad condition on this account, as well as for the other reasons mentioned above. It is the aim of the city, he stated, to ultimately have as fine a system of city streets and boulevards as will be found in any city in the entire country. In the downtown section of Boston, Mayor Curley stated that it will be the policy to lay principally wood block, grouted granite, and bitulithic. Strange as it may seem, many of the streets that are not even in the suburbs, are now freely sprayed with oil to keep down the dust, and this is strictly opposed by him, as it has resulted in many cases of damaged and ruined dresses, shoes, carpets and rugs, as it is tracked into the homes.

"Regarding sidewalks, Mayor Curley stated that large yardages of granolithic sidewalks are being laid annually, and this improvement will be continued until the sidewalks of the entire city are in excellent and lasting condition. The writer noted more ash, cinder and limestone sidewalks in Boston without going into the suburbs than he has ever noted in any other three large cities. In conclusion, Mayor Curley stated that the city is going to continue doing such high-class paving annually, and then described the working methods of the Fire Department, the wonderful new subway system now being built, and other important municipal improvements.

"There was no formal business session arranged for the afternoon, as the members and delegates had been invited to participate in a boat ride through Boston Harbor as the guests of the City of Boston on the steamer "Monitor" of the Boston Penal Institutions Department. Special street cars had been provided, and the start was made at one o'clock, the cars taking the party downtown to the municipal wharf.

"Just after leaving the wharf, the Boston Fire Department, through the courtesy of John Grady, Fire Commissioner, gave an excellent exhibition by the fire boats. Water was thrown to a height of about one hundred and fifty feet, and the wonderful sight of five nozzles throwing water at the same time was witnessed. The fire boats passed the "Monitor" in single file several times, sounding the fire sirens. The party then passed down through the harbor, where a fine view of the fortifications and many islands was had, and out to sea past the Boston Light, which marks the entrance to the harbor. Then the trip continued up the Weymouth Fore River to the immense plant of the Fore River Shipbuilding Company, where the battleship "Nevada," the largest battleship of the United States Navy, was lying at the dock, under course of construction. Returning to Boston, the "Monitor" passed the United States Navy Yard at Charlestown, where a dozen or more of our fighting vessels were anchored, and an excellent view was had of the famous Bunker Hill Monument. The party was then landed, and the new Commonwealth Pier, the largest passenger and freight pier in the world was inspected. This pier was only opened July 1, 1914, and is an immense structure. The special cars were waiting and carried the crowd back to the Hotel Somerset.

"During the trip, an excellent lunch was served by courtesy of Mayor Curley and the City of Boston, and needless to say it was much appreciated, as the morning session had adjourned so late that it was impossible to partake of any lunch.

"Instead of the business session on Thursday afternoon, an automobile trip leaving the Hotel Somerset at one o'clock had been planned, and the party, numbering about two hundred and fifty, boarded fifty high-powered cars. Following a well-laid-out route over the streets of Boston, bitulithic, asphalt, oiled macadam, creosoted wood block, granite block, Sicilian rock asphalt, tar macadam, Canton brick, Standard emulsifying dust layer, and Mack vitrified brick were compared. The many famous historical places of Boston were also pointed out, as well as the large, modern institutions, buildings, the Fenway, etc.

"The party then started for Brookline, the wealthiest and most aristocratic suburb in the United States, and one of the most beautiful residential home sections in the world. The public and municipal buildings were viewed, and they are a credit to the village, being handsomer and more modern than those of Boston. The Brookline Park System, like that of Boston, was worked out almost to perfection, and the driveways far better than those found through the parks of cities many times its size. The Brookline street department officials had marked the route with arrows, and uniformed officers protected the right-of-way throughout the entire village, a courtesy that was more than appreciated by the many municipal authorities in the party.

"After covering all the boulevards and the principal streets the trip was continued to the estate of the Hon. Larz Anderson, where a stop of about one hour was made to inspect what was pronounced by experts to be the most beautiful country estate in America. Of this there is little doubt, and the famous Japanese garden was nothing short of wonderful in its design and maintenance. An excellent luncheon was served through the kindness of Mr. and Mrs. Anderson, who received the entire party as the guests filed through the quaint Japanese entrance to the garden. Mr. Anderson made a short address of welcome after the luncheon, followed by Mr. George C. Warren, who extended the sincere thanks of the entire party to the owners of the beautiful estate. The automobiles met the party at the lower part of the estate after the grounds, the residence, stables, garage, and other interesting points had been viewed, and the trip was continued through other handsome estates to the top of Corey Hill, the highest point in the vicinity of Boston, and where an excellent view of the entire country was enjoyed. Then a quick run over to Cambridge took the party past the new Harvard Stadium, Longfellow Park, the home of the famous poet, the famous Washington Elm under which George Washington took command of the troops at the commencement of the Revolutionary War, and into the grounds of Harvard University. Leaving Cambridge, the party then drove out Massachusetts avenue to the Lexington Common, which was the route of the famous ride of Paul Revere on the night of April 18, 1775, the eve of the first battle of the Revolution."

Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—Appropos to the question of disposing of the city property that is not in use, I wish to call your attention to the fact that the Public Buildings Department has in its care and custody the old Police Station No. 7, located on Meridian street, East Boston. This building was vacated some months ago, on the completion of the new East Boston Courthouse and Police Station, and has not been in use since.

The property consists of 3,773 square feet of land, on which is a building of brick, two and one-half stories high. In the rear is a wooden stable, which at present is let to one John T. Lane, at a nominal sum.

I find from observation that where the city is holding any unused property it has been frequently the case that application is made for the use of same by some civic or patriotic organization, and invariably the request is for the free use of same. It quite frequently entails considerable expense on the city to prepare any such building for occupancy, and as such I would respectfully recommend that some action be taken to dispose of this property.

Trusting that the same will meet with your approval, I remain,

Respectfully yours,
RICHARD A. LYNCH,
Superintendent of Public Buildings.

Referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

SALE OF PAVING YARD, BRIGHTON.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, November 16, 1914.
To the City Council:

I transmit herewith a communication from John Beck, real estate broker and appraiser, relative to the paving yard of the Public Works Department, Chestnut Hill avenue, Brighton.

The Public Works Department can well do without the use of this property and to the end that the City of Boston might be saved the expense of maintaining this yard and benefit by the sale thereof, I respectfully recommend such sale at public auction.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Boston, October 21, 1914
Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—In accordance with your request, I have examined the paving yard at Chestnut Hill avenue, Brighton.

It is assessed for $85,300, $79,800 being on the 569,776 square feet of land, and $5,500 on the buildings.

If this lot were an ordinary field that could be easily developed for building purposes, it would be worth in such a large area about 10 or 12 cents a foot. The contour of the land is very poor, and it would be necessary for building purposes to dig or blast cellars out of the rock-ribbed soil, and to do considerable grading.

Owing to these defects, and because of the amount of land necessary for new streets in order to develop the entire lot, I believe that the city would do very well if it were able to obtain 7 or 8 cents a foot, or approximately $40,000 for the property.

Respectfully yours,
JOHN BECK.
Referred to Committee on Public Lands.

SALE OF LAND, HAROLD STREET.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, November 11, 1914.
To the City Council:

I transmit herewith a communication from John Beck, real estate broker and appraiser, relative to lot of land at the corner of Harold and Seaver streets, Roxbury, and making reference to his communication of October 1. Accompanying said communication is a letter signed by George B. Elliot in regard thereto.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

30 State Street, Boston, November 5, 1914.
Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—In pursuance of my communication of October 1, 1914, in reference to the proposed purchase of the lot of land at the corner of Harold and Seaver streets, Roxbury, by Vincent Maschio, the adjoining owner, I advise that this land be sold subject to restrictions preventing the buyer from building thereon.

This lot is very shallow, and should only be used to complete the lawn of the abutting property.

I herewith inclose a letter from George B. Elliot in reference to same, and advise that his offer of $300 be accepted.

Respectfully yours,
JOHN BECK.

209 Washington Street,
Boston, November 4, 1914.

John Beck, Agent:

Dear Sir,—For the strip of land on Seaver street, northerly corner of Harold street, Roxbury, owned by the city, and to contain 1,550 square feet, I hereby submit the offer of $300, from Vincent Maschio, owner of the adjoining land.

Maschio stipulates he shall have the right to erect a suitable fence not over five (5) feet high on the street front line and to lay steps and a concrete walk from Seaver street to his back door with right of foot passage over it, for delivery of coal, etc.

The city is to mark the boundary lines with stakes and furnish a plan of the land for recording with the deed. No building is to be erected or maintained on the granted premises.

Respectfully,
Geo. B. ELLIOT, Agent.

Title to be good or the sale void.

CONVENIENCE STATION, WARD 21.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, November 11, 1914.
To the City Council:

Replying to the order of your honorable body requesting that $8,000 be transferred from the Reserve Fund for the purpose of establishing a convenience station at Washington Park, Ward 21, would say that I cannot see my way clear to comply therewith for the reason that industrial conditions are such in the city to-day that all charitable and correctional departments connected with the municipality have been compelled to materially increase the cost of maintenance with the result that substantially every dollar available in the Reserve Fund will be required to provide sustenance and shelter for the needy unfortunate and criminal in our city.

In my opinion the care of such persons constitutes an obligation which we are not justified in avoiding or overlooking for the purpose of satisfying other needs that can very well be delayed.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Placed on file.

The amount on hand is but $862.

I recommend the passage of the accompanying order making provision for $138, to be supplied from the Reserve Fund to provide the necessary amount.

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

PARENTAL SCHOOL PROPERTY FOR CITY HOSPITAL.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, November 16, 1914.
To the City Council:
I transmit herewith an order granting authority to the Trustees of the City Hospital to use the Parental School Buildings and land for the purpose of a Convalescent Hospital. This use it is, of course, understood is to be temporary, depending upon whether the Disciplinary Day Schools are a success or not.

As the furnishings of this building and all property connected therewith have been abandoned I would urge immediate action in order that hospital patients may have the use and benefits thereof.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Ordered, That the use of the land and buildings known as the Parental School at West Roxbury, in charge of the Trustees for Children, be and hereby is vested in the Trustees of the City Hospital until otherwise ordered by the City Council, to be used for the purpose of a convalescent home.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

TRANSFER TO INCIDENTAL FUNDS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, November 16, 1914.
To the City Council:
In order that sufficient funds might be available to meet the expenses of the City Council for the balance of the fiscal year I am advised that about $4,500 will be necessary.

I respectfully recommend the passage of the accompanying order making provision for the transfer of this amount for such purpose from the Reserve Fund.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Ordered, That under the provisions of chapter 261 of the Acts of 1893 the City Auditor be and hereby is authorized to transfer the sum of forty-five hundred dollars ($4,500) from the appropriation for Reserve Fund to the appropriation for City Council, Incidental Expenses.

NEW WARD DIVISION OF CITY.

Coun. BALLANTYNE offered an order.—That a special committee, to consist of all the members of the City Council, with the President as chairman, be appointed to prepare and submit to the City Council an ordinance for a new division of the city into wards, in accordance with the provisions of chapters 630 and 676 of the Acts of 1914; and said committee is hereby authorized to incur such expense as may be necessary for the foregoing purpose, the same to be charged to the appropriation for City Council, Incidental Expenses.

Passed.

PAYMENT TO HENRY F. BRADY.

Coun. BALLANTYNE offered the following:
Ordered, That there be allowed and paid to Henry F. Brady the sum of $945.43, in compensation for injuries received while employed in the Fire Department, the amount so paid to be charged to the Reserve Fund.

Ordered, That the order passed by the City Council November 6, and approved by the Mayor November 10, 1914, authorizing the payment of $916.95 to Henry F. Brady, be and the same is hereby rescinded.

Coun. BALLANTYNE—Mr. President, this is an order to correct an error made in an order passed by the Council at the last meeting. The petitioner appeared before the Committee on Claims and was awarded the sum of $916.95. When that claim went to the auditor he found that he had a statement differing from that, from the Fire Department. The statement of the Fire Department showed that there was the sum of $945.45. Of course, the auditor could not pay under the order passed by the Council, and this order is introduced simply to correct the error in figures. I hope the order will take its passage to-day and not be laid over.

The order was passed.

FIRE ESCAPES, CITY HALL.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Building Department, November 14, 1914.
Hon. James Donovan,
City Clerk, Boston:

Dear Sir,—The department is in receipt of your communication passed by the City Council asking for information as to whether City Hall is properly equipped with fire escapes.

This department on March 30, 1911, notified Mr. Manus J. Fish, then Superintendent of Public Buildings, that City Hall should be provided with additional means of egress and the department is of the same opinion at the present time.

Yours respectfully,

JOHN H. MAHONEY,
Deputy Building Commissioner.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I ask for reconsideration of the reference and will say just a word, if there is no objection from the members. About ten words will be sufficient. Concerning the response to the order introduced by me at a recent meeting of the Council, I think it high time that the City Council should set an example for other cities to follow in the matter of equipping the city buildings properly so that there will be proper provisions for escape in case of fire. I think the city should proceed at once to equip this building with fire escapes according to law.

Reference to the Executive Committee was reconsidered, and the communication was placed on file.

ELECTION RETURNS.

On the question (chapter 646), "Shall the act passed by the General Court in the year 1914 providing for the election of a City Council of seventeen members by districts be accepted?" was as follows:

Yes, 26,229; No, 47,355; Blanks, 8,737.

DRAFT OF REVISED ORDINANCES.

The following was received:

City of Boston, Law Department,
November 16, 1914.

To the Honorable the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I transmit herewith a draft of the Revised Ordinances of 1914, which has been prepared pursuant to the vote of the City Council on August 24, 1914. The last revision was made in 1898, since which time many ordinances have been passed, the entire number not being bound in any single volume, and owing to the numerous amendments and additions it had become difficult to find what the ordinances provided as to any given question. The accumulated ordinances, including the regulations of the board of aldermen, have been revised under the command name of ordinances, the distinction between ordinances and regulations having ceased to be of any importance since the discontinuance of the bicameral system and the establishment of a single legislative body under the charter amendments of 1909.

The revision has been brought up to the present date and can be printed in a small volume which, with the index, need not contain more than one hundred pages. The work has been done by the members of the Law Department without any aid except that of the Assistant City Clerk, whose familiarity with the history and the meaning of the ordinances has made his friendly and gratuitous service exceedingly valuable; and the only expense which the city will have to pay is for printing and binding.

The plan of the revision has been simple, viz., to eliminate all ordinances and regulations which have been repealed or rendered obsolete by statute or by changed conditions, to consolidate the living material into new forms presented in logical order without unnecessary verbiage, and without altering the meaning of the surviving law. In a very few instances, which on a hearing will be called directly to the attention of the City Council, slight changes have been made which seem to be necessary under present conditions, and which it is confidently expected will meet with your approval.

Yours truly,

JOHN A. SULLIVAN,
Corporation Counsel.

MINORS' LICENSES.

President McDONALD submitted reports on petitions for minors' licenses for six newshoys and one boothlack—recommending that said licenses be granted.

Reports severally accepted; licenses granted on the usual conditions.

SOLDIERS' RELIEF.

Coun. WATSON, for the Committee on Soldiers' Relief, submitted a report recommending the passage of an order for the payment of aid to soldiers and sailors and their families in the City of Boston for the month of November.

Report accepted; order passed.

CITY PROPERTY OCCUPIED BY THE ASSOCIATED CHARITIES.

Coun. WATSON offered an order—That his Honor the Mayor be requested to furnish to the Council full information concerning the number of rooms occupied by the Associated Charities at 30 Hawkins street and on other city property, the cost for the maintenance of the same, the total cost to the city for any and all assistance provided for said society, the date of the privilege granting to the society the use of said city property, together with such other information as he may be able to furnish this body as may have bearing on the above subject.

The question came on the passage of the order.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I beg the indulgence of the members of the Council for a spell while I call to the attention of the members, and indirectly to the attention of the people of Boston—more particularly those who are subscribers and donors to the Associated Charities fund—certain facts in my possession concerning the mismanagement of the donations and the misapplication of so-called charity by the officials of that society as it is managed to-day and as its work affects the citizens of Boston. I beg the serious attention of each member of the Council while I present some data which I am positive cannot be refuted in any way, shape or manner by those who may be opposed to my views on this subject. I have paid considerable attention to so-called minor details that have to do with the unfortunate citizens of Boston, for a period of perhaps at least twenty years. I have been what some people consider a busybody; I have been accused of exploiting unfortunates for my own self-advertisement. It has never been my purpose, Mr. President, to exploit any unfortunate for my own personal gain, either in the matter of publicity or financially. I admit that at times, being impetuous, I err like other human beings. But I am glad to say I am satisfied that my errors are usually made on the side of the unfortunate, to whom the ordinary man to-day is unable to lend a helping hand. I only wish that the high officials of the daily Press were present here to-day; the figures and the facts I will present as they have a hearing on professional charity givers in Boston. I am satisfied that the high officials on the Herald, the Journal, in fact, on all the metropolitan dailies, would pay strict attention and would at least try to find out whether my facts as submitted were true, and, if true, give publicity to them, placing certain misguided people on the right road in the matter of assisting unfortunates. The Associated Charities of Boston are occupying city property through the courtesy of some past city government. That privilege is given to the Associated Charities by chapter 27 of the City Ordinances, section 1, which reads as follows:

"Section 1. The overseeing of the poor department shall be under the charge of the overseers of the poor in the city of Boston, consisting of twelve overseers, who, in addition to the duty of caring for the poor imposed upon them by law, shall have charge of the Charity building and temporary home on Chardon street, and the Lodge for Wayfarers on Hawkins street, and may make and enforce all such rules and regulations as they may deem expedient in relation thereto; shall, from time to time, determine what charitable societies shall be permitted to occupy said Charity building, and on what terms and for what length of time, and what proportion of the current expenses of managing, heating, and lighting the same, and of all other expenses, except rent, shall be paid by each; but no such rule or regulation shall be in force, and no society shall be permitted to occupy the building, after the city council has otherwise ordered."

Therefore, Mr. President, the Associated Charities, a private so-called charitable organization, presumed by the donors and the public in general to dispense charity to the worthy poor of Boston, are occupying through the courtesy of the City Council certain public buildings, and the city is paying the freight. To-day I had an interview with a high official of the Associated Charities. I will not use his name, because he desires a further interview with me in order that he may show me some facts which he said he wished to present. For that reason I do not intend to use his name. But it is sufficient to say that he is the gentleman who referred to me in an interview Saturday in a prominent metropolitan daily as "Jerry Watson," and commented on certain things I was doing as they had relation to a certain unfortunate man and woman who are residents of this city. Perhaps the members may be tired of hearing my statement, but I have prepared what I have here very, very carefully for the last forty-eight hours. I have balanced and checked up figures in the reports of the Associated Charities for the last two years, and I have prepared what I wish to show here with what I consider great thoroughness. Never in my life have I been more sincere or desirous of regulating an injustice and imposition on the public, both to the rich who donate and the poor who sometimes are the beneficiaries, than at this moment. For that reason, while my remarks will be lengthy, it will be because I am interested in the subject, and I am satisfied that my other eight colleagues will be just as much interested when I am through as I am now.

On October 18 I sat in the anteroom of the City Council. On that date I saw a couple come through the Council antechamber, Room 56, and walk towards the office of Mr. Dever, our genial Clerk of Committees, and have a conversation with that gentleman. I overheard part of the conversation, but it was none of my business and I said nothing at the time. I did hear, however, that the couple had been down to the Mayor's office, and for some reason, which was sufficient in all probability, they were denied an opportunity of seeing the Mayor, whom the man said he knew since the Mayor's childhood. I saw them turn from Mr. Dever and go out, walking out the way they came in. Rather than offend Mr. Dever or interfere in what was perhaps his business, I said nothing at the time but followed them into the corridor, near the elevator. I saw that both of them had tears in their eyes; I noted that both of them were positively sober. Mr. President, I insist upon courteous treatment from the Press. I found that both the old gentleman and the old lady were absolutely sober. I talked with them and had an opportunity to satisfy myself whether or not they had liquor aboard, and I was satisfied that neither of them was intoxicated. In fact, I was satisfied that they had little, if any, liquor aboard. I noted that the woman was blind in one eye. I did note, however, that the old gentleman was particularly clean. While he had no collar on, he was clean as far as his wearing apparel was concerned, so far as I could see. I asked them their trouble. The man recognized me and told me that he knew me twenty-five years ago in Roxbury. He told me that his name was so-and-so, although I will not make a record of the name in the Council minutes. He told me that he lived at 38 Village street, South End, and that he paid $1.25 a week for two basement rooms; that he had gone to the Mayor's office to see if he could be temporarily tided over, so that his belongings would not be placed on the street. I asked him how much behind he was in his rent, and he said two weeks; that he had tried to see the Mayor because he thought he would help him, and that he knew Mr. Dever, but that he could not help him. I said, "Are you telling me the truth, absolutely?" He said that he was and that he had received an ejectment notice—one of these notices under a huff lease, where they let the property over people's heads and then eject them when they want to get rid of them. He told me that two of the doors had been taken out of their basement rooms by the landlord, leaving them without doors in their two rooms, and that they had had to put up sheets in the doorways for protection, and that if they did not get relief within a few days, their belongings would be set out on the street.

Not being satisfied with the mere statement, I said to the man, "Do you remember me?" He said, "Yes, I remember you twenty-five or thirty years ago, when you lived back in Gurney street and when I took care of property on Taher street. I had charge of an estate there for a number of years." I recalled that I had heard of him at least once or twice in the past. I said, "I will go over and see if you are telling the truth," and I gave something for temporary relief, as far as my pocketbook would allow. I agreed to meet him at one o'clock at 38 Village street, so I secured a city automobile and went to 38 Village street. I found that their statement was true, that they occupied two rooms in a basement and owed two weeks' rent and that they were to be put out on the street if they did not pay, and I found it was true that both doors were off, as he had told me, and that sheets were up in lieu of doors. I called up the Overseers of the Poor, and my conversation with them was very unsatisfactory. I propose to take care of that organization through his Honor the Mayor, because we have some power there. I found out that the couple had applied to the Overseers of the Poor for aid more than a month previously; that there had been some delay because of the man's past record, he having been arrested at one time for drunkenness, and that on September 14, or a month and four days before this time when I saw the couple, they had been given $1.50 by the Overseers of the Poor and had been told to get a tenement and that they would give them $2 to move. Just think of that for this poor couple, for a month and four days. So much for aid given by the Overseers of the Poor.

I found out that while they had been trying to get aid from the Overseers of the Poor they had had their things set out on the street, that they had gone to some tenement on Seneca street, Ward 9, and stayed there only a week, because of the hounding they got from the Associated Charities; that later, a week ago to-morrow, the wife was ill and was treated in the hospital; that she is suffering from an accident she received on the Elevated road and that her case is pending, and that both of them had been sick and had been treated at hospitals. Last Tuesday the wife appeared at my home at 7.30 o'clock in the morning, absolutely sober, crying. She told my wife and myself that they were living at 9 Nawn court, sleeping on a mattress on the floor, that their belongings were kept by the landlord at Seneca street for non-payment of rent. I did something for her at that time, and I am not exploiting that, either. She told me that two weeks ago to-day her husband had secured temporary employment in Newton to do some semi-mason work. He is not a mason or bricklayer, but is a near mason or bricklayer. His feet were on the ground, and he went to the Overseers of the Poor, and in some way landed in the department at 30 Hawkins street called the Joint Department for Homeless Men, affiliated with the Associated Charities. He asked for shoes and was told to wait a moment on a bench at 30 Hawkins street, city property, where the Associated Charities are interlopers.

While waiting for the answer to his plea for a pair of shoes Mr. Calley, the son of Minister Calley of Jamaica Plain, sent for officer Hurley of Station 3 and had the man arrested for vagrancy. Being dazed that day, not knowing what to do, he was convicted of vagrancy on the plea of somebody, in the lower court in Pemberton square, and given nine months at Bridgewater, while his poor, helpless wife was sleeping on a mattress at 9 Nawn court. When I heard of that I at once investigated and found that what I had heard was true, that Mr. Calley had sent out to Station 3 for an officer and that the lower court had convicted this man for vagrancy and sentenced him to nine months at the State Farm. Is that charity? Is that economy? One dollar and a half a week given by the leading philanthropists of Boston, by the worthy Overseers of the Poor, to pay the rent of such people and keep them somewhere in a little hovel, where they are compelled to sleep on a mattress on the floor? One of the head officers of this great, big, powerful society admitted to me to-day that their position in Boston is not that of aiding by giving to the poor; that it is merely to protect willing people from giving to those who are not deserving. That is the position of this society with relation to the willing and philanthropic people of Boston who maintain it. In my opinion, the society as now conducted is the biggest farce, as far as aiding unfortunate or poor people is concerned, that exists in any city in the United States. Again I say that I apologize for being lengthy in my remarks, but I am going to finish them if it takes all night. I propose to have the facts that I have in my possession made a matter of record in a city document, where the authorities and any member of the public can see them, not depending on the sayso of this or that person in the Herald, Globe, or some other paper, where many of the important facts are omitted, facts that would prove the case that I am making here. That is my purpose. Mr. President, nine months at the State Farm at Bridgewater means what? The per capita cost of keeping a man at the State Farm at Bridgewater is close to $2.90 per week, and the City of Boston pays its proportionate share of that expense. Nine months at $2.90 a week at the State Farm would at least furnish these people with a little home and something to go with it, because the man can work occasionally. But in this case in particular the Associated Charities have placed a burden on the taxpayers of Boston which they never should have placed, doing something they never would have done if they had been open hearted, warm hearted and humane. Furthermore, the man appealed his case and he now lies in the Charles Street Jail waiting for somebody to bail him, furnishing the $200 required, so that he may prosecute his appeal in the Superior Criminal Court, December term. Had he been arrested on Friday or Saturday, the 30th or 31st of October, his case might have been disposed of in the November term, but he appealed his case November 2, and unless he is bailed he must stay there in the Suffolk County Jail, where the taxpayers of Boston are obliged to pay $5.65 a week for his keep, amounting to over $22 for the month. I have written this letter, Mr. President, to the District Attorney of Suffolk County:

Boston, November 15, 1914.

Hon. Joseph C. Pelletier,

District Attorney, Suffolk County:

My dear Mr. Pelletier,—I have tried for two days to see you concerning one — — is now at Charles Street Jail waiting an opportunity to prosecute his appeal from a nine months' sentence given by the lower court for vagrancy. He was sentenced by the lower court on November 2, and in consequence of his appeal will not be brought into court until the first week in December.

I feel reasonably sure that when his case is heard by you at that time you will agree with me that he is the victim of an injustice. In the meantime —, unless he can furnish bail in the sum of $200, must stay in jail. The cost of keeping — at the jail will amount to more than $5 per week, and if the sentence of the lower court is confirmed it will cost about three per week for his keep at the State Farm for nine months.

This expense and what I term an injustice is the direct result of a mean act on the part of a subordinate in the employ of the Associated Charities. The story of his arrest, to make a long story short, is that — applied to the Associated Charities for a pair of shoes to enable him to go to a job he had. When he applied for the shoes of a charity that is presumed to aid the unfortunate, he was arrested upon the orders of a man in the employ of the Associated Charities.

Will you cut the red tape surrounding this case and dispose of it before the first week in December? By doing so you will undo a wrong done an unfortunate and save the city, county and state an unnecessary financial burden.

Awaiting, what I trust will be a favorable reply, I remain,

Sincerely yours,

JAMES A. WATSON.

The District Attorney has that letter and I believe he will act humanely, which the Associated Charities did not. Mr. President, in view of the fact that the City Council, the Board of Aldermen or some branch of the city government granted to this humane society,—humane, oh, what a commentary on the name!—this society that interferes with more poor families' rights, religious and otherwise, than any old busybody who ever was born on this earth, there being nothing humane about it, a society that has been conducted since its inception for the purpose alone of meddling with other people's affairs—I would like to bring out a few facts in regard to the society. The people in its employ are well paid, and I am going to submit some figures for the benefit of the donors to this fund, and for the benefit of the Council and the public generally, that will show why this organization runs and will show its excuse for running.

I have in my hand the Associated Charities' report for the year ending October 31, 1912. I have also the report for 1913. They are very similar, but I am going to quote my figures from the 1912 report. The total donations to the Associated Charities for the year 1911-12, by the public-spirited citizens of Boston and vicinity, as shown on pages 54 to 64, inclusive, in the report for the year ending October 31, 1912, are $31,736.45. I want it understood, fellow members, that I offer no criticism whatever of the public-spirited and well-meaning people who are donors to this fund. They are giving to what they consider a worthy charity and assume probably that the money is being used in a proper, humane and worthy way. But I am going to furnish some figures for the donors to consider in the future, when they are subscribing to this monumental fake charitable organization. I am much more conservative in my reference to this organization than I would be if I spoke the feelings of my true self. I am holding myself down a trifle. I am too conservative, with the facts at my disposal. The total donations to this fund for the year ending November 1, 1912, amounted to $31,736.45. The total expenses for the same period of this society were $48,036, showing a deficit so far as donations are concerned, as compared with expenses, of about $17,000. But I find that the amount of interest on accounts in the bank, special donations, income on investment of trust funds and other small items bring up the total amount of receipts to about $40,000. There was a deficit for the year ending November 1, 1912, of over $7,000, which was made up in some way. But I find from the records that there was spent, including donations from well-meaning citizens, interest, income on investment of trust funds, amount of interest on accounts in the bank and special donations, $48,036. How was the $48,036 spent? Thirty-seven thousand of it for salaries. That will be found on page 49. Seven thousand eight hundred and forty-nine dollars and fifty-six cents was spent for salaries or wages of seven persons in the administrative department. Six thousand two hundred twenty-one dollars and ninety-two cents was spent for salaries and wages of ten persons in connection with confidential exchange of information. For salaries and wages of field staff working in the homes of the needy there was spent $20,134.72. The difference between the $37,000 paid for salaries and wages and the $48,036 is made up, for the year 1911-12, of rent and care of seventeen district offices, fuel, light and care of administrative offices, fuel and light, district offices, telephone, including seventeen districts, all central departments and the confidential exchange, printing, stationery and postage, office equipment and a miscellaneous item of $1,096.80. There are also items for filing cases and supplies, fuel, light and care of offices, joint committee on homeless men, salaries and expenses for soliciting, etc., making up the $48,036, the entire amount of money that was expended, donated in large part by the good, public-spirited citizens of Boston, presumably for charity, and including income from investment of trust funds, special donations, etc. That $48,036 includes the deficit I have referred to of $7,000, made up somehow. Almost all that amount was spent for office hire, clerks, filing cabinet, telephone, heat and rental.

How many members of this Board know, what I knew for the first time to-day, that the Associated Charities of Boston are not dispensers of charity? I did not know that until to-day, when a high official asked of me an interview, begging another one for to-morrow, because I tried to right a wrong that they had inflicted on an unfortunate couple. He told me to-day that they do not act as distributing agents to the poor. They merely get information and then act in coordination with the charitable societies, the Roxbury Charitable Society and others, and in so doing they spent in that year about $48,000, and I find that the society did spend about $28,000 above that mentioned here that was raised in some mysterious way to aid those it felt inclined to help. I find that in round figures they aided about 4,500 families, making about $6 per family, for the entire year, and they spent close to $16 for each and every family they investigated, in salaries and other expenses. In other words, out of every $4 given to the Associated Charities directly and indirectly, to aid the deserving poor of Boston, they spend $3 in taking care of some pets of theirs and the other $1 goes to help some of the worthy poor, after they have exploited them to the fullest extent. That was the situation for 1912. The same thing holds true of the report for 1913, excepting that they have a new executive secretary. He came to me to-day; told me that he was twenty-nine years of age, a graduate of the University of Minnesota, that he came from within thirty miles of Winona, Minnesota, that he had done charitable work in Kansas City, from there migrated to Bridgewater, and from Bridgewater to Boston. So they brought on a man from the far West, from Minnesota and Kansas City, to Bridgewater and then to Boston. Boston is to be the goat for all this sort of thing. He is twenty-nine years of age and, except from the theoretical standpoint, does not know anything more about helping the worthy needy poor than my daughter at home—or so much, for, thank God, she has a heart. He gets $3,000 a year. He may be worth it. He is a very intelligent person; I wish I had his education, with my desires and my energy.

I am going to conclude by reading for the benefit of the Council a case brought to my attention by a worthy individual, a charity worker whose name never gets in the public Press, who begged me almost on her knees not to use her name. She has been interested in charity work in her particular locality since she was nineteen years of age, and I believe she has been at it now for about twenty-one years. She tries to bring together families, keeping the children and mother together when the father goes wrong, and keeping the children and the father together when the mother goes wrong. She always respects the religious beliefs of the children whether they are her beliefs or not. She first noticed in her particular district a woman wearing a $50 hat nosing around a certain locality at half-past seven in the morning, a woman under twenty-five years of age. She found that that woman was interfering with the rights of minor children, eight or nine of them, with a mother who had been left without her husband, either because he was arrested, had died or for some other reason. She found that the woman was over there at that early hour in the morning, not trying to help that family to keep together, not inquiring what their religious leanings were, not going into anything except to say, "We must look out for the children's future, and these two will go there, these three there, and these four here," and so on, separating the family. God knows that is a cruel thing to do. This woman took an interest in the matter, and found out that that woman, young as she was, was very closely affiliated with the Associated Charities, a voluntary worker, one of the worst kind of busybodies, amenable to nobody, responsible to nobody. This lady of whom I speak—and whose name I will keep quiet for the time being, although the Council may have it in secret session if they care to do so—called me up on the telephone and talked to me. This is what I found out:

"In the latter part of January, 1914, I happened to hear a case discussed, in fact, a difficult problem was evidently being solved. I was asked why I did not do something for the social service as they had heard I had done that kind of work in my own district some years ago, but in these days it was considered unkind to discuss the poverty of others and not to make known when or by whom it was alleviated. I told them I would do anything for the good of the community, but did not like the present method. Associated Charity methods did not appeal to me and I failed to see what good they were doing here. A case was cited and on hearing the circumstances and the locality, not a block away from my own home, I asked where the Associated Charities were now that they were needed, and I knew they had dealings with this family before. Consented to help provided that the Associated Charities were not to do any work until I had made the investigation. (Here I will say that there are in contemplation now certain laws which are to be given to the Legislature which will prevent anyone from investigating if another organization has already investigated. This organization is to be the one recognized by the state, therefore its report to be final.)

"On visiting Mrs. A, found that she was ill and needed hospital treatment which would take her from her family for several weeks. This was really a City Hospital case, but when I presented the case to a local hospital they took it on its own merits, taking into consideration the fact that this woman was the mother of a large family and wished to be near them and for other reasons which I cannot mention here. In May or June her husband was taken to the Psychopathic Hospital, from there to Pierce Farm (he had been subject to epileptic fits for eight years, but worked in the meantime, receiving $15.95 per week). This man took care of his family to the best of his ability. The father's illness and incapability of ever working again left this mother of eight in a dilemma and a neighbor advised her to seek the aid or advice of the St. Vincent de Paul. Of course this woman was entitled to aid under chapter 763, and she was told of it. Someone told me of Mrs. A's plight, but she thought I was through with her affairs after she left the hospital, but I knew that in a few months she would have to go back again but did not wish to tell this fact to anyone. In the investigation I found the other organization were very hushy, and as I had warned this woman that if she accepted anything from them I could have nothing to do with her affairs, as she could stand on her own resources. There was a young married daughter in this family who was in distress through the mother's illness and neglect on the husband's part to support her. This state of affairs was an obstacle to the Mother's Aid."

She referred, Mr. President, to the Mother's Aid Act, referring to dependent children. Under that act, if one receives assistance from any society, the Associated Charities or otherwise, she is debarred from receiving the mother's aid, so-called under the law.

"I found the young man was willing to work. He was then on probation. I made a call on the probation officer who was handling the case and on stating my business my visit was justly resented, but when I explained matters everything was satisfactory. A few days previous to this time the probation officer was called on the 'phone by one of the Associated Charities but was told that the case was in the hands of the Superior Court and that was sufficient. (This lady is awake to the tactics of the Associated Charities and most likely prevented another arrest.) The young man had made an application for work in the concern where his father-in-law had been employed, so I called on the superintendent and asked him if he would give him work. He is a good, kind hearted man and told me he would put this young man to work provided if it was in my power that I would promise that the family would be put in proper homes and never seek aid from the concern again. I told him that no home or family would ever be broken up if it were possible to keep it intact as long as I had anything to do with the family, and there was no reason why this family should be separated at present, there was no condition there that would necessitate such proceeding, but I explained to him (to the best of my ability) chapter 763. Everything was satisfactory, so I went to the probation officer and reported the result, and found that the Associated Charities had telephoned to them that they had obtained work for the young man. I did not mind this incident personally, but it goes to show that their reports are not authentic, and have since found out that the same statement was made to the visitor of the overseers, and if this young man knew that the Associated Charities had his name on their records as doing anything for him he would prefer to surrender himself. The Associated Charities were also told not to do any work on this family until after the members of the St. Vincent de Paul Society had their meeting. They did not do it but had someone else do so. Took three of the family to the Psychopathic Hospital for examination, and they would attract less attention if they spent the money expended on gasoline to pay car fares, as it is not edifying to see a touring car going into an alleyway to take little children for a ride, especially when they are being visited by 'Charity Workers.' One boy needed a pair of shoes and was told by a kind hearted woman that she had some but when the boy applied for them they were all gone, but she made a mistake by informing the Associated Charities. They immediately asked the father's employer for the shoes, which of course were given, but through the Associated Charities. I reprimanded the mother for asking or accepting things from them as it would deprive her of the aid under chapter 763. She denied that she asked for anything; in fact, refused to take anything until she was impressed not directly by the Associated Charities but indirectly that she must accept the rent. All this I can prove and this is a mere synopsis of only one case."

Mr. President, I will conclude in a moment or two. That letter was handed to me by a public spirited lady of considerable means, who is aiding unfortunates every day in the year. She is not confining her work to aiding those of any particular creed, but is a broad, liberal woman of my faith. She is not proselyting, because she is not built that way. She is willing that her name should be mentioned, if necessary. She said to me yesterday, "Among my friends I am known as a firecracker, perhaps, and they tell me that you are more or less of a firecracker, Mr. Watson. If two firecrackers go off together, there is apt to be a noise." I very quickly satisfied her, Mr. President, and members of the Council, that I am not exploiting the unfortunates for any self-advertising. I also satisfied her that my acts in the majority of cases are well intended. I satisfied her that, notwithstanding the fact that I am belittled in the public Press of Boston, in order that the long pencil of somebody may be worn out in earning salaries, nevertheless I am sincere in the great majority of cases when I get at them in a public manner. In conclusion I want to impress upon the members of this Council again, and upon the public, if possible, through the Press, if they will print it, the fact that the donors to the Associated Charities fund are yearly giving three-fourths of their contributions to payment of the expenses of a lot of drones who work in that place and rest when they please during working hours, who sit down in city property and when a worthy or unworthy person applies for aid, treat them worse than they would treat a mongrel dog that came into those quarters. If a mongrel dog wandered into 30 Hawkins street, and got to the Wayfarers' Lodge, where Mr. Calley sits at a desk provided by the city, and whined, Mr. Calley would not say to the dog, "Get out of here," and kick him out. He would drop some unfortunate who might be applying for help and get for the dog a drink of water, or, if he found that he did not need a drink, would get him a bone or something to eat. He would find out what the mongrel dog wanted, but the next moment would let an unfortunate human being suffer and would drag family skeletons from the closet. I want to say to-day publicly that thirty-one years ago, because of my father being the unfortunate victim of liquor, I was obliged to go to the Roxbury Charitable Society with my basket to bring home a day's meal to my mother, assisting the family. You will find that because of that my history is there, ready to be brought out and exploited whenever a good chance offers. I have waited for a good many years to express myself concerning this association, which does not do for the unfortunates but which does them. I only trust that someone more influential than I will put his shoulder to the wheel and call to the attention of the donors to this Associated Charities fund the fact that that society does not help the poor, but keeps them down. When that is done we will have less cases in court and will have fewer unfortunates tramping the streets or sleeping on mattresses, as I know that poor woman is doing at 9 Nawn court to-day. To-morrow morning, with my friend, a fellow councilor, in all probability we will have that poor old woman whose husband is in Charles Street Jail, because of Mr. Calley's inhuman act, taken in an ambulance to the City Hospital, because she has an incipient case of pneumonia now, from sleeping on a mattress on the floor at 9 Nawn court. I think I have proved my sincerity in the matter. I am sorry to give way to my feelings, but I cannot help it, because thirty-one years ago I was a victim to their iniquitousness. I thank the Council for their attention.

The order was passed.

SIDEWALK ORDERS.

Coun. WATSON offered an order—That the Commissioner of Public Works make a sidewalk along the westerly side of Bryant street, between Huntington avenue and Hemenway street, Ward 19, in front of the estates bordering thereon, said sidewalk to be from 3 to 10 inches above the gutter adjoining, to be from 5 to 12 feet in width, and to be built of gravel with granite edgestones, under the provisions of chapter 437 of the Acts of 1893.

Passed.

Coun. WOODS offered an order—That the Commissioner of Public Works make a sidewalk along the westerly side of Lake street, between Appleton road and the entrance to St. John's Seminary, Ward 25, in front of the estates bordering thereon, said sidewalk to be from 3 to 10 inches above the gutter adjoining, to be from 5 to 12 feet in width, and to be built of artificial stone with granite edgestones, under the provisions of chapter 437 of the Acts of 1893.

Passed.

VISITORS, CHILDREN'S INSTITUTIONS DEPARTMENT.

Coun. WOODS offered an order—That his Honor the Mayor be requested to arrange so visitors to the Children's Institutions Department may have a reasonable time to call upon those whom they wish to see.

Coun. BALLANTYNE moved reference of the order to the Committee on Prisons.

Coun. WOODS—Mr. President, I will only say in reference to this order that I paid a visit to Rainsford Island last week and stopped there over night, to see how the visitors arrived at the island. I found that the boat made only a short stop, reaching there about twenty minutes past three. The children were brought from the school and lined up at the end of the wharf. They have two visiting days. On one day the boys whose names begin alphabetically from A to M have their friends and relatives visit them, and the other day the boys from M to Z. They march down to the wharf and stand at the end of the wharf and a very short visit is made. The boat landed at twenty minutes past three, and eighty-five parents and friends got off to visit the children. Each had a visiting card, and they went to the line and picked out those whom they wished to visit. Those unfortunates who had nobody to see them had to go back empty handed. They all stayed at the wharf in a little space there, things being crowded and the arrangements not being at all proper or satisfactory, and after the boat had been there, I think, twenty-two minutes, the whistle blew and everybody had to get aboard. In talking with the superintendent there he said they were unable to get a boat and arrange the thing differently, but I talked with Commissioner Gore and he said that he could give them a boat at nine o'clock in the morning, they could get there at half past nine; they could then go to the boys' place that they have for their playroom, a good visit could be made to the boys in a place where they are sheltered, and a proper time could be given for it, so that the present conditions would be remedied. Winter is coming on and I have put the order in, trusting that the Commissioner of Prisons will give some attention to it. Something has got to be done right away. Commissioner Gore said he would willingly give them a boat, so that visitors could stay there on their visits to the island for two hours. That is the reason why I have introduced the order.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, the Committee on Prisons, of which I have the honor to be the chairman, have had this very matter under advisement within two months. At the latter part of September the committee visited Rainsford Island and conferred with the superintendent with a view to bringing about better facilities so that parents and friends might go to the island and have a reasonable time to see the inmates there. The committee subsequently took the matter up with the Penal Commissioner, Mr. Gore, and arranged for a new schedule. The new schedule provided, I think, that the boat should go there twice a month and stay there long enough to permit visitations, I think, lasting two hours, as the councilor has stated. I, as chairman of the committee, transmitted that desire of Mr. Gore's to help out in the matter to the superintendent of the Rainsford Island institution, Mr. Ryan, and I thought he was rather favorably disposed towards it. He notified me later that the trustees had—I will not say pigeonholed it—but the trustees were not prepared to adopt Mr. Gore's schedule, and in the meantime they were willing to allow the visitors to see the boys, as has been referred to. I think the order is a very meritorious one. The Committee on Prisons has the order under advisement. I sent to the committee the papers, so that the members might examine them and see the correspondence I had with Mr. Ryan and Mr. Gore in regard to this very matter that has been referred to. I see no objection to the order passing, nor do I see any objection to its being referred to the Committee on Prisons. The matter is a very important one and should, I think, receive the attention of the trustees. There is where the trouble is, with the trustees of Rainsford Island. We have done all we could up to the present time. I told Mr. Ryan I did not think the committee would be inclined to allow the matter to be pigeonholed, but felt that action should be taken upon it, and I thought that they were inclined to have action taken upon it within a short time. I see no objection to the order, but I think it should be referred to the Committee on Prisons.

Coun. WOODS—Mr. President, I don't care much whether this is referred to the Committee on Prisons or not. I know that the Committee on Prisons went to the limit and that they will go to the limit in taking care of the matter. But I know nothing has been done upon it because the Children's Institutions Trustees are opposed to it. This order provides, as you will see, that the Mayor shall take action in the matter. I do not refer in the order to the trustees but to the Mayor, so that the Mayor will take action. I had just as soon have it referred to the Committee on Prisons, but I thought the committee did their full duty. I did not want to take any honor from them, because I know they are in full accord with me in the matter. I hope the order will pass, and I know the Mayor will take it up right away.

Coun. BALLANTYNE—Mr. President, my reason for moving reference to the Committee on Prisons is this. I know that every member of the committee is very much interested in regard to having something done in connection with improving the visits of fathers, mothers, friends to the boys at Rainsford Island. That committee has made recommendations year after year, but no committee has been so active as that of the present year. Our chairman, the councilor on the right, has been more than active, and I am sure that he is not through with his activity on the proposition this year. If the order is referred to the Committee on Prisons I am sure that before the present year is out the committee will see that something is done, through the committee or in some other way.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, last year, my first year in the Council, I paid a visit to Rainsford Island with the Committee on Prisons. I believe Coun. Attridge was chairman last year. It was agreed then by Mr. O'Hare that they would provide a waiting place if they could and also make other arrangements in regard to visiting hours. The Committee on Prisons this year, as has been well said by the two preceding speakers, the gentleman from South Boston and the gentleman from Roxbury, has been active in trying to have something done in the way of lengthening the stay that parents of the boys can make on their visits. I think the proper thing to do is to refer the order to the Committee on Prisons. If Mr. Woods feels that it is a matter for the Mayor only, there is no difficulty in his bringing the Mayor's attention to it personally. I think he would have as much influence with the Mayor by going to him and telling him what ought to be done as by putting in an order here. I know that the Committee on Prisons are going to do something shortly.

President McDONALD—The question is on reference of the order to the Committee on Prisons.

Coun. WOODS—Mr. President, I accept that reference.

The order was referred to the Committee on Prisons.

MOVING PICTURES, CHILDREN'S INSTITUTIONS.

Coun. WOODS offered an order—That the Trustees of the Children's Institutions be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to report upon the feasibility of maintaining a moving picture apparatus for the education of the children under their charge.

Coun. WOODS—Mr. President, I have introduced this order following my visitation to the institution, where I saw 120 boys gathered there in the chapel the other evening, some reading, some without anything to do, looking for a little fun, and some apparently without any idea of doing anything at all. I claim that the right way to correct boys in institutions of this kind is to keep their attention attracted all the time. I think that object can be accomplished in large part by having a moving picture machine installed in the institution with educational films, which would mean a good deal in helping along reform of those boys.

Each of the boys costs the city $6 a week in that institution. I know the humane superintendent, Mr. Ryan, is trying to do all he can to help the boys, and I know if the members of the Council will take the same interest that I do in that institution we may reduce the number of inmates in the institution 30 per cent at least in the next six months, thereby greatly reducing the expense to the city. The cost of installing the apparatus will be something like $300. I am informed by the superintendent that this year they will have a little money left to turn back. I talked with Mr. Randall the other day, and he thought it would be an excellent thing to have something of the kind, to keep the boys' attention attracted. I know myself that the boys down there are not a very bad lot. I think some of them are committed unjustly. I do not wish to criticize, but when they send boys to Rainsford Island for breaking open a polling booth to use for a club room, I think it is going a little too far. One young boy down there, charged with being idle and disorderly, worked eleven months for one man, receiving $2 a week, left because he could not get more, and the week following was sent down there. There are a number of cases of that sort. One of the boys there is ten years of age and I asked what he was arrested for. I was told, "Larceny." "What did he steal?" "Some pigeons." He is there and has got to go through the seven months and has got to get his 700 credits. There ought to be something done down there. I told the boys the other evening when I was there that the best way to get out of the institution was to behave properly. When I told them that it was costing the city $6 a week to have them there and that if we had that $6 we could do a great deal more for the poor people of Boston they did not know what to make of it. They apparently thought it did not cost the city anything. But in my talk I think I made a little impression on the boys. I told them that I proposed to visit them, if possible, once or twice a month, and that if there was anything I could do to help improve their condition and help them to behave themselves better I was going to do it. This order is simply for the trustees to consider the possibility of this thing. I don't know whether they have considered it or not, but I would like to have them look into it and have them see whether or not it is a proper thing to be done. I hope the order will pass and that the trustees will act upon it. The order was referred to the Committee on Prisons.

PAYMENT TO MICHAEL O'KEEFE.

President McDONALD called up No. 1, unfinished business, viz.:

1. Ordered, That under the provisions of chapter 228 of the Acts of 1914 there be allowed and paid to Michael O'Keefe the sum of two hundred and fifty dollars in compensation for injuries received while in the discharge of his duty as an employee of the city, said sum to be charged to the Reserve Fund.

Passed.

OPERATION OF UNION FREIGHT RAILROAD COMPANY.

Coun. KENNY offered an order—That Atlantic avenue shall be used for the operation of the Union Freight Railroad Company only between the hours of 9 p. m. and 6 a. m., provided that said company may operate on Atlantic avenue for the transportation of perishable freight at any time except between the hours of 7 and 9 a. m., and between 5 and 7 p. m.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, that order relates to the operation of freight cars on the Union Freight Railway on Atlantic avenue. This is a matter that has already, I think, had the attention of the Council. At the last meeting we had an opinion from the Corporation Counsel as to our right to regulate the transportation of freight through Atlantic avenue during the daytime. The statutes and the ordinances under which this corporation is acting are more or less involved. That is to say, the road is operating both under the statutes of the Commonwealth and under city ordinances. But I think it will be determined that the Council has the right to regulate the traffic in the daytime. Therefore, I shall ask to have this order referred this afternoon to the Executive Committee in order to save time. Eventually, I take it, the matter will be referred to the Committee on Ordinances. But the Corporation Counsel is coming down this afternoon to confer with us, and I should like to have the matter before us in the committee room at that time, that we may ask him some questions in regard to it. I ask that the matter be referred to the Executive Committee.

The order was referred to the Executive Committee.

TRACKS ON PLEASANT STREET.

Coun. KENNY offered the following: Resolved, That, in the opinion of the City Council of the City of Boston, the transit facilities between the city proper and South Boston and Dorchester would be greatly improved by the construction of street railway tracks through Pleasant street, connecting the surface tracks from South Boston with the subway.

Ordered, That the Public Service Commission be hereby requested to consider the matter of thus improving the car service with South Boston, and to take such action as they may deem advisable.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, this is a matter which vitally interests hundreds of thousands of people in Boston. In 1911 the Legislature authorized the City of Boston to widen Pleasant street and to finance it outside of the debt limit. The real object and purpose of that legislation was largely to open up rapid transit to South Boston. The Tremont Street Subway had been up to that time utilized for the transportation of cars coming from Shawmut avenue into Tremont street. But when the so-called Washington Street Tunnel was completed that left quite a period of time during the day when the subway was not subjected to so much or so great use as it had been. As I have already stated, the widening of Pleasant street was intended largely to open up transit facilities for the 100,000 people of South Boston and the 100,000 people of Dorchester. The operation of the street cars through Broadway and over the extension, at the so-called Fort Point channel, into Washington street, brings cars almost within a stone's throw of the entrance to the subway. At present cars entering the subway proceed along Broadway to Dorchester avenue, thence southerly to Fourth street, thence southerly to Dover street, thence through Dover street to Washington street, to Tremont street, thence down Tremont street in a northerly direction to the subway, thence through the subway to the North Station. If Pleasant street could be used for the purpose of accommodating the tracks thereon from the corner of Washington street and Broadway to the subway, a distance, as I say, of only a stone's throw, it would mean that that great roundabout, circuitous trip through Dorchester avenue, through Dover street and through Tremont street would be avoided, saving the traveling over that distance by people going to and from South Boston and Dorchester. Once they reached the foot of Broadway they would be enabled to pass from the extension into the subway and alight either at Boylston street or Fark street, or continue to the North Station, in a very few minutes. It would be real rapid transit; it would accommodate hundreds of thousands of people; it would solve the question of rapid transit from the north of the city into Dorchester and South Boston to a large extent. The Legislature in 1911 passed an enabling act, but under the terms of that act the Elevated Railroad, if it uses the street for its tracks, is obliged to come in and contribute a share towards the construction of the street. They had six months from the time when the act was passed to communicate their intention to operate street cars in Pleasant street. They have not done so. Not having done so, they are still subjected to that liability if they come in now. Under the apportionment by the Street Commissioners they must pay either a portion of the construction work or for the widening itself, with the damages incidental to the widening. As I read the Statute of 1911, it is a question if the railroad should pay a portion of the construction work and a portion of the damages of the construction, paying on the entire improvement. I should say from reading the statute that they would be liable to pay only for a portion of the construction work. The cost of the construction work, I understand, would be somewhere between $50,000 and $60,000; the improvement itself was a matter of $700,000. The railroad company has not seen fit to come in under the statute and avail itself of the right to lay tracks in Pleasant street, and I am frank to say I do not blame them for not having done so. To begin with, I can readily see their objection to establishing a precedent of that character. In the next place, in view of the recent financial difficulties with which the road has been confronted, they probably have not had the money to do it. Pleasant street, to the railroad company, is like any other street in Boston, if it is utilized for the operating of its cars, the making of money and the furnishing of employment. I can very readily see that the railroad will probably for all time omit to avail itself of the act, under the circumstances. But that does not help the people of Boston. Here is this great public improvement, the widening of Pleasant street. Just think what it would mean, as I have already stated, to South Boston and Dorchester. We want the tracks put into Pleasant street; we want cars operated through Pleasant street into the subway, bringing us downtown. We want the road to go forward and do it; we want means devised whereby they can do it. It may be that the Public Service Commission will see fit to go to the Legislature next year, and have this act, chapter 591 of the Acts of 1911, amended. So far as the Elevated Road is concerned, I have not given the financial part of this problem any study, but I want to be fair with the road. So far as I have gone, I can see that their objections are founded on good sense and business principles, in objecting to pay what they would have to pay for the privilege of running the cars through Pleasant street. But that does not satisfy the public of South Boston or Dorchester. We want the cars put into Pleasant street; and, although it may involve repealing certain portions of chapter 591 of the Acts of 1911, I still think, even if it does, the City of Boston would be better satisfied, taking Pleasant street as it is, to have the road given that privilege. It means everything to South Boston and Dorchester. It is a matter of great importance, and I offer the resolution hoping that the State Board will take the matter up and take action resulting in having the cars placed in Pleasant street.

The resolution was passed.

PROPOSALS FOR BITUMINOUS MACADAM ROADWAY IN SPRING STREET, WEST ROXBURY.

The Commissioner of Public Works of the City of Boston, office 511 City Hall Annex, invites proposals for bituminous macadam roadway in Spring street, from Gardner street to Webster street, West Roxbury, and giving bond therefor of a surety company approved by the Commissioner in the sum of four thousand dollars ($4,000), to secure the due performance of the contract and the full protection of the city. Forms of proposals may be obtained at Room 511, City Hall Annex. Each proposal should be inclosed in an envelope, sealed, marked "Proposal for Bituminous Macadam Roadway in Spring Street," and left at Room 511, fifth floor, City Hall Annex, before 12 m. on Friday, November 27, 1914, with a certified check for five hundred dollars ($500), payable to and to become the property of the city if the proposal after acceptance is not carried out. The proposals will then and there be publicly opened and read. Proposals must be made in duplicate, the sealed duplicate, without check, to be deposited by the bidder with the City Auditor previous to the time named for opening the bids. If the price of any item appears to the Commissioner to be abnormally high or low, or the bidder neglects to bid on each and every item, it may lead to the rejection of the proposal containing such price. The undersigned reserves the right to reject any or all proposals or to award the contract as he deems best.

L. K. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

MAYOR BRINGS HOLIDAY GOOD CHEER.

Mayor Curley distributed 550 baskets containing Thanksgiving dinners to the worthy and deserving poor of Boston.

The expenditure entailed an outlay of over $1,000.

The Mayor had originally planned to purchase 200 baskets for the poor, and pay for them himself, but as the number of earnest appeals increased he asked two personal friends to aid in the good work, and this they readily consented to do.

The letters received by the Mayor were many of them of the most pathetic character and narrating a brave struggle by a vast number of deserving men and women to provide sustenance for their families.

THE STORY OF HUMAN SERVICE.

AN ADDRESS DELIVERED BY HIS HONOR JAMES M. CURLEY, MAYOR OF BOSTON, AT THE DEDICATION OF THE FORSYTH DENTAL INFIRMARY, THE FENWAY, BOSTON, NOVEMBER 24, 1914.

Boston has ever been blessed with loyal sons who have made her name one to conjure with in every section of the entire world.

Foremost in their sacrifice of life and fortune in times of strife for the cause of liberty; generous and humane in their consideration of humanity in times of peace.

The labor of her sons has made Boston first among the cities of the new world in liberty, in education and humane industrial progress.

This magnificent institution adds one more of those unique distinctions which, like milestones, mark the progress of our fair city. Dedicated to a more virile and happy womanhood and manhood, it will ever continue to shed luster on its donors. It will prove an inspiring influence for better direction in the care of the young, to be adopted, let us hope, by other progressive cities throughout the world.

The Forsyth brothers, one of whom, thank God, is with us to-day, Thomas A., with the others, James B., George H. and John H., from their place in heaven which their sacrifice and toil has merited, must gaze with both satisfaction and pleasure upon these exercises.

This building will ever remain a monument to their toil, thrift and love of humanity. What a contrast is here presented. Women and men assembled to dedicate an institution having for its purpose the lengthening of human life, while on the other side of the Atlantic men are engaged in the destruction of human life.

It is difficult for one to forego the thought that the time has arrived in human progress when the citizen soldiery, toiling in the trenches of industrial progress, should outrank in public esteem and admiration the destructive forces representing armies and navies, which it has been customary to deify in every land and in every age.

This institution, in my opinion, will prove not only a blessing to the children whose sufferings it will alleviate and whose bodies it will strengthen, but should tend to so change the current of public thought as to cause its donors, the Forsyth brothers, to outrank, in the estimation of thinking women and men, the greatest warriors of our time.

Boston to-day is proud of her distinguished son, Thomas A. Forsyth, and his splendid contribution to humanity, and it is an exceeding pleasure to announce recognition of appreciation by the municipality in his appointment as trustee of the Boston City Hospital, where in a larger but no less responsible measure his splendid attainments may continue to benefit the unfortunate and needy of the entire city.

I have been impressed with the extreme modesty and simplicity of manner of Thomas A. Forsyth, and know no man to whom those beautiful lines of O'Reilly, entitled "What is Good?" more fittingly apply:

"What is really good?"
I asked in musing mood.

Order, said the law court;
Knowledge, said the school;
Truth, said the wise man;
Pleasure, said the fool;
Love, said the maiden;
Beauty, said the page;
Freedom, said the dreamer;
Home, said the sage;
Fame, said the soldier;
Equity, the seer.

Spake my heart full sadly:
"The answer is not here."
Then within my bosom
Softly this I heard:
"Each heart holds the secret, Kindness is the word."

MAYOR REVEALS SOURCE OF ATTACK UPON THE ZOO.

A vigorous brief setting forth the animus that has directed several marked attacks upon the administration of the Zoo at Franklin Park was issued by Mayor Curley during the week.

The Mayor declared:

"It is interesting to note that in connection with the Zoo exhibit at Franklin Park that such criticisms as have been made upon the conduct of the establishment have emanated from sources having a personal interest in that character of profligate administration under which they were permitted to consider the exhibits therein as personal property.

"It was but reasonable to assume after the criticisms invited by Dr. William T. Hornaday, a personal beneficiary for expert advice, that others would cease to inject either their personal animosity or their selfish desire to record a condition under which apparently they had been permitted to loot at random public property under the control of the Park and Recreation Department.

"Mr. C. Emerson Brown, in a recent communication to the Press, deprecates the fact that the Zoo is not being developed along the lines laid down by Mr. Peabody and Mr. Coakley and that there is grave danger of a complete wreck of the same.

"The enclosed correspondence between Mr. John Benson, at one time curator, and Mr. C. Emerson Brown, who, by the way, sought the position of superintendent of the aviary, is indeed interesting, and it is indicative of the fact that it is possible, if one knows the proper method to pursue, to develop a splendid collection of stuffed birds and animals without paying for the same.

"Mr. Brown's letter under date of October 4, 1913, reads as follows:

"MR. JOHN BENSON, Curator,
Boston Zoological Park:

"DEAR SIR,—Following is a list of all the birds that I have received from the Zoo, that I have not signed receipt for:

"February 19 to March 1, one Hobbell's grebe, one horned owl, one redhead duck, one mallard duck (female), one tree duck, one screech owl, one crowned crane, one demoselle crane, one ruff.

"July 30, one elk head.

"August 15, one little green heron, one hawk one blue heron.

"August 26, one crowned crane.

"August 16, one crowned pigeon.

"August 23, one troupial, one parakeet, one night heron.

"Yours very truly,

C. EMERSON BROWN.

"It is interesting to note the opening paragraph in which he says that he has received the birds enumerated, a fairly large list, running from one redheaded duck to one demoselle crane, and for which he was not even required to sign a receipt.

"It is interesting to note that in a later letter, under date of October 10, 1913, these birds for which he failed to furnish a receipt were in such bad condition and so badly decomposed that he was obliged to throw nearly all of them away.

"I do not assume that it was the purpose of Mr. C. Emerson Brown to purloin from the city this property, but this second communication is fully as interesting as those which supplemented it and the gentleman enumerates a list received by him under date of February 19, 1913, running from two night herons to one peacock, for payment of which he makes no mention, but in the letter he expresses the desire to secure two cub bears in good condition, for which he would be glad to pay, conveying the assumption that it was not customary for him to pay for any goods received, and which assumption, according to correspondence, is justifiable.

"It is further interesting to learn that during the administration of the Zoo and the gentleman whose services, in his opinion, were absolutely necessary to insure the proper conduct of the same, the curator, competent to conduct the Zoo, desired a list of the names of the birds on exhibition so that he, the curator, might have a sufficient knowledge of birds to inform the curious public as to what kind of birds he had on exhibition.

"It is evident that if Mr. C. Emerson Brown, the distinguished, honest and honorable taxidermist, had been permitted to utilize public property as his own, the Zoo would still be "second to none in the entire world."

THE MERITS AND METHOD OF GRANITE BLOCK PAVING.

ADDRESS DELIVERED BY PAUL HANNAGAN OF LAWRENCE, MASSACHUSETTS, DIRECTOR OF MUNICIPAL ENGINEERING, AT THE AMERICAN ROADS CONGRESS, ATLANTA, GEORGIA, NOVEMBER 12, 1914.

I come from a section of our country where granite is plenty; where the great adamantine ribs of the earth come near the surface and crop out into giant hills and puny mountains.

We are near the highest point of land in the northeastern section of our country, Mount Washington, which towers over 6,000 feet above the sea.

The great ice floes of the last continental glacial epoch of ten thousand or a hundred thousand years ago, as you may please to estimate the time, passed over the section where I make my home. It planed down the mountains and filled up the valleys.

So while we have beautifully wooded hills and smiling and fertile valleys the highest point of land is low when compared with the lofty peaks of the Rockies.

The ice floe did a good work not only in leveling things up tremendously but in scraping off the softer rocks which may have formed on top of the earlier formation, leaving vast stretches of the bare granite rock bleaching under our torrid summer's sun or subjected to great contraction stresses in our frigid New England winters.

So we naturally turn to this material, lying at our very doors, for much of our paving material. It is ideal in many ways and we think we are especially fortunate in this respect. Other sections of the country, I know, are as fortunate as we are.

I have read of the old Roman roads—of that wonderful Appian Way, running out from imperial Rome for an unbroken stretch of 350 miles, begun more than 300 years before the Christian era. How after a lapse of nearly a thousand years it was reported to still be in perfect condition, and that even now parts of it are still in use.

It was built generally three feet deep of stones laid in mortar, with a wearing surface of flat stones of irregular shape carefully fitted together, an undertaking which in our day would be prohibitive on account of its expense. It was not more than 18 feet wide in its greatest width, and I think I have seen it estimated that such construction would cost some $250,000 a mile to-day.

I have read too of the old Roman roads built by that great people in their conquered province of Britain. How they ran north and south, and east and west, giving access to all parts of the province for use in keeping the native people in subjugation.

In Queen Elizabeth's time these roads had been entirely neglected and many of them were impassable. In fact, at that time England had no good roads. About London they were said to be fair but sandy. In the country districts the traveler floundered through the mud and tumbled over boulders. The roads were practically impassable to vehicles, in fact, none could be had for hire outside of London. Travel was almost entirely on horseback. There were few bridges and what there were were generally the gift of the church or individuals. For the most part streams had to be forded. The foot traveler, if the streams were narrow, passed over perhaps on a timber which had been felled across, and he was lucky if a hand rail had been provided for his safety.

All down through the eighteenth century there was little improvement, and it was not until MacAdam and Telford began their work that street building became in any way a science.

Every road builder is familiar with their methods, and every city in this country where any stone is to be had has miles and miles of water-bound macadam; so common is it that we even spell the name with a little "m."

The natural resources of New England furnish some of the best materials for this method of construction. We have plenty of the hard rocks suitable for macadam, and until the automobile came it was in many ways the best form of construction for country roads and also for city streets of light traffic.

Large areas of Massachusetts furnish field stone in quantities. They were the foot balls, the marbles, of the great continental glacier. They have been rolled about, rubbed down and sand-papered by nature's titanic forces for ages and ages. Much that was soft has been ground into sand and dust. We have great hills of perfect mortar sand, sharp and bright. The larger part of the boulders that are left are hard and furnish a fair road material if the softer ones are carefully culled out.

The old race which first settled our section piled up these stones into walls for dividing the land. They climb over hills too barren even for a sheep pasture, and run down into valleys and swamps where the land seems hardly worth dividing up.

These walls have been a mine of modest wealth in the vicinity of every city, furnishing an easily accessible source for stone for foundations and later for crushing, particularly for concrete. If considered too soft for a wearing surface for macadam they are at least hard enough for the foundation courses.

Under automobile traffic macadam, in all the more heavily traveled roads, is proving unsatisfactory. It is so in my section of the country, and I think it is the general opinion everywhere.

Because of the proximity of my city to the great source, the great quarries of granite, I have turned my attention particularly to the development of granite pavements. We are told that the great items to be considered in street pavements are cost, smoothness, noiselessness, durability, sanitary conditions, maintenance, ease of traction, nonslipperiness, ease of cleaning, etc. The granite pavement as I lay it meets most of these conditions perfectly.

Originally many of our cities had cobble pavements. The city of Lawrence was fortunate in having only one street of that material, and that street disappeared so long ago that few remember we ever had one.

Granite blocks laid in the old way with sand joints became in a few years under the wear of the traffic but little better than cobbles. The joints rounded off in a surprisingly rapid way and teams bumped along making a frightful noise and producing most uncomfortable sensations to those riding.

The only way this particular character of wear can be prevented is by filling the joints with a material about as hard as the stone itself. We luckily now have a cement far superior to any which could be procured in any preceding age. So hard is it when properly mixed and used that it is almost as indestructible as the block itself.

While first cost counts to quite an extent in determining the character of a city pavement, I have noticed that it is soon forgotten if the pavement proves acceptable. It is so with all great public improvements. While granite block may perhaps approach the highest in point of first cost, it is really cheaper, in the long run, as no repairs are required.

The pavement has become so universally acceptable in my city that no opposition has developed against laying it in large quantities, even to spending 15 per cent of the total city disbursement on this character of work in this present year. Where a few years ago people said they knew when they struck Lawrence by the bad condition of the roads, now they know Lawrence by coming onto streets nearly as smooth as a polished floor.

The durability of granite block can hardly be questioned, at least its durability as compared with other popular pavements. It has one peculiarity. Where most pavements begin to deteriorate immediately on their being subjected to traffic, granite block, for several years, continually improves. This may be a surprising statement, but it is absolutely true. Not only does the pavement become smoother, but less slippery.

All granite blocks are more or less uneven. We expect the irregularities will not exceed one quarter of an inch, but even this irregularity is noticeable particularly with iron tires on an ordinary wagon, and the speed of an automobile seems to accentuate them.

The cement grout, while it evens up the surface to some extent, is not intended to be left in any appreciable thickness on the pavement, so much of the original irregularity of the granite block remains when the street is first opened. But under the traffic these irregularities gradually disappear; they are ironed out in a way. So monolithic is the pavement that the hammering of heavy vehicles does not affect it in the least.

A large part of the stone we use, preferably the quality we use, is the mica granite rather than the horn-blende granite. Instead of wearing glassy with a somewhat gritty surface so that the footing for horses is unsafe except under exceptional conditions of ice or slime, it improves as time goes by.

In maintenance granite is superior to all pavements. The great drawback in a pavement with us is the cutting of trenches through it for various purposes. Sometimes it seems as though the pavement was hardly down before some individual discovers he must dig it up for some purpose. The objection against digging up the pavement seems to increase their desire to do it.

In a small city where we know so many by their given name, where we are almost like members of one family, it is exceedingly difficult to stop this digging up of a new pavement. In the case of a state or national highway the impersonal condition of the controlling factor makes it easy to forbid much that a government of a small city finds it hard to do. However, I can repair one of my granite pavements so that the patch can hardly be discovered, much less noticed.

Long longitudinal joints in all kinds of pavement, that is, joints which from their location in the street can come under the direct line of travel, must be avoided, for any kind of pavement will wear into ruts if wheels can travel along a joint. So if repairs are made where trenches are cut the pavement must be toothed out, no matter how hard the material or what the character of the joint filler. It makes no difference.

In case of traction I cannot see why smooth granite pavements will not stand as good a test as any other kind. I believe tables of resistance to traction of the various road surfaces place granite some distance below the top. It seems to me that these tests must have been made on worn pavements with sand joints or at least with joints filled with an elastic or yielding material. With smooth granite pavements traction resistance will decrease with the age of the pavement, while with other pavements traction resistance continually increases.

In case of cleaning these granite pavements can hardly have a superior. They can be almost as easily swept as a hardwood floor, far more easily than a tar concrete sidewalk. They can be flushed without the least injury, even with positive benefit. They respond perfectly to all kinds of mechanical cleaning. In themselves they are practically dustless. Their wear is almost infinitesimal.

In the matter of noise there is less perhaps to be said in their favor. But they are less noisy than granite block having any other kind of filler and their merit is so great in every other particular that the question of noise can perhaps be put to one side for a time until the use of the auto in practically all of the municipal activities which call for transportation eliminates this question entirely, and then smooth granite pavements will be regarded as nearly ideal as anything material can be, unless we pass on to the streets of gold in the Eternal City.

I have spoken of smooth granite pavements in a general way. I come now to particularize a little. I want to blow my own horn a bit; a habit I have got into, and a habit I rather enjoy when the cause is worthy. I want to tell you about the Hannagan Dustless Smooth Granite Block Paving.

We began to lay granite block pavements in the old sand jointed way in Lawrence in 1870. But they were far from being smooth and dustless. Nothing is absolutely dustless in this mundane world. I am not sure that even a vacuum is. So the term dustless is relative. Dirt carried onto a street will make dust, while the pavement itself may be so hard as to give off scarcely anything in the line of dust. We call that kind of a pavement dustless.

I lay my pavement on a sand base. Only exceptional conditions will demand a concrete foundation. The blocks are deep, from 7 to 8 inches. In width they run from $3\frac{1}{2}$ to $4\frac{1}{2}$ inches and in length up to 12 or 13 inches. We estimate they will lay about 24 to the square yard. All our contracts for blocks are by the square yard, measured after laying. We excavate by contract by the cubic yard. We haul the block by contract by the square yard, and we lay the blocks and finish the pavement with our own help by day labor.

I have never seen a granite pavement fail because of the character of the blocks. Its very life depends on the treatment of the joints. Under my instruction and direction the men employed in doing the grouting on our Lawrence pavements have become adepts in the line. The grout is mixed one to one in special boxes by hand. Because the joint filling is so vital, and makes or breaks the pavement, I have given this particular part of the work my most careful attention, and have prepared a set of specifications which in my opinion will meet all requirements and make my pavement the best pavement known.

The Massachusetts State Highway Commission were the pioneers in state road construction. They experiment with every known pavement and keep abreast and ahead of the grand procession of road builders. This season, in Lawrence, they authorized me to build the only piece of road they have in our city, with granite blocks laid in the manner described in this paper.

Within ten years I believe the Massachusetts State Highway Commission will adopt granite block pavement for most of the state highways and will lead the world in this method of construction.

THE HYACINTHUS.

By CAPT. JOHN H. DILLON, Chairman of the Park and Recreation Department.

The hyacinth vies with the tulip as a spring flowering bulb. It has three distinct qualities: First, it has a very showy flower; second, it has a very fragrant perfume, and its third quality you will discover when you read further.

The hyacinth, which has been cultivated for centuries, was early introduced into Holland from whence it receives its common name of "Dutch bulb," and is extensively grown for exportation. The same general rule for planting the tulip applies to the hyacinth bulb.

Dutch bulbs differ from the Roman—the latter having two or more flowering stems, while the Dutch bulb has only one usually, and the flowers of the Roman bulb are much smaller than those of the Dutch bulb.

Hyacinth bulbs may be taken up after flowering and packed in shallow boxes with a very little loam, from which they are taken about September and planted with good results for another year.

Now then, the third quality! People who are obliged to handle these bulbs in the cleaning process, which they undergo when taken from the boxes in which they have been packed, are attacked with a violent, burning, itching sensation, which rapidly communicates from hands to face, the eyes run water and eyelids become swollen, the sufferer having all the symptoms of poisoning alike to that caused by the poison ivy, or the itch induced by the brown-tail moth. Bathing the affected parts with water only increases the torment and when one is compelled to perform the work of handling hyacinth bulbs under these conditions his fortitude can be better imagined than described, and I write from experience.

DEPARTMENT CHANGES.

The following changes in the number, rating and compensation of city employees have been made during the week ending Thursday, November 26, 1914:

FINANCE COMMISSION.

Sadie C. Teed, employed as typist in the office, has been dismissed from service.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

William J. Hurley has received an increase of salary from $1,100 to $1,300 the year.

Commissioner Grady reports:

"On November 23, 1913, Mr. Hurley's salary was increased from $1,100 to $1,300 the year. On March 7, 1914, by an order from the Mayor's office affecting the department, his salary was reduced to $1,100. The work in the Repair Shop office has increased greatly in the last couple of years, due to the installation of new systems, etc., and I believe Mr. Hurley deserves an increase."

John J. Coholan has received an increase of salary from $900 to $1,050 the year.

Commissioner Grady reports:

"On December 3, 1913, Mr. Coholan's salary was increased from $850 to $1,050 the year. On March 7, 1914, by an order from the Mayor's office affecting the department, his salary was reduced to $850. At that time Mr. Coholan was employed as a clerk in the Fire Alarm Branch. A few months ago, when he was transferred to the Repair Shop, he received an increase of fifty dollars as the vacancy he filled was paying $900. To grant both increases recommended above would cost about $65 for the remainder of the year."

The following increases of salary in the department have been approved by the Mayor:

George F. Murphy, assistant chief clerk and bookkeeper, from $1,650 to $1,850 the year; Daniel J. Quinn, clerk to chief, from $1,400 to $1,600 the year; James P. Maloney, record and pay roll clerk, from $1,400 to $1,600 the year; Edward L. Tierney, record and permit clerk, from $1,200 to $1,400 the year.

Commissioner Grady reports:

"On October 3, 1913, the above men received the increases recommended above, or, in other words, each man received an increase in pay of two hundred dollars. This was the first increase any of these men had received for many years. On March 7, 1914, by an order affecting this department from the Mayor's office, these men were each reduced two hundred dollars, bringing their salaries back to where it was previous to October 3, 1913. To return this increase to these men now will require less than $200 for the remainder of this year."

Eugene M. Byington, Superintendent of Repairs, has been appointed a member of the department. Superintendent Byington has been connected with the Repair Shop of this department since 1890. A copy of the legislative act is as follows:

FINANCE COMMISSION.

Boston, November 25, 1914.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

SIR,—The Finance Commission feels that it is its duty to call to your Honor's attention certain misstatements of fact in a letter addressed to you on November 6, 1914, by the Election Department, a copy of which was sent to this commission. In that letter the Election Department stated "That there has not been that cooperation between the Finance Commission and the Election Department that should exist between coordinate departments of the city, and the delay in notifying the Election Commissioners of the facts not only placed the city in a dangerous position but has rendered difficult the compliance with the recommendation of the Finance Commission."

The Election Department further stated: "The first notice that the commissioners had that booths were not properly lighted was when they received the report of the Finance Commission to-day, although the information relating to this matter was in the possession of representatives of the Finance Commission for more than a month."

The commission does not believe in condemning a man or a department when charges are made without a full investigation. The partial failure of lights on one booth in September last night, together with other evidence, be ground for suspicion, but it was not sufficient to charge the contractor with breaking his contract or the Election Department with negligence of its duty. It would be only fair to ascribe the failure of a light now and then to accident. This applies with especial emphasis to the case in question, in view of the fact that the Election Department has twice asked the Mayor that it be allowed to award the contract for lighting the election booths to Mr. McMann, and has stated that Mr. McMann in the past had properly safeguarded the interests of the city and had done all that was required of him by his contract in a proper manner.

As soon as evidence was obtained to warrant action on the part of the Finance Commission, an inspection of all the voting booths was made on October 23, 1914, by representatives of the commission. On October 26 Mr. McMann was summoned to the office of the commission. On that day, according to his own testimony, he saw the Election Commissioners, both before and after his visit to the office of the Finance Commission, and reported to them that he was charged with not properly lighting the booths. The Election Department on that same day, October 26, ordered sixty lamps and sixty globes by telephone, followed by a written order to provide the booths with the proper number of lamps.

On October 27, on receipt of further evidence, a final report was made to the Finance Commission by its representative. An examination by the commission of the evidence submitted in the report of its representative resulted in the letter sent to your Honor on November 5, 1914, setting forth the failure of the Election Department to light the booths according to the contract.

The evidence proves that on October 26, 1914, the day before the Finance Commission itself had the final information, Mr. McMann, the contractor, and the Election Department knew that the lights were not maintained on the voting booths according to the terms of the contract.

The Finance Commission believes that the statements of the Election Department of November 6, 1914, in its letter to your Honor, and notably the statement that the first notice it had that the booths were not properly lighted, was the receipt of the Finance Commission's report, dated November 5, 1914, are incorrect and must have been known to be so when made.

The Finance Commission believes that the Election Department made these incorrect statements so as to befog the real issue and deflect public attention from the fact that the City of Boston, through the Election Department, had been paying for services without the slightest attempt to supervise them.

The Finance Commission suggests that your Honor make clear to the Election Department that it is the duty of the Finance Commission, under the law, to report on matters relating to administration, expenditures and other financial matters of city departments, after due investigation, directly to the Mayor and not to a subordinate department of the city.

Respectfully submitted,
THE FINANCE COMMISSION,
by JOHN R. MURPHY,
Chairman.

FIRE DEPARTMENT ORDERS.

Boston, November 23, 1914.

General Orders No. 151.

I. CARE OF AUTOMOBILE APPARATUS IN COLD WEATHER.

1. During cold weather chauffeurs in charge of motor apparatus will be held strictly responsible for the condition of same. While apparatus is standing in the street the hood must be covered to prevent freezing; also the engine must be turned over at least every half hour.

II. POLL TAX.

1. Members of the department who have not received a poll tax should call at the assessors' office and ascertain whether or not they have been assessed. Men are often police-listed but are not assessed. This matter should be attended to at once in order that, if anyone has escaped assessment, he may be included in what is known as the "December Warrant."

III. COMMENDATIONS.

1. Hoseman Thomas M. Manning of Engine Company 41 is hereby commended for responding to an alarm from Box 892, November 18, 1914, while on a day off.

2. Assistant Engineer Louis J. Howard is hereby commended for responding to an alarm from Box 277, with Engine Company 42, November 18, 1914, while on a day off.

By order of the Fire Commissioner,
PETER F. McDONOUGH,
Chief of Department.

Boston, November 24, 1914.

General Orders No. 153.

I. APPOINTMENT.

1. In accordance with chapter 524, Acts of 1914, and with the approval of his Honor the Mayor, Eugene M. Byington, Superintendent of Repairs, is appointed a member of the Boston Fire Department, to take effect November 21, 1914.

II. FIRES IN THE OPEN AIR.

1. Referring to the printed regulations of the Fire Prevention Commissioner, in effect November 15, 1914, concerning the setting of fires in the open air, the Fire Prevention Commissioner has ruled that a fire may be set anywhere with the written permission of the head of the Fire Department. District Chiefs will continue to issue permits for the burning of rubbish, etc., as heretofore, using their discretion as to the amounts and locations.

III. NEW FIRE ALARM BOX.

1. The following new fire alarm box will shortly be established:

Box 2471.—Chestnut avenue and Green street; connected into circuit No. 42. Assignments will be the same as for Box 521.

IV. INSPECTION OF HAY, STRAW AND GRAIN.

1. Upon the receipt of hay, straw and grain, company commanders will, as soon after as possible, notify the Supply Department by telephone through the Fire Alarm Office so that the same can be inspected.

V. PREST-O-LITE TANKS.

1. The attention of the officers in charge of motor apparatus is called to the following:

When a Prest-O-Lite tank is chilled, during cold weather, the pressure drops rapidly, about six or seven atmospheres, or from 225 to between 90 and 105 pounds. This pressure does not signify that the tank is empty, for after it becomes warm again the pressure will return to the normal scale. If officers in charge of motor apparatus will make allowance for this change in temperature pressure on tanks during cold weather a great deal of complaint and inconvenience will be avoided.

By order of the Fire Commissioner,
PETER F. McDONOUGH,
Chief of Department.

Boston, November 25, 1914.

General Orders No. 155.

II. BATTERIES.

1. The following is published for the information of the officers having charge of motor apparatus equipped with ignition or self-starting wet batteries so as not to have them freeze up during extremely cold weather.

2. Officers in charge of such apparatus can get a hydrometer by applying to the supervisor of motor apparatus.

3. The liquid, known as "electrolyte," in battery cells, will freeze at the following temperatures:

When hydrometer reads 1.120 battery is empty and will freeze at 20 degrees above zero.

By order of the Fire Commissioner,

Chief of Department.

DOCTOR DOWLING WILL DIRECT CITY HOSPITAL.

Mayor Curley has appointed Dr. John J. Dowling as Superintendent of the Boston City Hospital. He will eventually succeed Dr. John H. McCollom, now absent upon sick leave.

Doctor Dowling is one of the best known of the younger practitioners of medicine and surgery in Boston, and is a graduate of the Harvard Medical School of the class of 1894. Subsequently, Doctor Dowling spent a year at the Rotunda Hospital, Dublin, Ireland, and later was attached for an extended term in the service of several London hospitals.

He is a member of the American, Massachusetts and Harvard Medical Societies and of the Harvard and City Clubs. Doctor Dowling is universally popular, enjoys a wide practice, and will most assuredly prove a splendid administrator of the Boston City Hospital.

Mayor Curley declared relative to the appointment of Doctor Dowling:

"I have selected Doctor Dowling because I know that he will make good, and let me say further, that the doctor is taking the position at a great personal sacrifice. He has a splendid practice, and we all know what that means in the case of a man who gives it up to accept a position such as the superintendency of the City Hospital. He knows he will have to make good or be removed. I would not have selected him if I had any doubt about his ability to fill the position with credit to himself and with benefit to the City of Boston."

Mayor Curley said that Doctor McCollom's leave would be extended until the first of the new year, when arrangements for the change of control would be perfected. The Corporation Counsel will be asked to draft a special legislative bill to provide a liberal pension for the retiring superintendent.

"Of Doctor McCollom," said the Mayor, "I can speak only the kindest words. He is one official of the city who has devoted, you might say, his entire life to hospital work, and that work, the saving of lives. Through his courage in the use of serum in diphtheria thousands of children have been saved to the world, and that, too, during a time when other physicians were afraid of its consequences. He was a pioneer, and from first to last never faltered. His service to the city was just as patriotic as is that of any general in an army."

MEETING OF RETIREMENT BOARD.

At the meeting of the Retirement Board for City Laborers, held on Tuesday, November 24, the following employees were retired, the retirements to date from Friday, November 27, 1914, at the rate of $360 per annum.

PARKS AND PLAYGROUNDS.

BY CHARLES DOWNING LAY.

The park needs of a community of 100,000 people may be summarized as follows:

Wild parks, 700 acres; one large rural park, 400 acres; ten small parks, 250 acres; fifty playgrounds, 100 acres; gardens, squares, etc., 50 acres. Total, 1,500 acres.

This assumes that 12½ per cent of the area of the city should be in parks, which is possibly a low estimate, though seldom attained to-day.

The ideal way to create such a system is to plan it as the city is planned, but we are seldom able to do this as it should be done, and must, therefore, adopt a hit-or-miss method, probably making a miss more often than a hit.

No indication of the location or size of a park can be given beyond these statements: We know that the population per acre of park is too great in New York, being 1,611 on Manhattan Island, and we think that the population of 66.6 per acre of park as given in the ideal scheme for a city of 100,000 provides a fair park equipment.

The considerations which should determine the location of parks are that they should be well distributed, making them available for the easy use of the greatest number of people and also distributing more evenly the real estate values which parks create.

As to location and bounds, each park must be studied by itself and in relation to its surroundings. Such study will well repay the cost in the increased beauty and efficiency of the park. To buy a plot of land and then get a landscape architect to design a park for it is not the best way. He should study the problem before the land is acquired.

It is axiomatic in park work that the land which is of least value for building sites is often of greatest value for parks. Thus the steep and rocky hills on which it would be tremendously expensive to build streets and houses had better be left for parks which will cost little to develop. The deep valleys and rocky gorges, the alluvial plain which may often be flooded and always affords an insecure foundation for buildings because of its quicksands, are also ideal park sites.

It is axiomatic that the parks do not interrupt main lines of traffic or shut out large areas from easy communication with the center.

There is a tendency when a park has once been acquired to increase its size by further purchase when it would often be more sensible to make another park a short distance away, thus distributing the park areas better. It is as wasteful to have too much room in a park as it is to have too little. Large parks are, of course, necessary for large effects in landscape beauty, and for the accommodation of numbers of people without interference. The large parks, too, are the ones which should be secured first at any cost, because as a city grows the large areas which are suitable and which can be secured for a park become fewer and fewer. Small parks and playgrounds can be secured at a later time, and delay is not so fatal.

The preservation of natural beauties is a desirable function of parks, and in any city there are characteristic features of the landscape which should be preserved in this way. The banks of streams should always be made park property, because it is seldom that the private owner will treat a stream with any respect. There can be nothing more offensive to a cultivated taste than the dumping of refuse and the pollution by sewage of our streams. Of all parks the most valuable are those, no matter how small, which give access to large bodies of water. Facilities for aquatic sports and skating give more pleasure to more people than any other park feature.

Parks are sometimes located in order to remove a nuisance, but although it is always a satisfaction to kill two birds with one stone, the destruction of a nuisance is not a reason for creating a park. The nuisance might better be attacked in some other way—unless, indeed, it be a natural feature such as a stream which has become a nuisance, in which case it is not a nuisance which is being destroyed but a beauty which is being rescued.

The preservation of places of historic interest is another function of parks, the earliest example perhaps being Mount Vernon.

Park improvement need not proceed as rapidly as the acquirement of parks, because the property once acquired it can be developed whenever the community demands it. In the meantime, in its undeveloped state it can be of great use. In fact, the ideal rural landscape is one untouched by the hand of man, but this is unattainable except on a private estate. It is only when great numbers of people begin to use a park to the destruction of natural beauties that fences, roads, walks, etc., become necessary. The smaller parks are, of course, seldom acquired before their need is pressing, and then they must be improved at once.

Wild parks are a new development in American cities, though they have been known for centuries in Europe. They serve a double purpose in providing charming walks and the opportunity through picnicking and camping to imagine one's self primitive man again, and they also secure at small cost large areas which later on, if the city grows, can be used more intensively as rural parks. Roads should lead through them, so that the indolent may enjoy their unspoiled beauty from a motor car. As the boundaries of the city are extended new wild parks must be bought, because as the city grows the old ones will become large rural parks.

The large rural park, of which Central Park, New York, is the first and most famous example, is an American invention. It attempts to reproduce for the enjoyment of large numbers of city people the beauties of an English deer park, or in other words to provide for a democracy the delights formerly reserved for the aristocracy. The rural park simulates the beauty of the country and brings to minds and nerves, wearied by the rush of city life, the peace and quiet which come from the contemplation of rural scenery.

The pleasure of the intellect and of the senses is everything in a rural park. Exercise, physical recreation, social amusement, may be provided, but must be kept subordinate if the park is to fulfill its purpose. Large size is the first essential of such a park, because its characteristic scenery can only be produced by great extent of meadow, shrubbery and forest.

Although the rural park provides in the highest degree for the pleasure of all classes, the physical features necessary to make its use possible by great numbers must be kept out of sight and out of mind. Thus the roads and walks must be inconspicuous and natural, not formal and rigid.

After securing the wild park and the large rural park, the small parks should be acquired, and these parks should be arranged for the use of the neighborhood as a social center. They may well be equipped with gymnasiums, both indoor and out, for men and women, with swimming pool, skating rink, children's playgrounds, sheltered arbors, concert grove, outdoor moving picture theater, branch library and reading room, and a house in which dances, lectures, theatrical performances and club meetings can be held. It must be, in short, a sort of country club for the people. The advantage of locating such a neighborhood park near a schoolhouse which can be used for some of these things is obvious.

Playgrounds are in some ways the most important units in a park system, for they should be greatest in number and their use will probably equal that of any other portion of the park system. From a social point of view they may well come first, because of the remarkable effect they have in reducing juvenile delinquency, as shown in police court records.

The playground is, I think, coming more and more to be reserved for the use of babies and small children. The boys over fourteen have no place there and must be taken care of elsewhere. The ideal for small playgrounds, because of this use by young children, is that they shall be not over half a mile apart, thus being within a quarter of a mile of any house.

The playground should be a place where children can be left in safety by a busy mother, and it must be carefully policed and have skillful attendants.

An athletic field must soon be provided in every city, and the field should be large enough for three or four games of football or baseball to be played at one time. It should have ample room for spectators, and it should, if possible, have a running track. A field house with toilets, shower baths and lockers is essential, and a swimming pool would be valuable.

City parks or squares are open places in the city, formal in design because they are surrounded by buildings or serve as a foreground for some monumental building. They should be conveniently arranged for mass meetings, public functions of various sorts, and for the display of memorials of great men and statuary representing great events.

The park department of a city should keep in touch with the desires of the people and should seem to lead, even as the politician, who has his ear to the ground and catches the first murmurs of a common desire, seems a leader.

It must not be forgotten that parks have a negative value in decreasing the density of population and in providing light and air. It is this negative use which makes the small park so desirable from a financial point of view in cities.

When the separate parks have been located it will be necessary to devise connecting parkways or boulevards, because it must not be forgotten that they must be linked into a system, each reinforcing the other.

There is a great advantage in having a park system, even though it be small, for the various units of the system supplement each other and allow a great specialization in each park. Thus the provision of playgrounds frees the city squares and small parks of a discordant feature and all become more serviceable to the people who use them.

Parks, one of our early and great triumphs in communal enterprise, must become more numerous and more important as time passes, because the tendency is all toward providing common property for communal activities. The day when the boy or the man can play ball on the vacant lots or on his own place is rapidly passing. Nor have many of us incomes sufficient to join country clubs. The community must, therefore, provide the facilities which the individual can no longer secure.

PAYMENT TO OUTSIDE INSTITUTIONS FOR COURSES OF INSTRUCTION.

The following communication was presented:—

CITY OF BOSTON,
Law Department,
73 Tremont St., Boston.

Nov. 10, 1914.

Thornton D. Apollonio,
Secretary, Boston School Committee,
Mason Street, Boston, Mass.

Dear Sir:—

In reply to your question as to "the legality of payments to outside institutions for courses of instruction for teachers, nurses and other employees" of the School Committee of the City of Boston, it is my opinion that you are not authorized to expend money for such purposes. No express legislative authority is given to pay for the instruction in outside institutions of teachers, nurses or other employees of the School Committee, and I think there is no implied authority to pay for such instruction, as the school teachers, nurses and other employees are presumably fit for the intended service at the time of appointment. The State supports normal schools for the education of teachers, the expenses of which are paid in part by the City of Boston, and the City bears the entire expense of its own normal school, the purpose of which is to fit teachers for the public school service. The statutes require that teachers shall be persons of "competent ability and good morals." (R. L., c. 42, sec. 1.) The School Committee may ascertain by examination whether candidates are qualified as teachers or it may accept a diploma granted by a normal school of the Commonwealth as satisfactory evidence of such qualifications. The qualifications of nurses are also fixed by statute. (St. 1907, c. 357, sec. 2.) Before nurses become eligible for appointment in the Boston public schools they must take a course of instruction in, and must graduate from some hospital or similar institution giving a course of instruction in nursing at least two years in length, must present to the School Committee satisfactory evidence that they possess good character and health, and must also pass an examination, given by the School Committee, designed to test the applicant's training, knowledge, character, experience and aptness for the work.

I think the Legislature intended, when authorizing appropriations for the support of the public schools, that the education in outside institutions of teachers and nurses should not be continued at public expense after they had entered the public school service, and this reasoning applies as well to "other employees" in the public schools.

Yours truly,
(Signed)

Placed on file.

John A. Sullivan,
Corporation Counsel.

The foregoing Agreement is subject to the following Terms and Conditions:

The lamps, poles, wires, fixtures and other apparatus, appliances and materials necessary for the performance of this Agreement, except posts for incandescent lamps supplied from underground circuits, shall be furnished by the Company and kept in good order and condition by it. The lamps shall give a clear and steady light. The Company shall furnish electrodes (carbons) for and trim all arc lamps, and will renew incandescent lamps whenever they become dim, broken or burned out.

2. Payments hereunder shall be made monthly on the regular pay day of the Municipality.

3. The parties to this Agreement shall forthwith upon its approval, jointly request the Board of Gas and Electric Light Commissioners, in writing, to investigate and decide whether the prices named in Schedule E herein are, as a whole, fair, taking into account the length of the term, the discount, and all other matters pertinent to such question. If, as a result of the investigation, the Board shall determine that a fair price for the entire service applied to the Municipality is less than the total amounts to be paid according to Schedule E, one or more of the rates charged according to Schedule E may be reduced by the Board in such manner that the reduced rate or rates shall not be unfair and that the total payments by the Municipality shall not be less than the fair price for the entire service as determined by the Board. If rates are reduced in the manner herein provided such reduced rates shall be substituted from the beginning of the agreement for the corresponding rates named in Schedule E.

At the end of five years from the date when this Agreement becomes effective both parties shall forthwith jointly request the Board to investigate the fairness of the prices named in Schedule E as they may have been fixed by the first investigation of said Board or as they may have been reduced under the provisions of Article 4 of this Agreement, and determine whether or not they are as a whole still fair, taking into account the matters mentioned in the preceding paragraph and all other matters pertinent to such question. If the Board shall determine as a result of this second investigation that the total payments to the Company according to the prices named in Schedule E as they may have been fixed by the Board as the result of its first investigation or as they may have been reduced as aforesaid should be increased or decreased, it shall fix the prices in accordance with such determination, and they shall be applicable from the beginning of the sixth year of the Agreement. The prices fixed by the Board in the first or second investigation shall be subject to reduction as hereinafter provided in Article 4 of this Agreement.

4. The Company will give the Municipality the benefit of any lower prices for service such as that herein provided for, or of any better quality or efficiency of service, which may at any time during the continuance of this Agreement be enjoyed by any Municipality served by it, such relative prices, quality and efficiency to be determined by taking into consideration all the circumstances and conditions in both cases. Upon written demand by the Municipality at any time or times during the term of this Agreement the Company shall thereafter give to the Municipality the benefit of three-fourths of any general reduction in the present cost to the Company, including depreciation and interest on investment, of supplying the service called for by this Agreement, but only so long as and to the extent that such decreased cost shall continue. If at any time during the continuance of this Agreement the Company and the Municipality shall disagree upon any matter embraced in this paragraph, it shall be referred to the arbitration of three disinterested persons, selected one by the Municipality, one by the Company, and the third by the other two; every decision of a majority of the arbitrators shall be binding upon the parties unless a court of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts of competent jurisdiction shall determine that it amounts to a taking of the property of the Company without due process of law. Each party shall pay for the services of its own arbitrator and shall divide equally the expense and compensation of the third.

The Company, upon demand of the Commissioner of Public Works, shall once in each year of the term of the Agreement furnish a statement of the cost to the Company, including depreciation and interest on investment, of supplying the service called for in this Agreement, the statement to be in such form and in such detail as the Commissioner of Public Works shall require.

5. The Company shall indemnify and save harmless the Municipality against any and all claims for damages, loss, cost and expense on account of injury to persons or property arising in any way out of the erection, construction, maintenance or use of any of the lamps, poles, wires, fixtures and other apparatus and appliances furnished by the Company, hereunder, except where such injury is the result, in whole or in part, of the fault or neglect of the Municipality, its officers, servants or agents, while acting as agents of the Municipality; and against any and all claims for damages by reason of any alleged infringement of patent rights in the use of lamps, poles, wires, fixtures, machinery and other apparatus, appliances and material supplied by the Company hereunder; and will, at its own expense, assume the defence of all actions at law or in equity which may be brought against the Municipality upon any claims as aforesaid; and also against all decrees, judgments and orders of any court based thereon.

6. The Municipality may at all times, with or without the Company's knowledge, employ a competent person to examine and test the electrical currents and apparatus employed in furnishing the lighting service herein provided for, to ascertain whether or not the Company is complying with the terms of this Agreement, and for such purpose the Company agrees that such person may have access at all reasonable times to said lamps, poles, wires, fixtures and other apparatus of the Company used in carrying out this Agreement.

The Municipality will indemnify and save harmless the Company against any and all claims for damages, loss, cost and expense on account of injury to persons or property arising in any way out of the employment, act or neglect of any such person, except such as may arise, in whole or in part, from the fault or neglect of the Company, its agents or servants, while acting as agents of the Company.

In case two tests of any circuit or lamp shall be made, separated by an interval of not less than one hour, during any one night, and both of said tests shall prove that the Company is not furnishing the electrical energy or light required by this Agreement, then such circuit or such lamp shall be deemed to be outages as provided herein and the Company shall pay the cost of both of said tests.

7. Such additional lamps shall be installed, without charge to the Municipality, as may be designated by the Municipality at any time before notice is given to terminate this Agreement, provided the Company shall not be required to extend its lines more than four hundred feet overhead, or in localities served by underground construction more than one hundred feet underground, to reach any lamp; but the Municipality may require extension of lines for additional lamps at any time during the term of this Agreement, by paying the cost of so much of the extension as exceeds that herein required to be made by the Company, such payments to apply as credits on future bills for lighting on such additional lines. Whenever requested by the Municipality, the Company will change the location of any lamps at the expense of the Municipality, not exceeding, however, five dollars for each arc lamp and three dollars for each incandescent lamp so moved, unless an extension of lines or new lamp-posts are required.

8. The discontinuance of any street or highway shall have the effect of discontinuing whatever lamps may have been located on such street or way. The Municipality may at any time discontinue a lamp or lamps for reasonable cause, but the number of lamps of any type in service at any time shall not, except as hereinbefore provided, be less than ninety-five per cent of the maximum number of such lamps in service under this Agreement at any time prior thereto. In case of such discontinuance the installation of any lamps at other locations shall be charged for the same as changes of locations under Article 7 hereof until the original number installed shall again have been reached.

Lamps of any type may be substituted and substituted for lamps of any other type if the Municipality pays the total net expense to the Company of making the changes (credit being allowed the Municipality for the then market value of the property which is displaced), and if the candle power of the substituted lamps (comparative candle power being measured in terms of mean lower hemispherical values of the lamps as they are equipped for actual use) is not substantially less than that of those displaced. The fixed costs price of such substituted lamp shall be the same as that of the lamp displaced and the running costs price shall be determined by agreement between the Commissioner of Public Works and the Company,—both fixed and running costs prices being subject to subsequent reductions, as provided in Article 4. If the parties cannot agree on the amounts to be paid by the Municipality to the Company for making the changes and for the running costs price of the new lamp or for either item, arbitrators shall be chosen as provided in Article 4 with power to fix these amounts.

When, however, standard incandescent lamps of candle power (measured as provided above) equal to the Magnetite lamps named in Schedule E have been so improved that they can without increase in watts be operated on the same kind of circuits as said Magnetite lamps, the Company will, if the maintenance cost to it is not increased, upon demand of the Municipality and without charge for making the change substitute such an incandescent lamp for any Magnetite lamp at the price provided herein or established by the Board of Gas and Electric Light Commissioners under the provisions of Article 3 for Magnetite lamps; or if under the provisions of Article 4 the Municipality is entitled to a reduction in price because of the decreased cost to the Company caused by the use of such incandescent lamps, then at such reduced price.

9. The Company shall give preference in employment, first, to citizens of Massachusetts, second, to other citizens of the United States; and shall allow all employees on said work to lodge, board and trade where they choose and shall not obstruct any other person in doing work for the Municipality; and shall conform to all the labor laws of the Commonwealth; and no laborer, workman or mechanic working within this Commonwealth in the employ of the Company, sub-contractor or other person doing or contracting to do the whole or a part of the work provided by this Agreement shall be requested or required to work more than eight hours in any one calendar day. This Agreement is made subject to all the laws of the Commonwealth, and if any clause thereof does not conform to such law such clause shall be void and such law operative in lieu thereof.

10. Should the Municipality at any time find that the Company is not complying fully with the terms and requirements of this Agreement, the Municipality shall immediately notify the Company of such fact, and the Company shall at once remedy the fault, but failure to give such notice shall not impair any obligation of the Company. But the Company shall not be responsible for any failure to supply electricity if such failure is without default or neglect on its part.

11. If the Municipality shall at any time during the continuance of this Agreement be required to purchase the whole or any part of the plant of the Company located within the limits of said Municipality, under the provisions of law then in force, the Municipality shall not be held for the unexpired term of this Agreement, nor shall this Agreement or the unexpired term thereof be in any way considered as an element of value in such purchase; provided, however, that in case of such purchase the Municipality shall not be entitled to the full discount provided for in this Agreement, unless it shall have been in operation for the full period thereof. If the Agreement shall not have been in operation for the full period thereof, because of such purchase, the accounts between the Municipality and the Company shall be adjusted so as to make the total net payments by the Municipality to the Company what they would have been if the Agreement had been made for the period during which it was actually in operation.

In connection with the above, Chairman BALLANTYNE offered the following:

Ordered, That, in accordance with the provisions of section 6 of chapter 486 of the Acts of 1909, public hearing be given by the City Council, on Tuesday, December 1, 1914, at seven o'clock p. m., on the proposed agreement with the Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Boston, for street lighting transmitted to the City Council, November 18, 1914; and the City Clerk is hereby directed to give notice of said hearing by advertising the same in the ten daily newspapers, and, at least seven days before the date of said hearing, in the City Record, the expense of such hearing and advertising to be charged to the appropriation for City Council, Incidental Expenses.

Passed.
Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I move that copies of the contemplated contract be printed as a city document.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, it seems to me it might perhaps be better to print it by itself rather than as a numbered city document, because it has not yet been passed. I should think the time to print it as a city document would be after it became effective.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I am willing to accept the suggestion of the councillor opposite and will also amend my motion so as to provide that 100 copies be printed.

The amendments were adopted, and it was voted that 100 copies of the proposed contract be printed.

Adjourned, on motion of Coun. COLLINS, at 10.28 a. m., to meet on Monday, November 30, at 3 p. m.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT.

The Commissioner of Public Works states his intention to construct a surface drain of 15 and 20 inch earthen pipe and five catch-basins in Portsmouth street, between Waverly street and a summit about 220 feet south of Lothrop street, Brighton, at an estimated cost of $1,299.

The Commissioner of Public Works states his intention to construct a surface drain of 10 and 12 inch earthen pipe in Lothrop street, between Market and Portsmouth streets, Brighton, at an estimated cost of $986.

The Commissioner of Public Works states his intention to construct a surface drain of 10, 12 and 24 inch earthen pipe and five catch-basins in Waverly street, between Market and Waverly streets, at an angle in said street, Brighton, at an estimated cost of $3,401.

The Commissioner of Public Works states his intention to construct a sanitary sewer of 10-inch earthen pipe, a surface drain of 10-inch earthen pipe and one catch-basin in Oriole street, between Park and Wren streets, West Roxbury, at an estimated cost of $1,542.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT (Paving Service).

Upon a statement of fact submitted by Commissioner Rourke of the Department of Public Works, the Mayor has approved an award of contract to the Central Construction Company, without advertising, for replacing the asphalt and base on Columbus avenue, between Station and Camden streets, Roxbury, at an approximate cost of $5,000.

The statement of Commissioner Rourke is as follows:

To the Mayor of Boston:

In connection with laying the high service water pipe in Columbus avenue, the asphalt area between Station and Camden streets is still under guarantee by the Boston Asphalt Company and this guarantee has two years to run. The ordinary price charged by the Asphalt Company for replacing cuts in its asphalt is $3.25 per square yard, including base and top. The Central Construction Company has been doing the repair work for the Boston Asphalt Company and it has also relaid the asphalt on our high pressure trench in Tremont street.

I respectfully request permission to award, without advertising, to the Central Construction Company a contract for replacing the asphalt and base on Columbus avenue, between Station and Camden streets, for the sum of $2.75 per square yard. The total approximate cost of the work will be $5,000 and the Central Construction Company will guarantee this area for the two years which the Boston Asphalt Company's guarantee has yet to run.

My reason for not advertising this contract is that the price offered by the Central Construction Company is reasonable and the probability is that a lower price would not be secured by advertising; but what is of still more importance is that the Central Construction Company is now engaged in this work and can attend to it promptly, which the lateness of the season demands.

Respectfully,
L. K. ROUTKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

THE NARCISSI.

By CAPT. JOHN H. DILLON, Chairman of the Park and Recreation Department.

The narcissus is another of our spring flowering bulbs that has held its own as a favorite for early adornment of the garden. Its bright yellow blooms make a pleasing contrast to the vari-colored flowers of the tulip and hyacinth bulbs. The narcissus is a native of southern Europe and the region of the Mediterranean, and perhaps more familiarly known under the names of jonquils or daffodils. This bulb, like the tulip and hyacinth, is largely cultivated in Holland, for export, many large farms being devoted exclusively to their culture. They are hardy bulbs, that is, they may be planted in the fall and remain in the ground all winter. If you desire, you can plant them in borders, let them remain in the ground and for some years have your annual display of narcissus with very little trouble. If planted for spring flowering in beds that one intends to use later for summer planting, then these bulbs must be taken up and cared for in like manner to that of the tulip, as described in article on tulip in a previous issue of this paper.

The botanical name, narcissus, is said to be derived from Narcissus, a nymph of Grecian mythology, and again from the Greek word narke, which signifies a stupor, on account of the narcotic quality of the perfume of the flowers. Its flowering season is about the same as that of the tulip and the hyacinth.

OPENING OF FORSYTH DENTAL INFIRMARY.

An interesting body comprising more than 100 little children were extended professional service at the formal opening of the Forsyth Dental Infirmary, in the Fenway, the magnificent benefaction given the City of Boston by Mr. Thomas A. Forsyth.

The Forsyth Dental Infirmary is unquestionably the greatest professional clinic for children established in the United States, and the service of the institution is attracting the attention of the entire country.

The newspapers have been especially cordial in their mutual greeting extended Mr. Forsyth's great benefaction to his native city.

Under the caption, "One of the Greatest Things in Boston," the Boston Herald declares:

"The recently opened Forsyth Dental Infirmary is not only one of the most magnificent architectural monuments which has ever been reared to a Boston family, but it is destined to attract inquiring visitors from all over the world because of the advanced ground which it is occupying in a great field of human betterment. Anyone who sees the amazingly modern equipment of the institution, with all the resources of electricity and the metals, will feel that, however carefully his own work is attended to, he is reading a new chapter in a story which his own countrymen have long told the rest of the world.

"This will become a graduate school in dentistry. To have served on the Forsyth staff will give prestige to the practitioner in every part of New England. The wholesale principle in providing care for the youthful element of all that part of the population which feels unable to meet ordinary dental charges is sure to spread. Other philanthropists will let their money serve rising generations in this extremely practical way. Municipalities will take it up. We shall have a new era in this country in the care of the teeth, with all that it means for health, cleanliness, good looks and good citizenship. And the Forsyth brothers will show the way."

Every case of these diseases attended by a physician must be immediately reported by him to the local health officer in writing. In the absence of an attending physician, the householder is to report the case.

The local health authorities report to the state department of health daily the cases which have occurred, with the names and addresses of the patients. This keeps the State Commissioner of Health at all times informed of the prevalence and geographic distribution of the controllable diseases throughout the state. It shows the foci of infection. It reveals the manner and direction in which outbreaks are spreading. It shows where reenforcement of the field forces and extra effort are needed to prevent the spread of disease and protect the Commonwealth.

Of special interest in connection with the diseases and conditions made notifiable is the inclusion of cases of "dog bite requiring antirabic treatment" and in diseases of the eye, of suppurative conjunctivitis in addition to ophthalmia neonatorum and trachoma.

The requirement that cases of dog bite be reported is an illustration of notification resulting in benefit to the patient as well as affording information which enables measures to be taken for the protection of the community. The state department of health administers antirabic treatment free of cost to persons bitten by rabid animals or by animals suspected of having rabies.

The state has properly assumed the responsibility for the prevention of rabies and the administration of antirabic treatment. The community, and not the person bitten, is responsible for the presence of rabid animals. It is reasonable, therefore, that the community assume the burden of treating those injured by its neglect.

The new diseases and conditions which were added to those previously notifiable are:

Dog bite (requiring antirabic treatment).
Dysentery:
 (a) Amebic.
 (b) Bacillary.
German measles.
Hookworm disease.
Suppurative conjunctivitis.
Malaria.
Mumps.
Pellagra.
Plague.
Rabies.
Septic sore throat.

ROAD MAINTENANCE AND TRAFFIC.

EXCERPT FROM AN ADDRESS DELIVERED BY COL. WILLIAM D. SOHIER, CHAIRMAN MASSACHUSETTS HIGHWAY COMMISSION, AT THE FOURTH AMERICAN ROAD CONGRESS, ATLANTA, GA.

We have found in Massachusetts that the largest cost of upkeep on macadam roads comes from two causes. Heavy automobile travel would disintegrate a plain gravel or macadam road very soon. This could be prevented by the use of bituminous material on the surface, provided team traffic was not so heavy that it would quickly wear out the binder. A large number of three-ton teams would quickly wear out the binder. Further, a very large number of heavy loads carried on narrow tires would wear a macadam road relatively quickly. Some wore from one-half to one inch a year, whereas when a bituminous macadam road with a three-inch top was constructed the wear was very much reduced.

The necessity for knowing the kind of travel is well shown by English experience. On a road in one county it cost 1.42 cents to carry a ton a mile, and on another macadam road in the same county it cost 0.13 cent. It appears that when the cost of maintenance exceeded two-thirds cent per ton-mile it was more economical to use granite block on a concrete base. The cost for annual maintenance of a six-inch block on a concrete base near the docks in Liverpool has been 0.058 cent a ton-mile.

The Ashby road, with high cost of maintenance and small traffic, can be compared with that through Hamilton, which has more traffic and a small cost for maintenance per ton. The former was built of local stone—comparatively soft—and resurfaced with the same stone when about twelve years old, 30 tons being used per 100 feet. It is a country road. It had an application of one-fourth gallon of cold asphaltic oil per yard in 1913. The stone had worn down practically one-fourth inch per year.

The Hamilton road was built of trap-rock macadam on a main through route. When the road was eight years old the stone had worn down about 3 inches and the road needed resurfacing. In 1907 one-half gallon per yard of the heaviest asphaltic oil applied cold was spread upon the road and properly covered with pea stone and gravel. This treatment was repeated for two years. Then one-fourth gallon of heavy hot asphaltic oil was sprayed upon the road and properly covered; this treatment has been repeated once. The road has been kept patched, and sanded when necessary. It is in better condition to-day than in 1907.

The Beverly road, with a high cost of maintenance per ton-mile, can be compared with the Lynn road, with a small cost. Both are on main routes and were trap-rock macadam. The former has a large number of heavy ice teams on 3-inch tires. It was resurfaced with trap rock when the road was eight or nine years old, 30 tons of stone being used per 100 feet. This had worn one-third inch in a year. In 1910 it was coated with one-half gallon of hot asphaltic oil per square yard, covered with pea stone and dust. This treatment failed in one month under the heavy ice teaming, although a surface built with the same material and by the same method on the next 20 miles has stood, since then with constant patching and treatment with one-quarter gallon per square yard of the same oil sprayed on the road 8 feet in width.

For the next four years the Beverly road was maintained (except where it was resurfaced) by the use of one-quarter gallon of cold oil per square yard, two applications being used the first year and one each year since. One-third of the road was resurfaced in 1913, with an asphaltic macadam two inches deep at a cost of $1.20 the square yard, two and a half inch stone being used because of the heavy teams and trucks.

A trap-rock macadam highway at Lynn connects with a parkway where only pleasure vehicles are admitted, except on local business. In 1907 one-half gallon per yard of hot refined tar was sprayed upon the road, and kept covered with pea stone and dust. It was constantly patched with tar and chips. It has been recoated twice and is in excellent condition, but 90 per cent of the travel is motor; there are a few teams, usually light.

The Medford-Somerville road is a trap-rock macadam, built with two and a half inch stone on top. It is 28 feet wide, bearing heavy city teaming and passing a stone quarry crushing from 100 to 300 tons a day. This road has never been in good condition since it was two years old. It always has some depressions, although it has been daily patched and all depressions have been filled with trap-rock. It has always been muddy. A portion beyond the stone quarry was resurfaced with tar macadam this year. The whole road needs it. It has been treated with tar, a part with heavy tar. A portion had three one-quarter gallon coats of hot refined tar, covered with pea stone, in one year. It failed and was never in good condition, and we are in doubt whether to reconstruct with granite block on a concrete base, with concrete, or to try an asphalt macadam.

At Milton is a road of the same character with many heavy granite teams going over it. The cost has been high because the trap rock wore very rapidly under the heavy concentrated loads on iron tires. The Saugus road is trap-rock macadam on a through route with a great deal of heavy traffic, both teams and trucks. The stone wore more than one-half inch in a year. It needed constant patching with additional stone and was never in excellent condition except when recently resurfaced. New stone to a depth of two or three inches was applied every four or five years. In 1910 the road was resurfaced with three inches of asphaltic macadam at a cost of about $1 per square yard. This has stood ever since but has needed some patching. A portion built in the fall when it was cold failed. No bituminous work should be done in cold weather and a temperature above 60 degrees is vastly better than one under 40.

A through route passes Shrewsbury. Too much heavy hot oil was used on it before we understood how to use oil. One-half gallon per square yard was applied in each of two successive years. It rolled, rutted and was always in bad condition. It has cost a good deal to remove surplus oil, smooth off the bunches and rolls and keep it patched.

The Truro road carries little traffic. It was built 12 feet wide of four inches of broken stone on sand, the stone being bound with clay. This was an experiment and proved a failure. It was constantly raveling and needed more stone. It was widened to 16 feet, new stone was added and rolled in, and the road was coated with light oil in 1912 and 1913; it is now in good condition.

A macadam road on a through route passes Weston. Refined tar was applied in 1907 and the road was oiled with hot oil in 1909 and 1910. It was maintained with patching until 1912, when a portion was resurfaced with two inches of bituminous macadam. Broken two and one-half inch trap rock was rolled hard and from one and three-quarters to two gallons of a good grade of asphalt to the square yard were sprayed in under pressure. This surface was covered with the smaller stone and rolled, and on some portions of the road a surface application of from one-third to one-half gallon per yard was sprayed, properly covered with pea stone and rolled. This cost from 90 cents to $1 per square yard. The road is in most excellent condition and we expect to have it wear ten or fifteen years with practically no patching, although we may have to renew the surface coating by spraying every three or five years. One road of this kind, six years old, has not needed a single patch as yet.

Results have been obtained on many miles of road where we have used a good grade of asphaltic oil, either hot or cold, heavy or light, or a good grade of refined tar. We have had many failures on short sections of road where a non-asphaltic oil was used or a poor grade of oil or tar, and many proprietary so-called dust-layers have failed. Roads that failed have been resurfaced or retreated, but the results are not tabulated in the table.

Certain exceptions should be noted. Army maneuvers, especially large bodies of cavalry and artillery, will rapidly destroy any bituminous blanket surface. A blanket coat of hot oil on macadam will carry a much larger number of teams if there are two or three automobiles on pneumatic tires to each team to keep the bituminous surface rolled down.

A very few teams on narrow tires, however, or a few very heavy teams every day, will destroy the surface if the load is heavy enough to shear down entirely through the surface to the stone. Light oil or coal tar will then be more serviceable, laying the dust while the stone takes the wear.

We have maintained a few miles of road in reasonably satisfactory condition with annual applications of a coal tar or water-gas tar. They have required one-half gallon per square yard annually, and the results have been about the same and certainly no better than where we have applied two one-quarter gallon coats per square yard of light asphaltic oil the first year and one-quarter gallon per square yard each succeeding year. The cost for the tar has been more.

Invariably we clean and patch the road first and cover the bituminous material sufficiently to prevent its picking up. We have sometimes tried dispensing with the cleaning and covering but shall not repeat that expensive experiment. We can usually have the light asphaltic oil sprayed upon the roads by motor trucks for from 1.2 cents to 1.5 cents per square yard, using one-fifth to one-quarter gallon per square yard. Cleaning, patching and covering cost about the same.

OPINION RELATIVE TO WOMAN OFFICER.

Hon. John A. Sullivan, the Corporation Counsel, has sent down the following opinion relative to the appointment of a police woman in Boston:

November 30, 1914.

MR. C. A. REARDON, Secretary,
Mayor's Office:

DEAR MR. REARDON,—I have your letter of November 25, in which you state that the Mayor is desirous of taking the proper steps to bring about the appointment of a police woman and ask me to advise what steps are necessary to accomplish the desired result.

The Civil Service Commissioners have put policemen under civil service rules by virtue of authority conferred upon them by statute. Under Rule 10 of the civil service rules applicants for police service in Boston must be not less than twenty-five nor over thirty-three years of age at the time of the filing of the application and must not be less than 5 feet 8 inches in height and weigh not less than 140 pounds. Statute 1914, chapter 510, section 1, gives the mayor of a city and the selectmen of a town authority to appoint one or more women as special police officers who shall have within the limits of such city or town all the powers conferred by law upon constables except in relation to the service of civil process, and all the powers conferred upon the police as watchmen. These are the powers and duties of policemen generally and the appointment of a woman police officer would, in my opinion, be subject to the civil service rules, as section 2 of said Statute 1914 expressly provides that all appointments made under the act shall be subject to the rules and regulations of civil service.

I have inquired of the Civil Service Commissioners and have learned that they have no eligible list of police women. Therefore the Mayor may make a requisition for a list of eligibles for the office of police women and the Civil Service Commissioners will undoubtedly reply that they have no list, in which case the Mayor will then be authorized to make a provisional appointment, the appointee to hold office until such time as the Board holds an examination and establishes a list.

If the appointment is made and the appointee is to receive a salary it will be necessary to have the Mayor and City Council make an appropriation from the Reserve Fund for a "woman police officer." The payments to the appointee would have to be made upon a special pay roll, presumably approved by the Mayor, as no other city department seems to be authorized to take charge of the work of women police officers. Possibly an arrangement might be made with Police Commissioner O'Meara under which he would agree to have a special appropriation made and added to his regular departmental appropriation, in which case he would sign the pay roll for the woman police officer. It may be that the commissioner would object to this as under the Statute of 1914 he has no authority to make the appointment and apparently is under no duty to assume responsibility for the work of the special police officer in question.

I have already advised the Mayor that in my opinion he has no authority to make the appointment in question. Statute 1914, chapter 510, is an act applicable to all cities and towns and therefore it is possible that it may include the City of Boston, but it should be noted that the control of the police in the City of Boston has not been in the Mayor since 1885, but under a state board or officer, first under the Board of Police by Statute 1885, chapter 323, and later under a police commissioner by Statute 1906, chapter 291. I think the Legislature intended that women police officers should be appointed by the mayor of a city only in those cities where the mayor is responsible for the conduct of the Police Department and that it did not intend to create a divided jurisdiction in the City of Boston over the police, the Police Commissioner, a state officer having control of the regular police force and the Mayor having control of women police officers.

It is probable, however, that if his Honor should make the appointment no one would take legal steps to test the validity of it and it seems to me that his chief difficulty would be with the Civil Service Commissioners. No one can predict with any certainty as to whether there would be any difficulty in getting the City Council to consent to the transfer of money from the Reserve Fund to an appropriation for special police officers.

Yours very truly,
JOHN A. SULLIVAN,
Corporation Counsel.

CONSTRUCTION OF NEPTUNE ROAD.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, November 30, 1914.
To the City Council:

I transmit herewith a communication from the secretary of the Street Laying-Out Department, in reply to the following order passed by your honorable body at its meeting of October 26, 1914:

"Ordered, That the Board of Street Commissioners be requested to lay out and construct as a public street Neptune road, from Bennington street to Wood Island Park."

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Street Laying-Out Department,
November 19, 1914.

Hon. James M. Curley,

Mayor of the City of Boston:

Dear Sir,—In reply to the inclosed order of the City Council requesting the Board of Street Commissioners to lay out and construct as a public street Neptune road, from Bennington street to Wood Island Park, I am directed by the Board to say that Neptune road is now a park road and the Board has no authority to take over the same as a public street.

The Board understands that the complaint regarding Neptune road is that it ought to be constructed. If this is so the matter is one in the hands of the Board of Park Commissioners.

Very truly yours,
J. J. O'CALLAGHAN, Secretary.

INFORMATION CONCERNING ASSOCIATED CHARITIES.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, November 30, 1914.
To the City Council:

I transmit herewith a communication from the Superintendent of the Public Buildings Department, also a communication from the Overseers of the Poor in reply to an order passed by your honorable body at its meeting of November 16, 1914:

"Ordered, That his Honor the Mayor be requested to furnish to the Council full information concerning the number of rooms occupied by the Associated Charities at 30 Hawkins street and on other city property, the cost for the maintenance of the same, the total cost to the city for any and all assistance provided for said society, the date of the privilege granting to the society the use of said city property, together with such other information as he may be able to furnish this body as may have bearing on the above subject."

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Public Buildings Department,
November 27, 1914.

Hon. James M. Curley,

Mayor of the City of Boston:

Dear Sir,—Replying to the inclosed communication, wherein the City Council requested, through his Honor the Mayor, certain information concerning the occupancy of the city buildings by the Associated Charities, I beg leave to submit the following:

Regarding 30 Hawkins street, specified in the request, I would say that this department has no jurisdiction over this building, with the exception of making general repairs. The occupancy of the same is under the Overseers of the Poor Department. I have, however, elicited the fact from the Overseers of the Poor that the Associated Charities do occupy several rooms in said building for their different conferences. They pay for the light, heat and janitor service. The light directly to the Edison Electric Illuminating Company and the heat and janitor service to the Overseers of the Poor Department.

The only other building belonging to this department in which any accommodations are furnished the Associated Charities is the Old Town Hall, Brighton. They have for a number of years occupied a room in this building. Of course, we provide the heat and janitor service in a general way, as we are obliged to heat the whole building. The question of cost of same would only be nominal and there would be practically no saving to the city were they not occupants.

Trusting that the same will furnish all the information required, I am,

Respectfully yours,
RICHARD A. LYNCH,
Superintendent of Public Buildings.

City of Boston,
Board of Overseers of the Poor,
November 30, 1914.

Hon. James M. Curley,

Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—In reply to yours of the 23rd regarding the Associated Charities would say, they occupy Rooms 30, 31, 37, 47, 49 and 51 at 43 Hawkins street. They pay for heating and lighting and have rent free. They were first given use of rooms December, 1878.

Twenty thousand dollars ($20,000) was paid from private sources toward cost of the building.

Yours respectfully,
WILLIAM P. FOWLER, Chairman.

NEW FINANCIAL DEPARTMENT.

The following was received:

Boston Finance Commission,
November 25, 1914.

To the Honorable the City Council:

Gentlemen,—The Finance Commission is in receipt of the order of your honorable body requesting the commission to report on the advisability of establishing a new department of finance under the charge of an officer to be called a comptroller at a salary of $9,000 a year.

In answer to this request the commission submits the following report:

The duties of the proposed comptroller are now performed in the main by the Mayor and the present financial officers of the city. The adoption of the proposed ordinance, or a modified form thereof, would mean, in addition to other changes, that the charter of the City of Boston would have to be amended before such an ordinance could become operative.

The commission believes that the addition of such a new financial officer would not improve the administration of the finances of the city. It would mean increased expenditure of money, without corresponding financial return.

The Finance Commission at this time recommends that neither the proposed ordinance nor a modified form thereof be passed.

Respectfully submitted,

THE FINANCE COMMISSION,
by JOHN R. MURPHY, Chairman.

Referred to the Committee on Ordinances.

The question came on confirmation. Committee—Coun. Watson and Ballantyne. Whole number of votes cast 8, yeas 8, and the several appointments were confirmed.

The report was accepted.

Coun. COLEMAN—Mr. President, after hearing what Coun. Watson stated at the meeting two weeks ago in reference to this organization I took pains to get into direct touch with Secretary Johnson of the organization and put to him a number of questions concerning the character of his work. The criticisms that we heard here at the last meeting of the Council are such as I have heard in substance and in scope from various quarters, and repeatedly. I received a letter soon after our meeting of two weeks ago from a friend of mine whom I would have supposed by his general connections and associations in his work to be friendly to the organization, but he took up and approved in general and more or less specifically the complaints and criticisms that were voiced here at our last meeting by the councilor. I do not stand here to-day as one holding a brief for that organization, nor as desiring to explain away the criticisms that have been brought against it, but to express my fundamental conviction that an organization as well established as that is and officered by the responsible people in the City of Boston who conduct its affairs, cannot possibly be as mistaken in its methods and certainly not as wrong in its spirit as would seem to be the case from the statements that have been brought to our attention. So I asked the secretary of the organization, Mr. Johnson, after having talked to him in detail, if he would place in brief form in writing a statement that might clarify its position, especially with reference to the criticism that has been made of the organization. I told him in my conversation with him that I thought the organization was very unfortunate in the beginning in the name it had. This friend of mine, who wrote me this letter that I refer to, said the name itself is a lie. I think perhaps that is a correct statement, but I think perhaps the excellent people who know nothing about the organization, except what they gather from its name, will be interested in finding out what I found in talking with the secretary, that the name is something that has come down through long years of history. It is an incorporated name and involves hequests and various legal matters that would make it very difficult, if not well nigh impossible, to change the name of the organization. I also found in talking with them that their chief misfortune is not in what they are attempting to do, nor in the way they are attempting to do it, but in their lack of proper publicity facilities in putting before the public the real purpose and nature of their work. In other words, they are misrepresenting themselves unintentionally, so that many people, including the councilor, have received an unfortunate impression regarding the character of the work they do and the spirit in which they do it. I would like to read to the members of the Council this brief letter and ask that it be incorporated in the record, as it represents concretely and explicitly just what this organization, called the Associated Charities, is trying to do. The letter is dated November 30 and is addressed to myself.

Boston, Mass., November 30, 1914.

George W. Coleman, Esq.,
177 West Brookline Street:

My dear Mr. Coleman,—In compliance with your request I am sending you the following statement briefly outlining the work of the Associated Charities of Boston.

The primary purpose of our society is to provide friendly service for the poor of the community. Such service may consist in helping to obtain work for the unemployed; procuring medical aid for the sick; securing material relief for families in need of such help by interesting relatives, employers, friends, churches or relief societies in their behalf; providing institutional care when such treatment is necessary and in many other kinds of service which the peculiar needs of the individual families may require. We try to help families out of their poverty by aiding them to develop their possibilities for self-support.

To do this, we maintain seventeen district offices in Boston, each in charge of a paid secretary, specially trained for work of this character. The work of the paid secretaries is supplemented by a large corps of volunteer visitors who give freely of their time for the benefit of the community.

The Associated Charities is not primarily an investigating agency. The discovery of fraud and efforts to distinguish the 'worthy' and the 'unworthy' are altogether secondary to such friendly service as will help families in ways which will be most truly beneficial to them.

The Associated Charities is not itself a relief-giving agency. When word comes to us that a family is in need our district secretaries have funds on hand to meet emergencies until the family may be helped permanently. More often than not relief in money is not the assistance which will do most good, but the society last year received from others—relatives, friends, employers, benevolent individuals, organizations—and spent in relief of families the sum of $35,000.92. In addition, it obtained substantial amounts where the help given did not pass through the hands of our agents.

The Associated Charities in common with nine other private charities has quarters in the Charity Building at 43 Hawkins street, rent-free, except that it pays for heat and light. This arrangement has been in force since the society was organized thirty-five years ago. The building was erected in 1869, by funds raised partly by private subscription and partly provided by the City of Boston with the understanding that the principal private charities of the city should have quarters in the building rent-free. In addition to these quarters in the Charity Building, the agent of the Department for Homeless Men, maintained by the Associated Charities jointly with the Provident Association, occupies desk room in the Wayfarers' Lodge by invitation of the Overseers of the Poor.

In this statement I have tried to be brief and, if I have omitted anything which may seem of consequence either to you or to the other members of the City Council, I shall be obliged to you if you will let me know.

Yours very truly,
FREN R. JOHNSON,
General Secretary.

Mr. President, I would have some reason on my own account to take a critical attitude towards this organization, because of what seemed to me the narrow and critical attitude it assumed last winter towards a public charity in which I myself and my friends were very much interested, having for its object the temporary relief of the immediate distress of men out of work. In that connection we established what is familiarly known as a soup kitchen, operating on Avery street. The Associated Charities were entirely opposed to our efforts in that line—a matter upon which I agree entirely with them in principle, only differing in believing that there are exceptions to all rules, and that that was one of the exceptions. The chief criticism raised against them by those having perhaps the fullest knowledge of their work is that a very large part of their budget of $50,000, $75,000, $80,000, or whatever it may be, is spent in salaries. But when you realize the character of their work—that they are intermediaries between the people who desire help and the organization which have treasuries with which to help them, that they have seventeen districts in the city, with offices and officers whose business it is to assume a friendly relationship to such people, look up the facts and go through all the legal paraphernalia, helping to bring this family or that individual to a successful and happy plane of living, you can readily understand that a very large percentage of the money would necessarily go for the services of individuals thus devoting themselves to the welfare of those people, and that to hand out money indiscriminately would not only be useless but in some cases worse than useless. I cannot give you the details with reference to a certain case that Mr. Johnson brought to my attention, but a reference to it will illustrate the great difficulty they had in some instances in bringing needed relief to people. I can give you roughly an idea of it. It was the case of a man who was left a widower with four children. He had a good job and was perfectly able to take care of them financially. It was necessary for him to have a housekeeper. He had a succession of three or four housekeepers, until he found one who seemed to take proper care of the children. This housekeeper who finally did fill the bill satisfactorily was herself a woman with four children, a woman whose husband was worthless. There arose a complication, resulting in a ninth child coming into the family, and the situation required the looking up of the rights of a married man to a divorce under the particular circumstances. His wife had not died, but was in an insane asylum. There was also the question of divorce in connection with this woman who had four children and who had a worthless husband. There was the question of bringing those two people together, if they could properly be brought together, having them support and father and mother all nine children. They succeeded in doing it. Don't you see, that was not a question at all of giving this man $50, $100 or $500? He did not need the money, but he did need terribly the guidance, the friendly help of some one who would unravel the tangle into which he had brought himself. I speak of that as only one illustration of the kindly services which they render, calling for the expenditure of time, energy, devotion and feeling. Of course, individuals must be supported while they are doing that work. Then there must be credited to the association a large number of volunteer workers who help them in their work and who are not paid at all.

COUN. WATSON.—Mr. President, the very last statement made by the councilor who has just taken his seat contradicts, in one particular, at least, the gentleman who sent him the letter, who I presume is Mr. Johnson. He states that we do not take into consideration the great number of volunteer workers who aid in investigating without charging anything for their services. Mr. Johnson says that their organization is not primarily an investigating organization. I disagree with him. It is entirely an investigating organization, and he so told me here in this Chamber an hour before the meeting two weeks ago to-day, that that was the purpose and the prime and immediate purpose of the work of the organization. I only wish I could draw from the councilor who has just taken his seat an acceptance of the challenge that I will now make, that he read and spread on the records of this Council the letter he received from the gentleman he referred to a moment ago, without naming him. It is a letter from a public-spirited citizen who is editor-in-chief of a Protestant journal which is the official organ of a great religious organization in New England, in which that gentleman indorses in toto every word practically that I uttered against the Associated Charities two weeks ago. I will not mention the gentleman's name, but I will say this,—and it is not betraying confidence,—that one sentence in that letter says, in as forcible language as could be penned, that the Associated Charities had records that they knew to be falsehoods. In other words, he said that the Associated Charities was an organization that dealt in falsehoods. That is the interpretation that I drew from the article, and I think that I am not betraying any confidence when I say that that is the same interpretation that is placed upon it by the councilor who has just taken his seat. The councilor has made a statement of an individual case which, it is true, shows that the organization in one case has done something to earn at least from the ordinary man a little respect, if true. But the statement was made at a meeting where Mr. Johnson was invited to state his side of this controversy, and he rolled off this story that the councilor has just stated to the body. I want to say that my experience is such that I prefer to have those statements under oath, or at least indorsed by some reputable concern other than the organization itself. I am going to cite again, a little more in detail, the case of an unfortunate who was placed in Charles Street Jail because of the conduct of a petty official, backed up by a high official of the Associated Charities, which entirely takes all the virtue, if there is virtue in the last case mentioned, away from it. That is the case where a man went to certain officials who have to do with unfortunates, and finally landed at the desk of a mere boy, without ability, without, in my opinion, a proper balance, swelled with his own importance, occupying a position where he might interrogate unfortunates who would perhaps be better than he, if given a chance. This man, because of the attitude of that petty official, was taken to the police court because of the action of this young man, Calley, and landed in the Charles Street Jail, and it required my good offices, if I may call them such,—the offices of the firebrand, the disturber and hutter-in,—with the good offices of the District Attorney, whom I went to see in regard to the matter, to do anything for him. When I went to see the District Attorney he said to me, "Jerry, you have picked out a pretty bad case. I am told by those who know that the man you are interested in has a great many convictions against him." I asked, "How many?" He said, "I am not able to tell you how many." I said, "Have you any idea how many, Mr. Pelletier?" He said, "I understand it is a great number." I said, "Let us see his record." They sent for it and found that he, a man of sixty years of age, had been in the police court three times, twice for vagrancy and once for larceny. But that was the story they tried to hand District Attorney Pelletier, in order that he might not be charitable towards this poor unfortunate. Truthful? No. Occasionally, when there is danger of somebody inquiring, as I inquired, about them, as to what they do or say. It took the good offices of myself, my labor and energy, and I might say some little of my health, because these things worry me somewhat. I take things too seriously sometimes, I am told by my friends. It took my efforts, the efforts of the good City Messenger, Mr. Leary,—who after the District Attorney made arrangements to have the man freed by a writ of habeas corpus, saved the payment of a $2 fee to the bail commissioner by going bail for him in $50, for his appearance in court the first Monday in December. I am going to give credit where credit is due. They talk about politicians and men in public life. Many of us are criticised, and deservedly so. But one thing I will say about the so-called politicians that cannot be said about the Associated Charities and some of the reformers in this town, whom I will not mention,—that at least we have a heart that beats for our fellowman and are always ready to listen to a story of misfortune. There was a man, who if he had got a $2 pair of shoes through the Associated Charities, might have gone to work in Newton and have given to his wife the things that she needed. But he was arrested, and it took the efforts of myself, the City Messenger, the District Attorney and the Mayor of Boston—and I am going to give him credit for it—to do something for this man. The Mayor of Boston provided our unfortunate couple with a Thanksgiving basket. It seems that the fates were against them and that for some reason it went astray. But they are going to have it to-morrow. I believe, instead. That was the result of the work of this subordinate, this small man, this contemptible little piece of human nature, the so-called man, Calley, backed up by the fellow from Minnesota, nineteen years of age, inexperienced in matters in the East. All the knowledge he has is from the West. He comes from the West; and because of the efforts of Calley, backed up by this man from the West, to whom wages are paid here, that poor man was put in Charles Street Jail. That offsets the case that the councilor referred to, if that is the only case he can refer to. My fellow members, I appreciate the great disadvantage I am laboring under. I have no paid secretaries or paid workers or volunteers who will go out and help me. This effort has been started year after year. This is not the first time in City Hall that the Associated Charities have been called to account. It has been done many, many times. But there is a flash in the pan, and then it is all over. But, my friends, fellow members, I am going to keep hammering and hammering away until some good results come from my attempts to show to the public that certain so-called, so-labeled charitable societies, are not charitable, but are societies for the purpose of inquisition, and that alone. Let me read a letter. I think I will not use the lady's name, although I might do so. It is dated November 17, 1914. It reads as follows:

City Councilor James A. Watson,
Boston, Massachusetts:

Dear Sir,—I congratulate you upon your courageous fight against the infamous Associated Charities. This organization, coupled with the Society for the Promotion of Cruelty to Children and the State Board of Charities, are a blight on Massachusetts. We will look to you for aid when our bill comes up next year. (Senate 94.) If this bill is not placed upon our statute books by our next General Court it will not be for lack of evidence, for we have overwhelming facts to substantiate the need of it.

Very sincerely yours.

I will not read the name, because I have not really got the right to do so, but she is a high official in the so-called Patriot Dames. I have also a letter, commending me, from one of the leading musicians of Boston. I read the letter to the councilor opposite, who just took his seat, and he tells me that man is a grand man. I have another letter from another party in Somerville, citing three cases that, if I were connected with them and were responsible for the distress and suffering which came because of my inactivity, as a busybody, so to speak, as the Associated Charities has been, would make me hang my head in shame. Just a word about the communication that has been read here concerning the use of public buildings by the Associated Charities. Do the members know that the Associated Charities, who do not, according to their report, give one dollar's worth of aid to unfortunates out of the $48,000 contributed, occupy more floor space in the Chardon street building than the Overseers of the Poor, who spend more than $300,000 a year in relief? Do you know, gentlemen, that there are large charitable societies in this town—one, St. Vincent de Paul Society and another the Jewish Federation—who do not seek aid of the Associated Charities or give them information. The Providence Society and the Roxbury Charitable give and interchange information concerning people with the Associated Charities. I only wish there might be some law that would compel the Associated Charities to destroy every single slip of paper with the record upon it concerning the unfortunate position of any man or woman in the community. It has been suggested that they be not allowed to keep the report they get after investigating, unless they render aid. Why should the Associated Charities, a private concern, have a right to go to your closet or mine and take out skeletons and rattle their bones over the pavements of the City of Boston? Why should they be allowed to capitalize other people's misfortunes? As I have said, they glory in it. We see women with $50 hats going in automobiles to the houses of poor families where there is some one unfortunate or defective. This talk of handling unfortunates, poor and criminals, in a scientific manner, is getting close to the line. The public is getting aroused over it. You go to your State Board of Charity and you find there enumerated the names brought to the attention of the Associated Charities. You go to your Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children or the Children's Aid Society and you find there interlocking directors. Let me say this, Mr. President and fellow members, I read considerably. I may not appear to be as intelligent as the majority of the members of this Board. I am not as well equipped mentally as many here. I know I have not the education that many of you have, as far as actual schooling is concerned. But I have had an experience covering over twenty-eight years in Boston—I will say twenty-five years, which brings me back to the age of seventeen. From seventeen until this time I have had a daily experience equal to that of any man in Boston as to all sides of life—poverty, success and all things that go to make up life. I do not take a back seat, so far as the school of hard knocks and bona fide experience is concerned, from any man in this body or in the City of Boston. Thank God, I have been able to withstand the pressure. Thank God, I have not been one who has been a slave to drink. If I had been unfortunate in that respect, had shown poor judgment in the past, I would to-day be a human wreck, probably seeking aid at the hands of Mr. Calley at the Hawkins Street Home. I thank God that I have been able to withstand the temptation to do things that would not be to my credit. I sympathize with the most common wreck who walks the street. My heart goes out to the man who serves twenty-five years in States Prison for the most horrible crimes and who comes out to start life anew. I have a little of the Christian spirit in my body, thank God, so that I do not turn my back on any man who appeals to me for assistance, although my means are limited. I am proud of the fact that that is so. The proudest moment of my life is when my fellowman comes to me in rags, perhaps under the influence of liquor, or sober, hungry, perhaps disease-ridden, and asks me for advice or some other help. I am proud of it. It is the proudest moment of my life when I know that my fellowman, no matter how far down he has gone on the ladder of life, comes to me at least for a kind word. Good friends, I am going to hammer away at this proposition until the public is aroused. It is unfortunate that I must take the time of the newspaper men and of the members of this body, but I intend to bring about some reform, if possible.

While I know that we have no legal rights to interfere with their workings, nevertheless, my position here at least gives an official stamp to my statement, and that is my purpose. The members of the Board, I know, will bear with me. Each member, from the President down the line on each side, I do not omit one, knows in the bottom of his heart that conditions are wrong. You know to-day that an unfortunate is not given the chance that a dog is given in this city or in any other city. Think of it! They hold their meetings in regard to child hygiene and tell about the terrible infant mortality, that children are dying very early in life. They claim to be trying to produce means to keep them alive, and yet when people in bad circumstances from the very same homes go to them for assistance, where there is perhaps trouble from the husband drinking or something of the sort, they advise them in the same breath, "Keep your family small." Such bunk, such buncombe! They ought to be arrested for giving such advice. The religious sect of which I am a member is opposed to taking the lives of children at any period. It does not wait until they get to the cradle to protect them, but from the very moment that conception takes place it protects them. I want to ask the Associated Charities by what standard of Christianity and morality do you send your unpaid workers and your paid workers into the homes of people who agree with me and worship at the same altar that I do and advise them to keep their families small? You have got to reckon sooner or later with every Christian man, woman and child in Boston. You have got to stop advising people to do something that you preach against in other cases. You have to begin your moral conduct with yourselves; you have got to stop your muck raking with the unfortunates; you have got to stop exploiting the unfortunate mothers of this city; you have got to live a proper life or you are going to be judged by your conduct hereafter. Thank God, I have the fear of God in my heart. Thank God, I believe, as I am here, that every mean act I deliberately commit I must atone for later; and the sooner the Associated Charities and their coworkers, their paid workers and unpaid workers, the volunteers, recognize that the sooner life on this earth will be such as the Creator intended. I have talked longer than I intended, but I could talk on this subject all night. If it were not for my good wife, my daughter, my father and mother, I would devote my future life to going right down into the muck and mud and helping every unfortunate I could. I am proud of my feeling towards the unfortunates; I am proud of it; it is a work that I like to do; and the sooner some of these philanthropic individuals, these people of large means, who like to exploit the unfortunates, get a little breath of the true Christian spirit blown into their souls the better, and the less trouble and hardship you will find in our community. I am perfectly satisfied to have this resolution placed on file. I must refer again to the fact that later on I intend to find out whether or not the City of Boston, which is crowded for room, must continue to foster and keep at the Chardon street or charity building, so called, a society that, according to its own records, does not spend more than $500 a year, out of $48,000 contributed to it, to benefit or help the unfortunates.

Coun. COLEMAN—Mr. President, I would simply like to say that the letter to which my friend the councilor who has just spoken referred, was placed in his hands with permission to use it, if he so elected, and that he could have used the letter, could have presented it to the Council and have had it spread on the record. I would have done that myself were it not for the fact that the statements in the letter are simply a corroboration practically of what the councilor has already said, and therefore we were given no additional information. The only other point I would like to make is this. In view of the fact that the councilor is so sweeping and drastic in his criticisms, evidently intending to push the matter to action, I think the very least we can do as a Council, before we give very much more public discussion to the matter, is to invite the officials of the Associated Charities here and also the public officials of the city interested in similar work, and have a conference with them, finding out what the facts are and seeing whether they are entitled to the space they are using in the city's buildings, or whether they are getting too much space. It seems to me we owe it to them to get that side of the case before we spend too much time in bringing these charges against them.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, for the information of the councilor who has just taken his seat, I will say that I intend to present an order at the next meeting of the Council to bring them up here to give us more light.

The report was accepted.
(5) Report on message of Mayor, communication and order (referred November 16) that the Commissioner of Public Works be authorized to sell a hoisting engine and steam boiler—that the order ought to pass.

Report accepted; order passed.

(6) Report on message of Mayor and communication (referred to-day) concerning the construction of Neptune road, East Boston—that the same be placed on file.

Report accepted; message and communication placed on file.

AID FOR UNFORTUNATE FAMILY.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make a statement.

President McDONALD—If there are no objections you may proceed, Coun. Watson.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, while I was passing around compliments in regard to the assistance given to the couple in whom I am interested—one of the many unfortunate couples in whom I am interested—I failed to pay a tribute which I now desire to spread on the records. I wish to say that each member of the Council, the City Clerk, the City Messenger and some others, have contributed enough—$20—to set these people up in a little home for a month and give them a fresh start in life. I wish to give those who have so contributed credit for it.

MUNICIPAL ELECTION.

Coun. BALLANTYNE offered an order—That meetings of the male citizens of this city qualified to vote for city officers be held in the several polling places designated for the purpose by the Board of Election Commissioners, on Tuesday, the fifteenth day of December, 1914, to give in their votes for three members of the City Council, and for two members of the School Committee; and also to give in their votes "Yes" or "No" in answer to the following question: Shall licenses be granted for the sale of intoxicating liquors in this city?

Also that meetings of the female citizens of this city qualified to vote for School Committee be held on the same day and in the same places, to give in their votes for two members of the School Committee.

The polls at said meetings shall be opened at six o'clock a. m., and closed at four o'clock p. m.

Ordered, That the City Clerk be directed to give notice of said meetings by advertising the same as required by law.

Passed.

BATH HOUSE, OLD STATION 6.

Coun. KENNY offered an order—That the Superintendent of Public Buildings be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to furnish the City Council with an estimate of the cost of putting the building soon to be vacated and now occupied for Police Station 6 in condition for use as a public bath house, and of furnishing equipment therefor substantially similar to that of the Dover Street Bath House.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I offer that order for this reason. The old Police Station 6, which for a great many years was located on Broadway, between C and D streets, is about to be removed or vacated, and the officials are about to occupy the new station on B street, thus leaving the old building in the hands of the city. The people of that part of South Boston are without any public accommodations whatever for bathing, such facilities as are given to people at Dover street and in the new building on the hill. It seems to me the city might well consider changing that old building into a building fitted up with bathing facilities for the people of that section of the city. With that in view I offer the order.

The order was passed.

CONSTRUCTION OF NEPTUNE ROAD.

President McDONALD offered an order—That the Board of Park and Recreation Commissioners be requested to lay out and construct as a public street Neptune road, from Bennington street to Wood Island Park.

Passed.

LIBRARY ACCOMMODATIONS, WARD 23.

Coun. COULTHURST offered the following:

Whereas, At a meeting of the City Council held on February 25, 1914, an order was passed that the Trustees of the Boston Public Library be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to report on the advisability of establishing a reading room and branch library on Hyde Park avenue, Ward 23, south of Forest Hills; and

Whereas, At a meeting of the City Council on May 4, 1914, an order was passed that the Boston Public Library Trustees be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to submit to the City Council an estimate of the cost of locating and maintaining a branch library and reading room on Hyde Park avenue, near Blakemore street, Mount Hope, and to advise that City Council as to the advisability of the same; and

Whereas, No reply has been made to either of said orders; therefore be it

Ordered, That the said Board of Trustees be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to report forthwith upon both of said orders.

Passed.

COUNTY ACCOUNTS.

Coun. COLLINS, for the Committee on County Accounts, submitted a report on communication from justice of the East Boston Court (referred to-day) concerning salary of probation officer—recommending the passage of the following:

Ordered, That the salary of the probation officer of the East Boston Court of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, determined by the justice of said court at the rate of eleven hundred dollars per annum, beginning October 26, 1914, be and the same is hereby approved, the said amount to be charged to the appropriation for the County of Suffolk, Municipal Court, East Boston District.

Report accepted; order passed.

GENERAL RECONSIDERATION.

Coun. COLLINS moved a general reconsideration on all business, hoping that the same would not prevail. Lost.

Adjourned at 5.18 o'clock p. m., on motion of Coun. COLLINS, to meet on Monday, December 7, at three o'clock p. m.

CARING FOR OLD EMPLOYEES IN MUNICIPAL SERVICE.

Social workers through their enthusiastic activities have forced upon the attention of all in recent years the necessity and desirability for studying the employment problem from its humanitarian point of view. The results of their propaganda are evident in the welfare work of large corporations—the sick benefit, accident and life insurance features—and the passage generally of workmen's compensation laws. Because of the prominence of organizations which have entered into this work the impression might be gathered that such provisions are quite general, whereas investigation would show that such provisions were the exception rather than the rule. The smaller industries are far behind in their study of the needs of their employees.

It is quite certain, however, that the corporations have made as great progress as governmental organizations, though insubstantial and dangerous occupations are exceptional in governmental service. Pension systems have long been the rule for members of police and fire departments. In some cities the school teachers are included but seldom does the pension system extend to other departments. There is need, however, for general consideration of this problem, as was emphasized in the annual report of the bureau of water of Philadelphia for 1913.

The oldest regularly paid employee in that bureau is 88 years old, while forty-eight employees, or about 4 per cent of the total number, are 70, or more, years of age. A much larger number are between 60 and 70. The present practice of the bureau is to continue an employee at full pay until long after he can perform his duties. The work, on the other hand, requires that most of the employees have reasonable physical vigor and activity, as well as skill and experience. The time comes when inactive men are not only of little help but frequently a positive detriment.

It is hardly necessary to discuss the subject at length. Its mere statement is sufficient to point the need for investigation. Fortunately, there is much experience to be drawn upon from the police and fire pension funds. If municipal administration is to keep pace in the modern movement for proper treatment of employees, the matter of retiring incapacitated men or otherwise providing for them in a fair and equitable manner should be given careful consideration.—Engineering Record.

COVE STREET BRIDGE, CLOSED.

The Board of Street Commissioners has passed, and his Honor the Mayor has approved an order for the discontinuance of Atlantic avenue, from Kneeland street, city proper, to Dorchester avenue, South Boston. The passage of this order means the discontinuance of the Cove Street Bridge, so called, which crosses the tracks of the New Haven Railroad outside of the South Terminal Station.

This bridge was erected about fourteen years ago against the protest of the railroad and the Boston Terminal Company, and it resulted in a suit for damages against the city, because it was claimed the bridge interfered with signals and the proper running of trains. The petition for damages was referred by the Superior Court to an auditor—Judge Dunbar, formerly of the Superior Court. The case was heard by him in October, 1907, and he found damages to the railroad and against the city in the sum of about $656,000. The city appealed from the auditor's findings. The case was about ready for trial when the question of the discontinuance of the bridge was taken up.

Since the auditor's award of damages was made interest has accumulated so that, if this judgment had been paid, the total expense to the city would have been about $826,000. Furthermore there was considerable risk in allowing the case to go to a jury. The evidence of the damage to the railroad in the running of its trains was apparently very strong and of a kind which would be likely to appeal to a jury and a verdict far in excess of the auditor's award might have been returned against the city.

Because of the lightness of the traffic over the bridge—teamsters generally refusing to use it on account of its heavy grade approaches—the Board of Street Commissioners did not think its maintenance essential to the handling of the traffic to and from South Boston. In view of the fact that the railroad offered to withdraw its suit for damages if the bridge were removed, his Honor the Mayor, the Board of Street Commissioners, the Corporation Counsel, business men of South Boston, and the leading civic organization of the district thought it a good business proposition to accept the offer and save this great sum of money, if not indeed a greater sum, to the taxpayers and to put it into improvements that would be of wider public benefit.

REJECTS PLAN FOR WIDENING CHARLES STREET.

MUNICIPAL REALTY EXPERT BECK DECLARES THAT IDEAS OF WILLIAM C. CODMAN ARE IMPRACTICABLE.

John Beck, real estate expert of the City of Boston, in a very interesting report to his Honor the Mayor, advises that the proposed widening of Charles street is impracticable, and would entail great expense to the city, with no immediate prospect of the sale or development of property upon the street.

In his report Mr. Beck declares:

30 STATE STREET,
BOSTON, December 7, 1914.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor:

DEAR SIR,—In accordance with your request I have considered the advisability of widening Charles street as recommended in the inclosed communication from William C. Codman.

I am opposed to the widening for the following reasons:

The only real result would be the expedition of traffic which is not congested there as compared with a majority of the down-town streets of Boston. There are few pedestrians, so that the traffic moves along without the inconvenience of delays at the crossings. The car service is not so frequent that the cars and vehicles conflict to any great extent.

Land on Charles street is not likely to increase greatly in value because the Common and Public Garden prevent it from deriving much benefit from the future development of Park square, and there are few streets in Boston devoted to small business and residences that show land values excepting on corners of $12 a foot.

Much of the property on Charles street is for sale, and, compared with the intersecting Back Bay streets, will never be really first class for residences. Furthermore, business is hesitant about venturing into an untried locality, as proved by the lack of building activity in the vicinity of the Arlington street extension. If taken under the Excess Condemnation Act, as recommended by Mr. Codman, a great portion of the land might remain vacant for a long time unless sold at a loss, involving the tying up of a large amount of the city's capital, as well as a large loss of taxes. Widening does not always increase values and sometimes a street fails to return to its former prosperity.

Boston contains many narrow streets which are arteries of travel between important centers and cannot be widened because of the cost. The takings on Charles street, the elimination of River street, new drainage and street construction would approximate $1,500,000. The land not used for the street, including betterments, would not be worth more than $800,000, and could not be sold as readily as in such neighborhoods as Avery street where there is a demand for space for all kinds of retail business. The object of the Excess Condemnation Act is to effect street widenings without loss, and, incidentally, to make possible profits. As it would be an experiment for Boston, the initial widening under the act should be on a street like Avery street, or in a neighborhood where the demand for real estate is much greater than on Charles street.

Therefore, as the proposed change would be unnecessary and expensive and might ruin the neighborhood for years to come, I recommend that Charles street be not widened.

Respectfully yours,
JOHN BECK.

THE POSSIBILITIES OF CHARLES STREET.

By WILLIAM C. CODMAN.

We all know that if this city is to keep pace with the times, it must expend money in large amounts for street improvements.

When an improvement is suggested the following questions should be asked:

First.—Will the improvement be of lasting effect?

Second.—Will it add broadly to the future utility and beauty of the city?

Third.—Will it within a reasonable time pay for itself?

Fourth.—When is the best and cheapest time to do it?

Fifth.—Will the scheme harmonize with other extensions or possible uses or improvements?

Sixth.—Can the plan be so financed that the burden of cost will not be oppressive to the present generation nor left so for future ones?

Kindly consider how near in your opinion the suggested improvement I am about to make will answer these six questions.

I advocate the widening of Charles street, from Beacon to Cambridge street.

This street is a short but important thoroughfare; the only city artery west of Beacon Hill, and six days of the week is crowded with traffic moving in both directions.

For many years it has been inadequate, unsightly and ill kept, and its future a conundrum, yet this street lies directly between the two best residential districts of the city—the famed Back Bay and the still handsome and historic houses on the west slope of Beacon Hill. It connects the beautiful and dignified Cambridge Bridge with the Common and Public Gardens and leads to one of Boston's future centers (Park square). It lies parallel and adjacent to the Charles River Embankment, which the public are only now beginning to appreciate.

Almost any day, you may see the mud spattered 10 feet high on the buildings, both sides of Charles street, the entire length.

In its present condition, Charles street is a detriment to the proper development of the land on its west to the embankment, which is suitable for first-class residences.

Now let me remind any pessimist that imagination is the initiative and essence of all real estate improvements, while it is common sense that does the work and the almighty dollar that brings the results.

I assure you that this suggestion of widening Charles street is not a "mere dream," for figures based on knowledge of facts will prove its justification and there is the power to put it into effect at once if there is the public spirit.

It is only necessary to take the property on the west side of Charles street, from Beacon street to Cambridge street, by right of eminent domain under the new statute, back to and including River street and on that line north to the new Nurses' Home.

I suggest making Charles street which has now an average width of about 50 feet to the width of 85 feet and do away with River street, and extend Byron and Lime streets to Charles street.

This would make it of sufficient width for heavy trucks to pass each other in a space to be set aside in the center of the street, and leave width enough on each side for other vehicles and a ten-foot sidewalk on each side. Trees should be planted on the edges of the sidewalks. Then remove the surface tracks whose cars are of so little use but such a great annoyance to this district and properly grade and pave the road bed.

The East Boston Tunnel extension which is now planned to make a very unsatisfactory exit on Cambridge street, near North Russell street, should be extended west on Cambridge street, turning the corner into Charles street and running along that street to Park square, where later it could be extended up Columbus avenue. There should be a station at the intersection of the Cambridge Subway at Charles and Cambridge streets; a station on Charles street at Chestnut street and another at Boylston street at the intersection with that subway.

This would give a service for this section which has for years been very badly served.

I find that the property to be taken on the west side of Charles street would comprise 130,318 square feet with the buildings thereon, the total assessment of which is $1,194,600, of which 33,600 square feet would be needed for widening the street plus 3,500 square feet for extension of Byron and Lime streets, and there would be left 93,318 square feet for resale.

There is not a building that is worth saving unless it be the Baptist Church and that is now out of place for its congregation.

Most of this property has not, for some years, been worth the assessed value with the exception of corner properties, but we will estimate the cost of taking at 10 per cent above the assessed value which would make $1,314,060 equal to an average of about $10 per square foot, and I do not think that I overestimate when I figure that the 93,318 square feet that could be resold would then bring an average of $12 per square foot for the land alone, which would be a return of $1,119,816.

There would be a decided advantage to the properties for some distance, both east and west, of a widened Charles street.

It might not be necessary but I believe owners would cheerfully stand betterments.

I have figured up to at least $760,000 could be thus raised without any hardship, as it would be widely distributed.

The increase in assessable property would far exceed a million if Charles street alone was thus widened.

The cost of removing the old buildings and constructing the new portion of the street I can only approximately estimate at $200,000.

Summarizing these figures, they would stand as follows:

Cost of taking	$1,314,060
Less re-sale of land not used	1,119,816
	$194,244
Betterments to be received on both sides of the street	$760,000
Credit surplus or margin	$565,756

The cost of the subway extension would not be heavy as land damages would be small and it would pay for itself as other subways, while the whole of this branch of the subway system would have a much more effective use, and would add much to the development of Park square and the West End.

The sewers under the present Charles street might interfere with running a subway at present, but with this widening, it would be a simple matter.

The city would be a large gainer from the increase in taxable property inside and outside of the betterment limit and from the new modern buildings to be erected.

What is now an unsightly, ill-kept and inadequate street would become a thoroughfare that the city would be proud of for years to come. It would join the two best residential districts together and help fix their value for the future.

If we do not provide suitable space for the wealthier classes to have their winter houses convenient in the city proper, we will drive them into the suburbs for all the year round and thus lose their taxes.

At present, the desirable residential quarters of the city are very limited and something should be done to extend them as well as to extend the desirable shopping district.

Now is the best and cheapest time for this work to be done as the buildings are of little or no value and the East Boston Tunnel is being extended.

The taking of the land on the west side of Charles street would also straighten out the lines of the cross streets which would be very beneficial.

Although I think it most necessary to begin at once such a thoroughfare at Charles street, I would go farther and turn the corner into Cambridge street, widening that street chiefly on the north side as far as Bowdoin square and through Court street to Scollay square, or as suggested some time ago by the Mayor and a Metropolitan Commission, by a new street to the North Station.

Why should not the old part of Boston have these improvements when they have been paying taxes a hundred years longer than most of the outlying parts?

What is the use of building up the suburbs and giving them rapid transit into the city when streets are ugly and inadequate?

Please stop for a moment and think what this improvement would mean for the public health; the reduction in fire hazard; the beauty of the city; the comfort and rapidity of travel; the reduction of noise; the increased income to the city; the improvement of the only residential part of the city proper of which we can boast to visitors; the reduction of danger at street crossings, especially at Beacon, Chestnut and Mt. Vernon streets, so much used by automobiles.

From my study of this situation, the time to make this improvement is at once. It is needed for the present; is necessary for the future; will pay for itself astonishingly soon; will harmonize with extensions or future improvements; can easily be financed and will not be a burden, but a blessing to this and future generations.

It can be done in sections if necessary, beginning at Beacon street, and I will show you now detail plans and figures of the first two blocks which are the most important.

BLOCK NO. 1. BEACON STREET TO CHESTNUT STREET.

Plan A shows property as it now is.

Plan B the same property as it would be with River street done away with; Charles street widened and Byron street extended to Charles street.

Assessed value of this property, 1912, was,	$353,800
Add 10 per cent bonus	35,380
	$389,180

There are 28,289 square feet in these properties.

After taking out land for Byron street extension, there would be left for re-sale:

9,460 square feet at $25 per foot,	$236,500
16,790 square feet at $15 per foot,	251,850
	$488,350

Gross profit	$99,170
--------------	-----------------

probably enough to pay for the cost of street construction even without betterments.

BLOCK NO. 2. CHESTNUT STREET TO MT. VERNON STREET.

Plan No. 1 shows as property is now.

Plan marked No. 2 shows as it would be with River street done away with; Charles street widened and Lime street extended to Charles street.

This block contains 29,035 square feet.

Assessed in 1912 for	$220,900
Add 10 per cent bonus	22,090
	$242,990

The net land remaining should sell for:

16,220 square feet at $12	$194,640
8,830 square feet at $12	105,960
	$300,600

Gross profit	$57,610
Add profit on Block No. 1	99,170
	$156,780

The average assessed value to-day:

Block No. 1 is $12.50 per foot, including building.

Block No. 2 is $7.60 per foot, including building.

It would be difficult to-day under the present conditions of Charles street to find buyers for one out of ten of these properties at the assessed valuation except some corners.

This land cannot, with the present Charles street, ever be worth much more than at present, as new buildings of much importance cannot now be erected, but with the suggested improvement very important buildings might be built.

THE MAYOR ANSWERS CRITICS.

Mayor Curley issued a statement upon the 8th instant in answer to the complaint of a Boston newspaper that the building interests of the City of Boston are seriously hampered and new construction delayed by the arbitrary rulings of Building Commissioner O'Hearn, and failure upon the part of the Mayor to complete the membership of the Board of Appeal.

The statement was as follows:

"Section 6, chapter 550, Acts of 1907, as amended by section 1, chapter 631, Acts of 1910, provides that the Real Estate Exchange and Auction Board and the Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange shall each nominate a candidate from which the Mayor may choose one. The Boston Society of Architects and the Boston Society of Engineers shall each nominate a candidate from which the Mayor may choose one. The Master Builders' Association and the Contractors and Builders' Association shall each nominate a candidate from which the Mayor shall choose one. The Building Trades Council and the Boston Central Labor Union shall each nominate a candidate from which the Mayor shall choose one, and one shall be selected by the Mayor. The Board thus being constituted of five members. The Mayor has made a selection, as authorized by law, appointing Mr. Carl Gerstein. From the candidates nominated by the Building Trades Council and the Boston Central Labor Union, he has appointed Mr. John F. Stevens of the latter organization. From the candidates nominated by the Boston Society of Architects and the Boston Society of Engineers, he has appointed Mr. Timothy W. Walsh from the former organization.

"The Real Estate Boards and Builders Associations have failed to perform their part by nominating a candidate from each organization whom the Mayor could appoint without stultifying himself. The real blame then for failure to fill the Board of Appeal lies at the door of these organizations and not with the Mayor.

"Further complaint is made that the Commissioner insists on a strict observance of the law. The press has frequently made the assertion that the building law was not enforced and severe and frequent criticism hurled at the department for its alleged laxness in this respect and now that some one's interest is affected comes the statement that the department is too arbitrary and the law is enforced but not to their satisfaction.

"The Commissioner is responsible to the Mayor for the conduct of his department and the enforcing of the law and the record of this year's work clearly shows that he is living up to the duties of his office without fear or favor and giving to the public those safeguards and proper conditions which the law authorizes him to do and to which they are entitled.

"If one reads the appeals made to the recent Board of Appeal, one will have his attention forcibly called to the fact that in most every case it was a plea for modification of the plain terms of the law or to set aside the requirements of the law under the specious plea of manifest injustice.

"Public safety conserved and the interests of builders forwarded' is true in the latter respect only and to this add interests of owners, architects and real estate operators and the case of Building Department versus Appellant is clearly set forth. Arbitrary rulings of the Building Commissioner indeed. Has he asked for more than is called for by the law? Is he not fearlessly and honestly fulfilling the obligations of his office and requiring of each and all who have to do with his department a compliance with the law and no more?

"One cannot term his interpretation of the law as arbitrary because he does not view the conditions in the same light with those having a business or financial interest in the case. His judgment is impartial and the responsibility his. In the history of the recent Board of Appeal, no inquiry or request has officially been made to them for an interpretation of the law, but a large majority of the cases are for relief from the requirements of the law."

In answer to further criticisms directed by the members of the Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange and the Master Builders' Association, the Mayor declared: "I cannot now discuss the questions raised in the statements of the Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange and the Master Builders' Association.

"These questions turn upon the Mayor's right to remove members of the Board of Appeal. This right was exercised by me on August 15, 1914, for reasons stated by me and filed with the City Clerk as the law requires.

"It was improper for the Master Builders to ask me for an additional statement after I had filed the statement in accordance with the law; and it was proper for me to refuse their improper request, especially when I knew they wanted my answer for the sole purpose of influencing litigation growing out of the removals.

"It is indelicate and discourteous for the Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange, or the Master Builders' Association, or anyone else who is interested in the question of the removal of the members of the Board of Appeal, a question argued before the Supreme Judicial Court upon Wednesday last, and now under consideration by that tribunal, to attempt to create a newspaper controversy as to the facts relating to, or any action of these associations or of myself resulting from, such removal.

"I will say nothing concerning the removal of the members of the Board of Appeal while the case is before the Supreme Court and I respectfully suggest the propriety of similar restraint on the part of those who have criticised me for making such removals."

MEN SHOULD PAY FOR CLOTHING.

Mayor Curley has addressed the following communication to Hon. John R. Murphy, Chairman Boston Finance Commission, relative to purchase of clothing for city and county employees from funds of the public treasury:

CITY OF BOSTON,
OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,
December 7, 1914.

HON. JOHN R. MURPHY, Chairman,
Boston Finance Commission:

DEAR SIR,—I am in hearty accord with your recommendation relative to the purchase of clothing for men employed as chauffeurs in the Park and Recreation and other departments of the City of Boston.

In harmony with your suggestion, I have this day advised the Corporation Counsel to take necessary steps in the preparation of a bill to repeal the law under which clothing is supplied county employees out of the public treasury.

There is no good reason why high-salaried county employees should not purchase necessary clothing for their vocation.

I have also advised the heads of departments that this practice of furnishing clothing to employees must be discontinued.

Faithfully yours,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

MENTAL DEFICIENCY IN OUR CITIES.

THE NEED OF THE DAY AN EXTENSION OF THE PHYSICIAN'S FIELD OF ACTIVITY.

By DR. E. H. MULLAN, Passed Assistant Surgeon, Public Health Service.

The great increase in the number of cases of mental deficiency reported in our metropolitan cities, the necessity of promptly determining defects in school children in the matter of mental impairment, and the economic consideration of the question in its entirety, by reason of the large number of the unemployed, is a subject matter of especial interest at this time.

The City Record is able to present a strong and vigorous brief upon the subject of mental deficiency from the pen of Dr. E. H. Mullan, the distinguished alienist of the Public Health Service, reviewing this question in its wide relation to the demand of many citizens that the physician shall enlarge the field of individual activity by becoming acquainted with the essentials of mental deficiency.

Dr. Mullan declares:

The medical profession has been compelled, more especially during the past quarter of a century, to acquaint itself with the medical specialties. The medical schools have gradually added, during their third and fourth year courses, special subjects which must be pursued by the candidate for the degree of doctor of medicine. The science of medicine and surgery has naturally divided itself into subdivisions, and certain essentials in each subdivision or specialty are being taught and examined in at our colleges. These same essentials thereupon become the groundwork for the physician's activity in the field of practice.

The public has again demanded that the physician shall extend his field of activity—that he shall become acquainted with the essentials of mental deficiency.

It is safe to say that no state legislature, city council, or legislative body of any kind, will pass laws or ordinances concerning the segregation, commitment, schooling, or marriage of the feeble-minded without the advice and guidance of the medical profession.

Many physicians acting in the capacity of school examiners, no matter how they may dislike the task, will be compelled to give their opinion as to whether certain pupils are mentally defective. The disposition of these cases—that is, whether they shall be placed in special classes or separate institutions—will depend largely upon the medical examiner's judgment.

The physician will be called in to decide as to whether a given individual is to be committed to a home for the feeble-minded or to some other institution for the sick. The commitment of individuals, especially in juvenile cases, to penal institutions may rest upon the testimony or diagnosis of the physician. He will be consulted as to the feasibility of sending mentally defective patients to places for definite training. He will in many cases be consulted, as a first step, by parents and guardians when backward children are being taken to the specialist. No matter how disagreeable the work may be, nor how hard he may fight against it, he will nevertheless be called in, as a final reviewing authority, in practically all cases of mental deficiency.

On account of the increased amount of interest in this important public health matter which has been manifested by the medical profession, school authorities, and the public in general, it may not be inappropriate to say a few words in a general way on the diagnosis of feeble-mindedness.

While there is dissimilarity, there is also much similarity in the symptomatology of so-called normal people, mental defectives, insane people, and neurotic individuals. There is no one mold into which any particular group will fit.

In certain respects these groups overlay one another. An individual is rightly placed in one of these groups only after carefully weighing all the symptoms and taking all circumstances and accompaniments of the case into consideration. A knowledge of the main features of normality, deficiency, dementia, and perversion will be of much assistance in correctly diagnosing a given case.

The physician's experience with neurotic and hysterical patients, his knowledge of deliriums and mental deteriorations, his observations and even trials with those who are emotionally disturbed, will stand him in stead when it comes to the diagnosis of mental deficiency. Likewise his knowledge of normal mental capacity and normal emotional reaction will be of much service when the diagnosis of mental deficiency is under consideration. Just as every normal person has his own peculiarities and every insane person his own definite attitude, so it is with the feeble-minded; they are all different one from another. There is no one list of symptoms or signs that will fit every case.

Locomotor ataxia would be indicated by the loss of one knee jerk, one Argyll Robertson pupil, and lightning pains, or loss of both knee jerks, ataxia, and bladder symptoms; or Romberg sign, inactive-to-light pupils, lightning pains, and specific history. So it is in the case of feeble-mindedness; there is no one combination of symptoms or signs which can be relied upon.

In one case the diagnosis may be made by the patient's failure to perform tests A, B, C and D, together with definite mental symptoms; again, a patient's case may be settled by the history, physical examination and manner of performing tests C, D and E. Still again, another patient will be diagnosed "feeble-minded" only after the result of three examinations and his failure to solve problems E, F and G at one examination and his subsequent failure to succeed in tests M, N and O at another examination.

Every suspected case must be considered from many angles before a diagnosis is finally made.

In any mental examination we must never lose sight of the fact that we may be dealing with a psychopathic condition, epilepsy, or some organic dementia.

The patient's conduct and peculiarities, family history, history of past diseases, developmental period, school life, employment, opportunities, general environment, age, sex, race, should all be carefully considered.

In all cases a thorough physical as well as mental examination of the suspected person should be made.

In some cases several examinations and a prolonged observation may be necessary to make a correct diagnosis.

With attention to practical psychology and with some experience with the feeble-minded on the part of the physician, I am strongly of the opinion that average physicians will have about the same idea concerning the subject of feeble-mindedness.

For instance, if Dr. A, a man of fair judgment and some experience, examines a number of children and finds 3 per cent feeble-minded, Dr. B, a man of similar experience and judgment, working on the same cases, but independently, will also find the same percentage of feeble-mindedness. The cases regarded as feeble-minded by one will be singularly diagnosed by the other. Both physicians will tell you that there are several other cases in addition to the feeble-minded that are rather hard to classify. These cases are dull, they fail to answer many of the questions, and they do not execute the performance tests well. With the generally poor showing, however, there has been an occasional fair answer, or there has been a fair showing in some particular mental field. Amid the many poor responses and performances there has been some well executed performance. In other words, from the mental field of the subject there has been sent forth a ray of hope. This ray of hope in the mental field, together with the fact that the person under consideration is perhaps the possessor of some physical defect, such as enlarged adenoids, defective vision, defective hearing, chronic indigestion, malnutrition, or some other organic condition, is sufficient to make the careful diagnostician hesitate in placing this individual in the feeble-minded group.

In some of these difficult-to-diagnose cases a correction of the physical defect will lead to a decided improvement in the person's mentality.

Other persons whose low mentality is probably due to environmental conditions and in whom no physical defect is demonstrable seem to have an awakening at a later period, which results in improved mental function. These are the so-called backward cases, the cases that possess the ray of hope. I believe that average physicians with some observation in this field by virtue of long and systematic training and peculiar¹ experience in the practice of medicine will come to about the same conclusions in regard to the feeble-minded group and as to just what cases should be placed therein. Often it may be hard to define their action or tell why they place a certain individual in a certain group. I have seen physicians in the Public Health Service working independently of one another on cases of suspected mental deficiency, and it has been surprising to note the similarity of their findings in regard to the mental status of a given case.

Reasoning power in the feeble-minded is almost always of a low order. They are unable to solve new problems; they cannot meet new situations. As long as they are doing familiar things they get along very well, but when confronted with unfamiliar problems or conditions they are at a loss. They can do the same thing in the same way and can often explain to you what they do and how they do it, but when new premises or new data or old data in a slightly changed way are presented to them, they cannot see the relationships imbedded therein. They are unable from given premises or from old materials to find new things. In any problem or new situation the feeble-minded lack the sagacity¹ to pick out the essentials and are lacking in ability to apply past experiences to present essentials. They are unable from a series of images to construct a new image; that is, they are deficient in constructive imagination, or, better, in reasoning power. While the memory is usually poor, it may in some instances be very good. A feeble-minded person may have many facts stored away—that is, he may have many fixed associations—but when the answer to our question or the solving of our problem cannot be accomplished by giving forth fixed associations, but can be answered or solved only after weighing, comparing, and considering, we find that the result is almost always unsatisfactory.

Let me illustrate. The patient under examination upon request may enumerate the months of the year quickly and without an error. The examiner then asks him to give six months; that is, to skip every other month or to enumerate them in reverse order, December, November, October, September, etc. If the patient has never done this before, it immediately becomes a new problem, and it is here that the defective gives such an unsatisfactory reply. Thinking power is always shown when a fixed association is converted into a demand association. Again, suppose we find out that the patient can add certain digits; let us suppose that he has by persistent uphill effort formed the fixed association that $15 + 15$ is 30; then we slightly vary our question, making it somewhat new, and ask him how much are 15 and 17. The normal individual has the sagacity to see that $15 + 17$ is only 2 more than $15 + 15$, and this is the first and essential step in the reasoning process. The feeble-minded individual has not that sagacity; he cannot pick out that essential step which is necessary for the reasoning process. In any situation or problem, if he does see the point and can reason, such ability is always limited in extent.

When a mental defective fails to grasp a new situation or to solve a problem, he can be shown the different elements of the problem and gradually taught to perform it. Defectives learn after many trials and with much more difficulty than do the normals. In fact, this difficulty in learning is a symptom of their mental condition, and tests have been devised to show the degree of difficulty with which they learn.

It must be distinctly remembered that when you show them how to perform a test, work a puzzle or solve a problem, the successful doing of the test thereafter becomes a memory feat and not a feat in reasoning. Hence, if we are testing reasoning power we must see to it that there is a new and unfamiliar element in our test.

Easy arithmetical questions in addition and subtraction are excellent materials, as combinations of digits can be so varied as to form any number of new problems. Many of the questions and performance tests are designed to bring out this reasoning power, and care must be exercised that the patient has not been previously acquainted with the test.

While the memory of some feeble-minded persons is fair, others are very deficient in this mental field. Almost all of them are deficient in immediate retention, which can be demonstrated by the memory span test (repetition of figures).

The various tests and questions are designed to bring out what the patient has absorbed, that is, to test his power of observation, conceptual power and experience in general. The tests and questions are employed to show the quality and degree of his attention, immediate retention and logical memory. They are devised to show the patients' perception of form, number, size, color, weight and space. Some of the tests bring out his capacity for recognition and discrimination, and, last but not least, his learning power.

A number of test systems are in use. Each one has its advantages and disadvantages. It seems to me that all of them have been devised to explore exclusively one mental field—the intellectual. In all of the systems of examination little attention is paid to the volitional and emotional fields; the personality in toto is not surveyed.

The Binet-Simon system is most used. In using it, it seems to me that the examiner should modify it slightly to fit the particular subject under examination. I will give you only one example of what I mean.

The Public Health Service recently made a complete medical and sanitary survey of a penal institution. During the survey, I had the opportunity of applying the Binet test to 250 negro boys ranging in ages from 11 to 21 years. In the dissected-sentence test of the 11-year-old group, the boys did poorly; in fact, not one succeeded in making a perfect answer. It seems that there are three causes among the colored boys for failure in this test. In doing this test the words of the dissected sentence have to be rearranged so as to make sense.

Take the dissected sentence of the Binet series:

A—defends—dog—good—his—master—bravely.

In this case failure of the negro boys to make the proper rearrangement is probably due to:

1. Many negro boys do not read, or do not read sufficiently well to perform this test.

2. Owing to environmental conditions, the boys of this class do not use the word "defends." Such words are not in their vocabulary.

3. Their lack of knowledge in English grammar prevents them from properly using the word "bravely."

For the Binet dissected-sentence test I substituted dissected sentences the words of which are familiar to negro boys of this type, and purposely avoided the use of adverbs.

One of the dissected sentences which I substituted was:

Eggs—supper—boy's—the—for—eat—and—bacon.

After making substitutions of this kind my results were uniformly good.

In using the Binet tests, or any other system, we must never forget that the results of such an examination are worthless if the patient is emotionally disturbed at the time of the examination. Often the examiner must be keen and experienced in order to detect hidden emotional reaction.

It might be well for the physician, after surveying a number of intellectual tests, to select a certain number or to make up certain tests of his own, say four or five tests, and to become thoroughly familiar with them. He should practice them on normal individuals whenever an opportunity presents itself.

As a special experience I would suggest that certain examples in addition, subtraction, counting backward, and cube test be tried on 100 children ranging from seven to fourteen years of age. After you have thus examined 100 normal persons, you will be thoroughly familiar with your own test; you will become familiar with the attitude of the normal subject, and you will note the variations and manner of performance. This manner of performance is very important. Then, when the feeble-minded person presents himself, your own-made machine will assist you in analyzing his mental condition, and proving him to be feeble-minded.

The selecting of a few tests that suit you, and thoroughly familiarizing yourself with them by testing normal persons, will give you a foundation in the field of mental deficiency. It will be the acquisition of certain practical essentials in the field of mental defect, just as you have acquired certain essentials in the field of ophthalmology, dermatology and other specialties.

The following list shows some of the performance tests which are used by the Public Health Service to assist in diagnosing cases of mental deficiency:

DATURA STRAMMONIUM—THE THORN APPLE, OR JAMESTOWN TOWN WEED.

BY CAPT. JOHN H. DILLON, Chairman of the Park and Recreation Department.

This plant, which belongs to the same family as the potato, can be found growing in almost every rubbish heap or vacant lot used as a dump in this city and by almost every roadside in the country. It has a thick stalk, rather smooth and shiny, and grows about 2 feet tall. Its white flowers are bell-shaped and quite pretty and the fruit is not unlike the horse chestnut burr, hence the name of "thorn apple." The title of "Jamestown weed" is often applied, because the plant flourishes so profusely in that place in Virginia. It has very strong narcotic qualities; the odor of the plant is said to induce giddiness and any part of the stem or leaves taken into the stomach will produce all the effects of poison. The seeds are most powerful and if eaten death will result. This plant is said to possess medicinal qualities, being employed in cases of melancholy, convulsions and asthma.

REMOVAL OF MEMBERS OF THE BOARD OF APPEAL.

The Supreme Judicial Court on the 9th instant heard arguments as to the legality of the Mayor's removal of the members of the Board of Appeal.

The members were removed on August 15, 1914. They claimed the removal was unlawful, and they brought a petition for a writ of mandamus to require the Mayor to recognize them as lawful members of the Board.

The petitioners were represented by former Attorney-General Herbert Parker, and the Mayor by the Corporation Counsel.

The petitioners argued that the Board of Appeal was not within the power of removal given to the Mayor by section 14 of chapter 486 of the Acts of 1909.

The respondents argued that the Mayor, under section 14, can remove any head of a department or any member of a municipal board, save the Board excepted by said section, namely, the Board of Election Commissioners.

The respondents argued further that the Legislature in 1910, by passing chapter 631 in that year, showed that it regarded the Board of Appeal as not covered by section 14 of chapter 486 of the Acts of 1909, as having been amended by chapter 486 of the Acts of 1909.

The Corporation Counsel answered that chapter 631 of 1910 simply gave the Board of Appeal the right to nominate a substitute member, to serve temporarily in the absence of a member from illness or for other cause, a right of substitution which had not previously existed; and that the Legislature of 1910 did not intend to take the Board of Appeal out of the operation of section 14 of chapter 486 of the Acts of 1909; that they probably did not consider the effect of chapter 631 of 1910 on chapter 550 of 1907 or chapter 486 of 1909.

Many other points were argued and the Court took a great interest in the discussion.

The decision of the Court will probably be made early in January and it will be awaited with eager interest by the public.

SPECIAL INVESTIGATOR APPOINTED.

The Mayor has formally approved the appointment of George Gibbs, Jr., temporarily, as special investigator to the City Planning Board, at a salary of $250 the month.

Incident to the appointment of Mr. Gibbs, the following report was submitted his Honor the Mayor by Mr. R. A. Cram, Chairman of the City Planning Board:

In reference to the accompanying vote passed by the City Planning Board at its meeting on Monday, November 23, 1914, providing for the appointment, subject to your approval, of a Special Investigator, we beg to submit the following:

In conducting a preliminary survey of the "resources, possibilities and needs" of the community, the Planning Board early felt the necessity for a technical assistant whose time could be actually spent in the field to be developed, devoted to an intensive study of present conditions and future possibilities.

What appears to be most essential is a study of local conditions in a restricted area with reference to housing development, to incipient congestion, the relation of factories now being erected to the housing of their employees, and similar questions combining both technical and sociological problems, requiring the services of not merely a statistical expert, but some one capable of grasping the problem as a whole and of making constructive suggestions.

In this proposed intensive study of conditions, it seems best to the Planning Board to treat each district of the City as a separate unit, and for the work directly in hand it has decided upon the East Boston section as affording a particularly opportune basis for a study of this kind. Conditions are rapidly developing there, and congestion has not yet reached a critical stage.

In this connection also your Honor has been quoted as being a firm believer in the possibilities of East Boston, and anxious to do all that you could for its development. Needless to say, the Planning Board will welcome any suggestions you may offer, and as a Board, or through its Special Investigator, will hold itself in readiness to cooperate with you to the fullest possible extent.

Upon receipt of advice from the Civil Service Commission that there was no suitable eligible list from which it could certify to fill the position, and upon its authorization to make a provisional appointment at the discretion of the board, a most careful and systematic effort has been made to find a candidate who would bring to the work a comprehensive understanding of general conditions and a practical experience along similar lines. It has been a difficult task since the majority of the recognized experts in this line of work are either not available for temporary employment or are outside the possibilities of our appropriation.

After a thorough canvass of the qualifications of the different candidates, Mr. George Gibbs, Jr., whose appointment is submitted herewith, has been selected as being peculiarly fitted for the work in prospect. He has been for nearly ten years, and is at the present time, in the employ of Olmsted Brothers, but they are willing to release him to the Planning Board for a limited period of time. It is estimated that an exhaustive survey of the East Boston District can be made in from two to three months. Mr. Gibbs has been highly recommended for his ability and resourcefulness, a brief statement of his training and experience being appended herewith:

Graduate of the University of Illinois, Science Department, 1900.

Two years in Harvard Scientific School.

One year in department of Landscape Architecture, Harvard Graduate School.

One year abroad studying parks, gardens, public works and general civic activities.

Nearly ten years' continuous employment with Olmsted Brothers.

While in college made a study of the North End for the development of a civic center, and plan and report for Mr. Bloomfield.

For three years in charge of the Fine Arts Department of the Boston Public Library every Sunday.

In connection with his work for Olmsted Brothers he has been engaged upon a number of special reports, including:

New Haven Civic Improvements Commission report, 1910.

Report on the city of Utica, N. Y.

Office brief, "The Model Village."

Brief upon the construction and workings of Chicago small parks (playgrounds and civic centers) from actual observation.

Civic improvements report on the Borough of Queens to the City Improvement Commission, 1909.

Preliminary plan and report for the subdivision and development of the Woodbourne properties.

Plans for the Russell Sage Foundation Homes Company, Forest Hills, L. I.

THE UNEMPLOYMENT QUESTION.

Mayor Curley called a meeting upon the 8th instant of public spirited men and women of Boston to consider the problem of the city's unemployed. A large and representative gathering were present in the old Aldermanic Chamber.

In opening the meeting, Mayor Curley, who presided, explained that it was called at the instance of a committee, consisting of Chairman Fowler of the Overseers of the Poor, Rev. Fr. Scanlan, head of Catholic charities, and a representative of the Chamber of Commerce. The number of unemployed at the present time, he said, was about twice the normal, though smaller than it was a few months ago.

"In this great work, the solution of the problem of the unemployed," the Mayor said, "the State and Federal authorities may possibly join the city. I am very pleased to announce that I have it from the best of authority that Secretary Daniels has decided to award to the Fore River Shipbuilding Company the construction of two torpedo boats, which means that $1,750,000 will be expended here and employment given to at least 4,500 men until March or April of next year." This announcement met with generous applause.

The Mayor further stated that he was taking up with the Metropolitan Park Commission the question of starting work now on the South Shore Boulevard, which means that $450,000 more will be expended. The money is now available. About 60 per cent of that sum would go to the employment of unskilled labor in grading and filling swamp and marsh lands.

The Mayor said he was to take up with Governor Walsh the advisability of having the Legislature appropriate something like $500,000 for reclaiming marsh and swamp lands, and he believed that the Governor would favor this proposition.

Mayor Curley urged that the meeting draft resolutions favoring the 5 per cent freight rate increase asked by the railroads. The granting of this increase, he said, would help very materially to solve the unemployed question throughout the entire country.

He wanted no soup kitchen in Boston, he said, but instead a spirit of optimism. He said he didn't think there need be much fear about distress in Boston this winter.

The Mayor then called on J. Randolph Coolidge, who praised the Mayor's efforts to prevent unemployment by carrying on public improvements now, which under other conditions could be held over. Such a course he considered much better than relief work. He said he believed in giving work to the citizens of Boston first and next to citizens of the Metropolitan District. He was opposed to the soup kitchen at any time.

The Mayor next called upon Rev. Fr. Scanlan, who suggested it would be well to look after the under-employed as well as the unemployed. He referred to the numerous cases of men on half and two-thirds time, especially men with families dependent upon them. He recommended that a committee be appointed to call upon business men, manufacturers and large employers of help, skilled and unskilled, and ascertain whether or not conditions warranted laying off so many men. He believed that cases will be found where employers are laying off help solely because they find others are doing it.

Henry Abrahams, speaking for organized labor, said employers, instead of allowing overtime, should put on extra men. His own union, he said, looks after the families of any who happen to be out of work until they are in a position to help themselves. He hoped that other unions were doing likewise.

W. H. Lathrop believed in confining employment to residents of Boston, as charity began at home; also that preference be given to men with families.

Carl Dreyfus suggested that manufacturers and other employers be asked to give employment weekly to a number in addition to those permanently employed. He offered to find employment in his place on Monday for twenty-five women skilled in sewing.

Mrs. W. H. Lathrop said that if Mr. Dreyfus' scheme was carried out she hoped it would be done quietly. It was not, or at least it should not be, the intention of Boston to have it spread broadcast that she was burdened with unemployed. Doing this work quietly would also prevent outsiders from being attracted to this city.

Mayor Curley then suggested that a committee of three be appointed to draft resolutions on three points and named Mr. Coolidge, Rev. Fr. Scanlan and John J. Toomey of South Boston on that committee. The resolutions were adopted unanimously as follows:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this meeting that the Legislature be petitioned to appoint a committee to investigate the broad question of unemployment, with full authority to recommend any and all means that will tend to alleviate the situation.

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this meeting that the Legislature be petitioned to provide an appropriation of at least $500,000 for the reclamation of state lands and for the filling of swamp lands, thereby providing employment for a large number of men and at the same time increasing the productiveness and wealth of the Commonwealth.

"Resolved, That this meeting favors the proposed 5 per cent increase in freight rates, believing that the measure will have an important effect in relieving the present situation."

Resolutions, at the suggestion of Mayor Curley, were also adopted thanking Secretary Daniels of the Navy for awarding the construction of the two torpedo boats to Boston.

It was next voted that the Mayor appoint a committee to visit employers of labor, especially large employers, and request that places be found for extra men or women from time to time. The committee is to consist of fifteen members and will be appointed later.

PROCEEDINGS OF CITY COUNCIL.

Tuesday, December 1, 1914.

Meeting of the City Council in the Mayor's hearing room, City Hall, at 7 o'clock p. m., to give a hearing in regard to the proposed lighting contract between the City of Boston and the Edison Electric Illuminating Company.

The hearing was held pursuant to the following notice, based on an order passed by the City Council:

Street Lighting Contract.

City of Boston.

Office of the City Clerk, November 20, 1914.

The City Council of the City of Boston will give a public hearing in the Mayor's hearing room, City Hall, on Tuesday, December 1, 1914, at 7 o'clock p. m., on the proposed contract with the Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Boston for street lighting service in the City of Boston for a period of ten years.

By order of the City Council.

JAMES DONOVAN, City Clerk.

Present, all the members of the Council, President McDONALD in the chair.

Public Works Commissioner L. K. Rourke and Corporation Counsel John A. Sullivan, on behalf of the City of Boston, explained the proposed contract and showed its advantages in the matter of price, illumination, and chances from time to time to get a reduction in price because of improvements in the art, as compared with the old contract.

Mr. Howard Whitmore, executive secretary of the United Improvement Association, submitted the following:

United Improvement Association,

December 1, 1914.

The United Improvement Association, upon the recommendation of the Committee on Streets, has voted to urge the City Council to approve the proposed street lighting contract between the City of Boston and the Edison Electric Illuminating Company which, in its new form, contains the provision specifically recommended by this association in its report to the City Council of April 29, 1914, namely, that the Board of Gas and Electric Light Commissioners shall investigate and decide whether the prices named in said contract are fair.

HOWARD WHITMORE,
Executive Secretary.

Mr. Amasa C. Gould, representing the Boston Chamber of Commerce, submitted the following:
Boston Chamber of Commerce,
177 Milk Street, December 1, 1914.

To the Honorable the City Council:

The Boston Chamber of Commerce, through its Committee on Municipal and Metropolitan Affairs, desires to take the occasion of the public hearing on December 1, assigned for the consideration of the proposed new contract for lighting the streets of Boston with electricity, to record its approval of the form of contract with the Edison Electric Illuminating Company submitted to your honorable body by the Mayor on November 18, provided the same is dated back to July 1, 1914, and the new prices made effective from that date.

This draft of the contract incorporates the various suggestions, including compulsory arbitration of the fairness of prices at the end of five years, a definite and stated method of measuring candle power, and sundry changes in the wording of the contract, urged by the committee as desirable before the approval of the contract by the City Council, as described in detail in the supplementary report (dated October 21, 1914) submitted to your honorable body, upon request, by the Boston Chamber of Commerce. The only recommendation in this report not adopted in the form of contract now under consideration is that for antedating the contract to July 1, 1914, and the committee is still of the opinion, as expressed in its report, that the city should have the benefit of the reduced prices therein provided from that date.

Respectfully submitted,

COMMITTEE ON MUNICIPAL AND METROPOLITAN AFFAIRS.

In regard to the suggestion that the contract be dated back to July 1, Corporation Counsel Sullivan stated that there were legal difficulties in the way of doing this, but that there was still reasonable hope that that would be the practical outcome of the negotiations between the city and the company.

Coun. Couthurst feared that there might under the wording of the contract be difficulties in the way later of the city getting, if it wished them, the 4.4-ampere lights which had been worked successfully in various places, instead of 6-ampere lights; but Mr. F. M. Ives, representing the Edison Company, said that undoubtedly the only objection made by the company would be to a change which reduced the candle power furnished to the city under the contract, and that any proposition which did not do this could probably be worked out without difficulty.

Messrs. H. M. Comerford of the Steamfitters and Electrical Workers, Jonathan Perry, Michael Birmingham of the Electrical Workers and James Fee of Engineers and Firemen's Local 559, representing union labor, approved the contract as one that was in the interests of the citizens, but regretted the stand taken by the company toward union labor. They all deplored the fact that at present a man applying for work with the company has to state on the blank he fills out whether he is or is not a union man, the only possible object of such a requirement being to discriminate against union labor. Mr. Birmingham strongly regretted the fact that Mr. Edgar, the president of the company, had been unwilling to receive a deputation which, regardless of union matters, wished to place before him certain things which might eliminate danger to the men and result in economies to the company, and there was a feeling that any employees who appeared at hearings like these did so at their own risk.

It was stated by several of the councilors present that the Council had done its utmost to remove the objectionable features as far as labor was concerned, and that there is still a hope, through the Mayor and the City Council, that the requirements referred to in filling out applications for employment would be done away with. Mr. J. A. Nash of the Engineers' Union felt that there should be competition in Boston; that it would result in lower prices and greater satisfaction; but he admitted that the contract is better than the one preceding it.

Nobody opposed the contract as a whole.

This closed the hearing, and the City Council adjourned to meet on Monday, December 7, at three o'clock p. m.

Monday, December 7, 1914.

To the City Council:

I have the honor to submit the accompanying communication from the Fire Commissioner.

Yours very truly,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,

Fire Department, December 7, 1914.

Hon. James M. Curley,

Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—The Fire Department having no further use for the land, approximately 417 feet, and building used as a coal station, located at 118 Salem street, Ward 6, I hereby recommend its sale.

Yours very truly,

JOHN GRADY, Fire Commissioner.

Referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

LEASE OF CITY LANDS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,

Office of the Mayor, December 7, 1914.

To the City Council:

I transmit herewith communications from John Beck, real estate broker, 30 State street, in which he sets forth a proposition for the lease of property owned by the City of Boston located at 446 Atlantic avenue. Accompanying the same is a communication from the Commissioner of Public Works approving of such action and setting forth that the department of which he is in charge has no further use for this property.

Respectfully,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Boston, July 14, 1914.

Hon. James M. Curley,

Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—I have received an offer from Abraham Fogel of 16 Orchard park, Roxbury, of seven hundred and fifty dollars ($750) a year for a vacant lot of land at Fort Hill Wharf, 446 Atlantic avenue, Boston.

This lot contains 2,391 square feet of land and is assessed for about $9 a foot. Mr. Fogel proposes to build a one-story metal and brick building, satisfactory to the city, to be used for store purpose as per plan inclosed. He is to pay the taxes on the building and furnish a bond to insure the proper performance of the terms of the lease. The building is to revert to the city when the lease expires.

I think this offer is a fair one and recommend that it be accepted.

Respectfully yours,

JOHN BECK.

City of Boston,
Public Works Department,
December 7, 1914.

To the Honorable the Mayor:

Sir,—This department has no objection to the leasing, for proper compensation, of the unoccupied land in front of the Refuse Disposal Station, on Fort Hill Wharf, so called, Atlantic avenue.

Respectfully,

L. K. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

SALE OF CITY PROPERTY, PARK STREET.

The following was received:

City of Boston,

Office of the Mayor, December 7, 1914.

To the City Council:

I transmit herewith communications from the Fire Commissioner and the municipal real estate expert recommending the sale at public auction of the property owned by the city located at 23 and 25 Park street and 3 and 7 Joiner street.

Respectfully,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Boston, November 23, 1914.

Hon. James M. Curley,

Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—In pursuance of your request I have examined the property numbered 23-25 Park and 3-7 Joiner streets, Charlestown, and submit the following report:

This property consists of 2,347 square feet of land and three old frame houses, which, if properly let, would show a gross income of $816 a year, but as the corner store has been vacant for nearly two years, it is constantly running to a deficit.

I consider it worth about $6,000, although it is assessed for $9,500, and was purchased for a fire station site by the city in February, 1914, for $10,300.

As the Fire Commissioner states in a letter to you, which is herewith inclosed, that it will not be used as a site for a fire station, I recommend that it be sold at public auction with an upset price of $6,000.

Respectfully yours,

JOHN BECK.

Boston, October 27, 1914.

Hon. James M. Curley,

Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—I respectfully report that the property located at the southeast corner of Park and Joiner streets, Charlestown, and numbered 23 and 25 Park street and 3 and 7 Joiner street, will not be utilized by this department as the site of a fire station, as the engine house on Winthrop street, when remodeled, will fully meet the fire protection needs of the vicinity.

The lot referred to contains 1,980 square feet of land and three old frame houses, and was purchased February 14, 1914, for $10,300, while plans and surveys entailed a further expense of $2,225. Since its purchase this department has expended on it $274.45 for repairs and commission (for care of property), and collected in rents $251—a deficit of $23.45 in a period of about eight and a half months. The property is at the present time in the care of Mr. Frank S. Mason, Thompson square, Charlestown.

I respectfully recommend that this property be disposed of as soon as possible, as the Fire Department has no use for it, and it is not even a fair investment.

Yours very respectfully,

JOHN GRADY, Fire Commissioner.

Referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

INFORMATION FROM CITY PLANNING BOARD.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, December 4, 1914.
To the City Council:

I transmit herewith a communication from the Secretary of the City Planning Board, containing the information requested in the order passed by your honorable body at its meeting of October 5, 1914.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Boston, November 30, 1914.

Hon. James M. Curley,

Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—At the meeting of the City Planning Board on Monday, November 23, 1914, the following vote was passed in regard to the order passed by the City Council requesting an investigation and report as to the advisability and cost of establishing and maintaining suitable public markets at central locations in the various sections of the city.

Voted, That the communication of the City Council be respectfully acknowledged, and that it be advised that, after much consideration and some tentative investigation, it is the conclusion of the Planning Board that it is not possible to make piecemeal recommendations in regard to the market situation in Boston. It is the opinion of the Board that the only report which would be of value is one which would involve the whole question of whether the aim should be to bring the producer directly in contact with the consumer by cutting out all middlemen; whether the creation of new city markets on a large scale is demanded or would greatly help the situation; the method by which food supplies are brought into the city and how they are ultimately delivered to the consumers, which means a study of the proper scope and limitation of itinerant vending; how far the development of cooperation would help; and whether, or how far, it can be stimulated by public action.

It is therefore the purpose of the Planning Board, unless otherwise directed, to call together a committee made up of representatives, one each, from the Chamber of Commerce, Harvard University, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, United Improvement Association and the Women's Municipal League, with the idea of undertaking an adequate study and reporting to the City Council with recommendations as early as practicable.

Respectfully yours,

E. M. HERLIHY,
Secretary City Planning Board.

Placed on file.

MONEY FOR DORCHESTER POLICE STATION.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, December 7, 1914.
To the City Council:

The list of bids received in response to an advertisement appearing in the City Record for the erection and completion of police station, Dorchester, reveals the fact that $15,000 additional appropriation will be required in order to erect and complete the work necessary.

I respectfully recommend the passage of the accompanying order making provision for this appropriation.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Ordered, That the additional sum of fifteen thousand dollars ($15,000) be and hereby is appropriated, to be expended under the direction of the Superintendent of Public Buildings, for erection of police station in Dorchester, and that to meet said appropriation the City Treasurer be and hereby is authorized to issue, from time to time, upon the request of the Mayor, bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the city to said amount.

RESCISSION OF FIREHOUSE LOAN.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, December 7, 1914.
To the City Council:

Mature deliberation and consideration cause me to believe that a new fire station is not an absolute necessity at this particular time.

Your honorable body approved of a loan order on January 30, 1914, appropriating $80,000 for Fire Station, Charlestown. Seventy thousand dollars of this loan order remain unissued.

I respectfully recommend the adoption of the accompanying order, providing that the amount of the loan order unissued be rescinded.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Ordered, That so much of the loan order approved January 30, 1914, appropriating $80,000 for fire station, Charlestown, remaining unissued, be and the same is hereby rescinded.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

IMPROVEMENT OF DEER ISLAND POWER PLANT.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, December 7, 1914.
To the City Council:

Investigation reveals the fact that machinery and materials are necessary to make the power plant at Deer Island more useful and effective. It is estimated that the sum of $5,000 will cover the cost of said machinery and materials.

To the end that the work may be commenced at once I respectfully recommend the passage of the accompanying order transferring the sum of $5,000 from "Machinery and Materials for Manufacturing" to an appropriation for Penal Institutions Department, House of Correction, Heating Plant.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Ordered, That under the provisions of chapter 261 of the Acts of 1893 the City Auditor be and hereby is authorized to transfer the sum of five thousand dollars ($5,000) from "Machinery and Materials for Manufacturing" to an appropriation for Penal Institutions Department, House of Correction, Heating Plant.

LEASING OF CITY LAND, MASSACHUSETTS AVENUE.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, December 7, 1914.
To the City Council:

I transmit herewith communications from Henry S. Ormsby, Hon. John N. Cole and John Beck, relative to leasing the rear half of the lot of land owned by the City of Boston and located at the corner of Massachusetts avenue and Shirley street, Roxbury, to the Argo Tile and Pottery Company.

I recommend the passage of the accompanying order making provision for such a lease.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

December 7, 1914.

Hon. James M. Curley,

Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—I herewith return communications from Henry S. Ormsby, in which he proposes to lease for the Argo Tile and Pottery Company the rear half of the lot of land owned by the city, located at the corner of Massachusetts avenue and Shirley street, Roxbury, and Hon. John N. Cole, chairman of the Boston Industrial Development Board, relative thereto.

I have been requested by the Public Lands Committee of the City Council to confer with the Corporation Counsel with a view to having a proper lease prepared.

I believe the terms as agreed by Mr. Ormsby, Mr. Cole and myself, in Mr. Ormsby's letter to you are advantageous to the city and I recommend that the proposition be accepted.

I have conferred with the Corporation Counsel who has drawn up the inclosed order.

Respectfully yours,
JOHN BECK.

Hon. James M. Curley,

Mayor of Boston:

My dear Mr. Mayor,—At the request of the Public Lands Committee of the City Council I am submitting to you the formal proposition along the lines suggested in the conference held to-day by the committee with Mr. Beck, Mr. Cole of the Industrial Board, and myself, relative to the lease of a part of the land owned by the city, property on Massachusetts avenue and Shirley street.

Mr. Joseph W. Moore, Mr. Maxwell A. Metzner and myself are about to enter into the business of manufacturing floor tile, bathroom tiles, etc., our corporation to be known as the Argo Tile and Pottery Company.

We desire to lease from the City of Boston the rear half of the lot of land owned by the city and located at the corner of Massachusetts avenue and Shirley street, in Roxbury, the portion that we desire to contain, approximately, 30,000 square feet of land. We desire a lease of thirty years, the lease to contain the privilege, or option, of purchase at or after the expiration of ten years, at the valuation as assessed by the city at the time of purchase. For this lease we will pay an annual rental of, or at the rate of, 4 per cent per annum on the assessed valuation, and will also pay all taxes duly assessed upon said land and building that may be erected during the term of the said lease, or as long as said lease is in force.

We would commence to construct a building upon said land that would be approximately 150 feet by 60 feet, which with equipment would represent a value approximating from $20,000 to $25,000. We expect that this plant will be increased from time to time, and speedily, so that it will ultimately be of considerable magnitude.

Respectfully yours,
HENRY S. ORMSBY.

December 5, 1914.

Boston Industrial Development Board.

Hon. James M. Curley,

Mayor of Boston:

My dear Mr. Mayor,—The proposition submitted by Mr. Ormsby, representing the proposed Argo Tile and Pottery Company, is the result of a conference between Mr. Ormsby, Mr. Beck and myself. As I stated to the members of the Public Lands Committee, I feel that this is a very important step, as it establishes a precedent for leasing unused city property for possible business development. Because this is so, it seems best that the City Law Department should prepare all necessary papers to anticipate all legal difficulties.

I want to congratulate you on taking this step toward business development which seems to promise not only a new industry in this particular locality, but which has a much larger promise as an evidence of the attitude of the city in cooperating with every factor that can be used in making a bigger business for Boston.

Cordially yours,

JOHN N. COLE, Chairman.

December 5, 1914.

Ordered, That the Mayor be and hereby is authorized in the name and on behalf of the City of Boston to execute a lease in form approved by the Law Department, for a period of thirty years, to the Argo Tile and Pottery Company, of a lot of land containing 30,000 square feet, more or less, on the southeasterly side of Shirley street, being the rear portion of the lot at the corner of Massachusetts avenue and Shirley street, as shown on a plan on file in the office of the Street Laying-Out Department, dated December 7, 1914, the lessee to pay a rent equal to four per cent of the annual assessed valuation of said land, and also to pay annually an amount equal to the tax at the current rate upon the value of said land and the buildings thereon, as estimated by the Assessors of the City of Boston, and all other taxes and assessments and betterments whatsoever; said lease shall contain an option to the lessee to purchase said land after the expiration of ten years from the date of said lease, at a price equal to the assessed value of said land at the time of said purchase.

Referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

City of Boston,

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Ordered, That the sum of twenty-six thousand nine hundred eighty-six dollars and ninety-seven cents ($26,986.97) be and hereby is appropriated from the income of the Parkman Fund to be expended under the direction of the Park and Recreation Department for the maintenance and improvement of the Common and parks in existence on January 12, 1887, and for the maintenance of the Aquarium and Zoological Garden.

DIVISION OF CITY FOR TAXATION PURPOSES.

The following was received:

City of Boston,

Assessing Department, December 2, 1914.

To the Honorable the City Council:

Gentlemen,—Complying with your request would say that the most desirable division of the city, for the purpose of taxation, would be to make an equal number of wards and assessment districts. Such a division would simplify the work of the assessors, affording an easy method of record and description. The department would save time and money. As it is impossible under the present law to bring about such equal assessment districts and wards—chapter 676 of the Acts of 1914, providing that the wards must be divided upon a basis of the number of registered voters—we beg to submit that the assessors be granted the authority to divide the city into convenient assessment districts, irrespective of wards.

Under chapter 115 of the Acts of 1889 the assessors may divide any ward into convenient assessment districts. If the ward limitation were removed and the assessors allowed to divide the city into assessment districts, so that the work might be easily apportioned, it would prove of much benefit to the department, and we earnestly suggest that we be granted such authority.

We recommend, therefore, that the City Council petition the Legislature to amend chapter 115 of the Acts of 1889 so as to read as follows:

"Chapter 115 of the Acts of 1889 is hereby amended by adding at the end thereof the following words: 'The assessors of the City of Boston may in any year divide said city into convenient assessment districts.'"

We recognize the fact that you are controlled entirely in your labor by section 216 of chapter 835, Acts of 1913, and amendments thereto, and that said section provides for a purely political division, and you are confined to a well-defined limit to each ward and an equal number of voters.

We realize that the downtown wards lacking the number of voters must be merged, making larger wards; and that the suburban wards—like Dorchester, West Roxbury and Brighton—should be subdivided and made smaller. Anticipating, as we do, the future growth of the city your work will assist us a great deal, because we will have better defined units of wards than at present.

Respectfully,
BOARD OF ASSESSORS,
by EDWARD B. DAILY,
Chairman.

Referred to the Committee on New Wards.

MINORS' LICENSES.

President McDONALD submitted reports on petitions for minors' licenses for five newsboys and three vendors—recommending the licenses be granted.

Everett, a clerk in the office of the clerk of the Supreme Judicial Court, an annual pension equal to one-half of the compensation received by her at the time of her retirement from said court, the same to be paid in monthly installments, the expense thereof to be charged to the appropriation for County of Suffolk.

The question came on confirmation. Committee — Coun. Watson and Ballantyne. Whole number of ballots cast 8, yeas 8, and the several appointments were confirmed.

OPENING OF BRIGHTON GYMNASIUM TO PUBLIC.

Coun. WOODS offered an order—That the Board of Park and Recreation Commissioners, through his Honor the Mayor, be requested to consider the advisability of opening the gymnasium and shower baths connected with the Brighton High School to the public on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, if found practicable.

Coun. WOODS—Mr. President, that is an order introduced in behalf of the committee from Brighton, which is endeavoring to have a gymnasium and shower bath opened at the Brighton High School. This merely asks the Mayor to consider the advisability of it. I want to say that I don't know whether it is a good thing or a bad thing. I don't know how much opposition there would be to it. There is a great deal in favor of it. But it is up to the Mayor to consider the advisability of it, and then, after the order is passed, if he thinks well of it, we could have a hearing upon it. The order was passed.

UNEMPLOYMENT IN BOSTON.

An extremely interesting and pathetic incident occurred in Boston last week which affords a startling measure of the extent of unemployment. A Boylston street building needed a new janitor. The advertisement was inserted, offering a rate of pay $2 less per week than had been given the former janitor. The first day no applications were received. But the second day brought an avalanche of replies totaling 1,600 and requiring many hours to open and sort. Some applicants even went so far as to inclose photographs. And the wage amounts to but $10 per week.

MAYOR DISAPPROVES SOUTH AMERICAN TRIP.

Mayor Curley has formally disapproved the proposed trip to South American countries by a representative committee of American business men chosen largely by the Mayors of leading cities of the United States.

Two years ago a similar trip was successfully arranged by the members of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, and since that time two parties of American business men have toured South America.

Mayor Curley has heard that South American merchants have become a little tired of such visits and the reception and entertainment of one party after another of American business men.

The Mayor has addressed Mayor Preston of Baltimore the following communication:

CITY OF BOSTON,
OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,
December 15, 1914.

HON. JAMES H. PRESTON,
Mayor of Baltimore,
Baltimore, Md.

DEAR MR. MAYOR,—I have taken up the question of the South American Tour, as proposed at Philadelphia, upon the 13th ultimo, with the Boston Chamber of Commerce.

Two years ago a party of Boston merchants made the trip to the various South American countries, and the question of industrial and commercial development was very carefully presented.

It appears that two additional parties from American cities have made the South American trip since the visit of the Boston party.

I am constrained to say that after conference with the members of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, I can but feel that Boston merchants will decline the trip which you are now contemplating, with sailing from New York upon the 27th proximo.

Faithfully yours,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

PUBLIC HEARING.

Lieut.-Col. W. E. Craighill, U. S. A., Corps of Engineers, has issued notice of a public hearing relative to the proposed removal of the bridge of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company over Fort Point channel.

The notice is as follows:

To Whom It May Concern:

Whereas, The Secretary of War has good reason to believe that the bridge over Fort Point channel, Boston Harbor, Massachusetts, known as the Y-connection bridge of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company, located immediately downstream from Broadway Bridge, is an unreasonable obstruction to the free navigation of Fort Point channel on account of its non-use, and because the large number of piles has the effect of partially damming the stream and concentrating the current through the draw passage, increasing the difficulties of navigation;

It is proposed to require the following changes to be made in said bridge within three months from date of service of notice, to wit:

Remove the entire bridge from the sea wall on one side of the channel to the sea wall on the other, with the exception of the existing guide pier on the south side of the channel connecting the Broadway Bridge upstream with the New York, New Haven & Hartford roller lift bridge downstream.

Fill in with suitable timbers the existing indentation in the face of the above mentioned guide pier of the Y-connection bridge under the south end of the draw truss when closed.

In order to give you an opportunity to be heard as required by the Act of Congress, approved March 3, 1899, you are hereby notified that a hearing will be had before the undersigned, at Room 1017, Barristers Hall, 25 Pemberton square, Boston, Mass., at 11 a. m., on the 5th day of January, 1915, where and when you will be given an opportunity to be heard in the matter. As all the papers will be laid before the Secretary of War for his decision, it will perhaps best suit your purpose to submit in writing whatever you may wish to present.

By authority of the Secretary of War.

W. E. CRAIGHILL,
Lieut.-Col. Corps of Engineers.

NEW MUNICIPAL BUILDING.

Mayor Curley held a conference at City Hall upon the 17th instant with members of the School Committee and the Schoolhouse Commission, relative to erecting a school administration building on the site of the old Probate Building, across from the City Hall Annex. The question of selling the Mason street property, where is located the headquarters of the School Department, was also considered.

At the conclusion of the conference Mayor Curley announced that both boards appeared to favor the proposition. He will, accordingly, notify architect Harrison H. Atwood, who prepared the plans last year for a similar building, which was to provide, in addition, quarters for Police Station 2, to confer with the School Board in reference to the preparation of plans for a building, which will be exclusively for the use of the School Department. The former plans provided for a building that would cost about $225,000. The new plans may go as high as $300,000.

The Mayor also notified John Beck, the administration real estate expert, to confer with the School Board in relation to the sale of the Mason street property. The Mayor says that two parties are desirous of securing the property, one for store purposes and the other for hotel purposes.

The assessed valuation of this property will be greatly exceeded by the purchase price. The money received from the sale of this property would pay for a new school administration building, and leave something over for other improvements.

REJECTION OF CLAIMS.

Hon. John A. Sullivan, the Corporation Counsel, states that the Law Department upon the 16th instant disapproved seven claims against the Public Works Department. These claims aggregate $633.11. They have been rejected for the reason that there was no legal liability upon the city.

NEW METHOD OF SNOW REMOVAL. PLANS OF BOSTON AND NEW YORK ARE COMPARED BY EXPERTS.

By LOUIS K. ROURKE, Commissioner of Public Works.

I have considered with great interest the plan for snow removal in New York City as proposed by Street Cleaning Commissioner J. T. Fetherston. The problem of snow removal in Boston is the same as that in New York. It differs only in size. The mileage of New York streets to be cleared of snow is about ten times that of Boston. The methods which Commissioner Fetherston proposes to use in New York have been and are in use in Boston.

Our practice is always to fight a snowstorm. The main point in coping with a snowstorm effectually is to tackle it early and keep up with it. The Boston scheme of handling snow which cannot be taken care of by the regular city force differs radically from that proposed by Commissioner Fetherston. The proposed scheme in New York is to offer a rate of payment which will attract labor and then hire an emergency force sufficient to take care of the storm. This will be a very difficult proposition to handle.

The Boston method is to divide the city into so-called "snow districts" and advertise for bids each year for the removal of snow from the said districts. These contracts are awarded to the lowest bidder per cubic yard for removal. The prices secured this year average about 35 cents per cubic yard, which is a reasonable figure. The method pursued in the work is to order out the respective district contractors whenever the regular city force cannot handle the storm. These contractors are placed in streets separate from the regular city men. Their carts are measured by members of the engineering force and the capacity is plainly marked on the same. The contractor secures all the necessary men and teams and proceeds to work under the supervision of a Public Works Department inspector. The driver of each team has a ticket which is punched by the loading inspector. He then drives his team to the dump, where another inspector punches the ticket for unloading. These tickets are turned into the office and form the basis of payment to the contractor. As an additional check on this scheme the loading inspector keeps a tally sheet on which he accounts for all loads and the unloading inspector does likewise. These sheets are checked up against the tickets turned in.

This seems to be a very practical and satisfactory arrangement both for the contractor and for the city.

SNOW REMOVAL PLAN OF NEW YORK.

Street Cleaning Commissioner J. T. Fetherston, of New York City, has just received from the Board of Estimate and Apportionment an approval of a new plan for snow removal during the present winter. A feature of the new plans calls for a bonus payment to all laborers under certain conditions and which is a radical departure from accustomed methods.

The problem of snow removal in New York City differs from that of any other city in the world, not only in the magnitude of the work but in a number of other conditions arising therefrom. One of these is that there do not appear to be available in the city and vicinity sufficient vehicles, including all private ones, contractors' carts, etc., to remove the snow to waterside dumps in the few days which the citizens think should be sufficient for the work. For instance, the last winter the area scheduled for snow cleaning was about 20,000,000 square yards, only 3,000 vehicles were procurable, which could not average more than 50 cubic yards of snow each per day; so that with the 38-inch snowfall of last February and March it was not theoretically possible to remove the snow in much under forty days.

The chief feature of Commissioner Fetherston's new plan is the adopting of snow fighting as against snow removal, the former term being used by the Commissioner to describe the removal of snow as it falls, the latter to describe the past practice of waiting until the storm was practically over before any work was begun on removal.

There are two very important advantages connected with this. One is that, by removing the snow as it falls, it is handled while clean and carries no dirt to clog the sewers. (Under the old method, snow piles were often covered with garbage and ashes, which had to be removed with snow.) This made the use of the sewers much more practicable than if dirty snow were handled. The other important advantage is that the principal streets are kept clear for traffic rather than cleaned only after several days of a practical tying up of the traffic of the city.

The work scheduled for this winter comprises 25,830,743 square yards on 734 miles of streets. Of this area it is proposed to adopt snow fighting (immediate removal) by city forces on 19,106,437 square yards; to have snow removed by contract on 3,304,000 square yards, while 3,420,300 square yards must be cleaned by the street railways.

During the year the Commissioner had a force of engineers, office men, etc., making a survey of about 1,100 miles of sewers, determining the ordinary flow through each of 50,000 manholes, and plotting on a map of the city this information, together with the size of the sewers in each street. Using this map, and making certain assumptions based upon the investigation as to the amount of snow which could be carried by each sewer, a plan of campaign was mapped out. There was calculated the area of street and sidewalk which could discharge its snow into each manhole; it being assumed that the maximum rate of snow fall and consequently the maximum rate at which the snow would be brought to the manholes would be one-half inch an hour, this being based upon measurements of storms in previous years. This calculation, when completed, showed what areas of the city could be cleaned by scraping the snow into sewers as it fell, and what could not be cleaned in this way but from which the snow must be removed later or in some other way. The area for sewer removal was then divided into districts of such size that a unit force or squad under one foreman could handle each district economically. (These and other plans and conditions were designated on the map by symbols of colors, lines, etc.) It is believed that considerably more than half of the areas scheduled for snow cleaning can be cleaned by this use of the sewers.

In addition to this complete removal, the snow-fighting force will remove snow from intersections of paved non-scheduled streets, placing it in sewers where possible, piling it where not. The force will also clean the roadway between curb and track at points where street cars stop. On scheduled streets where only a part or none of the snow can be removed by sewers, the snow will be piled during the storm for removal by carts or trucks as soon thereafter as possible.

Last year's experiments in disposing of 800,000 cubic yards of snow in large sewers showed the cost of this to be approximately 15 cents per cubic yard. A comparison between removing snow as outlined above and the old method of contract work has been made by Mr. Fetherston, estimating the snow to fall at the rate of one-half inch per hour and the storm to continue for fourteen hours. The estimated time required to clean the scheduled streets after the storm ceases would be four hours in the former case and 168 hours in the latter. The estimated cost per million square yards would be $5,460 under the proposed plan as against $22,438 by contract work, and the estimated cost of cleaning the entire scheduled area would be $109,200 as against $448,760 paid for contract hauling to river dumps.

In figuring on the amount of snow, the records of maximum snow fall for the past twenty-five years showed that this has occurred in every month from November to April; that it has varied from 5.5 inches to 17.8 inches; that the maximum duration of a storm has been thirty-three hours, while the average for storms giving more than three inches fall has been 13.5 hours. The maximum rate of fall has been nine-tenths of an inch per hour, but the average is one-half inch. The total depth of snow per winter has reached 42 inches, but the average per winter has been 21.3 inches. The number of storms of three inches or more has averaged four per winter, but has reached a maximum of seven. Study has been made of the method of predicting snow storms by observation of the barometer, wet and dry bulb thermometer, direction and force of the wind, cloud formation, etc., and it is proposed to use these in connection with weather reports of the United States Weather Bureau in preparing for storms.

The plans for snow fighting are based on the assumption that a sufficient force of emergency labor can be obtained to start work, day or night, within four hours after the beginning of a continuing snow fall; that the city can offer a rate of payment which will attract labor, and that the weather conditions will not be so extreme as to prevent men from working during the storm. (The last cannot always be relied upon.)

The labor problem will perhaps be the crucial one. Effort has been made to advertise the work as generally as possible and laborers are requested to register as snow fighters at the various section houses and stables of the department, leaving their names and addresses. Notification cards are sent to all men on the list, giving their assignments and information as to time and place for reporting. Each individual is assigned to a gang, and each gang is given a set task to accomplish—the keeping of a specified area cleared of snow up to a rate of fall of one-half inch per hour. Each gang is in charge of a regular employee of the department. The unit organization will be based upon a department sweeper as leader and a squad of emergency laborers (generally ten to twelve), working under the direction of regular department officers. This will constitute the regular snow fighting organization. The first reserve will consist of regular drivers with horses and carts, drafted for a night shift, to clear streets where the snow fighting force cannot use the sewers. The second reserve will consist of private trucks for day or night service, used as a supplementary force when the two regular forces have been unable to cope with the storm. This reserve force will be covered by the registration of private vehicles and will be assigned as may be found necessary by the situation which develops. Definite printed instructions have been drafted to cover all phases of the work, classes have been started for instructing officers of the department and night and day calls of employees are being tried to prove their effectiveness.

Should a snowstorm start during the day, the emergency laborers will report where their notification cards direct and will be taken in charge by the street cleaning force. Should a storm start at night, it is proposed to use the police to call out the regular employees of the department, each patrolman being furnished with a list of those on his beat and being reached by telephone from police headquarters with instructions to do so as soon as possible. Each patrolman will also have a list of the registered laborers on his beat, and each street cleaning employee with a list of those in his squad, and between them they will be expected to rouse the emergency laborers and get them to the work. The night workers in each of the department stables also will be utilized for calling men to the work.

The principal tool used in this snow fighting will be the regular sweeper's hand scraper, supplemented by road scrapers, scoops, plows, picks, etc.—all standard department equipment. Experiments last year showed that with a pan scraper a snow fighter can carry to a sewer manhole $7\frac{1}{2}$ cubic feet of snow (measured as fallen) at each trip. It is proposed to increase the snow carrying capacity of sewers where necessary by increasing the depth of water by the use of bags as temporary dams at manholes.

On unscheduled streets—those from which it is not considered essential to remove the snow—snow plows attached to automobiles and horse-drawn plows will be used for opening the roadways.

Emergency labor will be paid 30 cents per hour for time of actual work, with an additional 10 cents per hour if the set tasks are accomplished within the time limits specified. It is hoped this will provide the needed incentive for men to work while a storm is in progress; and as the bonus will be paid on the basis of squad work, each individual will be urged by the remainder of the squad to help perform the set task. Regular employees will be allowed 50 per cent in addition to their regular wages as a bonus for accomplishing the set task. Such extra clerks, inspectors and checkers as will be needed in connection with this work it is proposed to obtain from the other departments where they can be spared, these also to receive 50 per cent addition to their regular wages. This idea of bonus and increased wages is considered essential to the success of the method, as otherwise it is not believed that men could be induced to work during snowstorms.

It is understood that while employees of other departments are in the emergency employment of the Street Cleaning Department they will be on leave without pay in the department where regularly employed; therefore, while they are earning 50 per cent more than their regular pay, the net cost to the city would be less than if outside parties were employed at the regular rates.

In each section or district floating checkers and inspectors of the finance department, in addition to the regular foreman, assistant foreman and acting foreman, will verify the extent and quality of work performed to determine whether bonuses have been earned. Each snow fighter will be provided with a card in duplicate, to be punched at intervals by the foreman in charge of the gang and verified by the floating checkers and inspectors. Pay rolls will be based upon these punched cards. Each emergency laborer will be identified by a brass or celluloid check in addition to his card.

It is hoped that citizens will remove the snow from the sidewalk to the roadway before the city has finished clearing the latter. Should this not be done, the sidewalk snow must be piled on the outer edge of the sidewalk, from which it will be removed later if the needs of the locality demand.

Contracts have been let for snow removal work on 3,304,000 square yards. Approximately 700 loading and dump foremen will be required to supervise this work, and these also it is hoped to obtain from the other departments of the city by allowing them 50 per cent increase to their regular pay. Tentative arrangements have been made with the contractors to place automobile and horse-drawn plows at work on the principal thoroughfares when a snowfall starts, with the object of keeping the roadways open while the storm is in progress.

The street railways are required by the charter to remove the snow from their tracks. The total area which the street railways are thus required to clear is about 3,420,300 square yards. Arrangements have been made with the street railways by which they will clear snow from this area, by assigning to the company a certain length of street to be cleared from curb to curb, rather than having every street railway street cleared partly by the railroad and partly by the city forces.

STRONG MESSAGE UPON IMMIGRATION BILL.

Mayor Curley, one of the greatest foes of restrictive immigration in this country, and who led the fight in the House of Representatives at Washington, during the 62d Congress, against the enactment of the Burnett-Dillingham Bill, providing for a literacy test for aliens, sent the following message to his intimate friend, United States Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, upon the 17th instant:

CITY OF BOSTON,
OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,
December 17, 1914.

HON. JAMES A. REED,
United States Senate,
Washington, D. C.:

The enactment of the Immigration Bill providing for a literacy test will result in the greatest economic error of the generation. The test of admission to this country should be character and physical condition rather than education. For 131 years America has proven the refuge and hope of thousands of splendid men and women compelled by political and religious persecution to leave their native lands. The upbuilding of this Republic has been largely the labor of their brains and hands. I beg you will oppose this iniquitous measure and arouse your Democratic colleagues to action with a negative vote.

Every righteous consideration safeguarding our country is involved in today's vote, and the most sacred traditions nestling in the folds of our country's flag, that for those here seeking opportunity there is equality and protection, and the only credentials necessary are character, health and right intention.

JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT.

The Mayor has formally approved the granting of a contract to the Barber Asphalt Paving Company, without advertising, for repairs to asphalt pavement, upon a statement of fact presented by Commissioner Rourke of the Public Works Department.

The statement of Commissioner Rourke is as follows:

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT, BOSTON, December 16, 1914.

To the Mayor of Boston:

Authority is respectfully requested to award to the Barber Asphalt Paving Company a contract for repairing with asphalt pavement over the water trench on Columbus avenue, between Camden and Worcester streets, without inviting proposals therefor by advertisement, the area to be repaired being six hundred (600) square yards, the estimated cost for labor and materials being $1,950.

This contract is made necessary from the fact that the pavement on this street is under a guaranty until 1917 by the Barber Asphalt Paving Company.

This high service water pipe was laid in this street, which destroyed the surface of the roadway over the trench, and for the purpose of maintaining the guaranty it is advisable to make this contract.

Respectfully,

L. K. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

The Commissioner of Public Works states his intention to construct a surface drain of concrete, 3 feet 9 inches in diameter, and one catch-basin in Walnut avenue, between Dennison and Crawford streets, Roxbury, at an estimated cost of $3,640.

LIABILITY FOR FIRE.

Mayor Curley will present a bill to the Legislature modeled after the provision in the New York City charter which makes business men and others liable for injuries or death in case of fire in their buildings, if they have neglected to close hoistways, well holes, trapdoors and iron shutters, which neglect is responsible for trouble experienced.

Mayor Curley appreciates the fact that this measure will not get far in the Legislature without decided opposition, but he says that the provisions have worked well in New York and it is strange that Boston has not patterned after them before.

In case of a violation of the provision that hoistways, well holes, trapdoors and iron shutters shall be closed at the completion of business each day, the occupant of the building having use or control of them shall be liable to a fine of $50.

In case of accident or injury to life or limb resulting directly or indirectly from neglect or omission to comply with the provisions, the persons responsible shall be liable to pay any officer, agent or employee of the Fire Department injured, or whose life may be lost in the discharge of his duty, not less than $1,000, and in case of death not less than $5,000. In addition, the section reads:

"Any or all persons from any fire resulting from wilful or culpable negligence or criminal intent or design, shall, in addition to the present provision of law for the punishment of persons convicted of arson, be liable in a civil action for the payment of any and all damages to the person or property, the result of such fire, and also for the payment of all costs and expenses of said fire department incurred in and about the use of employees, apparatus and materials in the extinguishment of any fire resulting from such cause, the amount of such costs and expenses to be fixed by said commissioner, and when collected shall be paid into the relief fund of said department herein created; and shall also be liable for injury to person or loss of life of any officer, agent or employee of said fire department in the same manner and like extent, and to be used for in like manner as in the preceding part of this section."

The bill will be drawn by Corporation Counsel Sullivan after consultation with Fire Commissioner Grady, who has prepared a report of conditions often experienced in large factories and storehouses and of the favorable conditions under which the New York firemen work when fire breaks out in similar buildings. Not only have many fires spread in Boston by reason of unclosed shutters, but many accidents have occurred by failure to close trapdoors and well holes at night. Such accidents have been tabulated by the Fire Commissioner and present a formidable argument, he believes, for the innovation that is planned.

ARTOCORPUS INCISA.

By CAPT. JOHN H. DILLON, Chairman of the Park and Recreation Department.

"The bread fruit tree," as may be comprehended from the name, is a very useful tree as well as one of the most singular productions of the vegetable kingdom. It is found in Asia and almost all the islands of the tropics, where its fruit furnishes, when roasted, a substance not unlike bread made from wheat. In many of the islands the fruit lasts in season about eight months of the year and is the staple article of diet. It is said to be both wholesome and nourishing and may be prepared in several ways. The wood is soft and is used for the building of huts and boats; the sap is used for bird lime and from the inner bark is prepared a species of South Sea Island cloth. The value and easy culture of the bread fruit tree attracted the attention of the British government and about the year 1787 a vessel was fitted for the purpose of obtaining a cargo of the trees from the Society Islands and transplanting them in many of the islands in British possession.

The idea of bread, that very valuable food of man, being so easily obtained was sure to engage attention and was very aptly described by Lord Byron as follows:

The bread-tree, without the ploughshare, yields
The unreaped harvest of unfurrowed fields
And bakes its unadulterated loaves
Without a furnace in unpurchased groves
And flings off famine from its fertile breast;
A priceless market for the gathering guest.

REORGANIZATION OF THE HEALTH DEPARTMENT.

Mayor Curley is strongly in favor of a reorganization of the Boston Board of Health, insofar that the department may come under the direct supervision of a single officer.

The inclosed letter and form of proposed ordinance are self-explanatory:

December 17, 1914.

To the Honorable the City Council:

GENTLEMEN,—I hereby submit an ordinance for the reorganization of the Health Department and respectfully recommend its passage. I believe that the department cannot attain the efficiency which is required in the public interest until it is put in charge of a single officer, who may be held solely responsible for the conduct of the department. This principle has been recognized in the reorganization of the State Board of Health and has been approved by the leading members of the medical profession.

Yours respectfully,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

To Reorganize the Health Department.

SECTION 1. The health department shall be under the charge and control of a Health Commissioner, who shall be appointed by the Mayor under the provisions of sections nine and ten of chapter four hundred and eight-six of the Acts of the year 1909, and who shall receive an annual salary of seventy-five hundred dollars.

SECT. 2. The Health Commissioner shall exercise the powers and perform the duties conferred or imposed by law upon the Board of Health of the City of Boston or upon the chairman thereof.

SECT. 3. The Health Commissioner shall establish the following divisions of the health department: Medical division, sanitary division, food inspection division, clerical division and quarantine division. Each division shall be in charge of a deputy commissioner, qualified by education, training or experience, who shall be appointed by the Health Commissioner. The salaries of the deputy commissioners shall be fixed by the Health Commissioner subject to the approval of the Mayor.

SECT. 4. All ordinances and parts of ordinances inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed.

SECT. 5. The provisions of this ordinance relating to the appointment of the Health Commissioner shall take effect upon its passage and all other provisions shall take effect when such appointment becomes operative.

EXTRA HELP UPON INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL.

The Mayor has formally approved the employment for extra service by the Schoolhouse Department of E. J. Phaneuf and H. L. Patterson, chiefs of divisions, in the amount of $60.

Chairman Lomasney's communication is as follows:

December 14, 1914.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor:

DEAR SIR,—In our attempt to get the new Industrial School plans ready, so as to put this building on the market at the earliest possible moment, and also that work may be started in the early spring, the Board respectfully requests permission to employ on overtime work two chiefs of divisions, E. J. Phaneuf and H. L. Patterson, at a total cost not exceeding sixty (60) dollars.

Respectfully yours,

J. P. LOMASNEY,
Chairman.

NAPKINS FOR CONSUMPTIVES' HOSPITAL.

An agreement has been reached between the Mayor, the Trustees of the Boston Consumptive Hospital, and the firm of Messrs. Stone & Forsyth, to furnish the Boston Consumptives' Hospital at Mattapan 2,032,000 hygienic paper napkins of standard quality, size 14 by 14 inches, and cut said napkins to a size of 7 by 7 inches and pack them, at a price of 63 cents the thousand.

Upon August 11, 1914, Dr. Simon F. Cox, former superintendent of the hospital, made an agreement with the Stone &

Forsyth Company for the purchase of the napkins and by completing the negotiations prior to the declaration of the European War made a saving of 8 cents the thousand.

When Dr. White, the new superintendent of the hospital, notified the Stone & Forsyth Company of his desire for a further shipment, the officials of the company at the mill in charge of the execution of the order refused to fill the same at the prevailing price of 63 cents the thousand. An attorney of the company finally effected an agreement for the delivery of the napkins at the original price, and a saving of $162.56 was made on the order for delivery.

BONDS OF CITY CONTRACTORS.

General William H. Osborn, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, has sent down the following ruling, relative to the bonds of contracts upon municipal work, and declaring that this character of surety is exempt from taxation, under the war tax provisions.

He declares:

"Every bond or obligation of the nature thereof, without regard to form, sealed or unsealed, with or without sureties, made by any individual, firm or corporation to indemnify any person, corporation or other entity for loss, damage or liability, or for the doing or not doing of anything therein specified, and all undertakings, proposals or agreements of every character offering indemnity or guaranteeing validity to any person or thing, is subject to a 50 cent tax unless the sureties thereon, if any are offered, consist of persons, companies or corporations transacting the business of fidelity, etc., insurance, when the rate of tax and the only tax required to be paid thereon will be one-half of one cent on each dollar or fractional part thereof of the premium charged.

"Bonds required in legal proceedings or such as are essentially necessary in matters pending before judicial tribunals are exempted specifically by the law from taxation. Such bonds would generally include those required of executors, guardians, receivers and other fiduciaries appointed by the court to care for or represent the interests of property or persons within the custody of the court. If simply appointed by any tribunal or officer to discharge other functions, the bonds are given so subject to taxation.

"All bonds given by State, township, county and subdivisions thereof are exempt from taxation.

"Bonds given to a State for the performance of contracts such as the construction of State or municipal buildings, or the discharge of other duties strictly for or in behalf of the State, when necessary to protect the State's interests, are not subject to taxation.

"Certificates issued by State officers authorizing companies or their agents to do business within the State, or vesting private persons with authority to transact business of a private nature not under State or municipal control, are subject to tax.

"Bonds executed and delivered prior to the inception of the act aforesaid, whether taking effect immediately or subsequent to the enforcement of the taxing Act, are not subject to tax.

"Certificates issued by State or municipal officers showing the authority of the person before whom the instrument is attested, attached to any bond subject to tax, are subject to a tax of ten cents as provided by law."

FINANCE COMMISSION.

BOSTON, December 14, 1914.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor:

SIR,—The Finance Commission has received a copy of a communication sent to your Honor by the Election Department, dated November 25, 1914, stating that it had deducted $34.60 from the bill of Thomas McMann for failure to light lamps on the election booths previous to November 5, 1914. This action purports to be in compliance with the recommendation of the Finance Commission in its report of November 5, 1914.

The Finance Commission submits its report to your Honor as to whether the amount deducted, $34.60, is correct.

John M. Minton, Esq., chairman of the Election Commission, stated to the Finance Commission that the contractor (Mr. McMann) was requested by the Election Commissioners "to give us as accurately as he could the number of lights that were not lighted according to the terms of the contract." . . . Mr. McMann "consulted, or talked, with the man that he hired to light lamps, named Murphy, and Murphy rendered to him a statement in writing, which Mr. McMann brought to our Board." This statement gave the amount to be deducted from the contractor's bill as $34.50 (not $34.60, as stated in the letter of the Election Commissioners to your Honor), and was accepted by the Election Commission.

The lamplighter (Mr. Murphy) stated to a representative of the Finance Commission that the amount $34.50 was guessed by him and was not correct, and had he known that the contractor was charging the City of Boston $330 to $350 a month it would have made a difference in the amount to be deducted.

The following is the testimony of the lamplighter (Mr. Murphy):

Q. You said you had known there were not lights on the booths but you had not told Mr. McMann because you were afraid? A. Yes.

Q. How long had that observation continued? A. Observation?

Q. Yes. One, two, three, or four months? A. About a month.

Q. That the lamps were missing? A. I think so.

Q. Were lamps missing on all of the booths? A. Not all of them, most of them didn't have only just one lamp.

Q. And that continued about one month? A. I think so.

Q. You couldn't tell me the definite number of lamps that were missing, could you? A. No.

Q. You never kept any record? A. No, I didn't keep any record how many lamps were missing, just thinking, to the best of my knowledge.

Q. Have the election commissioners talked with you? A. No, sir, I never see them.

Q. After you talked with Mr. McMann you brought back a report to him that so much money should be deducted from his bill? A. Yes.

Q. How much money was it? A. I think it was $35.40.

Q. How did you come to compute that $35.40 was the correct charge? A. I didn't say it was correct—the nearest I could give.

Q. Only a guess? A. Only a guess. I am not educated enough—I couldn't figure. It was the best I could do.

Q. You are reasonably sure that most of the booths had one lantern? A. I couldn't say.

Q. You were satisfied if they had one lantern? A. Well, at that time I thought it would be all right so long as I covered my booth.

Q. Yes, but most of the booths had only one lantern, that satisfied you? A. That covered me, if I had only one lantern.

Q. This condition lasted between three weeks and a month? A. I wouldn't say. I ain't sure.

Q. How long then? A. I couldn't say. I ain't sure.

Q. It might be a month or three weeks? A. It might be a week or two weeks.

Q. It might be a month, too? A. Yes.

Q. You made the suggestion it was $35.40? A. Yes.

Q. Whom did you make it to? A. I made out the bill and give it to Mr. McMann.

Q. Did he ask you to make out the bill? A. Yes, sir, he asked my nearest guess. Further evidence as to how Mr. Murphy guessed the amount which should be charged.

Q. You had not definite basis? A. He had some paper he read to me.

Q. What did it say in the paper? A. It said one booth, such a place, not lighted for so long. Of course that is where I got it from. If it said so many days I put it down so many days, if it said so many lights, I put it down 60 cents.

Q. And now you couldn't say about how long after you went to work you were down to where you had practically one light on most of the booths? Would it be three weeks, or four weeks, or what? A. Gosh! I couldn't say.

Whether the Election Commission intended to follow or not to follow the recommendation of the Finance Commission, it was the duty of the Election Commission to examine the contractor (Mr. McMann) and the lamplighter (Mr. Murphy) and, after due investigation, to decide itself what was the amount which should be refunded to the City of Boston. It should not have delegated to the contractor, who was charged with the breach of contract, the investigation and the decision as to how much the amount should be. No man can fairly and honestly investigate himself.

The Finance Commission is of the opinion that the Election Commissioners did not estimate correctly "the number of nights that inadequate lighting was furnished by the contractor." It is of the further opinion that the Election Commissioners still have time to comply with a portion of the Finance Commission's recommendations in its report of November 5, 1914.

The Finance Commission renews its recommendation of November 5, 1914, namely:

"That the Election Department estimate the number of nights inadequate lighting has been furnished by the contractor and deduct this amount from his monthly bill."

Respectfully submitted,

THE FINANCE COMMISSION,
by JOHN R. MURPHY,
Chairman.

BOSTON, December 14, 1914.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor:

SIR,—The Finance Commission submits a report upon a proposed purchase of laundry machinery for the South Department of the City Hospital, as follows:

The total appropriation made for the purchase of this laundry machinery is $12,000.

The trustees of the hospital requested (informally) Dr. Place, the head of the South Department, to make a study of new laundry machinery for that department. As a result of his study and investigation of the subject, Dr. Place drew up a list of preferred laundry machinery, together with one and two alternative makes, in order to obtain prices, not only on the preferred machines, but also on the alternates. This list was sent to the architect (of the improvements in the South Department), Mr. Joseph McGinniss, and he was also informed why this list was prepared by Dr. Place. Mr. McGinniss drew up the specifications for the furnishing of the laundry machinery, and advertised for bids thereon.

The following are the objections to the specifications of the architect, as stated by Dr. Place:

The specifications for the Troy washing machine are incorrect.

The wording of the specifications under the caption "Extractors" permits the Poland Laundry Machinery Company only to submit a bid.

The specifications under the caption "Wrist Band Ironer" should have appeared under the caption "Collar and Cuff Ironer," and are also wrong, in that the architect has inserted the heating process by gas and electricity, when it should have been by steam process, which is much cheaper to maintain.

The item under "Collar and Cuff Ironer" is worded in such a fashion as to call for heating by gas and electricity. This is incorrect and should read "by gas and by electricity" (i. e. either to be used separately), so as to permit the hospital authorities to choose either of the two methods of heating.

The specification for the tumbler dryer is so drawn that, although the Troy machine is stated to be the preferred machine, it would be impossible for the Troy Company to bid on it. The wording of this specification would permit bidding by the Atlas Laundry Company alone.

Dr. Place stated that he had not been consulted by the architect before the specifications were issued to the public and bids requested.

The architect stated that the hospital trustees gave him complete control of the work of installing the laundry machinery, and he was told not to consult with Dr. Place. He further stated that, while he had received the list of preferred laundry machinery from Dr. Place, he had inserted those machines preferred which seemed to him best suited to the purpose, and he had suppressed the alternate makes but had made allowance for bidders to submit any make they desired.

The time for submitting bids closed on Friday, December 3, but no bids were received. Instead, two letters were received, one from the Poland Laundry Machinery Company, asking that the time for bids be extended, and one from the Troy Laundry Machinery Company, stating that "after going through the specifications carefully and considering all details as mentioned, we cannot consistently submit a proposal complying with the same and we do not see how any other laundry machine company could do so." The American Laundry Machinery Company also notified the Hospital Department that it would not bid upon the specifications, as "they were evidently drawn to favor a special line and prevent competition," and stating "we would be very glad to submit a proposal on a specification properly drawn, clearly stating what is wanted, but we feel that it would be a waste of effort on our part to submit a proposal on the plans and specifications advertised."

The Finance Commission is of the opinion that if Mr. McGinniss had consulted with anyone in authority at the City Hospital the specifications for laundry machinery would not have contained the errors noted above.

The commission recommends:

That the specifications be redrawn, and that your Honor request the Hospital Department to detail some person connected with the hospital (preferably Dr. Place) to work in conjunction with Mr. McGinniss, so that the existing errors may be corrected before bids are again requested.

Respectfully submitted,

THE FINANCE COMMISSION,

Chairman.

BOSTON, December 17, 1914.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor:

SIR,—The Finance Commission submits a report on a charge of illegal collection of money, preferred by Mr. Dennis O'Connell, formerly assistant janitor in the High School of Practical Arts, against Mr. Henry E. Meyer, the janitor of that school.

Mr. O'Connell, on October 29, 1914, came to the office of the Finance Commission to accuse Mr. Meyer of collecting money from the City of Boston for services which he as assistant janitor had not performed. He claimed that Mr. Meyer had rendered bills for evening work performed by him as assistant when he was in reality not present. In partial support of his charges he cited two evenings, May 6 and May 7, 1914, on which he stated the janitor had submitted bills to the school committee and collected money thereon for services and attendance performed and rendered by the assistant janitor (Mr. O'Connell) and that these bills were not correct, as he had not worked on those evenings. The amount which Mr. Meyer was charged with having collected in these two cases was small, but inasmuch as the accusation affected all the evening pay rolls which Mr. Meyer had submitted, the commission decided that it was of sufficient importance to make further inquiry.

The pay rolls in question were rendered under that division of the work of the school committee known as the "Extended Use of School Buildings," and pertained to the night sessions of this branch of the school committee's work.

The payment for this night work is made entirely separate from the pay rolls of the janitors for their regular day school work and is charged to a different appropriation.

The direction and supervision of this work of the Extended Use of School Buildings was under the charge of Mr. Ralph E. Hawley, as Director, and two clerical assistants, Franklin T. Lillotte, with a title of messenger but doing clerical work, and Miss Blanche G. Wing, and various managers assigned to evening centers.

Mr. Hawley had supervision over all the evening school centers, viz., the Charlestown High; Dorchester High; East Boston High; High School of Practical Arts, Roxbury; South Boston

High, and the Washington School, together with the educational and recreational features carried on there, and also supervision over the use of school buildings for social functions by outside organizations. The regular evening school sessions where school instruction only was given, such as the evening elementary schools and the evening high schools, did not come under the jurisdiction of Mr. Hawley. In order to compensate the janitors for this additional work entailed by the use of school buildings in the evenings, the School Committee adopted a schedule of pay which was based on the number of rooms occupied, the number of evenings when a janitor and his assistant were employed, and the amount of furniture which it was necessary to move from room to room, or from floor to floor, in order to provide proper space for the features of the evening. The schedule also provided a certain fee for "overtime" work performed by the janitor and his assistant after nine-thirty and eleven p. m.

The present incumbent of the position of Director of the Extended Use of School Buildings is Mrs. Eva Whiting White. She has this year, commencing October 13, 1914, entirely eliminated the items of overtime and moving furniture for the evening centers.

Mr. Lillotte had direct supervision over the preparation, tabulation and correction of the pay rolls, and Miss Wing assisted him in this and other clerical work. As Mr. Hawley and the manager of the High School of Practical Arts center had left the service of the city and could not be reached, the two assistants (Mr. Lillotte and Miss Wing) were examined at the office of the commission, and also Mr. Dennis O'Connell, Mr. Henry E. Meyer and Mr. Anthony B. King.

The Finance Commission finds from the statements of Mr. Lillotte and Miss Wing that Mr. Hawley and his assistants were at least suspicious of the bills rendered for extra work by the janitors and that no measures were taken to verify their suspicions nor did they communicate their suspicions to the School Committee.

The statements of Mr. Meyer were conflicting. When asked for an explanation of the charge of Mr. O'Connell to the effect that he (Mr. Meyer) had been "padding" his pay rolls, he offered no defence except a denial and a statement that Anthony B. King had worked for him evenings, including the two in question.

Mr. Anthony B. King testified in substance that he had been told by Mr. Meyer to tell the commission that he had worked in the school on the evenings of May 6 and May 7 and other evenings. Later he testified that he had worked only one night during the session, namely, in April, 1914.

The commission has endeavored to obtain further information about the Meyer bills and the pay rolls on account of night work for other schools. The attempt, however, was abandoned, as it was found by a representative of the Finance Commission that the records at the School Committee rooms were in such an incomplete and inexact state that it was impossible to analyze them.

The Finance Commission believes that the charges against Mr. Meyer are of such a nature and so substantiated that there should be a thorough investigation of the whole subject.

The commission attaches hereto, as part of its report, the statements made by Mr. O'Connell, Mr. Lillotte, Miss Wing, Mr. Meyer and Mr. King.

The commission recommends:

1. That the trial board for janitors investigate the past practices of the evening center janitors in regard to charges for overtime, assistants and moving furniture for evening centers.

2. That Henry E. Meyer, janitor of the High School of Practical Arts, be placed on trial before the above-mentioned board on the accusation of having "padded" the pay rolls of his school for the evenings of May 6 and May 7, 1914, and various other evenings since November 24, 1913, the date of the opening of the High School of Practical Arts.

Respectfully submitted,

THE FINANCE COMMISSION,
by JOHN R. MURPHY,
Chairman.

GROWTH OF INSANITY.

A very interesting report was issued during the week by Dr. Joseph Hill, a noted alienist, attached to the Census Bureau. He declares that high life and strain of competition in the large cities are increasing insanity in the United States. In six years from 1904 to 1910 there was an increase of 25 per cent in insane persons, while total population increased 12 per cent.

"The statistics indicate," the report says, "that more insanity is caused by the stress and strain, the keener competition, the congested housing conditions and the vice and dissipation of city life. It seems probable therefore that the increase in the proportion of total population living in cities has resulted in an increase of insanity."

Actual increase in insanity, however, is not as great as statistics would indicate, as these increases are partly attributable to extension of provisions for care of insane and growth of practice of placing them in institutions. In 1904, 150,151 insane persons were reported in institutions, while in 1910 the total has increased to 187,791. In 1904 there were 184 insane reported in every 100,000 persons and by 1910 this had increased to 204.

REGULATIONS REGARDING TEMPERATURE OF SCHOOL ROOMS.

On motion, it was ORDERED, That the Superintendent be requested to send to principals of schools a copy of Sections 231 and 255 of the Regulations as amended, with the following additional communication:—

It is the opinion of the best medical authority that the health and efficiency of teachers and pupils in the class-room are best conserved by a room temperature of 66 degrees F. to 67 degrees F., inclusive, and by the thorough flushing of the room with pure air from outside the building. (See the regulations relating to the ventilation and temperature of school rooms, particularly the rules for janitors, 30 to 34 inclusive, and Sections 226, 231 and 255 of the Regulations, as amended Nov. 16, 1914, given on accompanying sheet.) Temperatures in school rooms last winter were reported all the way from 55 degrees F. to 83 degrees F.

Right conditions can best be secured by the active co-operation of principals, teachers and janitors. It is accordingly suggested that each principal of a district containing any building where such conditions are not usually secured shall try to find out, through a conference with the teachers and janitor of such building, where the trouble lies, and, if possible, get it remedied; and where difficulties exist that he is unable to remedy through establishing a thorough understanding with the teachers and janitor, consult with the Director of School Hygiene and the Schoolhouse Custodian, who will, if necessary, bring the matter to the attention of the School Committee.

A certified thermometer will be supplied to each principal on requisition to the Schoolhouse Custodian. All other thermometers in use should be tested by comparison with this certified one, and the variation recorded so that the reading may be as accurate as possible.

Requisitions for window shades for rooms in which the sun's rays are accountable for over-heating, should be sent to the Director of School Hygiene.

A petition was presented, signed by numerous residents of Mt. Hope, Roslindale, that additional land on the south side of the John D. Philbrick School be taken for yard space, believing that the sunny side is the best side, and that this land can be bought through to Mount Hope street for about the same price as one estate on each side of the school building.

A further communication was received from the Cleveland Club of Ward 23, under date of Nov. 16, 1914, reporting that the Club voted to go on record as favoring the taking of land on the south side of the John D. Philbrick School for a play yard for the children of that district.

Referred to the Superintendent.

A communication was received from Margaret M. Sullivan, Secretary, John D. Philbrick Home and School Association, under date of Nov. 20, 1914, reporting that the Association voted to go on record as being in favor of taking land on both sides of the John D. Philbrick School for the extension of its school yards.

Referred to the Superintendent.

PETITION FOR ADDITIONAL ACCOMMODATIONS, MARY HEMENWAY DISTRICT.

The Superintendent presented on behalf of a committee of the Mary Hemenway Parents' Association, representing the South Dorchester Improvement Association and the Ashmont and Dorchester Parents' Associations, a petition presented to him orally for a new building in the Mary Hemenway District, and improvement of yards of the Harris, Gibson street and Mary Hemenway Schools.

Referred to the Director of School Hygiene for his information.

ESTIMATE OF THE COST OF CONDUCTING THE BOSTON INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL FOR BOYS.

The following estimate of the cost of conducting the Boston Industrial School for Boys for the financial year 1914-15, prepared by the Master of the school, was ordered to be printed in full:—

Estimate of Cost of Maintaining the Boston Industrial School for Boys, submitted March 20, 1913, by the Master.

Cost of existing school, 120 pupils at $224. total $26,880. Of this amount the sum of $20,600 is salaries, and all other expenses $6,280. That is, the per capita cost for instruction is $172 and the per capita cost for other expenses $52.

If the number of pupils be doubled by the addition of 30 to the Machine Shop Department, 30 to the Electrical Department, 30 to the Woodworking Department, 15 to the Printing Department, and if an additional department of sheet metal work with a group of 15 be included, the increase in salaries need not amount to more than $9,700. Supplies and incidentals at the same rate as heretofore would amount to $12,560. The last two sums named, increased by the present salary expense, would amount to $42,860, which divided by 240 will give a per capita cost of $178.58, which is a reduction of nearly 19 per cent. over the present estimated cost.

If the present number of pupils increased to three times as many, or to 360, the per capita cost would be $167, of which, as in other cases, the city would pay one-half.

If the estimate of $167 as above stated for 360 pupils is correct the per capita cost to the city will be $83.50. When the number of pupils rises above 360, it is safe to assume that the per capita cost will not exceed that of secondary schools, viz., $82 per pupil.

This school should easily have at least 500 pupils in the course of a few years.

It is proposed to make the shop in every department a productive one, although in the above estimates no allowance has been made for income; without doubt such income will more than counterbalance any excess of cost which it is now impossible to foresee.

Statement Submitted May 27, 1914.

"The policy of the school with reference to the combination of higher and lower salaried men is such as to constantly decrease the per capita cost as the number of students increase.

For illustration—let us take the case of the department of neither the highest nor the lowest cost, namely, that which would be carried on by a Division Head, Class B, and let us consider for the sake of simplicity, only the shop end of it.

In starting a department it is necessary to begin with the Head, which is the most expensive part. Suppose we have but one group of boys of fifteen and that we pay the Department Head $2000. The per capita cost is $133.33.

Suppose, as in the existing case, we have two groups of boys handled by the Head and an Assistant, the former at $2000 and the latter at $1200. The per capita cost is $107.

Suppose now, there are three groups and we pay the third man $1000. The per capita cost is $93.33.

Again, suppose we have a fourth group and have an "Assistant Shop Instructor" at an average salary of $800. The per capita cost becomes $83.33.

But when the groups number three or four, it is easy to carry sections of about seventeen, so that with four such groups on the last named basis, the per capita cost would be $73.50.

You understand, of course, that in any of these cases the State is paying one-half of the cost.

This is only a single and simple illustration of how very rapidly the per capita cost of the whole school will be reduced as soon as we have adequate quarters for increased numbers."

CONVERSATIONAL METHOD OF INSTRUCTION IN FOREIGN LANGUAGES.

The communication with accompanying recommendations from the Board of Superintendents laid over at the meeting of Oct. 19, 1914 (see p. 174), relative to the adoption of the conversational method of instruction in modern foreign languages, was taken up and placed on file.

The following six orders were offered:—

1. ORDERED, That head masters of high schools are hereby directed to request teachers of modern foreign languages to place great emphasis upon oral instruction in these branches.

2. ORDERED, That the College Entrance Examination Board be requested to consider the practicability of attaching greater importance to oral instruction, in the college entrance requirements for modern foreign languages.

3. ORDERED, That, since the colleges are almost exclusively the source of supply of secondary school teachers, college authorities be urged to make provision for the adequate training of teachers of modern foreign languages, such equipment to include the ability to speak a modern foreign language intelligently.

4. ORDERED, That the Board of Superintendents be directed to provide a more rigid examination than heretofore to test the conversational ability of candidates who desire to qualify as teachers of modern foreign languages.

5. ORDERED, That head masters of high schools are hereby requested to advise pupils when they begin the study of a modern foreign language that they are expected to pursue that study uninterruptedly throughout the remainder of their high school course.

6. ORDERED, That the Superintendent be authorized to provide for pupils in our Normal School, who during their high school course have shown proficiency in French, German or Spanish, opportunity to continue the study of such language during their Normal School course, in order to qualify as teachers of such foreign language in the elementary grades, the method of instruction to be distinctively of the conversational type.

Laid over.

TRAFFIC INDEX PROVES SUCCESSFUL.

The regulation of street traffic has been greatly aided in a number of American cities by the use of marked zones upon the pavements. One detail alone has obstructed the wider and more satisfactory use of the system. Paving brick offers the solution to this perplexing detail.

In both Detroit and Dayton this method of regulating street traffic has proved very successful.

No satisfactory method for marking zones has yet been developed among police officials who have experimented with the zone idea. They have searched ardently for a white paint durable enough to stand a reasonable amount of street wear when applied to the surface of a pavement. Constant repainting of the pavements at considerable expense has been an accompaniment of traffic zone experiments wherever tried.

The use of anything so impermanent as paint on the surface of a public highway, of course, manifests the experimental nature of the present traffic zone era. When such means of regulating traffic have become standardized and wholly accepted, permanent markings will be needed.

Brick paving offers the best possible medium for such permanent marking. By laying lines of light brick against a dark brick background, or vice versa, lines can be established which will be visible for half a century if left alone or can be altered at trifling cost to conform with changes in regulations.

The object of the traffic zone system, so far, have been to keep the different currents of street traffic apart, particularly to indicate spaces within which the right and safety of the pedestrian must be respected. Street crossings are outlined with a 10-foot margin back of which vehicles must remain until signalled to proceed by the traffic officer.

Zones are also marked at points in the street where pedestrians enter and leave cars. The lines here inclose a space perhaps 10 by 30 feet in area parallel to the car tracks. Within this space the passenger can wait for the approaching car with a feeling of security that is impossible when the auto driver is not accustomed, by some visible sign, to steer clear of such spaces.

The problem of auto storage in business centers offers another function for marking. Detroit has set aside a portion of a wide, downtown plaza as a place for the parking of vehicles. Markings keep the machines in a straight line and indicate how much space each vehicle may use.

St. Louis has made attempts on several streets to establish an exclusive, one-way traffic compensated by a return traffic on a parallel street. This leaves one side of the street for parking vehicles, spaces being marked at right angles to the curb.

In the same city there is an attempt to divide auto traffic at street intersections, so that vehicles turning to the right will keep to the curb, while those going forward or to the left will steer near the center line of the street.

Analogy from practice in certain American factories indicates that all of these courses of traffic will eventually be indicated by markings on the street surface. In the factories referred to, the management sought for years to secure an ideal system of fire exit, to avoid the possibility of panic. Fire drills were ineffectual and took valuable time. The marking of exits afforded no safeguard against the crowding of certain exits while others were neglected. Finally lines and arrow marks were painted on the floor indicating the course to be taken by each operator to reach safety in case of fire. The marks lead, in every case, to the nearest outlet and distribute the forces among exits so as to avoid crowding. The system has borne every test successfully.

The time is probably at hand when travelers at congested crossings will find their way plainly indicated for them by traffic markings. The mosaic effects possible with varying shades of brick offer a method of marking that should be wholly satisfactory.

PHYSICIANS INDORSE MAYOR'S PLAN.

The plans of Mayor Curley for the general reorganization of the Boston Board of Health and providing for the local quarantine station at Gallop's Island to pass under Federal jurisdiction have been heartily approved by 1,400 of the leading physicians and surgeons of Boston and suburbs.

The following communication is self-explanatory:

To HIS HONOR JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of the City of Boston:

SIR,—At a meeting on December 22, 1914, the executive committees of the Suffolk District and of the Norfolk District of the Massachusetts Medical Society and of the Boston Homœopathic Medical Society, acting jointly for their respective societies, passed the following resolutions and recommendations unanimously. These societies together have a membership of about 1,400 physicians, of which more than 1,000 are residents of and practitioners of medicine in the City of Boston.

Resolved, That the best interests of the citizens of Boston demand a reorganization of the Health Department. The plan of a Health Commissioner, as a single officer responsible for the work of the department, would in our opinion be the most satisfactory solution of the problem, provided he be a man of national reputation and trained in matters of public health and sanitation. The proposed salary of $7,500 should make it possible to secure the services of such a man.

We therefore recommend the passage of the proposed ordinance, now under consideration by the City Council, for the reorganization of the Health Department.

Since this ordinance provides for the establishment of a quarantine division, and since his Honor the Mayor has recommended the transfer of the city quarantine station to the Federal service, we feel that it is appropriate to express an opinion of this matter also.

It is our conviction that the management of the quarantine station by the Federal authorities would be conducive to the better protection of the health of this city and of the country at large.

This is a matter of the greatest importance in view of the greatly increased danger to be expected from diseases brought by immigrants after the end of the European war.

We therefore indorse the proposition to transfer the quarantine station to the Federal authorities, and recommend the amendment in this particular of the ordinance to reorganize the Health Department.

Respectfully submitted,

H. D. ARNOLD, M. D.,
President of Suffolk District.

G. H. FRANCIS, M. D.,
President of Norfolk District.

C. B. CHADEVALL,
President of the Boston Homœopathic Medical Society.

WALTER C. HOWE, M. D.,
Secretary of Suffolk District.

EXCELLENT WORK OF STREET DEPARTMENT.

Commissioner Rourke of the Department of Public Works sent the Mayor upon the 22d instant an excellent statement of the splendid work performed by the men of the Department, in removing traces of the season's first snowstorm, which was combined with an inch rainfall, and which resulted in a vigorous task for the city employees.

In his formal statement to the Mayor, Commissioner Rourke declared:

CITY OF BOSTON,
PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT,
December 22, 1914.

To the Honorable the Mayor:

In connection with some newspaper criticisms of this morning in regard to handling the storm of yesterday by the Public Works Department, I wish to say that the condition of the streets this morning shows that the storm was handled efficiently. We had about four inches of snow, which started at about 6.30 in the morning, and along towards noon the snow turned to rain and we had an inch of rainfall, which made a very bad combination to handle. There were about 700 men on the work with 200 teams loading and removing the snow; also about 100 men of the Sewer Service engaged in keeping open the various catch-basins.

There was no trouble at all in handling the storm until the rain began to fall, and from one o'clock to about four o'clock conditions were rather bad in some of the low spots of the city, and this condition was particularly aggravated by the manner in which the abutters removed the snow from the sidewalks, plugging up the gutters and catch-basins which had been opened. This prevented a proper flow of the water and caused a great many of the flooded crosswalks complained of. The condition was further aggravated in the streets where the street railway has a location by their plows throwing the snow into the gutters and blocking them. Another thing which aggravated conditions was the great congestion of Christmas traffic which made it difficult for the men to work, particularly in the gutters where automobiles and wagons stood for a considerable time.

At five o'clock the entire shopping and theater district was in excellent condition.

Yours respectfully,

LOUIS K. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

ROAD FOUNDATIONS.

EXCERPT FROM THE ADDRESS OF J. A. JOHNSTON, DIVISION ENGINEER, MASSACHUSETTS HIGHWAY COMMISSION.

DELIVERED AT THE CONVENTION OF AMERICAN ROAD BUILDERS' ASSOCIATION, CHICAGO, ILLINOIS, DECEMBER 18, 1914.

Surfacing is secondary to foundations. The statement has many times been made that a waterproof surface requires little or no foundation because no water can get through it to the soil beneath. Many horrible examples might be cited to show the fallacy of this belief. A little consideration of the capillary action of the soil which draws water from the sides of the road and underground sources, as well as the water that will seep through the soil from higher points, will show that a waterproof surface is not sufficient unto itself without a proper base.

The right kind of gravel makes an excellent foundation, but most gravel contains enough silt, loam or clay to so draw moisture by capillary attraction that the frost will work in it and, of course, when the frost crystals thaw, it leaves the material porous, spongy and wet. This condition is aggravated by the rolling wheels passing over the surface and the tamping action of horses' hoofs, which all tend to puddle it just as a tamper puddles concrete, drawing the moisture from below. Such a result, unless extreme, may not be serious if your road surface is of gravel or even water bound macadam, for such surfaces are easily and cheaply repaired, but if the road surface is a high cost bituminous mixture it may be ruined. Gravel alone cannot safely be trusted for foundation, and should never be used under a high cost surfacing except as a sub-base under stone foundation or concrete.

In our earlier work we depended largely on side drains $3\frac{1}{2}$ feet deep at the edges of the macadam. A 5-inch pipe was placed in the lower part of the trench and the drain filled with small stone fragments. Our theory was that these drains would dry out the subgrade and keep the road surface firm. We built miles of these drains, but they did not accomplish the desired results unless they were supplemented by a stone base under the macadam; and subsequent experience has shown that, except in rare cases, if the road is built over a proper stone foundation, the side drain is unnecessary.

One of John McAdam's theories was that no stone larger than you could hold in your mouth should be used in a road. We have proved that crushed stone of small size is not satisfactory for foundation and is suitable only for surfacing. My theory of this is that the units are so small they have little bearing, and as they have no cohesion when wet sink readily into the mud. Regardless of theory, the fact remains that that is the effect, and some of these stone particles have been found a foot or more below the original subgrade. It should also be borne in mind that the cost of the crushed stone is nearly three times as great as that of the larger size fragments.

Because of inherent defects in the V-drain we have for several years been building stone foundation with a flat subgrade. If the bottom is a soft clay or silty material which would work up into the voids of the stone foundation we first place over it a bed of sandy gravel, when such material can be obtained, varying in thickness as the conditions may require,—in some places 6 inches, in others 12 inches,—and over this stone fragments not exceeding 8 inches in their largest diameter are placed. The depth of this stone foundation is never less than 8 inches in the center and 4 inches on the edges, and under extreme conditions we have used 18 inches in the center and 14 inches on the edges. No attempt is made to place these stones as a paving, though some care is taken to lay the bottom stones on their broadest face to insure a substantial bearing. I am aware this is contrary to the theory that a stone laid flat will tilt and cause trouble, and that the usual practice is to place telford stone on edge, but we have built many miles in this manner without trouble. Small stones are thrown on top to close the surface crevices, the whole is then rolled with a steam roller until hard and firm. This thorough rolling we believe to be one reason for freedom from trouble from tilting stone.

If a bituminous surface is to be placed on the road the voids of the sub-base are filled with clean, sharp sand (and we insist that this material shall be clean), this is rolled without wetting and any surplus that remains on top of the base is swept off. This sand filling, however, is not an essential part of the base, but is used only to prevent the loss of bitumen. Bleeders are used to drain the water from this foundation, at proper outlets, and care is taken to so build these outlets as to avoid future clogging.

Foundations of this description have a fairly uniform frost action, appear to be preferable to the V-drain and have been satisfactory. The costs, of course, vary with the conditions, running from about 15 to 60 cents per square yard.

If a surface of wood, stone or brick blocks, or the more expensive types of asphalt is to be used, a concrete base is accepted as the best practice. Cracked pavements over concrete bases can be largely guarded against by proper drainage. There is some difference of opinion as to whether it is better to build a fairly light base of strong concrete (4 inches of 1: 2: 4 mixture) or a heavier base (8 inches or more of a leaner mix, 1: 3: 6, 1: 4: 8). Conditions should decide this. In a mixed soil better results might be obtained by the greater depth of the lean mixture, as there would be less frost action at the greater depth, and the increased depth of the concrete slab should more than offset the loss in tensile strength of the material. If it is planned to build a concrete road surface with the ultimate idea of surfacing it at some later time with bitumen or other material, there is no room for argument as to the use of a rich mixture, for it is then necessary to so mix your concrete that it will withstand the abrasion of the traffic. If the bituminous surface is to be only a light one it is still advisable to use the rich mixture, as the shock of the passing traffic may cause enough surface disintegration to destroy the bond of the bitumen to the concrete.

THE SACRED BANIAN OR BANYAN TREE OF HINDU.

By CAPT. JOHN H. DILLON, Chairman of the Park and Recreation Department.

Botanically, ficus religiosa, or bengalensis, is one of the most curious and remarkable of trees. The name Banian is derived from the "Banians," or Hindu merchants, who used to gather under the shade afforded by these trees to dispose of their wares. This variety is remarkable for the space which an individual tree covers, and curious because almost every branch sends down a root which becomes fixed in the ground, forming trunks for the support of the original tree. It is held in much veneration by the Hindoos and if one so far forgot himself as to cut off a branch, he was deemed as sacrilegious as if he had broken a leg of one of their sacred cows. It is much planted in India as a shade tree, grows fairly rapidly, covering in many instances a space nearly one hundred yards in diameter and attaining a height of 80 feet or more. As the branches continue to grow they send down roots until the tree has the appearance of an immense tent supported by many columns, thus giving shade and shelter to a very large number of people.

The Banian tree was well known to the ancients. Milton describes it literally in the following quotation:

Branching so broad along, that in the ground
The bending twigs take root; and daughters grow
About the mother tree; a pillared shade
High over-arched, with echoing walks between.
There oft the Indian herdsman, shunning heat,
Shelters in cool; and tends his pasturing herds
At loop-holes cut through thickest shade.

ABOLITION OF QUARANTINE STATION.

Dr. Rupert Blue, the distinguished Surgeon General of the Public Health Service, Washington, D. C., came to Boston upon the 21st instant, for conference with Mayor Curley, relative to the abolition of the local quarantine station at Gallop's Island and the transfer to the Federal Government of the property with full jurisdiction.

Mayor Curley presented Doctor Blue to members of the City Council and the necessity of action was exhaustively discussed. Doctor Blue declared that cholera was now raging in the Austrian Army among the Poles and to a certain extent among the Germans. At present immigrants are coming to the United States through ports of Italy, and it is well known that smallpox is now epidemic in that country.

New York is about to turn over its quarantine station to the Government, and the quarantine stations at Galveston, New Orleans and San Francisco have already been taken over.

Subsequently Mayor Curley appeared before the executive session of the City Council and declared speedy action was necessary in view of information furnished him and members of the Council by Surgeon General Rupert Blue.

Doctor Blue, the Mayor declared, desired the transfer made at once so that the Federal Government might prepare to meet possible smallpox, cholera, typhus, yellow fever and kindred diseases that usually follow in the wake of great wars. The Mayor added that the rush of immigrants to this country will probably not take place until the end of the European war, but even now the greatest care in the supervision of the quarantine stations should be exercised.

It was decided to refer the matter to the Committee on Ordinances, which will give a public hearing on the merits of the proposition at 4 p. m. January 1, 1915.

FINANCE COMMISSION.

Boston, December 21, 1914.

To the Honorable the City Council:

GENTLEMEN,—The Finance Commission submits its report, as requested by your honorable body, on the offer made by William A. Gaston et al., trustees, of $250 for the perpetual right to lay, maintain and use a spur track from the Boston & Lowell Railroad across the dock and land of the City of Boston, used as a yard and situated on Medford street, Charlestown.

The area of the land and dock is 44,530 square feet.

The assessed value of the land, exclusive of buildings, is $37,200.

The approximate value per square foot is $3½ cents.

The area of the strip of land which is to be used by the proposed spur track is 1,500 square feet.

The land borders on navigable water and the Boston & Lowell Railroad. It is thus easy of access both by railroad and by water and is specially adapted for use as a city yard in Charlestown.

The property in question is so situated that none of the Medford street wharves on the reserve channel can have a spur track without crossing it. There is another city yard on Rutherford avenue in Charlestown, which is without access to navigable waters and a portion of which is not used. This yard may be sold and all the work centered in the yard on Medford street.

The City of Boston will receive, as payment for this perpetual right to lay, maintain and use the spur track, $250, the right to use the track, and the increased taxes resulting from the improvements to be made by William A. Gaston et al. upon their adjoining land.

As the city property on Medford street adjoins the Boston & Lowell Railroad the city can have an independent spur track, located more favorably to the development of its property than the proposed track of the petitioners. Because of this advantageous location, and the fact that the sum of $250 offered is so small as compared with the total value of the property, the only real compensation offered is the amount of increased taxes.

With a spur track perpetually located on the property, and the right to use this track by parties other than the City of Boston, there are two aspects from which to consider the Medford street property: First, its retention and improvement by the city, and second, its possible sale.

The retention of the property may result in great benefit to Boston: for example, the sanitary service can, if it is retained, change the present system of collecting ashes and paper in Charlestown. The ashes and paper are now hauled to Fort Hill Wharf. Approximately 50 per cent of the cost of collection and disposal is on account of the cost of hauling from Charlestown Bridge to Fort Hill Wharf. If a scow for receiving the ashes and paper were placed in the dock at the Medford street property, the following advantages would be gained:

1. A saving in the collection and disposal of refuse of approximately $25,000 a year.
 2. A saving to the contractor of 7,000 feet in towing barges to the present place of disposal.
 3. Less congestion along Atlantic avenue by city teams.
 4. Less congestion at the disposal station at Fort Hill Wharf.
- It might be claimed that trouble with the ice during the winter would interfere with this project but, owing to the large traffic in the reserve channel, the possibility of such trouble is remote.

A real estate expert representing the commission has reported that the present value of the city property, exclusive of buildings, is at least the assessed valuation, namely, $37,200. He further says that, because it can be so easily reached both by rail and by water, a higher price might be obtained. He estimates the value of the same property, if encumbered by the perpetual right to maintain a spur track, as petitioned for, at $18,600, a depreciation of 50 per cent.

The Finance Commission believes that the location of the spur track petitioned for across the Medford street dock and yard would result in the following disadvantages:

1. A large financial loss, if the Sanitary Service does not use this property as suggested, amounting to at least $25,000 yearly, to the city, which is not offset by the inducement offered of extra taxes and business resulting from the development of the property of the petitioners.

2. The destruction of the present docking facilities and the prevention of its full development in future for other city purposes.

3. If the City of Boston ever sold the property encumbered with this spur track it would not receive anything like its present value.

4. The granting of the franchise might prevent the full development of all the property bordering on the south reserve channel of the Mystic river on Medford street, between the property of the petitioners and Chelsea Bridge, unless provision were made to extend the track across all the properties.

The Finance Commission recommends:

1. That the petition of William A. Gaston et al. for the right to lay, maintain and use a spur track across the city land and dock on Medford street, Charlestown, be not granted.

2. That, if it becomes necessary for the development of the port of Boston that spur track privileges be given on this property, the city should sell its yard and wharf, rather than spoil it by granting this franchise across its land and dock.

3. That, if it becomes essential that this yard should be sold for the development of the adjoining properties on the Medford street waterfront, the city should ask a fair market value, and not an exorbitant price which a private owner might demand who realized the peculiar advantages which its location affords.

4. That, if the property be not sold, the Public Works Department should consider the use of the yard and wharf for the sanitary service of the Charlestown district, as suggested in this report.

Respectfully submitted,

THE FINANCE COMMISSION.

by JOHN R. MURPHY.

Chairman.

Boston, December 23, 1914.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor:

SIR,—Your attention is called to the recent excessive increase in the amount of overtime payments which have been allowed certain departments of the city, especially in the Public Works Department. On March 4, 1914, your Honor addressed a circular note to all city departments, requesting them to arrange their schedules of work so that the employees of their departments would not be required to work more than six days a week and "in the event of it being necessary to employ men to do work on Sundays, so arrange your schedule that this may be done without additional expense to the city."

Up to the time of your Honor's letter the payments for overtime had been increasing at an alarming rate, due in a measure to the refusal of the former administration to curb this unnecessary expense. The payments in former years had varied from $48,477.08 to $72,852.40, and in the early days of the present fiscal year had successively jumped from $8,280.53 on February 5 to $25,570.37 on March 5. During this latter period the average weekly rate for these overtime payments varied from $948.38 to $7,546.89, the latter amount being due in part to the snowstorm of February 14, 1914.

After the issuance of your Honor's letter the payments immediately fell off and for weeks following its publication the items for overtime were almost negligible. For example, three departments, the Children's Institutions, the Penal Institutions and the Public Works Departments, allowed payments of $292.40, the Public Works Department's portion being $261.46.

Again, for the week ending April 2, 1914, a still more striking decrease occurred, for in that week only $26.35 overtime payment was allowed. The Public Works Department was credited with only $16.02. Recently, however, a return to the former practices has occurred, and the departments have shown a tendency to exceed even the high limit of last year.

Thus the Public Works Department paid for overtime for the week ending November 26, 1914, the sum of $2,210.90; while for the corresponding period of last year $501.96 was allowed. The Commissioner of Public Works, in explaining this large amount of overtime, states that as the class of regular extra men and seven-day men in the department has been abolished, and the work is being done by a permanent six-day force, it was necessary to pay them overtime at double rate for the holiday of Thanksgiving. Therefore the payment for this day constituted a large part of the overtime expenditure for that week.

An analysis made of the pay rolls of that department for Thanksgiving week showed that instead of the overtime being confined to one day it extended for a period of several days in many cases. In these cases the men were credited with two, four, five and six and one-half days overtime for this one week. In other words, in the last case, an inspector in the Water Service was continuously working for one full week, day and night, with only one and one-half days' respite.

It is to be noted that in this Water Service an assistant engineer, a transitman and an inspector, all of whom receive more than $1,000 a year salary, were allowed two to three days overtime during this period. Moreover, in other cases men were allowed overtime for minute particles of a day, such as fourteen thirty-seconds, twenty-six thirty-seconds, seventeen thirty-seconds and nine thirty-seconds.

A tabulation has been made of the overtime payments from February 5 to December 3 of this year, and it was found that the total payments already allowed amount to $34,983.71. It therefore follows that if the present large rate of payment is allowed to continue, a total of approximately $45,000 will be expended at the end of the fiscal year for overtime payments.

The Park and Recreation Department, which employs a large force of laborers and mechanics, has entirely eliminated overtime from its pay rolls, and although the laboring and other forces of the department are on a six-day basis no overtime is allowed, even when a holiday occurs in a week. If men are required for work on these holidays they are given an extra day's leave of absence for some other day of the week, in order to make up for the holiday vacation.

Inasmuch as the Park and Recreation Department has in this manner abolished overtime, the Finance Commission believes that the Public Works Department should do likewise.

The Finance Commission recommends that your Honor order the Public Works Department to follow the example of the Park and Recreation Department and obey your order of March 4, 1914.

Respectfully submitted,

THE FINANCE COMMISSION,
by JOHN R. MURPHY,
Chairman.

Commissioner Rourke of the Department of Public Works, in answer to the Finance Commission, declares as follows:

CITY OF BOSTON,
PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT,
December 24, 1914.

To the Honorable the Mayor:

SIR,—In connection with attached letter of December 23, addressed to you by the Boston Finance Commission, regarding excessive overtime in the Public Works Department, particularly during Thanksgiving week, inclosed find copy of letter addressed by me to the commission explaining in a general way the cause of the overtime during that week.

The recommendation of the Finance Commission is that the Public Works Department follow the example of the Park and Recreation Department and obey your order of March 4, 1914. In this connection, I wish to say that the work of the Public Works Department is not comparable with that of the Park and Recreation Department. There is a large amount of emergency work in the Public Works Department which must be attended to irrespective of the cost. For instance, if a water pipe breaks, it must be repaired. If a sewer clogs up, it must be freed. If there is an accumulation of domestic refuse, including garbage, it must be removed in the interests of public health.

A large amount of the overtime of Thanksgiving week was due to working the employees of the Sanitary Service in removing an accumulation of domestic refuse. This could have been removed by contractors and the overtime item eliminated, but the cost to the city would have been practically the same.

I do not see how, in justice to the men, we could ask certain employees, particularly of the Sanitary and Street Cleaning Services, to work on a holiday without any extra compensation and take some other day off in lieu thereof, when all the other employees receive the day off with pay. Even if this were a fair arrangement, it is an impracticable arrangement in the Sanitary and Street Cleaning Services, as domestic refuse must be taken care of and certain streets in the city must be cleaned.

In the matter of the overtime of certain inspectors and salaried employees in the Public Works Department, we furnish certain inspectors for the Transit Commission, whose wages are paid by that Commission, and their work goes on all hours of the day.

In the payment of overtime, time-and-a-half is allowed for all time over eight hours worked on regular working days. On Sundays and holidays, double time is allowed.

To sum up, there is a great deal of emergency work occurring in the Public Works Department, which must be attended to at any and all hours, and I do not think it is a fair proposition to compel men to work any and all hours without monetary compensation.

Respectfully,
L. K. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

CITY OF BOSTON,
PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT,
December 18, 1914.

MR. JOHN C. L. DOWLING,
Junior Counsel, Boston Finance Commission:

DEAR SIR,—In compliance with your verbal request, I submit the following statement, showing the cause of the unusual amount of overtime allowed on the rolls of the department for the week ending November 30, 1914.

HIGHWAY DIVISION.

Paving Service.—Inspectors on contract work, stableman and watchman employed Thanksgiving Day, double time.

Sanitary Service.—Inspectors on contractors' and city teams, stablemen, watchmen, wharfmen and weigher, employed Thanksgiving Day, double time. Also, the greater part of the laboring force was employed Thanksgiving Day in the Roxbury, South End and South Boston districts and paid.

Street Cleaning and Oiling Service.—Inspectors and men in street watering, flushing and patrolling work, stableman and watchmen, employed Thanksgiving Day, double time.

SEWER AND WATER DIVISION.

Sewer Service.—Inspectors, sewer cleaners, catch-basin men, stablemen, gatemen and watchmen, employed Thanksgiving Day, double time. Surveying in Beach street, Thanksgiving Day and Sundays, which could not be done on business days, on account of the traffic. On sewer cleaning and test pits in Atlantic avenue.

Water Service.—Inspectors on contract work, meter men, laborers, emergency men, stablemen and watchmen, employed Thanksgiving Day, double time. Inspectors and men on repairs, engineers and inspectors on high pressure fire service.

BRIDGE AND FERRY DIVISION.

Bridge Service.—Stablemen and watchmen employed Thanksgiving Day, double time.

Ferry Service.—Men on boats working in place of absent men, no extra expense. Skilled laborers employed Thanksgiving Day, double time.

During the corresponding week in 1913 there were forty-seven regular extra men in the Sanitary and Street Cleaning Services and approximately 400 seven-day men in the department, none of whom received overtime for working Thanksgiving Day. These classes are now abolished and the work which they did is now done by permanent six-day men who receive double time for holidays.

In spite of the large expenditure for overtime during the week ending November 30, 1914, it is to be noted that the total amount of the pay rolls of the department was $1,471.12 less than for the corresponding week in 1913.

Respectfully,
L. K. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

WILL PROVIDE FOR STRANDWAY IMPROVEMENTS.

Mayor Curley, after a conference with Commissioner Rourke of the Department of Public Works, Captain Dillon, chairman of the Park and Recreation Department, and City Auditor Mitchell, upon the 23d instant, announced that he would in all probability send to the City Council on Monday a loan order of $500,000 to start work upon the Strandway improvements, which comprise the reclamation of much land, the building of a breakwater and the improvement of the beach.

This policy is part of the public work which the Mayor hopes will give employment to many of the unemployed of the city. There will also be $60,000 spent by Commissioner Rourke for completing work on the old Roxbury brook sewer, which will also offer employment to many of the unemployed. This sewer has been completed as far as Blue Hill avenue and Cottage street, but it is intended to extend it and make it larger as the district is still subject to floods in rainy seasons.

According to Commissioner Rourke there are at present 25 per cent more men employed by the city and by contractors doing work for the city than at the same time last year.

REVISION OF THE ORDINANCES.

At the meeting of the City Council, on December 21, a revision of the ordinances of the city was adopted by a unanimous vote, and on the same day it was approved by Mayor Curley.

The revision was prepared by the Corporation Counsel and is intended to contain only the ordinances which are in effect at the present day, presented in a logical arrangement, and re-written where the former wording was ambiguous.

The work involved may be appreciated by noting the facts that the last revision was arranged in 1898, and that in the period of sixteen years which has elapsed more than one hundred ordinances have been passed by the City Council, many departments have been consolidated, and the changes in the statutes relating to the city have been more numerous than in any other period of the city's existence.

The present revision is the thirteenth, and its title is the Revised Ordinances of 1914. It consolidates the ordinances of the city and the former regulations of the Board of Aldermen.

Arrangements have been made to have the ordinances printed with an index and table of exchanges, and the book, which will be published within a few weeks, will be on sale at the City Messenger's Office, City Hall, fourth floor, at the nominal price of 50 cents.

TRANSFER OF SCHOOL FUNDS.

The Mayor has formally approved the request of Chairman Lomasney of the Schoolhouse Department for a transfer of funds.

The communication of Chairman Lomasney is as follows:

December 21, 1914.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor:

DEAR SIR,—The Board of Schoolhouse Commissioners respectfully requests the approval of your Honor to vote of the Schoolhouse Commission, which has been concurred in by the School Committee, transferring the sum of five thousand one hundred ($5,100) dollars from the appropriation for "Repairs and Alterations to School Buildings" to the appropriation for "Rents of Hired School Accommodations."

Respectfully yours,
J. P. LOMASNEY, Chairman.

TAX UPON BONDS.

General William H. Osborn, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, sent down a ruling during the week that income derived by partnerships from State and municipal bonds or other sources which would be tax-exempt if received directly by any individual member of the partnership, is subject to the tax if it comes through the partnership. The ruling says: "The character of partnership profits divisible between persons has no reference to any character which, as income accruing to the partnership, it may have borne prior to receipt by the partnership. It is therefore held that income received from a partnership cannot be traced to its source behind the partnership for purpose of claiming individual exemption."

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, December 21, 1914.
To the City Council:
I hereby submit an ordinance for the reorganization of the Health Department and respectfully recommend its passage.

I believe that the department cannot attain the efficiency which is required in the public interest until it is put in charge of a single officer, who may be held solely responsible for the conduct of the department. This principle has been recognized in the reorganization of the State Board of Health and has been approved by the leading members of the medical profession.

Yours respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston.
In the Year Nineteen Hundred and Fourteen.

Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—Relative to your request with reference to the matter of the boarding of vessels by the Federal authorities, will say that in case the Federal authorities take over the administration of the local quarantine station the usual custom will be followed, that of boarding ships at any time of the day or night, when requested by local interests.

The Federal quarantine officer will be given complete and final authority to dispose of all questions relative to local shipping or health interests.

Respectfully,
RUPERT BLUE,
Surgeon General U. S. Public Health Service.
Referred to the Executive Committee.

TRANSFER OF QUARANTINE SERVICE.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, December 21, 1914.
To the City Council:
Being of the opinion that the quarantine service of the port of Boston should be placed under the supervision and jurisdiction of the United States authorities, I transmit herewith a copy of an ordinance abolishing this service, together with an order authorizing the transfer of the property of the City of Boston used in the quarantine service to the United States Government.

I recommend the passage of the ordinance and the accompanying order.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Abolishing the Quarantine Service of the Board of Health.

Be it ordained by the City Council of Boston, as follows:

Section 1. All the powers and duties of the Board of Health relative to the maintenance of the quarantine service in the port of Boston shall be abolished upon the transfer to the United States of America of the property used in said service.

Ordered, That his Honor the Mayor be and hereby is authorized in the name and behalf of the city to convey to the United States of America for quarantine purposes, by a suitable quitclaim deed, the island in Boston Harbor known as Gallop's Island, together with the buildings thereon and all other property used in connection with the quarantine service hitherto performed by the city, upon such terms as may be agreed upon between the Mayor of the City of Boston and the Secretary of the Treasury of the United States, such conveyance to be made upon the condition that the United States shall, upon reasonable terms and conditions, receive for treatment upon said island persons afflicted with smallpox or other quarantinable diseases who may be sent thereto by the City of Boston.

The message was referred to the Executive Committee.

Later in the session Coun. KENNY said:

Mr. President, I move a reconsideration of the reference of the quarantine matter to the Executive Committee. As I understand, it is an ordinance, and I therefore ask to have it referred to the Committee on Ordinances.

Reference to the Executive Committee was reconsidered and, on motion of Coun. Kenny, the ordinance was referred to the Committee on Ordinances.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, it seems to me a little late to take that action. I don't see why the ordinance cannot be referred to the Executive Committee and reported back and we can then refer it, if necessary, to the Committee on Ordinances. I think the councilor was absent from a little meeting we had to-day. Every other member of the Council was present, and heard Surgeon General Blue, and the chairman of the Board of Health explain the matter thoroughly. Perhaps the gentleman will not want it referred to the Committee on Ordinances after he has heard the facts in executive session. If, however, he is not then satisfied I shall be perfectly willing to have the matter referred to the Committee on Ordinances. I now move reconsideration of the last vote whereby it was referred to the Committee on Ordinances.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I think I shall have to make a point of order on that motion.

President McDONALD—The Chair will rule the motion out of order.

The ordinance stood referred to the Committee on Ordinances.

I recommend the passage of the accompanying order transferring seven thousand (7,000) dollars for the purchase of an estate in Faneuil for a branch library.

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

SPUR TRACK, MEDFORD STREET.

The following was received:

Boston Finance Commission,
December 21, 1914.

To the Honorable the City Council:

Gentlemen,—The Finance Commission submits its report, as requested by your honorable body, on the offer made by William A. Gaston et al., trustees, of $250 for the perpetual right to lay, maintain and use a spur track from the Boston & Lowell Railroad across the dock and land of the City of Boston, used as a yard and situated on Medford street, Charlestown.

The area of the land and dock is 44,530 square feet.

The assessed value of the land, exclusive of buildings, is $37,200.

The approximate value per square foot is 83½ cents.

The area of the strip of land which is to be used by the proposed spur track is 1,500 square feet.

The land borders on navigable water and the Boston & Lowell Railroad. It is thus easy of access both by railroad and by water and is specially adapted for use as a city yard in Charlestown.

The property in question is so situated that none of the Medford street wharves on the reserve channel can have a spur track without crossing it. There is another city yard on Rutherford avenue in Charlestown which is without access to navigable waters and a portion of which is not used. This yard may be sold and all the work centered in the yard on Medford street.

The City of Boston will receive, as payment for this perpetual right to lay, maintain and use the spur track, $250, the right to use the track, and the increased taxes resulting from the improvements to be made by William A. Gaston et al. upon their adjoining land.

As the city property on Medford street adjoins the Boston & Lowell Railroad, the city can have an independent spur track located more favorably to the development of its property than the proposed track of the petitioners. Because of this advantageous location, and the fact that the sum of $250 offered is so small as compared with the total value of the property, the only real compensation offered is the amount of increased taxes.

With a spur track perpetually located on the property, and the right to use this track by parties other than the City of Boston, there are two aspects from which to consider the Medford street property; first, its retention and improvement by the city, and second, its possible sale.

The retention of the property may result in great benefit to Boston; for example, the Sanitary Service can, if it is retained, change the present system of collecting ashes and paper in Charlestown. The ashes and paper are now hauled to Fort Hill Wharf. Approximately 50 per cent of the cost of collection and disposal is on account of the cost of bauling from Charlestown Bridge to Fort Hill Wharf. If a scow for receiving the ashes and paper were placed in the dock at the Medford street property, the following advantages would be gained:

1. A saving in the collection and disposal of refuse of approximately $25,000 a year.

2. A saving to the contractor of 7,000 feet in towing barges to the present place of disposal.

3. Less congestion along Atlantic avenue by city teams.

4. Less congestion at the disposal station at Fort Hill Wharf.

It might be claimed that trouble with the ice during the winter would interfere with this project, but, owing to the large traffic in the reserve channel, the possibility of such trouble is remote.

A real estate expert representing the commission has reported that the present value of the city property, exclusive of buildings, is at least the assessed valuation, namely, $37,200. He further says that, because it can be so easily reached both by rail and by water, a higher price might be obtained. He estimates the value of the same property, if encumbered by the perpetual right to maintain a spur track, as petitioned for, at $18,600, a depreciation of 50 per cent.

The Finance Commission believes that the location of the spur track petitioned for across the Medford street dock and yard would result in the following disadvantages:

1. A large financial loss, if the Sanitary Service does not use this property as suggested, amounting to at least $25,000 yearly to the city, which is not offset by the inducement offered of extra taxes and business resulting from the development of the property of the petitioners.

2. The destruction of the present docking facilities and the prevention of its full development in future for other city purposes.

3. If the City of Boston ever sold the property encumbered with this spur track, it would not receive anything like its present value.

4. The granting of the franchise might prevent the full development of all the property bordering on the south reserve channel of the Mystic river on Medford street, between the property of the petitioners and Chelsea Bridge, unless provisions were made to extend the track across all the properties.

The Finance Commission recommends:

1. That the petition of William A. Gaston et al. for the right to lay, maintain and use a spur track across the city land and dock on Medford street, Charlestown, be not granted.

2. That if it becomes necessary for the development of the port of Boston that spur track privileges be given on this property, the city should sell its yard and wharf, rather than spoil it by granting this franchise across its land and dock.

3. That if it becomes essential that this yard should be sold for the development of the adjoining properties on the Medford street waterfront, the city should ask a fair market value, and not an exorbitant price which a private owner might demand who realized the peculiar advantages which its location affords.

4. That if the property be not sold, the Public Works Department should consider the use of the yard and wharf for the Sanitary Service of the Charlestown district, as suggested in this report.

Respectfully submitted,

THE FINANCE COMMISSION,
by JOHN R. MURPHY,
Chairman.

Referred to the Executive Committee, together with message of Mayor and papers bearing on subject.

1. Report on message of Mayor and order (referred November 16) appropriating $17,461.62 from income of Parkman Fund to be expended under the direction of the Park and Recreation Department for the maintenance and improvement of the Common and parks in existence on January 12, 1887, and for the maintenance of the Aquarium and Zoological Garden—that the order ought to pass.

Report accepted; order given its first reading and laid over under the rule.

2. Report on message of Mayor and order (referred December 7) appropriating $26,986.97 from income of Parkman Fund, to be expended under the direction of the Park and Recreation Department, for the maintenance and improvement of the Common and parks in existence on January 12, 1887, and for the maintenance of the Aquarium and Zoological Garden—that the order ought to pass.

The report was accepted.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, on the order just read, appropriating the sum mentioned on the Parkman Fund, the committee voted to instruct me to have spread on the records the fact that they have instructed the Commissioner of the Park and Recreation Department to file with the chairman of the committee, as a matter of record, the expenditures up to date from this fund in detail, as far as possible, and also to give to the Council at the beginning of next year a budget of the intended expenditures for that year.

The order was given its first reading and laid over a week under the rules.

REVISED ORDINANCES OF 1914.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, on behalf of the Committee on Ordinances I submit for adoption by the City Council the Revised Ordinances of 1914, being the thirteenth revision. These revised ordinances are placed before you in pursuance of a vote of the City Council of August 24, 1914. This work was prepared by the Hon. John A. Sullivan, Corporation Counsel of the City of Boston, and by the legal gentlemen associated with him in the Law Department, assisted also by the Assistant City Clerk of Boston, and all under the direction of the Committee on Ordinances. The last revision was made in 1898. In the course of the past sixteen years the ordinances have naturally undergone many changes by way of amendment, addition and repeal. As heretofore stated to the Council, the intended purpose of the plan of revision looked to the elimination of all ordinances and regulations which have been in fact repealed or rendered obsolete by statute or changed conditions, and to bring forward, merge and consolidate all the ordinances now actually in force in their proper order, without unnecessary verbiage and without altering the meaning of the surviving law, excepting in a few instances where the Council has now reviewed and passed upon the same. In the further preparation and completion of this work the Committee on Ordinances has arranged to have printed an appendix to be placed at the end of this thirteenth revision, which will show the amendments and eliminations in the ordinances of 1898, and subsequent ordinances, and also show where the same have been repealed or rendered obsolete by statute. With these remarks and extending my congratulations to the Council upon the accomplishment of this work, I offer the ordinances of 1914 and move their adoption.

Coun. KENNY submitted the following:

The Committee on Ordinances, to whom was referred November 16, 1914, the communication from the Corporation Counsel transmitting a draft of a revision of the ordinances of the City of Boston, having considered the subject, respectfully report that the same ought to pass.

(Appended were the ordinances referred to.)

Report accepted, ordinances as reported passed, yeas 9, nays 0.

Coun. KENNY offered an order—That the City Clerk be directed to have printed and bound an edition of 3,000 copies of the Revised Ordinances of 1914, the expense to be charged to the appropriation for City Documents; 500 copies to be distributed under the direction of the Committee on Ordinances, and the remaining copies to be sold for the price of 50 cents per copy by the City Messenger under the direction of the Superintendent of Printing, the income received from such sale to be paid to the City Collector each month, and to be credited to the appropriation for City Documents.

The question came on the passage of the order. Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, you will observe from the wording of the order that it is expected and intended that we shall charge the citizens merely the nominal price of fifty cents each for copies of these new ordinances. I would like to say in this connection that when the ordinances were revised sixteen years ago the city imposed a charge of one dollar each on those who desired copies. But after a conference with the Printing Department we find that by printing 3,000 copies the city can turn them out at a cost of about fifty cents each. Therefore, not desiring to make any money out of it but with the idea that everybody who wishes it may have a copy, we have set the price at fifty cents each, which is sufficient to cover the expense. The order was passed.

SOLDIERS' RELIEF.

Coun. WATSON, for the Committee on Soldiers' Relief, submitted a report recommending the passage of an order for the payment of aid to soldiers and sailors and their families in the City of Boston for the month of December.

Report accepted; order passed.

Fleming, a member of the Fire Department, the sum of $521.64, said sum being in compensation for loss of salary on account of injuries received while in discharge of his duty on June 14, 1913, the amount specified to be charged to the appropriation for Fire Department.

Report accepted; order given its first reading; laid over under the rule.

FINANCE.

Coun. BALLANTYNE, for the Committee on Finance, submitted a report on message of Mayor and order (referred December 7) for $15,000 to be expended under the direction of the Superintendent of Public Buildings for erection of police station in Dorchester.

BOSTON STREET LIGHTING CONTRACT.

(Engineering Record.)

A street lighting contract with several interesting provisions has been signed by the Mayor of Boston and the Edison Electric Illuminating Company of that city, concluding negotiations covering several months. About 4,500 magnetite arc lamps now light the main streets of Boston proper, while a large number of series incandescents are used on minor thoroughfares, with a few high powered flaming arcs in the public squares. The terms of renewal, price of service and provision for taking advantage of future progress in equipment design received a great deal of discussion in the City Council, and the way in which the matter finally has been worked out does credit to the representatives of both parties.

The company desired a ten-year contract, conforming to its street lighting agreements in many other municipalities in eastern Massachusetts, and after long and persuasive effort this term was granted, with the proviso, however, that at the end of five years the prices shall be reviewed by the Massachusetts Gas and Electric Light Commission and changed if the Board so determines. By this plan the city escapes being tied to a rigid price through a period considered long by the opponents of long term contracts, while the company is relieved of anxiety concerning its street lighting investment and enjoys the fullest opportunity to present data and arguments to establish a fair rate of return in case of a disposition to assail its revenues. The benefits of a stable but flexible relationship are thus assured both parties.

The prices mentioned in the contract are in accordance with one of the company's regular schedules, but as the city authorities sought as low terms as possible, both parties agreed to submit the determination of the rate immediately to the Gas and Electric Light Commission, which will ascertain if the prices named should be lowered for the first five-year period. This method of settlement was a decided concession on the part of the company, which is likely to be called upon to support its existing schedule by comprehensive figures, although the certainty of a thorough hearing on the merits of the case makes the concession less than at first sight appears. In this connection it is interesting to note a provision whereby the Commissioner of Public Works may require the company to furnish a yearly statement of the cost of supplying the service, including interest and depreciation, in such form and in such detail as may be called for. Again, the contract provides that if lamps of other types are substituted the fixed costs per lamp shall be the same as at present, while the running costs shall be determined by agreement between the commissioner and the company, subject to arbitration if necessary.

In setting forth rates upon the fixed and running cost basis, recognition is given in the contract to the best thought of engineering economies, which insists upon the separation of overhead charges from operating expenses wherever possible. Careful provision has been made also for such matters as the meeting of the cost of improvements, the sharing of their benefits between city and company, the exact definition of how "outages" shall be measured, discontinuance of service on abandoned streets, extensions of the present overhead and underground systems, testing, and other points. The description of lamps in terms of mean horizontal candle power for incandescents and mean hemispherical candle power for arcs of stated wattage is a feature worth imitating.

Altogether the executive authorities of the city and of the company seem to have produced a thoroughly workable agreement, which bears no less evidence of engineering insight than of legal skill, and which provides a starting point for certain further analyses of the cost of city street lighting which should be of much technical interest.

METHODS OF FIRE PREVENTION.

By J. O. HAMMITT, Chief of Fire Protection, New York City.

Municipal fire prevention is comparatively new. Though the fire waste in this country amounts, in actual cash, according to a government estimate, to about $600,000 a day, or $25,000 an hour, and has been such for many years, we have given little thought as yet to scientific measures for reducing this enormous waste. The per capita fire loss in this country is five times as great as that of any country of Europe.

The first serious attempt to develop fire protection as a municipal function in New York was the enactment in 1911 of an amendment of the Greater New York charter creating a bureau of fire prevention in the fire department. Through this Bureau, the fire commissioner enforces laws and ordinances and regulations of the fire department itself for the prevention of fires and the making safe of buildings.

The character of results obtained by the New York Bureau of Fire Prevention is indicated in the following statement of important requirements of the Bureau complied with during the first three months of 1914:

Sprinkler systems installed.....	20
Additional exits, stairways and fire escapes, Repairs and extension to fire escapes and doorways.....	61
Structural alterations, fireproofing, etc.....	1,381
Repairs to electrical equipment.....	475
Removal of dangerous conditions in heating and power plants.....	299
Installations of miscellaneous fire appliances, etc.....	2,583
Installations of interior fire alarm systems.....	6
Installations of tested and approved fire drills.....	46
Hazardous occupancies removed or discontinued.....	170
Quantities of combustibles in storage reduced.....	49
Approved storage systems for combustibles installed.....	9

Much difficulty was experienced in making the theaters obey the requirements until they were notified that their licenses would not be renewed until the orders of the Bureau were obeyed.

Among the most important innovations introduced into fire prevention work in New York are the monthly housekeeping inspections by the uniformed force. Since every building in the city, other than private dwellings, is visited once a month, the inspections cannot cover all questions of structural conditions, but the men are directed to call attention of the persons in charge of buildings to such obvious hazards as accumulations of rubbish and to defects in standpipe equipment.

More than 100,000 such inspections are now being made each month in New York City. They have resulted in an enormous cleaning up of rubbish piles, which are acknowledged to be the principal fire breeders. In the course of a year these housekeeping inspections should show results in a reduction in the number of fires.

The moving picture theaters are now being used in the campaign of fire prevention education, and the possibilities of the work are enormous. The fire department is cooperating in the preparation of moving picture scenarios that will carry fire prevention warnings.

In Ohio much of the fire prevention work is being done by the uniformed force. There are vigorous fire prevention bureaus in Columbus, Cleveland, Cincinnati and Akron. A very important feature of the Ohio fire prevention work is the enforcement of the state building code which came into effect in 1911. Fire marshals and chiefs of all fire departments are responsible for carrying out the fire prevention regulations of this code.

In some cities in Pennsylvania there exists a certain amount of division of authority between the building inspectors, the fire department and the fire marshal. There is an effort on foot to coordinate all these departments, however, and considerations of fire prevention are carefully observed.

In Michigan the building inspector and the fire marshal work together, being empowered by statute to "jointly inspect buildings as to safety in reference to fire, fire stops and exits."

In Iowa there has been a comprehensive fire prevention law in effect since 1907, conferring fire prevention powers on fire marshals, chiefs of departments and clerks of townships.

A unique feature of the Ohio law is that teachers in all public and private schools occupying buildings more than one story in height are required not only to have regular fire drills but to teach prevention to the children.

Not long ago the Wisconsin legislature conducted an extensive investigation into the cause of fire in forty-four American cities with annual losses of about $44,000,000.

The following partial tabulation is the result of the investigation:

CAUSE OF FIRE.	Number of Fires.	Per Cent of all Fires.
Rubbish.....	4,452	10.53
Matches.....	2,663	6.30
Chimneys, defective.....	2,136	5.47
Cigars, cigarettes and pipes..	1,681	3.97
Flues, defective.....	1,346	3.18
Furnaces, defective.....	1,120	2.74
Electric wiring, defective....	1,097	2.59
Ashes, hot.....	809	1.91
Candles.....	761	1.80
Stoves, defective.....	682	1.61
Stoves, overheated.....	599	1.42
Gas jets, curtains, etc.....	492	1.16

The "human element" enters largely into the creation of our fire loss. An extensive campaign throughout the country, showing people that they are being taxed about $27 the year for fire charges, would probably awaken the public conscience concerning the supreme importance of fire prevention.

PROPOSE TO ABOLISH AUTO HEADLIGHTS.

In the city of Baltimore it is seriously considered to propose to abolish altogether the use of headlights on automobiles within the city limits. Other cities have passed regulations which forbid any automobilist from using any lights within the municipal boundaries except the side lights and the rear lights.

It is claimed by the advocates of such a restrictive measure that the fierce, blinding headlight is not needed along the lines of usually well-illuminated city streets, while on the other hand the use of the lights is productive of danger and discomfort.

In summer time these headlights are veritable nuisances to those who have to remain in town during the greater part of the heated season, and who seek the front steps as the place of chief comfort after dark. It matters not whether an automobile is standing still with its headlights turned on or whether it is running along the highways, the glare of the big front lights is blinding and hurtful to the eyes of other people. Moreover, it floods the streets with a blaze of light during seasons when a more subdued illumination is the only thing comfortable.

But this is not the worst item. The flash of the headlight interferes with safe chauffeurage along those highways where there is a large volume of automobile traffic. Anybody who has ever had the fierce rays of a modern electric headlight hit him squarely in the eyes knows full well that for the moment he is utterly blinded. If he happens to be at the wheel of an automobile he is perfectly helpless until the angle of the approaching machine is altered. This blindness is dangerous to traffic. It prevents the drivers of machines for the moment from seeing other cars on the highway, from seeing pedestrians who may be crossing the street, or from seeing other vehicles that may be traveling the same highway. It also temporarily shuts out from view any obstructions in the roadway. Hence the unnecessary prevalence of night accidents.

It is claimed, therefore, that aside from the fact that the headlights are a source of discomfort, they are also a direct cause of avoidable casualties.

If they are not needed at night, why should they be used? In the country, where highway illumination is lacking, the headlights are indispensable. In the city, where the streets are all well lighted, the big headlights of an automobile are altogether superfluous. The sidelights and back lights will suffice all requirements of safety.

TO AID THE UNEMPLOYED.

New York City is experimenting this winter in a movement to establish a clearing house to give some central place where the jobs can be matched with the applications. The philanthropic employment agencies are at work on such a plan, and a number of the largest private fee agencies have formed an association to consider it. If, on the daily balance sheet for such a clearing house, one agency had mechanics registered, and some other agency had jobs for these mechanics, the two agencies concerned divide the fees. By the same token, the interests both of employers and employed men would be vastly better served.

The new bureaus now established by Commissioner Caminetti, of the Bureau of Immigration, in eighteen sections of the country for the distribution of farm labor mark a new experiment in America, and by emphasizing the need of exchange of information put the employment business on a new basis.

There could be no better time than the present also for the clearing house principle to be worked out by philanthropic and by private fee agencies in relation to each other, and in connection with state and municipal bureaus.

All over the country relief agencies are now combining and cooperating. Employment agencies must do the same. They cannot increase the volume of employment, but they can see that a man is sent to every place that wants one.
